This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

+ Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.

+ Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.

+ Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.

+ Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

About Google Book Search

Google's mission is to organize the world's information and to make it universally accessible and useful. Google Book Search helps readers discover the world's books while helping authors and publishers reach new audiences. You can search through the full text of this book on the web at `http://books.google.com/`

Supreme Court of Judicature.

COURT OF APPEAL.

From Ch. Div. FARRAR v. GREEN. Jan. 15.

Order of Malins, V.C., affirmed.

No. 1.—1879.

From Ch. Div. CHARRINGTON v. WITHERBY. Jan. 15.

Order of Vice-Chancellor Malins of the 22nd of July, 1878, giving the plaintiff leave to issue a new writ against one of the defendants on whom the original writ issued on the 9th of May, 1876, had not been served, affirmed.

From Ch. Div. HUGGONS v. TWEED. Jan. 15.

Counter-claim—Rules of Court, Order XIX., r. 3; Order XXII. r. 9.

The plaintiffs were executors of a debenture holder in a company, and commenced their action to carry into effect the trusts of a deed for securing the debentures, and to obtain payment. The company delivered a defence and counter-claim, setting up that the plaintiff's testator had been a director and promoter of the company, and had sold an estate to the company without disclosing his ownership, and had thereby made a profit considerably exceeding the amount due on the debentures. The plaintiffs applied to exclude this counter-claim, on the ground that it ought to be tried in a separate action. The application was refused by Vice-Chancellor Hall. The plaintiffs appealed.

Dickinson, Q.C., and Beale for the appellants.

Hastings, Q.C., and Grosvenor Woods for the company, were not called upon.

THE COURT (Jessel, M.R., and Baggallay and Bramwell, L.JJ.), expressed some doubt whether the matter was not one entirely resting in the discretion of the judge below, but ultimately held that an appeal would lie. They considered, however, that granting such an application was a matter of judicial discretion, and that the appellate jurisdiction should only be exercised if a very strong case was made for it, and in this case their Lordships agreed with the conclusion at which the Vice-Chancellor had arrived.

Solicitors: J. Rand Bailey; Stibbard, Gibson & Co.

High Court of Justice.

CHANCERY DIVISION.

M. R. LEONINO v. LEANINO. Jan. 13.

Mortgage—Original Debt and Further Advances—Primary and Secondary Securities—Locke King's Act.

A testator was in the habit of borrowing money from his bankers from time to time, depositing securities with them upon the occasion of each advance; and on the 29th of March, 1876, his total indebtedness amounted to 62,000*l.*, for which the bank held divers stocks and shares as security. On the 30th of March, 1876, the testator applied for a further advance of 15,000*l.*, and executed a memorandum charging that sum, together with any other moneys which might be owing from him to the bankers, upon his freehold property at Caterham; the title deeds of which were at the same time deposited with the bankers. He received the 15,000*l.*, and also further advances on subsequent dates; and he also subsequently deposited with the bankers certain further securities, including the title deeds of freehold and leasehold property, and share certificates—but no subsequent memorandum was executed. Many of the stocks and shares were sold by the bankers in the testator's lifetime, and the proceeds applied in the reduction of the debt, which at the time of his death amounted to 28,625*l.* It appeared from a memorandum book kept by the testator, and from his ledger, that the successive advances and the successive deposits were treated by him as forming one running account. By his will he directed his debts to be paid out of a fund produced by the sale of his real estate, and the conversion of his personal estate.

Will—"Executorship Expenses"—Practice—Parties having Liberty to attend Proceedings—Order of Course—Costs.

"Executorship expenses" in a will is at least equivalent to and probably wider than "testamentary expenses."

Parties served with the decree in an administration action, and obtaining leave to attend under the usual order of course, are not necessarily entitled to have their costs of attending the proceedings out of the estate. To entitle them to costs they must obtain special leave to attend. This is the invariable practice in this branch of the Court.

Will and Codicil—Absolute or Life Interest—"Then be remaining."

Further consideration. Emily Bibbens, who died in July 1873, by her will made in April, 1865, gave all her estates and effects, both real and personal, unto her sister A. M. Bibbens for her own use and benefit, absolutely, and free from the debts and engagements or control of any husband to whom she might be married, and she appointed her sister sole executrix.

The testatrix by a codicil to her will made in September, 1868, which she directed to be taken as part thereof, said, "After the death of my sister Anne Maria Bibbens, I give, devise, and bequeath all property of mine which may then be remaining (except our house and furniture at St. Mary Church), to my brother William Bibbens" and to three other persons named, "to be divided in the following way: my brother William Bibbens to have one half of the property for his whole and sole disposal, and the other half to be equally divided between the above named" three other persons.

A. M. Bibbens who died in March, 1875, by her will made in October, 1873, gave certain parts of her property to her brother William Bibbens for his life, and after his death to other persons named, and the other parts of her property to other persons named.

The sisters were originally entitled as tenants in common to undivided equal moieties of a leasehold house and the furniture and effects therein; five leasehold cottages and gardens; two freehold cottages and gardens; and a parcel of freehold land situate near them, and a policy of assurance.

The bill was filed in June, 1875, for the administration of A. M. Bibben's estate, and if proper in this suit, for the administration of Emily Bibben's estate and for a declaration of the rights of the plaintiff and all other persons in the estates of both testatrixes, and for consequential relief. The question was whether upon the true construction of the will and codicil A. M. Bibbens took an absolute or a life interest in the property.

Eddis, Q.C., and Everitt, for the plaintiff.

John Chester, for the first two; and Hastings, Q.C., for the last-named defendants in the same interest.

Dickinson, Q.C., and G. Daw, for the other defendants.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR was of opinion that the case was governed by the decision in Constable v. Bull (3 De G. & Sm. 413); and that upon a rational construction of the two instruments taken together the intention was that what was an absolute interest under the will should under the codicil go in another way. Therefore he should direct a sale of the property, and after the payment of debts and costs, a division of the property of Emily Bibbens, in accordance with the codicil to her will.

BANKRUPTCY.

C. J. B. Ex parte BULMER. In re HUGHES. Jan. 13.

Bill of Sale Holder—Execution Creditor—Sale by Arrangement with Bill of Sale Holder within five Days from the Date of the Goods being taken in Execution—Small Debts Act, 1846 (9 & 10 Vict. c. 95), s. 106.

Appeal from the County Court of Denbighshire, held at Wrexham.

On the 15th of February, 1878, the appellant Bulmer brought an action against the bankrupt Hughes in the County Court of Merionethshire at Corven, for 33*l.* 15*s.* due on his dishonoured acceptance of a bill of exchange. On the 19th of February, 1878, the bankrupt executed a bill of sale to John Evans and Thomas Jones to secure 65*l.* 17*s.* 6*d.* On the 23rd of February, Evans and Jones took possession under the bill of sale. On the 25th of February the bankrupt absconded and had not since returned.

On the 27th of February the appellant Bulmer signed judgment in the action and issued execution. On the same day the high bailiff levied on the goods of the bankrupt, and was thereupon on the same day served with a notice signed by Evans and

Digitized by Google

Jones giving him notice that they were the sole and absolute owners of the goods under a duly registered bill of sale. On receipt of this notice the high bailiff issued an interpleader summons returnable on the 9th of May following, and then, for the purpose of avoiding the expense of retaining possession for that long period, the appellant Bulmer arranged with Evans and Jones that the amount recovered under the execution should be realized by a sale of a sufficient portion of the effects, and should be paid into a bank to a separate account, to abide the result of the interpleader issue. On the 1st of March the sale was held, and before it was concluded the auctioneer received a telegram informing him that a restraining order had been obtained in pursuance of an application by a creditor who had that day presented a petition in bankruptcy. The proceeds realized by the sale amounted to 87*l.* 14*s.* On the 6th of March the adjudication was made, the execution of the bill of sale being the act of bankruptcy on which the adjudication was founded.

On the 9th of May an order was made on the interpleader summons that the 87*l.* 14*s.* should be paid to Bulmer; and on the 22nd of October following a declaration was made in the bankruptcy that the money belonged to the trustee. This was the order appealed from.

Bulmer denied that he was made aware by the notice served on the high bailiff, or was aware on the 1st of March that the execution of the bill of sale was an act of bankruptcy.

The bill of sale holders had given up their security, and Evans, one of them, was appointed trustee.

Finlay Knight, for the appellant Bulmer, relied on s. 95, sub-s. 3 of the Bankruptcy Act, 1869.

Yate Lee, for the trustee:—This was not a sale under the execution, it was a sale under the bill of sale, which was itself a void instrument. Had it been a sale under the execution, it would have been illegal under the Small Debts Act, 1846, having been made within five days after the goods had been taken in execution.

F. Knight, in reply.

THE CHIEF JUDGE said he thought that if the title of the bill of sale holders had been clear, the arrangement that had been made would have taken the case out of the Act of Parliament, which requires that no sale shall be until the end of five days from the date when the goods were taken in execution. But the bill of sale itself was void and had been abandoned; and then came the trustee and said you have trespassed against an Act of Parliament, and the money belongs to me. To that there appeared to be no answer.

The appeal must be dismissed with costs.

Close of Bankruptcy—Undischarged Bankrupt—Property acquired after Close of Bankruptcy—Rights of Creditors—Bankruptcy Act, 1869, s. 54, sub-s. 2—Bankruptcy Rules, 1870, r. 183.

Appeal from the County Court of Lancashire held at Preston.

The bankrupt, J. T. F. Westby, was adjudicated on the 28th of June, 1870. On the 8th of July, 1870, he filed a statement of affairs, and amongst the creditors as secured were entered the bank for two sums of 300*l.* and 950*l.* A first meeting was held, but the trustee appointed declined to act, and thereupon the registrar acted as trustee ex officio. On the 1st of December, 1874, the registrar reported to the Court that the whole of the bankrupt's property consisted of estate settled on his wife, and that he had no available assets. This report was made upon a mistake of law, it being erroneously supposed that a life annuity of 200*l.* to which the bankrupt was entitled was determinable on his bankruptcy. On the same day the Court made an order declaring the bankruptcy to be closed. On the 27th of October, 1875, the bankrupt's wife died, having by will, under a power of appointment, made certain bequests which became the subject of a Chancery suit, in which the Vice-Chancellor of the County Palatine Court on the 8th of January, 1878, made a decree declaring that the annuity had not ceased, and further that the settled property, amounting to some 20,000*l.*, belonged to the bankrupt absolutely, and not to the trustee in bankruptcy. On the 26th of February, 1878, the banking company for the first time sent in a claim against the bankrupt's estate. This claim was received by the registrar and had never been objected to. On the 22nd of October, 1878, the order now appealed from was made, by which the judge dismissed an application on behalf of the bank to enforce the payment of the unsecured balance of their debt against the bankrupt's after-acquired property.

The bankrupt had not paid his creditors 10*s.* in the pound, and had not obtained an order of discharge.

Winslow, Q.C., and Lane, for the appellants, the corporation:—Our right under s. 54, sub-s. 2, of the Bankruptcy Act, 1869, is to be allowed to enforce our debt against the property of the debtor.

De Gex, Q.C., Smyley, and Grosvenor Woods, for the bankrupt:—The remedy given by the 54th section is confined to those creditors who have "proved" in the bankruptcy. Three years is a statutory limitation to this claim.

THE CHIEF JUDGE said that the case was of some importance, the more so from the rarity of the occurrences which had happened. There was no warrant in the statute, and no reason in principle, why this creditor should not be allowed to enforce his debt. The order of the County Court must be discharged, and, as there were other unsatisfied creditors, there must be an issue of advertisements, according to the Act. The bankrupt must pay the costs.

Unregistered Bill of Sale—Property of an arrested Person in the hands of an Inspector of Police—Apparent Possession—Bills of Sale Act, 1854 (17 & 18 Vict. c. 36), ss. 1, 7.

Appeal from the County Court at Brighton.

The bankrupt Wood had been arrested and was in custody. At the time of his arrest an inspector of police had taken possession of certain jewellery which he was wearing, and this was still in the inspector's keeping, when on the 11th of May, 1878, the debtor, being desirous of raising money to provide, as he said, for bail, if he should succeed in getting it, and fees for his defence, sold the property to Newsham, and gave to the latter a bill of sale, of which notice was given to the inspector of police, who, not giving up the goods, was sued by Newsham, and an interpleader issue was taken out. Meanwhile, on the 6th of June, Wood was adjudicated a bankrupt, and on the 8th of June he was tried and convicted of endeavouring to obtain money on false pretences. By the interpleader order, dated the 18th of July, 1878, the goods were ordered to be handed over to the trustee.

The County Court judge held that the bill of sale was void for want of registration, and made the order now appealed from, refusing in effect an application on behalf of Newsham to have the goods delivered to him.

Winslow, Q.C., and J. J. Sims, for the bill of sale holder:—The question, is whether these chattels, having been seized by the Crown, and being in the custody of the Crown by its officer, can be said to have been in the "possession or apparent possession" of the maker of the bill of sale at the date of his bankruptcy, so as to bring this unregistered bill of sale within the Act. The possession of the Crown was adverse to the rights of the owner. The Crown takes possession for two purposes—one, that of giving evidence against the arrested person, the other to have the property applied in discharge of the expenses of prosecution. Can the bankrupt be said to have had these goods kept for him, and was he exercising dominion over them? Ancona v. Rogers (1 Ex. D. 285, 292).

Swanston, Q.C., and William Nicholson, for the respondent, the trustee in bankruptcy, were not called upon.

THE CHIEF JUDGE said there could be no doubt that this was a secret bill of sale, executed by the unquestionable owner of the property. It had been argued that the property was not in his apparent possession, and reference had been made to what was erroneously called the interpretation clause of the Bills of Sale Act. The 2nd sub-section of the 7th clause of the Act was not an interpretation clause, it merely specified certain cases, in addition to other cases not specified, in which goods were in the apparent possession of the bill of sale maker. The authority which had been cited defined the law very plainly. Could it be doubted that if the bankrupt had been acquitted he would have had a right to demand back possession of this property? This was clearly the case of a secret bill of sale, and within the mischief of the Act. The appeal must be dismissed with costs.

Q. B. Div. REG. v. HOLBROOK AND OTHERS. Dec. 20.

Libel, Criminal Information for—Proprietor of Newspaper, Liability of, for Acts of Editor—General Authority given to Editor—6 & 7 Vict. c. 96, s. 7.

This was a criminal information for libel, being the same case which on a previous occasion came before the Queen's Bench Division upon motion for a new trial, see 3 Q. B. D. 60.

The second trial came on before Grove, J., and the facts were as follows:—It was proved that the defendants, who were proprietors of a newspaper, entrusted the editorial department of the newspaper to an editor, leaving it entirely to his discretion what should be inserted. The libel in question was inserted by the editor without the knowledge of the defendants. The learned judge in summing up left it to the jury to say whether the general authority given by the defendants to the editor amounted to an authority to publish the libel, see 6 & 7 Vict. c. 96, s. 7. The jury found a verdict of guilty. A rule nisi for a new trial was obtained on the ground of misdirection.

Charles, Q.C., and A. L. Smith, shewed cause. They contended that it was a question for the jury whether the general authority given to the editor did not include authority to publish the libel within the meaning of the word "authority" in 6 & 7 Vict. c. 96, s. 7.

Cole, Q.C., and Folkard, supported the rule. They contended that the learned judge should have directed the jury that the general authority given to the editor was not per se evidence of any such authority as, within the meaning of the 6 & 7 Vict. c. 96, s. 7, would render the defendants criminally responsible. Cur. adv. vult.

Dec. 20. THE COURT (Cockburn, C.J., and Lush, J., Mellor, J., dissenting) held that there had been a misdirection, and that there must be a new trial.

Fraud, Contract procured by—False Pretences—Property not revested by Conviction—24 & 25 Vict. c. 96, s. 100.

Action for the conversion of certain sheep.

The facts were as follows:

The sheep were sold by the defendant to one Wale, and delivered to him upon his giving the defendant a cheque for the purchase-money. Wale had no assets and no account at the bank upon which the cheque was drawn. Wale subsequently sold the sheep to the plaintiff, who paid a full price for them, not knowing that Wale was otherwise than rightfully possessed of the sheep. The defendant finding out where his sheep were came and retook them out of the plaintiff's possession. Wale was prosecuted by the defendant and convicted of obtaining the sheep by false pretences. It was contended on behalf of the defendant that the effect of 24 & 25 Vict. c. 96, s. 100 was to revest the property in the sheep in the defendant upon the conviction of Wale. Judgment was reserved at the trial.

Willoughby and Shiress Will, for the plaintiff, moved for judgment for the amount found to be the value of the sheep.

Grantham, Q.C., and Arbuthnot, for the defendant, shewed cause.

Dec. 20. THE COURT (Cockburn, C.J., Meller, and Field, JJ.) held that though the contract between the defendant and Wale was voidable as procured by fraud, the plaintiff having bonâ fide purchased the sheep before the defendant had done anything to avoid the contract, the property in them passed to the plaintiff, and the statute had not the effect of revesting it in the defendant. They therefore gave judgment for the plaintiff for the value of the sheep.

Practice—Dismissing Action for Want of Prosecution—Security for Costs.

The plaintiff was a foreigner residing out of the jurisdiction, and had been ordered to give security for costs, the action being stayed in the meantime.

The time for delivering statement of claim having elapsed, and the plaintiff not having given security for costs in conformity with the order, the defendant applied at chambers to dismiss the action for want of prosecution. Field, J., made an order dismissing the action.

J. D. Fitzgerald, on behalf of the plaintiff, now moved by way of appeal to rescind the order of Field, J. He contended that according to the established practice the plaintiff could not get the action dismissed for want of prosecution while the order still existed staying the action until security for costs was given, but must first abandon that order.

C. Russell, Q.C., for the defendant, shewed cause. He admitted that the established practice at common law had been that the Court would not allow the defendant to sign judgment of non pros. if the security were not given. He contended however, that by the Judicature Act, 1873, sec. 25, sub-sec. 11, the equity practice ought now to be followed, by which the Court had a discretion to dismiss the action if the plaintiff did not give security and proceed.

THE COURT (Cockburn, C.J., and Hawkins, J.) were of opinion that the equity practice was more reasonable, and should be followed. They were also of opinion that the learned judge had under the circumstances, rightly exercised his discretion in dismissing the action.

Rule refused.

From Ch. Div. WATSON v. RODWELL. Jan. 11.

Solicitor—Bill of Costs—Taxation after Payment—6 & 7 Vict. c. 73, s. 41—Special Circumstances.

This was an appeal from a judgment of Vice-Chancellor Malins (7 Ch. D. 625). The action was brought by a lady against her solicitor asking for accounts and for the taxation of bills of costs, twenty in number, notwithstanding a release dated more than twelve months before the action, the plaintiff alleging that the defendant had involved her in unnecessary litigation, and had charged unreasonably for it. The Vice-Chancellor held the plaintiff entitled to the relief prayed, and the defendant appealed from the decision.

JAMES, L.J., delivered the judgment of the Court (James, Baggallay, and Thesiger, L.JJ.). His Lordship reviewed the evidence in the case, and said that their Lordships agreed with the Vice-Chancellor, that the plaintiff was entitled to the relief claimed in the action. The appeal was therefore dismissed with costs.

Lunacy—Death of Lunatic—Costs of Inquisition—Lunacy Regulation Act, 1862, s. 11.

In this case an order had been made upon a petition for an inquiry into the state of mind of a lady who was alleged to be a lunatic. On the inquisition the lady was found to be of unsound mind. Before any committee of her person or estate had been appointed she died. While sane she had made a will, by which she appointed an executor, and gave all her estate to a relative who pre-deceased her, so that her property went to her next of kin.

The original petitioner now presented a petition asking that the costs, charges, and expenses of the proceedings in lunacy might be paid out of the deceased lunatic's estate.

Decimus Sturges, for the petitioner, referred to the Lunacy Regulation Act, 1862, s. 11.

Freeling, for the executor, objected that as the lunatic was dead, and no part of the property was under the control of the Court, the Court had no jurisdiction to make any order affecting it, or interfering with the administration of the estate.

JAMES, L.J., said that the petitioner was entitled to a declaration that the expenses were properly incurred, and ought to be paid out of the lunatic's estate in a due course of administration.

Bankruptcy Act, 1869, s. 28—Annulling Bankruptcy—Subsequent Discovery of Property concealed by Bankrupt—Discharge of Annulling Order—Rights of Creditors.

On the 27th of September, 1870, Spanton, a farmer, was adjudicated a bankrupt in the King's Lynn County Court. At this time a creditor named Jarvis was in possession of the bankrupt's farming stock under some bills of sale which he held as security for a debt. Objections were raised as to the validity of the bills of sale, and Jarvis offered to pay 620*l.* to the trustee. On the 25th of October the creditors, at a meeting held under sect. 28, resolved by the statutory majority that the offer of Jarvis should be accepted; that the bankruptcy should be thereupon annulled; and that Jarvis should release his claim upon the estate, and the bills of sale should not be disputed by the trustee. These resolutions were sanctioned by the County Court, and on the 19th of July, 1871, upon a report of the trustee that the terms of the resolutions had been completed to his satisfaction, an order was made annulling the bankruptcy. The 620*l.* was divided among the creditors other than Jarvis. Jarvis realized his security, but did not obtain enough to pay his debt in full.

In 1876 it was discovered that the bankrupt was, at the date of the adjudication, entitled to a valuable reversionary interest. He had not mentioned this interest in his statement of affairs, and none of the creditors knew of it until long after the annulling of the bankruptcy. On the application of one of the creditors an order was made discharging the annulling order, and directing that the bankruptcy should proceed as if it had not been made. The trustee received the reversionary interest, which had fallen into possession, and Jarvis then claimed to prove for the unpaid balance of his debt. The trustee rejected the proof, and the County Court judge affirmed the rejection. The Chief Judge affirmed the decision, holding that Jarvis had completely released the bankrupt's estate. Jarvis appealed.

Winslow, Q.C., and Bottomley Firth, for the appellant.

THE COURT (James, Baggallay, and Bramwell, L.JJ.) held that the proof must be admitted. The effect of the order discharging the annulling order was to destroy the resolutions of October, 1870, altogether, and Jarvis was then remitted to his original rights equally with the other creditors.

Appeal—Time for Appeal—Mistake—Extension of Time.

On the 20th of November, Vice-Chancellor Bacon dismissed a petition for the winding-up of the above-named company which had been presented by J. Howe, a creditor for 200*l.* On the same day the petitioner's solicitor wrote to the company's solicitor informing him that his client had been advised to appeal, and asking whether the company had any offer to make. The company made no offer, and the petitioner gave notice of appeal, but not till after twenty-one days from the refusal of the application had elapsed. The officer of the Court declined to enter the appeal, as it was too late. The petitioner now applied for an extension of the time under Order LVIII. r. 15. The letter above-mentioned was admitted, but there was no affidavit of any other special circumstances.

Oswald, for the appellant, suggested that the delay arose from a mistake of the solicitor as to the construction of the rule of Court.

E. Cutler, for the company, was not called on.

JAMES, L.J., said that in his opinion no special circumstances had been shewn. It had been expressly decided that a mere mistake of the solicitor as to the practice was not sufficient. But here there was no affidavit at all as to the circumstances.

BAGGALLAY, L.J., concurred.

BRAMWELL, L.J., agreed that no reason had been shewn for granting an indulgence in the present case; but said that he should be differing from an opinion which he had often expressed if he did not say that when he was satisfied that a mistake had been made, and that there was no mala fides, and that no injury had been done to the other side which could not be compensated by payment of costs or otherwise, he thought an indulgence ought to be granted. But there were decisions on the point which could only be altered by the House of Lords.

From Ch. Div. In re GOLD COMPANY. Jan. 20.

Company—Allotment of paid-up Shares—Fraud on Public—Winding-up—Petition after Resolution to wind up voluntarily.

This was an appeal from an order of Vice-Chancellor Malins for the compulsory winding-up of the above-named company.

The company was incorporated in 1873, with a registered capital of 100,000*l.*, in shares of 1*l.* each, for working a gold mine in Wales. One of the articles of association provided that the directors might allot shares on such terms as they should think fit; and if at any time it should appear to the directors that the capital of the company for the time being subscribed would be sufficient for the purposes of the company, they might allot any shares which then remained unallotted to and among the then shareholders, in proportion to the number of shares held by them, and such shares might be allotted as fully or partially paid-up shares, although no moneys might be received by the company in respect of such shares from any allottee thereof.

Soon after the incorporation of the company, when 2375 shares only had been taken up, a contract was signed between the company and all persons who were then holders of shares by which it was agreed that the directors should issue 22,625 paid-up shares to various persons for various alleged considerations, and that all the remaining 75,000 should be divided between the existing shareholders in proportion to their holdings. This contract was registered, and the allotment was accordingly made. Many of these free shares were sold in the market, and the petitioner bought 100 of them at a small premium. The mine soon proved to be a failure, and a meeting of the shareholders was called and a resolution was passed, and afterwards confirmed, for winding up the company voluntarily. After the voluntary winding-up had gone on for several months the present petition was presented, on the grounds, that a more perfect investigation could be obtained under a compulsory winding-up; that the allotment of shares was fraudulent; and that the directors and their friends ought to be made to account for the profit made by the sale of those shares. The Vice-Chancellor having made an order, the company appealed.

J. Pearson, Q.C., and J. Wilkinson, for the company, and Bristowe Q.C., and Deane, for shareholders in the same interest, contended, first that a contributory had no power to obtain a winding-up order after a voluntary winding-up had been commenced; and, secondly, that the acts of the directors were perfectly fair, and justified by the articles of association.

Digitized by Google

Higgins, Q.C., and Oswald, for the petitioner, asked either for a winding-up order as granted by the Vice-Chancellor, or for an order to continue the winding-up under supervision; or, thirdly, for power to use the company's name in an action to set aside the transactions.

Buckley, for shareholders supporting the petition.

JAMES, L.J., said that as to the objection to the locus standi of the petitioner he should have thought, if the matter had been res integra, that under the 145th section of the Companies Act, 1862, a creditor was the only person who could present a petition for a winding-up order after the commencement of a voluntary winding-up. There had been, however, several cases in which an order had been made on the petition of a contributory even when unsupported by any creditor, but they had all been cases in which there had been fraud in passing the resolution for voluntary winding-up, or where for some reason the resolution was a sham. In the present case the meeting had been fairly called, and the resolution fairly passed, and there was no ground for setting it aside. As to the case made for a supervision order, he was of opinion that however extraordinary and improper the 11th clause in the articles, and the consequent allotment of shares, may have been, the allotment was not a fraud either upon the existing shareholders, all of whom had acquiesced; or upon future allottees, for there were none; or upon purchasers of the shares, for they bought with notice of the articles and of the allotment. If the petitioner had any ground of complaint as to the mode of dealing with the shares which he had bought, it was an individual complaint outside the provisions of the Winding-up Act, for which he might have redress against the person from whom he purchased the shares. It was not a case for interfering with the voluntary winding-up. Besides this, there had been great delay on the part of the petitioner. Therefore the appeal must be allowed, and the petition for winding up dismissed with costs. His Lordship concluded with expressing his agreement with the Vice-Chancellor in his strong disapprobation of the 11th article, which, if no actual fraud was proved, might certainly have been the means of perpetrating a fraud.

BAGGALLAY, L.J., concurred.

BRAMWELL, L.J., also agreed that the petition for winding up must be dismissed. He thought, however, that the 11th clause was a most improper one, and although he had no doubt that many of the shareholders were not intending to act fraudulently, yet in all probability many purchasers were deluded into supposing that they were buying shares for which £1 had been paid in money or money's worth. He was not sure that a purchaser who had been so deluded might not maintain an action against those who had defrauded him, or, indeed, that they might not be indicted for conspiracy and severely punished.

V.-C. M. REPUBLIC OF COSTA RICA v. ERLANGER. Jan. 16.

Solicitor's Lien for Costs—Amount of Bill deposited—Delivery of Papers.

An application was made on behalf of the plaintiffs that their former solicitor, Mr. Edwards, might be ordered to hand over to their present solicitors, Messrs. Freshfields & Williams, the papers and documents in the action. Mr. Edwards claimed a lien for his costs, which amounted to 8600*l.*

Glasse, Q.C., Kekewick, Q.C., and Giffard, for the plaintiffs, submitted that as the bill could not be paid without taxation, and the papers were wanted immediately, it would be sufficient to deposit the amount of the bill in Court, and this the plaintiffs were willing to do.

Higgins, Q.C., for Mr. Edwards, contended that no order could be made for delivering up the papers until the bill of costs was paid.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR considered that in the existing state of the action no time should be lost by the plaintiffs in continuing the proceedings, and it would probably take at least two months to have the bill of costs taxed. The plaintiffs' offer to deposit the amount of the bill in Court would give Mr. Edwards a more substantial security for payment than he could otherwise have, since he could not bring an action to recover the money against a foreign government. It would do Mr. Edwards no good to retain the papers, and might be very injurious to the plaintiffs. Therefore he should exercise the power given to the Court by the Solicitors Act, 6 & 7 Vict. c. 73, s. 37, and should direct that upon payment into Court of the sum of 8600*l.* by Messrs. Freshfields & Williams on behalf of the plaintiffs, Mr. Edwards do deliver over within four days upon oath all the papers in this action to Messrs. Freshfields & Williams the plaintiff's present solicitors, they undertaking to produce to Mr. Edwards, and allow him the inspection of all the documents and papers at any time for the purpose of carrying out the taxation of his bill of costs, and that such bill be now ordered to be taxed.

In re PATENT DAVIT AND BOAT BUILDING COMPANY.

Company—Winding-up—Directors' Qualification—Resolution of Subscribers to Memorandum of Association.

The company having been registered on the 1st of February, 1875, partly under Table A., and without any regulation in any part of its articles of association as to the number of directors' qualification shares—on the 4th of February, 1875, at a meeting of subscribers to the memorandum of association, it was resolved that the directors' qualification should in future be the holding of fifty shares, which were of 5*l.* each.

In April, 1875, Thomas Wright Ranken, at the request of a friend, went to the office for the purpose of inspecting a model of the patent apparatus, and was then induced to attend the next board meeting, on the 6th of May, at which he was requested to act, and did act, as chairman. Before the next board meeting, on the 3rd of June, Mr. Ranken heard of the passing of the resolutions of the 4th of February, and finding on the 3rd of June that the resolutions had been passed, he made certain propositions with a view of rescinding them, which he submitted to the secretary, and attended at the office on the 1st of July, 1875, for the purpose of having the matter discussed, but there were not sufficient attendances to make a quorum. He then, on the 3rd of July, wrote a letter to the secretary, declining to continue any longer on the board, on the ground that when he first joined the company he was ignorant of the proceedings of the 4th of February.

On the 18th of April, 1877, a winding-up order was made. No allotment of shares had been made to Mr. Ranken and his name was not on the register. After the winding-up his name was placed on the list of contributories for 50 shares. The chief clerk's certificate was dated the 17th of June, 1878.

The present summons by Mr. Ranken to have his name removed was issued on the 15th of November, 1878.

On the part of the official liquidator a proxy paper dated the 5th of May, 1875, signed T. W. Ranken, was produced, in which he was described as a member of the company.

Sir H. Jackson, Q.C., and Henry John Hood, for the summons.

Hemming, Q.C., and H. Burton Buckley, for the official liquidator.

Sir H. Jackson in reply.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said that after the decision in De Ruvigne's case (5 Ch. D. 306) it was impossible to hold that the constitution of the company could be altered by a resolution of directors. In this case Mr. Ranken said he did not know of the resolution when he joined the company. As soon as he heard of it he attempted to have it rescinded, and failing, determined to withdraw altogether. His connection with the company from first to last was of the slightest possible kind, and the production of the proxy paper, which was not shewn to have ever been used, proved nothing against him. The summons must be allowed, but considering the lapse of time from the 17th of June to the 15th of November it would be without costs.

V.-C. B. ADAIR v. YOUNG. Jan. 17.

Practice—Patent Action—Admission of Evidence in Reply—Particulars of Infringement.

This was an action to restrain the infringement of the plaintiff's patent for the manufacture of ships' pumps. The action was brought against Young the master of a ship in which a set of pumps alleged to be an infringement was used, and the makers Messrs. Wallace & Co. of Govan were added as defendants during the progress of the action. The plaintiff charged that the defendants Wallace had infringed in certain instances specified in the particulars of breaches accompanying the statement of claim. The defendants Wallace by their statement of defence denied that they had ever made any pumps in infringement of the plaintiff's patent.

At the trial the plaintiff adduced evidence in support of the case as made by his pleadings. The defendants Wallace & Co., however, went into evidence upon the wider issue raised by them. The plaintiff applied for leave to adduce evidence in reply by giving instances of ships other than those included in the particulars of breaches in which pumps alleged to be infringements were fitted.

Kay, Q.C., and Chadwyck Healey, for the plaintiff.

Aston, Q.C., and McClymont, for the defendants Wallace & Co.

Sir Henry Jackson, Q.C., for the defendant Young.

In support of the application Penn v. Jack (L. R. 2 Eq. 314), Wright v. Wilcox (9 C. B. 650) and Taylor on Evidence, were cited.

The defendants, Wallace & Co., relied on the 15 & 16 Vict. c. 83, s. 41, providing for particulars of breaches, and contended that inasmuch as the instances which would be given in evidence by the plaintiff in reply were not included within the particulars of breaches, such evidence was inadmissible.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR decided to admit the evidence. The 41st section of the Patent Act had an application to such a case as this; while the authorities cited in support of the application were clearly in point. The defendants had opened a different case from that of the plaintiff, and not confined themselves to meeting that which was set up by him, and accordingly the plaintiff would be entitled to call evidence in reply to it.

The ships being about to sail the evidence was then taken, though the defendants' evidence was not closed.

Lessor and Lessee—Agreement by Lessee to assign Residue of Lease—Representation of Title—Option to rescind in Lease—Contract cancelled, and Deposit Money ordered to be returned.

In March, 1878, the defendant was in the occupation of "The Red Lion" public-house at Southall. The plaintiff stated that the defendant r presented to him that he was entitled to the premises for twelve and a half years from Lady Day, 1878, subject to a rent of 150*l.*; and that upon the faith of such representation he entered into negotiations for the purchase of that term; and on the 18th of March, 1878, the parties signed an agreement whereby the defendant, in consideration of 100*l.* paid to him by the plaintiff by way of deposit, and of a further sum of 750*l.* to be paid at future times, agreed to furnish a proper title and to assign the lease and all his interest in it and the goodwill for the remainder of the term then to come and unexpired, which was "twelve and a half years at least from Lady Day next, subject to the yearly rent of 150*l.* and the performance of the covenants thereby reserved and contained." The plaintiff agreed to accept an assignment and to take possession of the premises on the 15th of April 1878. If either party should neglect to perform his part of the agreement he was to pay to the other on demand the sum of 200*l.* as damages, and in case of default by the plaintiff "the deposit money to be forfeited in part of such damages." The plaintiff on the 19th of March paid the 100*l.* On the 29th of March the defendant's solicitor delivered an abstract of title, and it therein appeared that the defendant had not a term of which at least twelve and a half years were unexpired, but that he held the premises under a lease dated in March 1870 for a term of twenty-one years from Christmas Day, 1869 "determinable at the option of the lessors or lessee upon giving six months' notice before the expiration of the first seven or fourteen years of the term. Upon receiving the abstract the plaintiff required the defendant to return his deposit money, and he having refused to do so, the writ in this action was issued on the 10th of April, the plaintiff claiming the repayment of the money and interest at 5*l.* per cent.

The defendant denied that he made such a representation, but stated that he placed the lease in the hands of his agent for sale, and that both parties and their agents met on the 15th of March, and negotiated for the sale and purchase, "it being then stated that twelve and a half years were unexpired of the original term of twenty-one years," but no representation of the conditions was made. The lease and assignments were on the 16th of March left by the defendant with his agent, and it was alleged that the plaintiff's agent afterwards perused them, and informed the plaintiff of the contents, and returned the contract signed and paid the deposit money. The defendant contended that he had a term of which twelve-and-a-half years were unexpired, and in any case "he could and would if necessary before the time limited for completion have procured the lessors" to waive their option to determine; and that he was at the time when the plaintiff repudiated the contract ready to perform it; and submitted that the plaintiff was not entitled to avoid it; nor, having made default, to have back his 100*l.* The defendant claimed that sum in part payment of the 200*l.* agreed upon as damages.

Dickinson, Q.C., and Heath, for the plaintiff.

Vaughan Hawkins, for the defendant.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that the plaintiff was entitled to judgment for the return of the 100*l.* with interest at 5 per cent. from the 19th of March, 1878. The plaintiff was not bound to perform a contract which stipulated for a residue of twelve-and-a-half years, but which might be brought to an end in five years; nor was he under the circumstances bound to wait till the 15th of April before avoiding the contract.

BANKRUPTCY.

C. J. B. Ex parte HIRST. In re WHERLY. Jan. 14.

Bankruptcy—Jurisdiction—Debtor Mortgagor—Foreclosure Suit by second Mortgagee—Restraining Order in Bankruptcy reversed.

Appeal from County Court at Newcastle.

In May, 1877, the appellants, Hirst & Son, builders, tendered for the building of three houses for 1660*l.*, to be paid in instalments. The tender was made on the invitation of the debtor Wherly, who, upon being called upon by the Hirsts for security, on the 11th of June wrote to the solicitor of a building society at Tynemouth to say he intended mortgaging the three houses to the society for about 600*l.* each, and he thereby authorized him to hand over the advances which might from time to time be made by the society to the contractors, until the price of their contract was complete. The letter continued, "I have promised them (the contractors) not to transfer any of the houses from the building society to any purchaser without handing over to them the difference between price of the contract and amount advanced by the society."

On the 4th of August the society's solicitor paid to Hirst 250*l.* on account. On the 15th of September, Wherly in consideration of the nominal advance of 1530*l.*, executed mortgages of the three houses to the society's trustees for 510*l.* each. On about the 21st of September the society advanced 200*l.*, on the 2nd of October 150*l.*, and on the 26th of November 360*l.* to the Hirsts.

On the 2nd of March, 1878, Wherly filed a liquidation petition, and on the 6th of August the Hirsts commenced an action against the trustees of the building society and the liquidation trustee, for the purpose of establishing an equitable charge against the society for their balance, founded on the terms of the above letter. The writ was indorsed with a claim for a declaration to the above effect, for redemption, payment of the balance due, and foreclosure.

On the 15th of August, on the application of the liquidation trustee, the Hirsts were restrained by order of the County Court from taking further proceedings in the action, and on the 2nd of November the injunction was made absolute. This was the order appealed from.

De Gex, Q.C., and R. W. Ingham, for the appellants:—The Court of Bankruptcy has no jurisdiction to restrain this action. The first mortgagees are not before this Court, and an action is necessary.

Winslow, Q.C., and Willis, for the respondent, the trustee:—The question is one of discretion. The appellants have no ground for their action.

THE CHIEF JUDGE said that the appellants, if they were second mortgagees, had a right to redeem the first mortgagees and foreclose, if necessary. That was not a right which could be exercised in bankruptcy. They had their choice of remedies, and if they failed in the action they would fail at the peril of costs. The order of the County Court must be discharged with costs.

facts that would be relied upon under the plea of justification by the defendant, which it was contended was rather matter for particulars than interrogatories; as to the others that they were of a fishing character, seeking to obtain information not as to the facts of the defendant's case merely, but as to his evidence and the witnesses he intended to call, or that they were irrelevant.

C. Russell, Q.C., and E. Clarke, moved to strike out the interrogatories.

Lumley Smith shewed cause. He contended that under Order XXXI. r. 5, Rules of November, 1878, objections to interrogatories of the nature now taken could only be taken in the affidavit in answer, and could not be taken by way of application to strike out the interrogatories.

It appeared upon shewing cause against the order that the judgment debtor was actually dead when the order nisi was obtained. Practice—Appeal from Master to Judge at Chambers—Time within which Appeal must be brought—Rules of Court, 1875, Order LIV. r. 4.

Appeal from decision of a judge at chambers dismissing an appeal from the decision of the master refusing an application on behalf of the defendant for a stay of proceedings.

The original application was heard before the master on the 23rd of December; on the 24th of December the defendant took out an appeal summons, which was made returnable on the 31st of December. When the summons came on for hearing before Hawkins, J., on that day, it was objected on the part of the plaintiff that the appeal was out of time, not having been brought within the time limited by Order LIV., r. 4, and that the summons should have been made returnable on the 27th of December, on which day a judge sat at chambers.

The learned judge dismissed the appeal on that ground.

Graham now moved by way of appeal from that decision. He contended that the true construction of the rule was that it was sufficient if the appeal summons were taken out within four days from the decision of the master.

Gould shewed cause.

THE COURT (Kelly, C.B., and Pollock, B.) were of opinion that it was not enough to take out the appeal summons within the four days, but that the true construction of the rule was, that the summons must be returnable within the four days, so that the hearing might take place within that time in the absence of any postponement, they therefore dismissed the application.

Application dismissed.

Distress for Debt—Stipulation for—Rescue—Sale—Conversion—Auctioneer.

FURTHER CONSIDERATION.

The plaintiffs, brewers, let a public-house to a tenant by an agreement containing a clause giving to the plaintiffs all the rights and remedies of landlords as in cases of rent in arrear against the effects of the tenant for the recovery of any book debts for liquors, &c., sold by them to him. Rent became due and the plaintiffs distrained, and employed the defendant to sell, and he sold sufficient goods to satisfy the arrears, and the bailiff retired. Then, a sum being also due from the tenant for liquors sold by the defendants, they authorized their bailiff to distrain for it. He did so, shewed his warrant to the auctioneer on the premises, took an inventory, and made a valuation of the goods. The tenant and the auctioneer, however, disregarding this distress, themselves proceeded to sell the goods while the bailiff remained on the premises. The defendant put them up for auction, knocked them down to buyers, to whom the tenant then handed the goods.

The plaintiffs brought an action against the auctioneer for forcibly and illegally removing the goods and depriving the plaintiffs of the possession thereof. No evidence was offered for the defendants at the trial. Judgment was reserved.

Gully, Q.C. (Bradley with him), for the defendant, contended that the plaintiffs had no such possession or property in the goods as entitled them to maintain an action.

Henry, for the plaintiffs.

LOPES, J., held that as under the agreement the plaintiffs were in the position of landlords with respect to the debt, the right to the goods remained vested in the tenant until sale by the landlords, and the latter could neither bring trespass nor trover; but that this action, which was in effect for a rescue, could be maintained against the defendant, who knowingly assisted in transferring the dominion over the property in the goods to the purchasers.

COURT OF APPEAL.

From Ch. Div. LEWIS v. BOETEFEUR. Jan. 21.

Will—Construction—Legacies to Charities—Direction to marshal—Residue.

This was an appeal from an order of Vice-Chancellor Bacon (Weekly Notes, 1878, p. 21). The question for decision arose on the construction of certain clauses in the will of A. Boetefeur, by which he directed his residuary estate to be marshalled in favour of certain charitable legacies. His Lordship decided that the debts and costs were to be paid out of the pure and impure personalty rateably. From this decision the Attorney-General on behalf of the charities appealed.

Rigby, for the appellant.

Westlake, Q.C. and B. B. Rogers, for one of the charities.

Sir H. Jackson, Q.C., and Macnaghten, for the residuary legatees.

D. Jones, for personal representatives of widow.

JAMES, L.J., said that the decision in this case must depend entirely on the particular frame of the will, and could not form a precedent for any other cases. His Lordship then considered the various clauses of the will, and said that he was of opinion that the order of the Vice-Chancellor was right, and the appeal must be dismissed.

BAGGALLAY and BRAMWELL, L.JJ., concurred.

Liquidation Petition—Lunatic—Bankruptcy Act, 1869, s. 125—Bankruptcy Rules, 1870, rr. 7, 252—Bankruptcy Forms, 1870, No. 106.

Of two partners one was insane, though not found a lunatic by inquisition. The sane partner signed a joint liquidation petition on behalf of himself and also as next friend of the lunatic. The registrar refused to file the petition, and his decision was affirmed by Mr. Registrar Brougham acting as Chief Judge.

Hilbery applied ex parte for a direction to the registrar to file the petition, urging that if this could not be done the joint assets might all be swept away by a few judgment creditors of the firm.

THE COURT (James, Baggallay, and Bramwell, L.JJ.) said that it might be very desirable that what was asked should be done, but neither the Act nor the Rules contained any provision for it. Possibly, if the insane partner were found a lunatic by inquisition, the Court in Lunacy might be able to act on his behalf, but the Court of Bankruptcy had no jurisdiction. The registrar was quite right in refusing the application.

November, 1877, entered into between Wright, the other partner, and one Roberts, on behalf of the lunatic, subject to the approval of the Lord Chancellor. This agreement provided that the partnership should be declared dissolved as from the 31st of December, 1875, ascertained the balance due to the lunatic, and provided for payment of part of that balance at once in cash, and the residue by weekly instalments. And Wright agreed to give a bond conditioned for carrying out the agreement.

On the 6th of December, 1877, Roberts was appointed committee of the estate of the lunatic, and the agreement was approved by the Court in Lunacy. On the 23rd of May, 1878, Wright, who had continued to carry on the business under the old firm, filed a liquidation petition. He had made no payment in pursuance of the agreement, nor had he executed the bond, and he had not advertised the dissolution of the partnership. On the 30th of April, 1878, Roberts, as committee, had recovered judgment against Wright for the cash payment under the agreement. On the 6th of June, Roberts, without obtaining the sanction of the Court in Lunacy, made an affidavit of proof of the whole balance due to the lunatic, stating that he held the agreement and the judgment as security, and appointed three persons his proxy in the matter. On the 7th of June the first meeting of the creditors was held, when one of the persons so appointed proxy proved the debt, and voted in respect of the whole of it in favour of a resolution for liquidation by arrangement, which was carried. On the application of Roberts, Mr. Registrar Spring Rice, acting as Chief Judge, on the 6th of August, made an order declaring that the lunatic or his estate was entitled to a lien on the assets of the business, subject to any claim by the joint creditors of the firm which were in existence at the date of the dissolution, for what was due to the lunatic on his estate under the agreement and the judgment, and directing accounts and inquiries. The trustee appealed.

De Gex, Q.C., and S. Woolf, for the trustee, contended that by the agreement the assets were converted into separate assets of Wright, and that if any lien had existed, the proxy, by voting in respect of the whole debt, had abandoned the security.

Winslow, Q.C., and Popham, for the committee, were not heard.

THE COURT (James, Baggallay, and Bramwell, L.JJ.) said that the agreement was an executory one, and everything remained in fieri, at any rate until the cash payment was made and the bond given. Till that was done no right of dealing with the assets as his own was conferred upon Wright. The question of the waiver of the security would require further consideration when it should really arise, which it did not now. For the lunatic was the creditor, and the committee had no power to sign a proxy on his behalf or to waive any of his rights without the sanction of the Court in Lunacy. The proxy was a mere piece of waste paper. The Registrar's order must be affirmed.

BOWYER v. MARSHALL.

Practice—Parties attending Proceedings in Chambers—Special Leave—Costs—Cons. Ord. 35, r. 16—Conduct of Sale.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS desired it to be understood that parties attending proceedings in chambers under Cons. Ord. 35, r. 16, were not entitled to any costs of such attendance, unless they had obtained special leave to attend.

Upon a question also arising as to who should have the conduct of a sale asked for by the plaintiff, there being trustees of the will with an absolute discretion as to the time of sale,

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS observed that the general rule giving the plaintiff in every case the conduct of sales required amendment, and that he intended to confer with the other judges as to an alteration of this rule, so as to make it more consonant with the intention of testators.

MULLINER v. MIDLAND RAILWAY COMPANY.

Railway Company—Right to sell Land for Purposes other than that of the Railway—Station—Use of Arch as Warehouse for Goods after illegal Grant of Right of Way under it—Claim by Purchaser—Injunction.

The Bedford and Northampton Railway Company, having the usual powers under their special Acts, had acquired lands whereon they had constructed a station, part of which was built on arches.

The schedule to one of the special Acts contained provisions for an agreement between the said company and the defendant company, for the defendant company "to manage, work, and use" the Bedford and Northampton Railway, in pursuance whereof the defendant company since the completion of the railway, had been in occupation of the said station and had worked the line.

Subsequently the Bedford and Northampton Railway Company sold certain superfluous lands adjoining the arches, with an alleged right of way through one of them, to their contractors, who sold the same to the plaintiff.

The defendant company now required the arch through which the alleged right of way passed as a warehouse for bonded goods, and had blocked it up accordingly.

The plaintiff in the present action claimed to be entitled to the right of way through the arch, and to restrain the defendant company from obstructing it. The defendant company denied that they had sanctioned the grant of the right of way now claimed by the plaintiff.

Chitty, Q.C., and Dryden, for the plaintiff.

Davey, Q.C., and W. Phipson Beale, for the defendant company.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS held that a railway company had no right to alienate either for value or without value any portion of its land not actually used for the purpose of the railway, except in the case of superfluous land, which the land under the arches was not; that the grant of the alleged right of way was illegal; that the defendant company were entitled to the exclusive use of the arch for the purpose for which it was applied; and that the plaintiff, having purchased with notice of the company's right, could not claim the interference of the Court.

Practice—Action in District Registry—Effect of subsequent Order in Chancery Division on Motion in same Action—Rules of Court, 1875, Order XXXV., r. 4.

An action had been commenced by writ issued in the Manchester Registry for damages and an injunction.

On the 11th of January, 1879, the plaintiff moved before the Master of the Rolls for an injunction against the defendant, and the motion was ordered to stand over.

On the 28th of January, 1879, the district registrar made an order under Rules of Court, 1875, Order XXXV., r. 4, on the application of the plaintiffs, for the appointment of a special examiner, and for the attendance before him of the persons who had made affidavits on the motion. The defendants thereupon took out a summons before the chief clerk of the Master of the Rolls that the order of the district registrar might be discharged for irregularity. The summons now came on with the adjourned motion.

Aston, Q.C., and Macrory, for the plaintiff.

Chitty, Q.C., and Rigby, for the defendants.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS held that the order of the district registrar was irregular, that Order XXXV., r. 4 did not apply after a motion had been made in the action in this branch of the Court, the effect of which was to remove the case from the district registry. The order must be discharged with costs.

Practice—Transfer of Pending Action to Chancery Division—Proceedings under an Arbitration—Award made Rule of Court in Queen's Bench Division—Judicature Act, 1873, s. 100—Rules of Supreme Court, 1875, Order LXII.—Rules of Court (26*th June*, 1876), Order LI., r. 2*a.*

Motion on behalf of the defendant A. S. Edmunds, executor of the will of a testator who died in 1873, and of whose will the trusts were being administered in this branch of the Chancery Division under a decree dated the 26th of July, 1873, to restrain the corporation of Reigate, acting as a Local Board of Health, from proceeding to enforce an award, and that proceedings commenced by the corporation against the defendant in the Queen's Bench Division relating to the award, or consequent thereon, and then pending in such division, might be transferred to this branch of the Chancery Division.

The testator had been served by the Local Board with notice to repair a road, but he paid no attention, and after his death, notices to repair were served on the surviving defendant, and on the tenant for life of the property under the will, who had since been let into possession. The defendant Edmunds disputed the apportionment, and questioned the jurisdiction on the ground that the road was a public road. The Board asked the defendant Edmunds and the tenant for life to appoint a single arbitrator, but that was declined. Then the Board sought to prove in the administration, but failed, being out of time, and also because the amount of their claim had not been settled by arbitration. The Board went on with the arbitration alone, and on the 9th of August, 1877, an award was made, confirming the previous assessments, which on motion ex parte, in January 1878, was made a rule of Court in the Queen's Bench Division, and after some delay in the taxation of the costs of the award, in the course of which a mandamus to one of the taxing masters to tax the costs was issued by the Queen's Bench Division, demands to pay the amount found due by the award, and the taxed costs, were made upon the defendant Edmunds and the tenant for life.

Hemming, Q.C., and B. B. Swan for the motion:—The preliminary question is, whether these proceedings are an "action pending" within the meaning of rule 2a of Order LI. (Rules of the 26th of June, 1876). The term "action" is defined by the interpretation clause (s. 100) of the Judicature Act, 1873.

Mears for the Local Board:—We are expressly excepted out of the Rules by Order LXII. of the Judicature Act, 1875. This is not a "pending action."

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that the exceptions in Order LXII. had no application, and that this was an "action pending" within rule 2a of Order LI.

Mears, for the corporation, on the question of discretion:—This is not a proceeding against an executor; it is a proceeding under the Public Health Act, 1875, s. 257, against the statutory owner of the property.

Sir H. Jackson, Q.C., and F. T. White, for the plaintiffs.

Lambert, for the tenant for life, who had been appointed receiver.

Hemming, in reply:—The defendant Edmunds is not statutory owner. He is not in receipt of the rents and profits.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR made the order as moved for, restraining the proceedings in the Queen's Bench Division permanently, and transferring them to this branch of the Chancery Division, with leave to the Local Board to go in and prove for their debt and costs in chambers, including the costs of the present application. The corporation were to be admitted as creditors, with liberty to apply for payment.

The tenant for life would be at liberty to prove for her costs of the arbitration in chambers, and the costs of the plaintiffs and defendants of the present application would be costs in the action.

V.-C. H. In re SMITH'S ESTATE. Jan. 20.
CLIFFORD v. WASHINGTON.

Bequest by Husband to his Wife, but upon her Second Marriage to be settled—Second Marriage, and Omission to convert and invest and settle—Second Husband liable for Loss.

Charles Smith, victualler, who died in October, 1844, by his will, made in October, 1837, after appointing three executors and trustees, one of whom was his wife, said he wished the business to be disposed of and the house in Percival Street sold if a fair price could be obtained for it, and after giving some pecuniary legacies, and directing the payment of his debts and funeral expenses, he bequeathed all the residue of his freehold and leasehold estates, with all moneys and everything he was or might become entitled to, "unto my beloved wife Mary Ann, and it is my further wish that should my wife Mary Ann get married again, I wish my property to be so settled upon her as to be quite out of the control of her future husband. I mean for her to enjoy all interest arising from it during her lifetime, then I bequeath the leasehold house in Percival Street, if not sold, and the money settled as above stated to be share and share between the lawfully begotten children of Jn Powers Washington (if any)," and of his brothers and sister, to be paid to them at the age of 21 years. "But if my wife Mary Ann should not get married again, then I leave it to her own disposal at her death."

The widow in 1846 married William Clarke (a defendant) and she having survived her two co-trustees, died in July, 1876, leaving her husband surviving. The widow from the time of the testator's death to the time of her second marriage received the rents and profits of the houses and property, and applied them to her own use, and after her second marriage to the time of her death she and her second husband received and applied them to their own use.

The plaintiffs, who were the children of a brother of the testator and their husbands, contended that at the time of the testator's death, or within twelve months thereafter, or at all events upon the second marriage of the widow, there ought to have been a conversion of the estate, and the proceeds invested in consols, and that a valuation of the property should be made as if taken at or before the second marriage, and the amount invested in consols, and that the widow after her second marriage was entitled only to income equal to the dividends of the consols which would have been produced by such conversion and investment; and that the excess of the rents and profits over such dividend, as well as any other assets of the testator received by the defendant Clarke and his wife or either of them during their coverture, ought to be made good by him personally with interest thereon.

The plaintiffs prayed for administration by the Court and for declarations of the rights and interests of all parties and of the liability as above-mentioned of the defendant Clarke.

The certificate of the chief clerk shewed that the widow received the rents and profits to Midsummer, 1876, and that the defendant Clarke received during coverture the sum of 63*l.* and paid it over to her.

The testator at his death was possessed of leasehold houses for terms which would expire in the years between 1881 and 1887.

Dickinson, Q.C., and Everitt, for the plaintiff.

W. Pearson, Q.C., and C. Browne, for the defendant Clarke, and George Cary for the other defendants.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that the property should have been converted after the second marriage and an investment of the proceeds made of a permanent character; and that there ought to have been a settlement executed; further, that the moneys which were received from the property during the coverture must be considered as having been received by the defendant Clarke, for although they did not pass through his hands yet the property came under his legal control, therefore he and his estate were liable to make good any loss in consequence of non-conversion at the proper time.

BANKRUPTCY.

C. J. B. Ex parte SHARPE. In re SHARPE. Jan. 13.

Bankruptcy—Jurisdiction—Business of a Storer of Gunpowder out of the London District, with the use of an Office within the London District—Bankruptcy Rules, 1870, No. 17.

Appeal from a decision of the County Court of Surrey at Croydon, on the 18th of October, 1878, dismissing an application on the part of John Carr Sharpe that a debtor's summons against him should be dismissed. The application was made on two grounds—first, the insufficiency of the debt (an objection which was not pressed), and, secondly, want of jurisdiction.

On this latter point the facts were that Mr. Sharpe had a private residence at Shaftesbury Cottage, Croydon. He was in business as a gunpowder warehouseman, having magazines at Barking, which is not within the London district. He also had the use of an office at the Gunpowder Offices, 27, Bishopsgate Street Within. He said he was there every day; he had a season-ticket and went up and down to town every day. He added, "I have had the use of that office for some years, and the magazines for seventeen years about, and there carry on my business."

In cross-examination, he said, "I do not rent the office. It is the gunpowder office, and I use it. I do not sell the gunpowder. I have to see the lightermen, storekeepers, and any other matters that may arise relating to the magazine. The magazines are my own and I receive rent for the storage. The offices are those of the Kennall Company."

In re-examination, he said, "I receive and pay money at this office, and transact all business there relating to the magazines."

Joseph Beaumont, for the appellant:—By the 17th of the Bankruptcy Rules a debtor's summons may be granted by the London Bankruptcy Court "if the debtor resides or carries on business within the district of that Court; and when the debtor neither resides nor carries on business within the district of that Court, it may be granted by the Court within the district of which the debtor resides or carries on business." To support this debtor's summons it is necessary to shew that the debtor did not carry on any business—that is to say any part of his business—in London. In this instance Mr. Sharpe may have carried on business at Barking, but he certainly carried on part of his business in the London district: Ex parte Charles (Law Rep. 13 Eq. 638).

E. Cooper Willis, contrà:—The applicant must prove either that he resides, or that he carries on business in London. His warehouse is at Barking, and he does not rent the office in London.

Beaumont in reply.

THE CHIEF JUDGE said there was no ground for the appeal. It was at Barking only that the appellant's business was carried on. There the gunpowder was stored, thence it was delivered. The appellant said that he was allowed the use of an office in London where he received money. He might possibly receive money in other places, but he carried on business at Barking and he resided at Croydon. The appeal must be dismissed with costs.

An action of Martin v. Bannister having been brought in the County Court of Warwickshire held at Coventry, in which the plaintiff claimed damages for a nuisance caused by stenches issuing from a manure manufactory of the defendant, and also claimed an injunction under s. 89 of the Judicature Act, 1873, against the continuance of the nuisance, judgment was in May, 1876, given for the plaintiff for 5*l.* for damages with costs, and the injunction was granted. An application having been made by the plaintiff to the County Court in 1878 to commit the defendants to prison for having disobeyed the injunction, the judge, without going into the merits, refused to entertain the application on the ground that he had no jurisdiction to commit to prison for disobedience to an injunction. A rule having been obtained calling on Sir R. Harington the County Court judge and the defendants to shew cause why the judge should not hear and adjudicate upon the application—

Dugdale (Knott with him), for the defendants shewed cause, and contended that the County Court had no jurisdiction, (1) to grant the injunction, or (2) to commit for contempt, and referred to Reg. v. Lefroy (Law Rep. 8 Q. B. 134).

Bigham, for the plaintiff.

THE COURT (Kelly, C.B., and Pollock, B.) held that under s. 89 of the Judicature Act, 1873, the County Court had jurisdiction (1) to grant the injunction, and (2) to commit to prison for disobedience thereof.

Vendor and Purchaser—Inquiry as to Incumbrances.

This was an appeal by the vendor from an order made by V.-C. Hall on a summons by the purchaser under the Vendor and Purchaser Act, 1874, ordering the solicitors of the vendor to make a full, sufficient, and complete answer to the following requisition: "Is there to the knowledge of the vendors or their solicitors any settlement, deed, fact, omission, or any incumbrance affecting the property not disclosed by the abstract."

Trial by Jury—Rules of Court, 1875, Order XXXVI., rr. 3, 26.

This was an action to have an agreement set aside as having been obtained by the fraudulent misrepresentations of the defendant. The plaintiff on the 12th of December, 1878, gave notice of trial by a judge and jury in Middlesex, and notice of his intention to have the case tried by a special jury. The defendant gave notice of motion to have the action tried without a jury by Vice-Chancellor Malins, to whose Court it was attached, and his Lordship on the 19th of December ordered accordingly. The plaintiff appealed.

Glasse, Q.C., and Dundas Gardiner, for the appellant.

Higgins, Q.C, and J. Sangster Green, for the defendant, were not called upon.

THE COURT (Jessel, M.R., and James and Bramwell, L.JJ.) were of opinion that the Vice-Chancellor had exercised a sound discretion, and that the case was more fit for a judge than a jury, and said that even if they had not been of that opinion it would have required a strong case to induce them to interfere with the discretion of the Vice-Chancellor as to how a case before him ought to be tried.

Debtor's Summons—Married Woman—Separate Trade—Liability of Husband.

A married woman carried on in her maiden name a business separately from her husband. A debtor's summons was issued against the husband and wife for a sum due in respect of four bills of exchange drawn by the summoning creditor upon and accepted by the wife in her maiden name and dishonoured, the alleged consideration being goods supplied. The husband applied to the Court to dismiss the summons. He was examined and stated that he had never authorized his wife to pledge his credit for her business, and that he had given notice to the summoning creditor that he had nothing to do with the business. This evidence was uncontradicted. Mr. Registrar Spring Rice, acting as Chief Judge, made the usual order staying the proceedings, on Shepherd giving security. Shepherd appealed.

Pollard, for the appellant.

E. C. Willis, for the creditor.

THE COURT (Jessel, M.R., and James and Bramwell, L.JJ.), said that on the evidence the husband was clearly not liable. The summons was oppressive and vexatious, and an abuse of the procedure, and it must be dismissed with costs. If the creditor had any evidence to adduce he could bring an action.

Reputed Ownership—Order and Disposition—Agency—Notice—Bankruptcy Act, 1869, s. 15.

Bright & Brothers consigned goods manufactured by them to Smith & Co., under an agreement the effect of which was, as the Court held, to make Smith & Co., not purchasers of the goods, but the agents of Bright & Brothers for their sale. Smith & Co. described themselves, upon a brass plate affixed at their place of business and also upon their invoices, as "merchants and manufacturers' agents." They sold the goods of several other manufacturers under agreements similar to that with Bright & Brothers. Smith & Co. having filed a liquidation petition, Bright & Brothers applied to the Court for an order that the trustee should deliver up to them all the goods which they had consigned to the debtors, and which remained in specie and were in his possession as trustee. Mr. Registrar Pepys, acting as Chief Judge, refused the application, on the ground that the goods were in the order and disposition of the debtors as reputed owners with the consent of Bright & Brothers. Bright & Brothers appealed.

De Gex, Q.C., and Finlay Knight, for the appellants.

Winslow, Q.C., and Arnold Morley, for the trustee.

THE COURT (Jessel, M.R., and James and Bramwell, L.JJ.) held that sufficient notice had been given, by the use of the word "agents" as above stated, to the creditors of Smith & Co. that the goods in their possession might be, not their own, but the goods of their principals, and that, therefore, the reputed ownership clause did not apply. The order asked for was accordingly made.

In re EUROPEAN ASSURANCE SOCIETY ARBITRATION ACTS.
In re BRITISH NATION LIFE ASSURANCE ASSOCIATION.
Ex parte YOUNG.

Company—Winding-up—Proof—Redeemable Annuity.

This was an appeal from a decision of the arbitrator under the European Assurance Society Arbitration Acts, respecting the proper mode of valuation of an annuity of 600*l.* on the lives of the purchasers granted by the British Nation Life Assurance Association.

The deed, which was made in June, 1860, contained a proviso that the annuity should be repurchasable by the association, its successors and assigns, for 6500*l.*, on giving six months notice to the grantees and paying at the expiration of such notice or the time of repurchase, if subsequent thereto, all arrears and a proportionate part of any then current payment to the grantees. In January, 1872, the British Nation Life Association passed a resolution for a voluntary winding-up, which was by order continued under supervision of the Court. No notice to re-purchase the annuity had been given. Upon the application by the grantees to prove for 10,480*l.*, the present value of the annuity, without regard to the proviso for repurchase, the arbitrator directed that the value of the annuity should be taken to be 6500*l.*, as being the sum which the grantees bound themselves to accept on a repurchase.

From this decision the grantees of the annuity appealed.

Benjamin, Q.C., and G. A. Young, for the appellants.

Higgins, Q.C., and Romer, for the official liquidators, were not called on.

JESSEL, M.R., said that in his opinion the arbitrator's decision in this case was right. The appellants argued that although it might be true that the liquidator had technically the right to repurchase the annuity at 6500*l.* it was impossible for him to do so, as there were no funds applicable for that purpose. But that was not the question. When a man or a company was insolvent the claims were valued on the footing of solvency. If a man bought a bill of exchange for a trifle in consequence of the insolvency of the acceptor, he proved, notwithstanding, for the full amount. If this company were solvent, there could be no doubt they could repurchase the annuity for 6500*l.*; therefore that must be considered the value of the annuity.

JAMES, L.J., concurred.

BRAMWELL, L.J., said that if the appellants were right it would lead to two absurd consequences. First, it would follow that up to the date of the liquidation the annuity was worth 6500*l.*, and that immediately on the liquidation it rose to 10,480*l.*; secondly, if the company should pay 15*s.* in the pound, the dividend on the claim would be about 7500*l.*, and then it would be worth the liquidator's while to exercise the power of repurchase; in other words, the amount to be recovered in respect of the annuity would become less in proportion as the assets of the company increased. Again, if there were a surety for payment of the annuity, he could still repurchase it for 6500*l.*; therefore that must be the true value of the annuity.

Partition Act, ss. 3, 5—Purchase of Share at a Valuation.

This was an appeal from a decision of Vice-Chancellor Malins in an action for the partition or sale of certain real estates subject to the trusts of the will of W. Ballard (8 Ch. D. 548).

The property was divisible into 336 parts. It was situated in the town of Birmingham, and consisted of three houses occupied as five tenements. The persons who were entitled to three sixteenths desired the property to be sold immediately, contending that they had established a good case under the 3rd section of the Partition Act; while those who were entitled to the remaining thirteen sixteenths were desirous that no public sale should take place, but offered to purchase the other shares at a valuation under the 5th section of the Act. The Vice-Chancellor decided to allow the persons entitled to thirteen sixteenths to purchase the other shares, and directed a reference to chambers for that purpose.

From this decision the persons entitled to three sixteenths appealed.

Bristowe, Q.C., Lewin, and Davenport, for the appellants.

J. Pearson, Q.C., and Bardswell; Glasse, Q.C., and Woodroffe, for the respondents.

JESSEL, M.R., said that he was of the same opinion as he had expressed in Drinkwater v. Ratcliffe (Law Rep. 20 Eq. 523) that the 3rd section of the Partition Act was not controlled by the 5th section. The only question, therefore, here was whether the appellants had made out a case under the 3rd section, that the circumstances of the case rendered a sale more beneficial to the parties than a partition. If they had done so, it was the duty of the Court to direct a sale, and the 5th section, under which a valuation might be made, did not apply. In the present case he thought that, considering the nature and situation of the property, and the great number of shares into which it was divisible, a good case for a sale was made out under the 3rd section. Therefore the order of the Vice-Chancellor must be discharged, and an order for a sale made, with liberty to any of the parties to make proposals in Chambers, as to bidding for the property.

Practice—Time for appealing—Interlocutory Order—Finding of Fact—Rules of Court, 1875, Order XXXIX., r. 1*a*.

The question in this action was whether the defendant had entered into an agreement for the purchase of land as agent for the plaintiff. The trial took place before Vice-Chancellor Bacon on the 19th, 20th, and 21st of February, 1878, when judgment was given for the defendant. No arrangement had been made at the commencement of the trial that the issue of fact should be tried separately. The judgment, as drawn up, was dated the 21st of February, and it recited that the action came on for trial on the three days above mentioned, and stated that upon reading certain exhibits and hearing certain oral evidence the Court ordered that the action should be dismissed with costs. At the commencement of his judgment the Vice-Chancellor said: "The case is now reduced to a mere question of fact." The plaintiff gave notice of appeal on the 27th of April, 1878.

Sir H. Jackson, Q.C., and Russell Roberts, for the plaintiff.

Kay, Q.C., and C. H. Russell, for the defendant, took the preliminary objection that the Vice-Chancellor's finding on the question of fact was an interlocutory order, and that the appeal from it ought to have been brought within twenty-one days, and was therefore too late: Krehl v. Burrell (Weekly Notes, 1878, p. 238). In the judgment of the Court of Appeal in that case, Thesiger, L.J., said (27 W. R. 236), "We by no means say that, even if the verdict and judgment in another case were to follow one another without any interval of time, that fact would make any difference in the treatment by us of the case, provided only the judge clearly takes upon himself the trial of specific questions of fact, and finds his verdict upon them as a matter separate from the judgment which he gives upon that verdict." That shewed that the decision in Krehl v. Burrell applied to the present case.

Sir H. Jackson, Q.C., and Russell Roberts, for the appellant, were not heard.

THE COURT (Jessel, M.R., and James and Bramwell, L.JJ.) overruled the objection, observing that the passage quoted from the judgment in Krehl v. Burrell was meant to apply to a case in which, at the commencement of the trial, it had been arranged that certain distinct issues of fact should be tried. That was not the case here.

WESTON'S CASE.

Company—Winding-up—Misfeasance of Directors—Companies Act, 1862, s. 165—Admission of New Evidence on Appeal—Rules of Court, 1875, Order LVIII. r. 5.

This company was registered on the 11th of April, 1870, for the purpose of working a mine in Cornwall, with a nominal capital of 20,000*l.* in 10,000 2*l.* shares. On the 6th of April an agreement in writing was entered into between M. C. Greene and J. B. Freeman, as trustee for the then intended company, for the sale by Greene to the company of the West Jewell Mine for 10,000*l.*, to be paid by the delivery to the vendor, his nominee or nominees, of 5000 fully paid-up shares. This agreement was duly registered. It was stated in the articles of association, and the directors were authorized to carry it out. The memorandum of association was subscribed by (inter alios) Freeman for 300 shares and James Weston for 500 shares, 1100 shares being subscribed for altogether. The association appointed Freeman, Weston, and John Little the first directors. The directors, at a meeting on the 17th of June, 1870, at which Weston was present, resolved to allot 5000 fully paid-up shares to Greene and his nominees in accordance with the agreement of the 6th of April. This resolution was the only adoption of the agreement by the directors. The 5000 shares were accordingly allotted to Greene and different nominees of his, and the mine was handed over to the company. One of the nominees was Weston, 500 shares being allotted to him. Besides the shares subscribed for by the memorandum, 900 shares were allotted to various applicants on the terms of their paying 2*l.* per share. In August, 1877, an order was made to wind up the company. The liquidator obtained an order calling on Weston to shew cause why he should not pay to the liquidator 1000*l.*, the amount of capital represented by the 500 fully paid-up shares allotted to him. In answer to this order, Weston stated that he purchased the 500 shares from Greene in the regular way of business, and they were allotted direct to him by the company. He paid Greene 500*l.* for them, which at the time was considered their full value. He did not state when the transaction took place. The only other evidence on Weston's behalf was that of a share-broker, who said that in June, 1870, there was no market for the company's shares, and 1*l.* per share was at the time a large price to pay for them. The Vice-Warden ordered that Weston should pay to the liquidator 500*l.*, the nominal value of the 500 shares after giving credit for the 500*l.* paid to Greene. Weston appealed.

Roxburgh, Q.C., and Woodroffe, for the appellant, contended that he had bought the shares at their full value, and asked leave to call the appellant to prove that his agreement to buy the shares from Greene was entered into after the directors had, by passing the resolution of the 17th of June, adopted the agreement of the 6th of April.

THE COURT (Jessel, M.R., and James and Bramwell, L.JJ.), refused to admit the new evidence.

Higgins, Q.C., and C. H. Turner, for the liquidator, were not heard.

THE COURT said that, as an allottee of fully paid-up shares, Weston, being in a fiduciary relation to the company, was primâ facie liable to pay the full nominal value of the shares, inasmuch as he had an interest in adopting the agreement with the vendor. To succeed in relieving himself from liability he ought to have shewn that his agreement to buy from Greene was entered into after he had himself discharged his duty as a director in adopting the agreement, for otherwise he was receiving a present of half the value of the shares from Greene, and was not in a position to exercise an unbiassed judgment whether the agreement should be adopted by the company. Weston had not shewn this, and the Vice-Warden was therefore right in charging him with the value of the shares, and under the circumstances the par price of the shares was the proper value. It was the duty of the applicant to adduce evidence in the first instance to disprove the primâ facie case against him, and it would be too dangerous to allow him to give parol evidence in his own favour upon what now appeared to be the turning point of the case.

The appeal was dismissed.

MARTIN'S CASE.

Company—Liability of Directors—Accepting Free Shares—Misfeasance.

This was a motion on behalf of Colonel Martin to discharge an order made by the chief clerk in the winding-up of the British Provident Life Association, by which Colonel Martin and six other persons, formerly directors of the company, were made jointly and severally liable on the ground of misfeasance to pay the sum of 1400*l.*, being the value of shares they agreed to take in the company. The company was formed in 1870, and Colonel Martin became a director on the 16th of June, 1874. On the 11th of August a resolution was passed by the directors, under which an allotment of 200 shares was directed to be made to each of the seven directors, including Colonel Martin. Colonel Martin was not present at that meeting of directors, but he was present at a subsequent meeting, when the minutes of the former meeting were confirmed. The letter of allotment was forwarded to Colonel Martin, who returned the same on the 1st of December, 1874, on which day he resigned his office of director. The shares so allotted to him and to the other directors were free shares, which had been previously issued to a person named Hunt, who was a promoter of the company. The facts connected with the issue of these shares will be found reported in De Ruvigne's Case (5 Ch. D. 306). Colonel De Ruvigne was one of the seven directors who received shares, and it was decided in that case that the issue of the shares to Hunt was fraudulent and ultra vires, and that De Ruvigne had been guilty of misfeasance under the 165th section of the Companies Act, 1862, in accepting the 200 free shares; and he was ordered to pay 200*l.* as the value of the shares allotted to him.

Colonel Martin's case was the same as that of Colonel De Ruvigne, except that it was now sought to make Colonel Martin and the other six directors jointly and severally liable for the whole 1400*l.*, the value of the shares allotted to all of them.

Glasse, Q.C., and Oswald, for Colonel Martin.
Higgins, Q.C., and Grosvenor Woods, for the official liquidator.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR was of opinion that Colonel Martin having been guilty of a misfeasance in accepting these shares, was jointly and severally liable with the other directors, and dismissed the motion.

Defaulting Trustee—Writ of Attachment—Debtors Act, 1869 (32 & 33 Vict. c. 62, s. 4; Debtors Act, 1878 (41 & 42 Vict. c. 54, s. 2).

Pace, on behalf of the plaintiff, moved on the 11th of January last for a writ of attachment against the defendant for non-compliance with an order made on the 25th of July, 1878, whereby he was ordered to pay into Court to the credit of the action a sum of 204*l.* 5*s.* appearing by his affidavit and the account exhibited thereto, to be in his hands as trustee and executor of John Leach the testator in the action.

Charles Browne, for the defendant, referred to the 1st section of the Debtors Act, 1878 (41 & 42 Vict c. 54), which empowers a Court or Judge to inquire into any case coming within exceptions 3 and 4 in the 4th section of the Debtors Act, 1869 (32 & 33 Vict. c. 62), the case of default by a trustee ordered by a Court to pay a sum in his possession or under his control being one, and either to grant or refuse absolutely or upon terms the application for a writ of attachment; and to a case of Street v. Hope decided by Vice-Chancellor Malins on the 12th of December, 1878; and the case stood till to-day.

Jan. 23. C. Browne, in continuation, said that the ground of the learned Vice-Chancellor's decision was that it was the policy of the Act not to punish a defaulting trustee vindictively, and not to put the writ in force unless there was reasonable probability that it would be productive of result in payment of the money. Here the trustee deposed that he had no means of paying at present, nor was he aware when he should be able to pay.

Pace, in reply, said that the discretion of the Court would be exercised only upon consideration of the circumstances. The case cited was not analogous to the present. There it was shewn that the trustee committed the breach of trust at the request of the cestui que trust.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said it was true the facts in the case before Vice-Chancellor Malins were different. But the judgment of the Vice-Chancellor did not turn upon those facts. The policy of the law was plain enough. The object of the Amendment Act was to give to the Court power of inquiring and deciding whether the remedies prescribed by the original statute should be enforced or not. In this instance it would answer no useful purpose to send this man to gaol. The Court did not act vindictively; it had no power to inflict any punishment—the object was to obtain payment. There would be no order on the motion.

SAFFRON WALDEN BUILDING SOCIETY v. RAYNER.

Mortgage—Priority—Notice.

The question in this case was whether notice by first mortgagees of their charge given to the solicitor purporting to act on behalf of the trustees of the mortgaged fund, was notice to the trustees, so as to give priority over puisne incumbrancers who had given notice of their charge to the trustees directly.

F. C. Hardy, being owner in fee of a mill and other property in Essex, and also entitled under the will of his father, who died in 1869, to a reversionary share upon the death of his mother in a sum of 5000*l.*, borrowed from the plaintiffs in 1872 a sum of 550*l.* on mortgage of his real property and his reversionary interest. On the 13th of April, 1872, the plaintiffs gave formal notice in writing of their charge to Messrs. Stevens & Bawtree, solicitors, of Witham, who had been employed by the testator in his lifetime, and continued to act, as the solicitors of the trustees of the will in the business of the trust. In 1874 F. C. Hardy charged the same properties with other sums lent to him by the defendants Rayner, Baker, and the London County Bank. Notice of their charge was sent by these defendants to T. Hardy and J. Cornell the trustees of the will. In 1876, F. C. Hardy filed a liquidation petition.

The trustees having refused to admit the claim of the plaintiffs as first incumbrancers, on the ground that notice of their charge of 1872 was not received by them until 1876; and the plaintiffs' claim to priority being also disputed by the incumbrancers of 1874, the present foreclosure action was brought.

Messrs. Stevens & Bawtree produced the notice of the 13th of April, 1872, and gave evidence to the effect that at a meeting at their office, on the 4th of June, 1872, of the trustees and the widow to wind up certain litigation connected with the trust estate. Mr. Stevens produced the notice, and read it out to them. On the other hand, the trustees and the widow denied, or had no recollection, that any notice of the plaintiff's charge was given to them on this occasion, and they also denied that Stevens & Bawtree were solicitors for them as trustees of the will, or were entitled or authorized to accept service on their behalf of any notice of any mortgage given by F. C. Hardy. Upon the denial by the trustees of any authority in Messrs. Stevens & Bawtree to receive notice on their behalf, Messrs. Stevens & Bawtree were made defendants by amendment, in order to make them liable in damages to the plaintiffs, if it should be found that they had misrepresented their authority,

Sir H. Jackson, Q.C., and Warmington, for the plaintiffs.

Kekewich, Q.C., and Byrne, for the puisne incumbrancers.

Swanston, Q.C., and Everitt, for the trustees.

Hemming, Q.C., and F. W. Bush, for Messrs. Stevens & Bawtree.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that the plaintiffs were entitled to priority. From the death of the testator until 1876 all business relating to the trust estate was entrusted to and conducted by Messrs Stevens & Bawtree as solicitors for the executors and the trustees of the will. It was their plain duty to accept notice of any assignment of the trust fund, and notice to them was notice to the trustees so as to bind them. This notice, which was retained by their solicitors, was for all purposes in the custody and possession of the trustees; and, independently of this, notwithstanding the conflict of evidence, he could not doubt that Messrs. Stevens and Bawtree did bring it distinctly home to the notice of the trustees and Mrs. Hardy during the meeting of the 4th June, 1872, at which they were present. A good and effectual notice had been given to the trustees in the manner required by law, and, that being the case, the plaintiffs had established their claim to priority over the incumbrancers of 1874, who had given notice to the trustees directly.

KNOWLES v. SADLER.

Bequest by Will of Legacy to B., and in case of Death in Testatrix's Life to his Executors—Increase of Bequest by Codicil to B., but no mention of Executors—Death of B. before Executrix—Claim by his Widow supported.

Demurrer. Mary Wight, who died on the 10th of April, 1878, by her will made in December, 1871, bequeathed "to my brother, Henry Yelden Knowles, the sum of 1000*l.*, but if he shall die in my lifetime I give the same sum to his executors or administrators as part of his personal estate." The testatrix gave other legacies, and appointed two trustees, the defendants, whom she directed to stand possessed of her residuary estate in trust for the parties named.

The testatrix by a codicil made in March, 1872, said, "And whereas I have by my said will given and bequeathed to my brother, Henry Yelden Knowles, the legacy or sum of 1000*l.*, now I revoke the said legacy, and in lieu thereof do hereby give and bequeath to my said brother, Henry Yelden Knowles, the legacy or sum of 1700*l.* to and for his own use and benefit absolutely."

Henry Yelden Knowles died on the 1st of February, 1877, having by his will made in September, 1870, bequeathed all his estate to his wife—the plaintiff—absolutely, and appointed her sole executrix. The plaintiff claimed to be entitled to the legacy of 1700*l.*, and by an action commenced in December, 1878, asked for a declaration to that effect.

E. Thurstan Holland, for the demurrer.

W. Pearson, Q.C., and Badcock, for the plaintiff.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that the testatrix's intention was to substitute the 1700*l.* for the 1000*l.* for all purposes, and that the plaintiff was entitled to that sum.

Will—Legatee—Latent Ambiguity—Correct Name—Incorrect Description.

The testator by his will, made within a month of his death, gave all his property upon trust, after the death of his widow, for a person whom he described as "My niece Mary Elizabeth Gray, now residing with me." He had no niece of that name, his only niece was Elizabeth Wilford. Mary Elizabeth Gray was the widow of an illegitimate son of the testator's wife, and neither Mary Elizabeth Gray, nor Elizabeth Wilford, were actually residing with the testator at the date of his will. The former had for many years attended on him and had nursed him during his last illness. The latter was his only relative; she had formerly lived in his house for about seventeen years, from the age of 4 or 5 until her marriage, and she was also in attendance on the testator during his last illness, and for nine weeks prior to his death was at his house from nine in the morning until ten at night, though she slept at her own home. Both these persons claimed the legacy after the death of the testator's widow, and the trustees paid it into Court.

Dickinson, Q.C., and Rawlins, for Mary Elizabeth Gray.

Marcy, for Elizabeth Wilford.

J. F. Waggett, for the trustees of the will.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that while the expression "now residing," though not strictly correct as to either was equally applicable to both, the probability of error was greater as to the description than as to the name of the legatee, and directed the fund to be paid out to Mary Elizabeth Gray.

V.-C. H. MEREDITH v. TREFFRY. Jan. 31.

Will—Construction—"Eldest Son."

J. T. Treffry, who died in 1850, by his will, dated 1841, devised lands to the use of E. J. Treffry for life, with remainder to the use of the eldest son of E. J. Treffry for life, with remainder after the decease of the eldest son of E. J. Treffry to the use of the eldest son of his body and his heirs for ever; but in case of the death of the eldest son of E. J. Treffry without issue male, to the use of the second, third, fourth, and every other son of E. J. Treffry successively, and the heirs male of their bodies. The will contained also a proviso that the first, second, third, and every other son of E. J. Treffry should, before receiving the rents of the lands, take and use the name and arms of Treffry. The first-born son of E. J. Treffry was living at the date of this will, but died an infant. C. E. Treffry, the second-born son of E. J. Treffry, was at the time of the testator's death the eldest living son of E. J. Treffry; and the principal question argued upon this petition was whether he was entitled as tenant in tail under the limitation to the use of the "eldest son" of E. J. Treffry, or was tenant for life only.

Graham Hastings, Q.C., and Prior, for the petitioners, E. J. and C. E. Treffry.

Dickinson, Q.C., and Romer, for the trustees of the Treffry estates.

Cozens-Hardy, Hornell, J. F. Waggett, and E. B. Cope, for other parties.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that the word "eldest" must be construed as "first born," that being upon the authorities its ordinary meaning, and the meaning it would receive unless (which was not the case here) the context required a different construction.

Petitions to wind up Company compulsorily—Affidavit by Managing Director in opposition stating Liabilities and Assets—Notice by Solicitor of Petitioner to inspect Books of Company on the Morrow Morning—Refusal by Secretary—Application under Rules of Court, 1875, Order XXXI., r. 14—Companies Act, 1862, s. 43—Order XXXI., r. 15, 16, et seq.

At a meeting of the shareholders of the Credit Company (Limited) a resolution was agreed to that the company should be wound up voluntarily, but under supervision. Two petitions, one by Mr. Morrison and the other by Mr. Hudson, who was residing at Sheffield, were presented praying for a compulsory winding up. Both petitions had come on upon two petition days, and been ordered to stand over to Friday the 7th of February. On the 17th of January an affidavit was in opposition to Hudson's petition, filed by the managing director (Mr. Webster) in which he stated the total amounts of the liabilities and assets, and that the latter were not only sufficient to pay all the creditors in full, but that there would be a large surplus for distribution amongst the shareholders; and he added that the figures were taken from the company's books. The solicitors of Hudson on Friday, the 31st of January, wrote to the solicitor of the company saying they proposed "to attend at the company's office to-morrow at 11 o'clock to inspect the books" to which Mr. Webster made reference in his affidavit. On applying at the office the solicitor who attended was refused inspection of any of the books, and he was also refused inspection of the register of mortgages.

This was an application, by special leave granted on Saturday the 1st of February, on behalf of Hudson for an order to inspect the books.

Dickinson, Q.C., Hastings, Q.C., and Owen, for the applicant, contended that under Rules of Court, 1875, Order XXXI., r. 14, he was entitled to an inspection of the books for the purpose of testing the accuracy of Mr. Webster's figures; and that under the Companies Act, 1862, s. 43, Hudson was entitled to inspect the register of mortgages, and it had been decided by the Master of the Rolls that an order to produce to a party included his solicitor or agent.

Morgan, Q.C., Dauney, and Buckley, for the company, opposed the application to inspect the books, on the ground that looking at Order XXXI., rr. 15 and 16 et seq., the proper course had not been followed, and that this was a case in which the company were entitled to stand on their strict rights; as there had been no order for winding up, ss. 115 and 156 of the Companies Act, 1862, did not apply. There had been no refusal to allow Hudson to inspect the register of mortgages, but his solicitor or agent was not entitled to do so.

Dickinson, in reply.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that the register of mortgages must be produced to Hudson, his solicitor or agent, for inspection; and as regarded the other part of the application the notice to inspect had not been given in the way pointed out by the Act of Parliament, and therefore there would be no order upon it.

Liquidation—Machinery attached to Premises—Tenant's Fixtures—Mortgage—Goods and Chattels—Order and Disposition—Bankruptcy Act, 1869, s. 15, sub-s. 5.

Appeal from the County Court of Yorkshire held at Huddersfield.

In January, 1875, Messrs. Houghton & Son, being the owners of certain machinery, partly fixed and partly unattached to the fabric of a mill in which they had previously hired rooms and power, sold the machinery to Bowker for 800*l.*, of which 100*l.* was paid down, and the balance secured by a mortgage of all the machinery. This mortgage was duly registered as a bill of sale, and Bowker was admitted tenant of the rooms in the mill, in the place of Messrs. Houghton & Son, as tenant from year to year.

Early in 1878, Bowker filed a petition for liquidation, and a trustee was ultimately appointed. Bowker was in possession of the machinery at the time of the petition being filed. Messrs.

Digitized by Google

Houghton & Son claimed the whole of the machinery under their mortgage. The trustee, however, claimed the machinery attached to the fabric of the mill, as being tenant's "fixtures" not within the Bill of Sale Act, 1854, and being in the order and disposition of the debtor at the time of his failure. It was admitted that the machines were tenant's fixtures of the class described in Longbottom v. Berry (L. R. 5 Q. B. 123).

On the 16th of November, 1878, Houghton & Son applied for an order that the trustee might hand over the price of these machines, which had been sold by consent and realised 112*l*.

The County Court Judge refused this application on the ground that the machines being in the order and disposition of the debtor, and being tenant's fixtures which, as against his landlord, the debtor might have removed during the tenancy the right and interest of the debtor passed to his trustee.

Messrs. Houghton & Son appealed.

De Gex, Q.C., and Robson, for the appellants.

Winslow, Q.C., and B. Eyre, for the trustee.

De Gex, Q.C., in reply.

The Chief Judge considered, on the authority of Ex parte Spicer (2 Dea. 335) and Horn v. Baker (9 East, 215) that the machines in question, though tenant's fixtures, could not be considered goods and chattels within the meaning of the Bankruptcy Act, 1869, s. 15 (5) and allowed the appeal with costs.

Stoppage in Transitu—End of Transit—Delivery to Purchaser—Contract to deliver free on Board at a specified Port.

This was an appeal from a decision of the Judge of the Truro County Court.

On the 30th of November, 1877, Cock, a china clay merchant, entered into a contract with the Rosevear China Clay Company to purchase from them 100 tons of china clay free on board at Fowey, to be paid for by a four months' draft, dated from the 1st of December, whether shipped or not. Afterwards Cock entered into a verbal agreement to charter a ship to take the clay, with other clay, from Fowey to Glasgow, and gave notice to the company. On the 24th of December Cock committed an act of bankruptcy by absconding, he being insolvent. On the 28th of December, the company, in ignorance of this, delivered the clay on board the vessel. On the 31st of December the company's secretary heard of Cock's insolvency. The vessel was still in Fowey harbour, and Cock had not accepted any bill for the price of the clay, or paid for it in any other way, and no bill of lading had been signed. The company's secretary claimed the right to stop the clay in transitu. He took possession of it on board the vessel, and arranged with the captain to deliver it at Runcorn. This was done, and the clay was sold there on behalf of the company. Cock was afterwards adjudicated a bankrupt upon the act of bankruptcy committed on the 24th of December. The trustee claimed the price of the clay, and applied to the Court for an order that the company should pay it to him. The judge refused the application, holding that the transit was not at an end, and that the company had a right to stop in transitu, which they had effectually exercised. The trustee appealed.

De Gex, Q.C., and Northmore Lawrence, for the appellant.

E. C. Willis, for the company.

The Chief Judge held that the transit as between the vendors and the purchaser was at an end when the clay had been shipped on board the vessel. Consequently there was no right to stop in transitu, and the trustee was entitled to the price of the clay.

Costs—Taxation—Country Solicitor attending personally on Hearing of Appeal in London—Expenses of Appellant—Arguing Appeal in person.

This was an application to review a taxation of costs. The Court of Appeal in Bankruptcy had ordered the respondent to pay the appellant's costs of an appeal, and also his costs of the previous hearing by the Chief Judge. The Taxing Master refused to allow (1) the costs occasioned by the appellant's country solicitor coming to London to attend the hearing by the Chief Judge; (2) the travelling expenses of the appellant (who resided at Liverpool) from Liverpool to London and back. He was a barrister, and went to London to argue his own appeal before the Court of Appeal, instead of employing counsel.

Blaxland (solicitor), for the appellant, argued that the personal attendance of the country solicitor was necessary, because the case was a very complicated one, and there were very voluminous shorthand notes of the examination of witnesses in the County Court, the effect of which it was necessary that he should explain to his counsel in conference (Ex parte Dickens, 8 Ch. D. 598). The appellant, by arguing his own appeal had saved the expense of employing counsel, to which he would have been entitled.

E. C. Willis, for the respondent, was not heard.

The Chief Judge said that there was no reason whatever for the solicitor's personal attendance. Ex parte Dickens did not apply. The other claim was preposterous and unheard of. The Taxing Master was right, and the application must be refused with costs.

This was a motion on behalf of Messrs Stokes, Saunders, & Stokes, to set aside the service on them of a writ in personam, in an action of damage instituted on behalf of the owners of the British barque Moel Eilian against the owners of the German steamship Pomerania.

The motion was supported by an affidavit alleging that on the 27th of November last Messrs Stokes, Saunders, & Stokes having received instructions from the underwriters of the Pomerania had in the name of the owners of that vessel, who were foreigners resident abroad, instituted an action of damage against the Moel Eilian to recover the damage done to the Pomerania in a collision with the Moel Eilian on the high seas: but had on the 3rd of January written a letter to the owners of the Moel Eilian stating that they "had been instructed to proceed no further with the action;" that the writ in respect of which the motion was made had issued out of the registry on the 7th of January, and had together, with an order made on the same day by the registrar permitting substituted service on Messrs Stokes, Saunders, & Stokes, been served on the 8th of January.

Contract for Sale of Goods—Bankruptcy of Purchaser before Delivery—Right of Vendor to resell—Proof for Deficiency on Resale.

On the 10th of December, 1877, Stapleton contracted to sell to Nathan a cargo of maize, to be shipped from Baltimore to England, payment to be made by buyer's acceptances to seller's drafts. On the 19th of January, 1878, Nathan filed a liquidation petition. The cargo was still at sea, and the bill of lading was in the vendor's possession. On the 6th of February the vendor agreed to sell the cargo to another person, and on the 8th of February he tendered the cargo to the trustee. The trustee refused to accept the tender as a fulfilment of the contract with the debtor, and did not offer to pay the price in cash. The resale was carried out. It was effected at the best price which could be obtained, but there was a loss of 688*l.*, and the market continued to fall afterwards. Stapleton claimed to prove in the liquidation for the 688*l.* Mr. Registrar Hazlitt, acting as Chief Judge, rejected the proof.

Finlay Knight, for the appellant.

R. Vaughan Williams, for the trustee.

THE COURT (Jessel, M.R., and James and Bramwell, L.JJ.) said that the bankruptcy having been announced to the vendor before the cargo arrived, it would be absurd to suppose that he was bound to deliver it in exchange for the acceptances of the bankrupt. The announcement of the bankruptcy was equivalent to a repudiation of the contract, though the trustee had still a right to elect to fulfil the contract on paying the agreed price in cash, provided he did so within a reasonable time. He did not do this, and therefore the vendor was entitled to treat the contract as broken, and to prove for damages. And, as the market was falling, the measure of damages was plainly the deficiency on the resale. The appeal was, therefore, allowed.

Undischarged Bankrupt—Interest in possible Surplus of Estate—Examination of alleged Creditor—Bankruptcy Act, 1869, s. 20—Bankruptcy Rules, 1870, r. 166.

In November, 1876, the Court of Appeal gave leave to Austin, the bankrupt, to summon for examination one Gibbon, with reference to a proof for a large sum which he had tendered against the estate. If Gibbon's proof was admitted the creditors would not be paid in full; if it was rejected there would probably be a surplus (vide Ex parte Austin, 4 Ch. D. 13). The order was not prosecuted, and in July, 1877, Sheffield applied to the Bankruptcy Court to appoint a private sitting for the examination of Gibbon with reference to his proof. Sheffield alleged that the bankrupt had agreed to assign to him the surplus of his estate as security for cash advanced to the bankrupt since the bankruptcy, and that the order of the Court of Appeal for the examination of Gibbon had been abandoned by agreement between him and the bankrupt. The bankrupt had not obtained a discharge. Mr. Registrar Pepys, acting as Chief Judge, refused the application.

Sheffield appealed.

Benjamin, Q.C., and Whitehorne, for the appellant, contended that he had such an interest in the surplus as entitled him to the order for the purpose of ascertaining its amount.

Hemming, Q.C., and Yate Lee, for the trustee, were not heard.

The Court (Jessel, M.R., and James and Bramwell, L.JJ.) said that the trustee was not a trustee of the surplus for the bankrupt. The bankrupt had no property in the surplus; he had nothing more than a hope or expectation. The bankrupt could not in this way give any one a right to come and interfere in the administration of the bankruptcy. The appeal must be dismissed with costs.

Reputed Ownership—Order and Disposition—Notorious Trade Custom—Goods sent on Sale or Return—Bankruptcy Act, 1869, s. 15.

Seven days before Florence, a horse dealer, filed a liquidation petition, Sewell, another horse dealer, sent him a horse on sale or return. At the time of the adjudication the horse was in the bankrupt's possession. The trustee claimed the horse under the reputed ownership clause, and Sewell applied to the Court for an order that the trustee should deliver up the horse to him. There was evidence of the existence of a well-known custom among horse dealers of sending horses on sale or return. Mr. Registrar Pepys, acting as Chief Judge, held that by virtue of the custom, the operation of the reputed ownership clause was excluded, and he ordered the trustee to deliver up the horse to Sewell. The trustee appealed.

De Gex, Q.C., and W. H. Clay, for the trustee, contended that the evidence of the custom was insufficient, and also that the latter part of sub-sect. 5 of sect. 15—"or of which he has taken upon himself the sale or disposition as owner"—applied to the case, and that it was unnecessary to prove that the bankrupt was the reputed owner.

Winslow, Q.C., and Creed, for Sewell, were not heard.

The Court (Jessel, M.R., and James and Bramwell, L.JJ.) said that the clause in question had always been known as the "reputed ownership clause," and had always been construed as intended to meet the case of a man who obtained credit by being seen in the possession of property as his own, and having the reputation of ownership. That was the true meaning of the section. A man who had goods on sale or return did not sell them as owner, but as having the option of taking them if he sold them. The only question was whether he was the reputed owner, and here the evidence of the custom was sufficient to displace any reputation of ownership. The appeal was dismissed.

Construction of Statute—Rights of Crown—Liquidation Petition—Appointment of Receiver—Extent—Relation back of Trustee's Title—Bankruptcy Act, 1869, ss. 11, 13, 82, 49, 65, 72, 125—Bankruptcy Rules, 1870, rr. 260, 262.

On the 21st of September, Bonham and Macdonnell filed a liquidation petition, and on the same day, on their application, supported by some of their creditors, a receiver was appointed and he took possession of their property. The debtors owed money to the Postmaster-General in respect of old stores which they had sold for him, and on the 27th of September he, with notice of the appointment of the receiver, obtained an order from a judge for the immediate issue of a writ of extent against the debtors' goods. On the 15th October the sheriff seized some goods of which the receiver was in possession. On the 17th of October the creditors resolved on a liquidation by arrangement and appointed a trustee. Mr. Registrar Murray, acting as Chief Judge, held that the title of the trustee must prevail against that of the Crown under the extent, and ordered the sheriff to deliver up the goods to the trustee. The Postmaster-General appealed.

There was another appeal in which the same question was raised with reference to another writ of extent which had been issued on the application of the Lords of the Treasury.

Sir H. S. Giffard, S.G., and Casserley (C. Bowen with them) for the Postmaster-General.

Mackenzie (Sir John Holker, A.G., and C. Bowen with him), for the Lords of the Treasury.

Benjamin, Q.C., and Bigham, for the trustee.

The Court (Jessel, M.R., and James and Bramwell, L.JJ.) held that the Crown is not bound by the general provisions of the Bankruptcy Act, 1869, and is therefore not affected by the relation back of the trustee's title. Also that the filing of the petition and the appointment of a receiver made no change in the title of the debtors to their property. The debtors' property remained their own when the extent was issued, and therefore the Crown was entitled to retain the goods which had been seized. The appeal was accordingly allowed.

Ward of Court—Infant of Unsound Mind—Jurisdiction.

This was an appeal by Eyre Evan Edwards, an infant, by one of his guardians as next friend, from a decision of the Vice-Chancellor of the county palatine of Lancaster. The infant was a ward of Court, and was alleged to be of unsound mind, though not found so by inquisition. Differences having arisen between his guardians as to the proper mode of treating him, an application was made to the Vice-Chancellor for directions as to his custody and treatment. The Vice-Chancellor held that he had no jurisdiction to try the question whether he was of unsound mind, or whether he ought to be kept at the Royal Albert Asylum, where he had been placed. His Honour therefore declined to make any order on the application.

North, Q.C., and Clare, for the appellant.

F. Thompson, for the other guardian.

The Court (James, Bramwell, and Brett, L.JJ.) held that the jurisdiction of the Court over its infant ward was not ousted by his being in a state which, if he had been an adult, would have attracted the jurisdiction in lunacy, and that the Vice-Chancellor therefore had jurisdiction to entertain the application. The Court therefore remitted the case to the Vice-Chancellor to be dealt with on the merits.

Winding-up—Petition by Secured Creditor—Rule in Bankruptcy—Judicature Act, 1875, s. 10.

Motion on behalf of the plaintiffs, debenture holders in the Florence Land and Public Works Company (Limited), now in liquidation, to restrain the defendant bank, who were mortgagees of the company, and who had presented the winding-up petition, from selling any portion of their land at Florence.

The plaintiffs' principal contention was that, as the bank had not in their petition offered to give up their security or to put a value on it, they were in the same position as if they were unsecured creditors, and, as s. 10 of the Judicature Act, 1857, incorporated all the rules in bankruptcy into the winding-up of an insolvent company, the bank had lost the benefit of their security.

Roxburgh, Q.C., and Whitehorne, in support of the motion.

Davey, Q.C., and Stirling, for the Anglo-Italian Bank.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS held that s. 10 of the Judicature Act, 1875, did not incorporate into the winding-up of companies the rules contained in s. 6 of the Bankruptcy Act, 1869; and further, that, even if it did, there was no rule in bankruptcy which deprived the petitioning creditors of the benefit of their security under the circumstances alleged; and that the motion must be refused with costs.

East India Company—Widow's Pension—Second Husband—Separate Use.

A widow of a clerk in the East India Company's service, who was entitled for life to a pension of 130*l.* per annum from a fund established in 1820, married a second husband, G. E. Steward, in 1860, and continued to receive the pension upon a receipt signed by herself and husband up to 1878. In that year a separation took place between the husband and wife, and the husband then refused to join his wife in signing the receipt, without whose signature the trustees of the fund refused to pay the pension. The arrears, amounting to 346*l.*, had been paid into Court by the trustees, and the wife now presented a petition for the payment of the money to her for her separate benefit.

The 12th rule of the deed of trust under which the fund was established stated that the object was to provide a comfortable maintenance for the widows and a suitable education for the children of those officers and clerks who belonged to the regular home establishment of the East India Company. By the 13th rule it was provided that if any person who might become entitled to a pension should sell, assign, charge, or mortgage, or otherwise dispose of it directly or indirectly, such person should forfeit it and lose all rights to participate in the fund.

Glasse, Q.C., and Badnall, for the wife, contended that the deed of trust created a separate use in her favour.

Higgins, Q.C., and B. B. Rogers, for the husband, submitted that he was entitled to receive the pension in right of his wife.

Macnaghten, for the trustees, submitted to act as the Court should direct.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said it required no definite form of words to create a separate use in a woman, and by the 12th rule it was plain that the widows and families of deceased officers and clerks were to be the sole recipients of the pensions, but if this was not sufficient, the 13th clause restraining anticipation made it clear than no person could derive any benefit under or through a recipient of the fund. Taking the two clauses together, he was of opinion that the petitioner was entitled to the whole fund, for her separate use, and that her husband could take no benefit from the pension.

In 1827 R. Alison advanced 3000*l.* on the security of a mortgage of property at Liverpool. The mortgage was in the form of a conveyance to the mortgagee on trust to sell the property and out of the proceeds to repay himself and to pay the residue to the mortgagors and their heirs. The mortgagors made a second mortgage for 500*l.* to Esther Mills. The interest fell into arrear, and in 1849 R. Alison took possession. He died in 1873, and the trustees of his will continued in possession until 1876, when they agreed to sell the mortgaged property to the corporation of Liverpool for 5460*l.*, and by a deed of the 26th of September, 1876, purporting to be made in pursuance of the powers in the mortgage deed, the trustees conveyed the property to the corporation. The purchase-money was more than enough to satisfy the amount which was due on Alison's mortgage, and a suit having been instituted for the administration of Alison's estate, the second mortgagee and the representatives of the mortgagors claimed the surplus on the ground that the mortgage deed created a trust which the conveyance recognised as still in existence. Alison's trustees claimed the surplus on the ground that the mortgagors and their assigns were barred by the possession of the mortgagee for twenty-six years.

GENERAL MEAT SUPPLY ASSOCIATION v. BOUFFLER.

Voluntary Settlement—Vendor and Purchaser—Sale of Part of Land in Settlement under Power of Attorney—Order of Court confirming Sale—Defective Title.

On the 10th of September, 1873, Richard John Bell, in consideration of natural love and affection, settled land at Battersea to the use of trustees and their heirs for the benefit of his wife and children. The indenture contained a power of sale. In 1875, Bell, being about to leave England, executed a power of attorney to a Mr. C. A. Edmands empowering him to sell all or any of his lands, tenements, and hereditaments, but in general terms only. By an agreement dated the 3rd of May, 1876, and expressed to be made between Bell of the one part, and Thomas Bouffler of the other part, a piece of land at Battersea, part of the premises comprised in the settlement, was purported to be contracted to be sold by Bell to Bouffler. This agreement was executed by Edmands, as Bell's attorney. On the following day, the 4th of May, 1876, Bouffler contracted to sell the same plot of land to the plaintiff company for 1650*l.* The agreement comprised stipulations as to furnishing an abstract, and upon the signing of the agreement the company were to pay, by way of deposit, 200*l.*, and the rest by instalments. The purchase was to be completed on the 1st of January, 1877, and in default the purchase-money was to be forfeited. The title upon being furnished was objected to by the plaintiffs, on the ground that the power of attorney did not authorize a sale.

By an order dated the 22nd of May, 1876, made by consent in a suit instituted by the trustees of the settlement against Bell and his wife and children, the sale by Edmands to the defendant was confirmed. On a summons taken out in the chambers of Vice-Chancellor Hall, it was decided that under sect. 1 of The Trustee Extension Act, 1852 (15 & 16 Vict. c. 55), an order might be made directing a person to convey for Bell, and under his name. The defendant now stated that he could procure a conveyance direct from Bell to himself.

The action was commenced by writ in the Exchequer Division, on the 7th of August, 1877, for return of the deposit, and the defendant Bouffler by his counter-claim sought for specific performance of the contract.

Sir H. Jackson, Q.C., and Laing, for the plaintiffs.

Hemming, Q.C., and Pauli, for the defendant.

Sir H. Jackson in reply.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that the power of attorney did not extend to the sale of this land, which would have been a fraudulent sale under the 27 Eliz. c. 4; that the plaintiffs could not be bound by a consent order confirming the sale in a suit to which they were not parties; and that the right of a vendor to make an imperfect title complete did not apply to the case of where he had no title at all at the date of the contract. Judgment must be for the plaintiffs, on the points raised by both the claim and counter-claim, with costs; the plaintiffs to have also their conveyancing costs, as to which there must be an inquiry.

Agreement in reference to a Building Speculation—"Not in any way to be construed into a partnership between" the Parties—Realizing the Estate for Mutual Benefit—Partnership.

The plaintiff in his statement of claim set forth that he and the defendant in June, 1876, verbally agreed to buy and realize for their joint benefit as a building speculation the Starfield estate in Middlesex, it being arranged that the defendant should furnish the necessary capital and that the plaintiff should give his knowledge and experience as a practical land agent and surveyor, superintend and control the building operations to be carried out on the property. The profits and losses arising from the speculation were to be shared between the parties equally.

The agreement was not reduced into writing until the 20th of February, 1877, the following clause being inserted: "But this agreement is not in any way to be construed into a partnership between us, and only and solely to relate to the above estate, and you are not to charge my credit in respect thereof without my written consent."

The question was whether the above agreement constituted a partnership between the parties.

Hastings, Q.C., and W. King, for the plaintiff.

Dickinson, Q.C., and Stallard, for the defendant.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said there was property which the parties had agreed should be realized for their mutual benefit and certain payments made by them in reference to it, and although they said in the agreement there was not to be a partnership, still he considered that upon its true construction there was one, and if that was not a proper construction the agreement was in itself one which involved a partnership in law, notwithstanding the words which the parties had used. There would be a declaration of dissolution, and inquiries and accounts as asked for.

The rents, which amounted to about 110*l.* per annum, were meanwhile paid to the tenant for life, and the property having realised over 4000*l.* he claimed, on the further consideration of this action, to be allowed out of the purchase-moneys, which he said had been augmented by the delay, a sum equal to the difference between the rents he had received and the income he would have received had the estate been sold in the first instance and the purchase-moneys invested at 4 per cent, citing Hilbert v. Cooke (1 S. & S. 552), and Walker v. Shore (19 Ves. 387).

Will—Charitable Legacy—Pure and impure Personalty—Mortmain Acts—43 Geo. 3, c. 108—Particular Residue—General Residue.

Further consideration.

The testatrix in this action, who died in 1874, by her will dated in 1872, bequeathed all her money, securities for money, moneys to be produced from the sale of two leasehold properties, and all her moneys invested on any securities howsoever, to trustees upon trust to convert and thereout to pay her debts, funeral and testamentary expenses and certain legacies by her will bequeathed; and to stand possessed of the residue thereof upon trust to invest, pay the income to her mother during her life, and after her death upon trust as to 2000*l.*, part thereof, to pay the same to the vicar of Muston, to be by him applied and disposed of as he in his absolute discretion should think fit, "in or about restoring, altering, and enlarging and improving the church, parsonage-house and school" of Muston, "and as to the residue thereof" upon certain trusts declared concerning certain real estate subsequently devised by her will; and the testatrix gave and bequeathed to her said mother all the rest, residue and remainder of her personal estate and effects.

Part of the property comprised in the first-mentioned bequest consisted of pure and part of impure personalty, and the mother of the testatrix having died, three questions were now argued. First, to what extent the legacy of 2000*l.* to the vicar of Muston failed under the general provisions of the Mortmain Acts, as being a bequest of money to be laid out on land not already in mortmain. Secondly, to what extent the same legacy was payable out of the impure personalty under 43 Geo. 3, c. 108, which enables a person possessed in his own right by will executed three months before his death to give land not exceeding five acres, or goods and chattels not exceeding 500*l.* in value, "for or towards the erecting, rebuilding, repairing, purchasing, or providing" a church or chapel or residence of a minister of the church of England, or offices or outbuildings for the same. And thirdly, whether the residue of the fund out of which the 2000*l.* legacy was given passed as particular residue or was included in the general residuary gift.

Graham Hastings, Q.C., and Nalder, for the plaintiff.

Robinson, Q.C., and Sutton, for the vicar of Muston.

W. Pearson, Q.C., and Speed, for the persons entitled to the particular residue.

Dickinson, Q.C., and Ingle Joyce, for the persons entitled to the general residue of the estate.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR, as to the first question, directed an inquiry to ascertain whether the church, parsonage-house, and school of Muston, or which of them, were or was situated upon lands already in mortmain, and what sums of money were required to be laid out in restoring, altering, enlarging, and improving such of them as were already in mortmain; and held that to the extent of the money ascertained to be so required the legacy would be good, while it would fail as to the rest. On the second question the Vice-Chancellor, following the case of Sinnett v. Herbert (Law Rep. 7 Ch. 232), held that the legacy might, under the provisions of the Act of 43 Geo. 3, be taken out of the impure personalty to the extent of 500*l.*, and accordingly directed that the amount of it required for the objects already in mortmain should be apportioned as between the pure and impure personalty comprised in the bequest, and be paid out of the pure personalty to the extent of its proportion, and out of the impure to the full extent of 500*l.* As to the third question, the Vice-Chancellor held that the residue of the fund out of which the legacy to the vicar was payable passed as particular and not as general residue, and that the construction of a particular residuary gift is not affected by the presence or absence of a general residuary gift.

BANKRUPTCY.

C. J. B. Ex parte CHICK. Feb. 10.
In re MEREDITH.

Bankruptcy—Beneficed Clergyman—Sequestration—Priority.

On the 8th of May, 1869, the Rev. R. F. Meredith was adjudicated a bankrupt in the Exeter District Court of Bankruptcy, under the Act of 1861. Sect. 135 of that Act empowered the assignees of a beneficed clergyman to "apply for and obtain" a sequestration of the profits of the benefice. At the above date there were two sequestrations on Mr. Meredith's living, one by a creditor named Attwood, another by Barnard, who was appointed official assignee in the bankruptcy.

On the 25th of November, 1869, Mr. Meredith obtained an order of discharge.

Section 88 of the Bankruptcy Act, 1869 (1st of January, 1870), is a re-enactment, in slightly different terms, of the above section.

By an order of the 21st August, 1870, the proceedings in the bankruptcy were directed to be transferred to the Exeter County Court, and "all property in the bankruptcy" then vested in the official assignee of the District Court was divested out of the official assignee and vested in the registrar for the time being of the same County Court.

In about 1873 Attwood's sequestration was satisfied, and Barnard's sequestration, then in the hands of Fewings as sequestrator, came into force.

By an order of the Exeter County Court, dated the 21st of January, 1874, Barnard was removed from the office of official assignee, and Mr. R. R. M. Daw, registrar of the Exeter County Court, was appointed official assignee alone, to wind up and administer the estate under the bankruptcy.

On the 6th of October, 1874, Mr. Meredith filed a liquidation petition.

On the 5th of November, 1874, Mr. Daw as official assignee, levied a sequestration on the benefice.

On the 24th of December, 1874, Mr. Meredith was again adjudicated a bankrupt, the act of bankruptcy being the filing of the petition.

On the 30th of January, 1875, William Chick was appointed trustee in the bankruptcy, and in September, 1875, he also levied a sequestration on the benefice, and then found that the former sequestration had been levied on the 24th of December, 1874.

Digitized by Google

By the order appealed from, dated the 12th of December, 1878, it was declared by the registrar of the County Court at Yeovil that the sequestration of the respondent Daw had priority over that of the appellant Chick.

F. Knight, for the appellant:—The bankrupt having obtained his order of discharge from the adjudication of May, 1869, there is no property vested in the assignee, which gives him a right to to levy a sequestration for the debts proved in the first bankruptcy.

Edward Pollock, for the respondent, was not called upon.

The Chief Judge said that although the estate of a person could not vest in the official assignee, because, amongst other reasons, he could not officiate in person, the law was not to be defeated on that ground. So long as any creditors of the bankruptcy remained unsatisfied, the assignee had a right to issue sequestration. The bankrupt might have been discharged, but the profits of his living remained available to the assignee as sequestrator, until all the creditors were satisfied.

The decision of the County Court was quite right, and the appeal must be dismissed with costs.

Bankruptcy—Unregistered Bill of Sale—Possession taken by Bill of Sale Holder without Notice of prior Act of Bankruptcy—Rights of Bill of Sale Holder and Trustee.

Appeals from an order dated the 21st of December, 1878, of the County Court at Shrewsbury.

The bankrupt, John Cross, of Betton, near Shrewsbury, a tenant farmer, on the 29th of December, 1877, gave to George Payne a bill of sale over his farming stock, and growing crops, and all his furniture and effects, to secure repayment of 300*l.* and 22*l.* 10*s.* premium, in respect of prior advances. On the 2nd of May, 1878, the bankrupt gave to Payne a second bill of sale to the like effect and for a like amount. No advance was made on either occasion, and neither instrument was registered.

On the 3rd of May, 1878, the bankrupt applied to A. S. Cochrane, and gave him a bill of sale to secure 300*l.* then advanced, and 75*l.* for premium and expenses, representing himself to be absolute owner and making a statutory declaration to that effect. This deed also was not registered.

On the 20th of August Cochrane, and on the 23rd of August Payne, took possession of the property.

On the 26th of August, 1878, the bankrupt filed a liquidation petition; and on the 19th of September a bankruptcy petition was presented, upon which he was adjudicated on about the 1st of October, the alleged act of bankruptcy being the filing of the liquidation petition.

Between the 30th of August and the 4th of October the property was sold by an auctioneer, acting under the instructions of Cochrane and Payne, for 508*l.* 4*s.* 10*d.*, of which 322*l.* 8*s.* 6*d.* arose from the sale of growing crops.

On an application on behalf of the trustee, the learned registrar held that the execution of the bill of sale of the 2nd of May, 1878, was an act of bankruptcy, and void against the trustee, whose title related back to such act of bankruptcy; and by the order appealed from, after declaring the Court to be of opinion that the goods were at "the commencement of the bankruptcy in the possession of the said bankrupt," and that the bills of sale were void as against the trustee, ordered the auctioneer to pay to the trustee the sum of 508*l.* 4*s.* 10*d.*

Cochrane, by his notice of appeal, gave notice of a motion to discharge or vary the order, and that the auctioneer might be ordered to pay to him the sum of 322*l.* 8*s.* 6*d.*, being the portion of the 508*l.* 4*s.* 10*d.*, which arose from the sale of the growing crops.

Payne's notice of motion was to the effect that the auctioneer should be ordered to pay so much of the sum to him as he might be entitled to under his security.

Winslow, Q.C., and Robson, for Cochrane:—Payne's security was invalid, and hence the fund was left free for us; and our taking possession on the 20th of August was sufficient to take the goods out of the order and disposition of the bankrupt. Growing crops are not within the old Bills of Sale Act.

F. Knight, for Payne:—Our security to the extent of the growing crops required no registration. The act of bankruptcy on which the decision appealed from went, was the execution of the deed of the 2nd of May, 1878, not that of the 29th of December, 1877, so that we have an unchallenged security prior to the act of bankruptcy.

De Gex, Q.C., and Redman, for the trustee:—The title of the trustee relates back to the act of bankruptcy, which was committed on the 2nd of May. Hence Cochrane's title was defeated, as well as Payne's.

Winslow, in reply.

The Chief Judge held that Payne's security was absolutely void, and refused this appeal, with costs. As to Cochrane's, it appearing that he realized without notice of the prior act of bankruptcy, the Court allowed the appeal, and ordered an account to be taken of what was due to him for principal, interest, and costs, and directed the amount, with the costs of the application, to be paid out of the proceeds of sale.

Bankruptcy—Liquidation—Attornment Clause—Distress.

By a deed of the 12th of December, 1877, a piece of copyhold land with ten cottages thereon was covenanted to be surrendered by Thomas Raine to the trustees of the Auckland Building Society by way of mortgage to secure 250*l.* and interest, to be repaid by monthly instalments of 2*l.* 16*s.* 8*d.*, and the deed contained a covenant in the following terms:—"And the said Thomas Raine doth hereby agree to become tenant to the said trustees of the said mortgaged premises henceforth during their will at the rent of one peppercorn weekly until default shall be made in payment of any of the said sums hereby secured... and from and immediately after such default at the monthly rent of 2*l.* 16*s.* 8*d.*, payable weekly... and that the said trustees shall and may have in relation to such rent all such powers of distress and other rights, powers, and authorities as landlords are by law entitled to for the recovery of rent reserved on leases for years." Raine filed a liquidation petition on the 26th of November, 1868. On or about the 9th of December following a distress was levied.

On the 9th of December the order now appealed from was made in the County Court of Durham, restraining the society from taking proceedings under the distress warrant.

F. Knight, for the appellant, observed that the order of the County Court was made before the reversal on the 29th of January last by the Court of Appeal of His Lordship's decision in In re Stockton Ironworks Company (ante, p. 15).

James G. Wood, for the trustee in bankruptcy, argued that the above covenant was not an attornment clause, but only a license to distrain. This covenant looked forward, if not to bankruptcy, at any rate to insolvency—that is to say, to default in payment.

The Chief Judge said that the case was clearly covered by the decision of the Court of Appeal in In re Stockton Ironworks Company, and discharged the order of the Court below with costs.

COURT OF APPEAL.

From Bkcy. Ct. Ex parte WELCHMAN. Feb. 14.
In re HARE.

Deceased Insolvent Debtor—Property acquired after Final Order of Protection—Vested Reversion falling into Possession after Death of Insolvent—Rights of Official Assignee—5 & 6 Vict. c. 116, ss. 7, 9, 12—7 & 8 Vict. c. 96, ss. 4, 8—Bankruptcy Repeal Act, 1869, s. 15.

An insolvent debtor obtained his final order for protection, under the Acts 5 & 6 Vict. c. 116, and 7 & 8 Vict. c. 96, in December, 1861. In 1866 he became, under the trusts of a marriage settlement, entitled, on the death of the wife, as one of her next of kin, to a share of the trust funds, subject to the life estate of the husband. The insolvent died in 1867, and the husband died in 1870. In 1871 a suit was instituted in the Court of Chancery to execute the trusts of the settlement, and afterwards the share of the insolvent was carried over to the separate account of his personal representative. In April, 1878, administration was taken out to his estate, and in May, 1878, the official assignee in the insolvency for the first time became aware of the insolvent's interest under the settlement. He then filed a copy of his claim to the fund standing to the separate account, and obtained from Mr. Registrar Brougham, acting as Chief Judge, an order giving him leave to apply in the suit for payment of the fund to him. The administratrix appealed.

Phear, for the appellant.

Langley, for the assignee.

THE COURT (James, Bramwell, and Brett, L.JJ.) held that sect. 9 of the Act, 5 & 6 Vict. c. 116, applies only to property acquired after the final order by a living insolvent, not to a case where the insolvent is dead. The proper remedy of the unsatisfied creditors was to bring an action for the administration of the insolvent's estate. There was no jurisdiction to make the order, and it must be discharged with costs.

EMMA MINING COMPANY v. GRANT.

Practice—Issues of Fact—Rules of Court, 1875, Order XXIII., rr. 1, 2 (a); XXXVI. r. 6.

This was an appeal from an order of the Master of the Rolls (Weekly Notes, 1878, 228), directing that the following issues should be tried in the action; first, whether the defendants, Albert and Maurice Grant, or either of them, were or was the promoters or a promoter of the company; and, secondly, whether they received any of the company's moneys or property without the knowledge of the company, for which they were accountable to the company. The plaintiffs were also put under an undertaking that they would not seek any relief against the defendants, the Grants, except that which resulted from the trial of the above issues.

Benjamin, Q.C., and Pollard, for the defendant Albert Grant, and Levett (Romer with him), for the defendant Maurice Grant, contended that as the plaintiffs had abandoned the greater part of their case, and limited the issues for trial to those above stated, the defendants were entitled to an actual, and not to a future and contingent, discontinuance of the action as to all matters not covered by those issues, and for this purpose to an order to have the statement of claim amended by striking out all these embarrassing charges and irrelevant issues.

Davey, Q.C., Grosvenor Woods, and C. C. S. Bowen, for the plaintiffs.

THE COURT (James, Bramwell, and Brett, L.JJ.) were of opinion that the appellants were entitled to a variation in the order directing an actual discontinuance of the parts of the action not included in the two issues directed for trial; instead of an undertaking by the plaintiffs to discontinue. The defendants to have the costs occasioned by the motions withdrawn, on the taxation of the costs of the action.

LITTLER v. RHYL IMPROVEMENT COMMISSIONERS.

Lands Clauses Act, 1845, s. 92—Part of House—Notice to Treat.

This was an appeal from a decision of the Master of the Rolls (Weekly Notes, 1878, p. 219). In July, 1877, the defendants, under their Act, passed in 1872, gave notice to the plaintiff of their intention to take a piece of his land. Before anything further was done under this notice, their compulsory powers under the Act expired, but they were revived by an Act passed in 1878. In September, 1878, the defendants served the plaintiff with a fresh notice to take the same piece of land; but in the meantime the plaintiff had built a house on part of the close of which the piece included in the notice formed part, so that the piece became part of the curtilage of his house. On receiving the second notice, he claimed that the commissioners should take the house as well as the piece of land, which he contended formed "part of the house" under the 92nd section of the Lands Clauses Act, and, on their refusal, he brought the present action to enforce his claim.

The Master of the Rolls held that the rights of the parties were fixed at the time when the first notice was given, and as there was then no house on the land, he dismissed the action. From this decision the plaintiff appealed.

Ince Q.C., and Gazdar, for the appellant.

Chitty, Q.C., and Langwo thy, for the defendants, were not called on.

JAMES, L.J., said that he was of opinion that the first notice was perfectly good, having been given before the powers of their Act expired, and the fact that they did nothing till after the expiration of the time limited by the Act did not invalidate it. Therefore the second notice was unnecessary, and the rights of the parties must be decided as they were at the time when the first notice was given, at which time there was no house on the land. The judgment of the Master of the Rolls must therefore be affirmed, and the bill dismissed with costs.

BRAMWELL and BRETT, L.JJ., concurred.

THE COURT (James, Bramwell, and Brett, L.JJ.) held that the order was an order restraining proceedings in another branch of the Court, and was inconsistent with the Judicature Act, 1873, sect. 24, sub-sect. 5. The order was therefore discharged without prejudice to the appointment of a receiver, but the receiver was only to be of the goods after the sheriff had sold under the fi. fa.

Setting down Appeal—Rules of Court, 1875, Order LVIII. r. 8.

This was an administration action. On the 3rd of April, 1878, an order was made on further consideration and on applications by both parties to vary the chief clerk's certificate. On the 23rd of April the defendant gave notice of appeal for the 30th, asking that the order might be varied so far as it varied the certificate in certain particulars mentioned in the notice of appeal, and that the consequential directions might also be varied accordingly. This appeal was not set down till the 28th of June. The order under appeal was not drawn up till shortly before the day on which the appeal was set down.

Swanston, Q.C., and Bissill, took the preliminary objection that the appeal not having been set down before the 30th of April, the day named in the notice, could not be heard. In re National Funds Assurance Company (4 Ch. D. 305).

Hemming, Q.C., and Tremlett, for the appeal.

THE COURT (James, Bramwell, and Brett, L.JJ.) overruled the objection on the ground that the appeal could not be set down without producing an office copy of the order, which could not be done till after the order was drawn up, and that the plaintiffs who had the carriage of the order, not having had it drawn up till after the 30th of April, could not take advantage of their own delay.

Mrs. Taunton became entitled on her mother's death in 1876 to a life income of about 500*l.* a year under her father's will, the remainder being given by the will to her children.

Her husband became insolvent in 1861, his liabilities being estimated at more than 20,000*l.* Mrs. Taunton claimed an equity to a settlement in the income bequeathed by her father. The provisional assignee under the insolvency contended that only half of the income should be settled on her, and the rest paid to him for distribution among the creditors. Company — Winding-up — Lease — Lessor's Right of Distress—Priority—Jud. Act, 1875, s. 10.

C Cook let premises for thirty-five years to Thérèse & Co., Limited, from the 30th of June, 1878, at a rent payable quarterly. When the first quarter's rent fell due it was not paid, and the lessor took bills of exchange for it and for the premium (also unpaid) for which the lease was made. The first bill fell due, and was dishonoured on the 2nd of November last. On the 12th of November a creditor's petition to wind up the company was presented, and on the following day the lessor distrained. This was a summons by the lessor for leave to proceed with the distress.

Stuart Macaskie, for the summons, argued that the Judicature Act, 1875, s. 10, incorporated s. 34 of the Bankruptcy Act, 1869, into the law of winding-up, and entitled the lessor to payment in full, and if not, that the circumstances of the present case brought it within Taylor's Case (8 Ch. D. 183).

Burton Buckley, for the liquidator.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS wished that a decision of the Court of Appeal could be procured upon this class of cases, but he could only follow his previous decision in In re Printing and Numerical Registering Company (8 Ch. D. 535). He did not think the Judicature Act, s. 10, had the effect sought to be attributed to it. He refused to exercise his discretion as it was exercised in Taylor's Case. He had never been able to understand the cases which preferred one creditor to others because the common debtor had delayed the former by force, promises, or misrepresentations. Summons dismissed with costs.

V.-C. M. FINLAY v. DAVIS. Feb 13.

Practice—District Registrars—Payment of Money into Court.

An application was made in this case for the direction of the Court as to drawing up an order.

The action was for taking the accounts of a partnership, and was commenced in the District Registry Office at Liverpool. On the 23rd of November, 1876, an order was made by Vice-Chancellor Malins that a proper person (to be named by the district registrar), should be appointed receiver of the partnership property, and such receiver was ordered to pass his accounts from time to time and pay the balance due from him into Court to the credit of the cause. Subsequently an order was made by Vice-Chancellor Malins upon motion, directing certain partnership property to be sold, with the approval of the judge, before the district registrar, by the receiver, who was ordered within twenty-eight days after the receipt of the proceeds, "to pay the same" (the amount to be verified, &c.) "into Court to the credit of this action Finlay v. Davis, 1876, F. 231." The proceeds of the sale, instead of being paid into Court in the regular way in London, had been paid by the receiver into the Branch Bank of England at Liverpool to the credit of "The District Registrar at Liverpool of the Chancery Division of the High Court of Justice," and had therefore never been invested or placed as money in deposit as it might have been, if paid into Court in London. On the 18th of November, 1878, an application was made to the district registrar by a creditor of the partnership for payment of a debt due to him, and this application having been referred to the Vice-Chancellor, His Lordship in chambers on the 5th of December, 1878, directed that out of the 1338*l.* in the Branch Bank of England at Liverpool to the credit of this action the sum of 495*l.*, which was certified to be the amount due, should be paid out to the creditor. Upon the order being presented to the registrar of this Court for the purpose of being drawn up, together with a stamped document, purporting to be a certificate under the hand of the district registrar, whereby he certified that the fund in Court to the credit of the action amounted to 1338*l.* 8*s.* 8*d.*, the registrar declined to draw up the order, and required that the matter should be mentioned to the Vice-Chancellor.

Ingle Joyce, in support of the application, said it appeared to be considered by the district registrar at Liverpool, that payment into a bank at Liverpool was payment into Court, and he had been in the habit of supplying, what he termed, "a certificate of the fund in Court." This money was ordered to be paid into Court, and it had now been lying idle in the bank at Liverpool since the 1st of September, 1877. It was believed that other district registrars had pursued the same course, notwithstanding that Vice-Chancellor Hall, in a case of In re Smith (5 Ch. D. 692), had strongly censured such a proceeding. He referred to the Chancery Fund Act of 1872, sect. 6, and the Chancery Fund Rules, 1874, r. 28.

The Vice-Chancellor said he entirely agreed with Vice-Chancellor Hall, and was of opinion that the payment into a bank at Liverpool was most irregular and improper. He ordered that the entire sum in the Liverpool bank should be brought into Court in the manner required by the Chancery Funds Act and Rules; and after being so brought into Court, the amount found to be due to the creditor of the partnership should be paid, with the costs of this application.

Feb. 13. The case was again mentioned to the Court this day, in consequence of the Vice-Chancellor having been attended by Mr. Lowndes, who explained to His Lordship the reason of his having directed the money to be paid into the bank at Liverpool.

The Vice-Chancellor now said Mr. Lowndes had stated that the Master of the Rolls had in several cases approved of the course adopted by some of the district registrars in paying the money into the country bank, and that the Lords of the Treasury had sanctioned this mode of payment. It was very desirable, under such circumstances, that there should be one uniform rule adopted by the Courts, and it was evident that Vice-Chancellor Hall had strongly disapproved of the course taken. His own opinion was that where money was directed to be paid into Court, the payment into a bank at Liverpool was not a compliance with the order. He therefore adhered to his former decision, and directed the money to be paid into Court under the Chancery Fund Act and Rules.

V.-C.-M. Wright v. Redgrave. Feb. 13.

Wife's Separate Property—Debt of Husband—Execution ordered by Common Pleas Division—Judicature Act, 1873, s. 24, sub-s. 5.

This was a motion on behalf of the plaintiff, who was the wife of Herbert Wright, by her next friend, for an injunction to restrain the Sheriff of Middlesex from levying an execution upon her household furniture and other goods which upon her marriage were settled to her separate use; and for a receiver.

In 1861 the plaintiff married Mr. Wright, and upon the morning of the marriage an agreement was executed by which the husband, in consideration of the marriage, agreed to assign all the household goods and furniture then being in his house at a particular place to trustees, to be held for the benefit of his wife for her separate use. The husband got into difficulties, and on the 11th of November, 1878, an action was brought against him in the Common Pleas Division upon a bill of exchange which had been drawn by him, and was dishonoured by the acceptor.

Judgment was obtained in that action for 104*l.*, and execution issued, under which the sheriff was ordered to sell the household goods and furniture in the residence of the debtor, unless the money was paid or deposited in Court.

Higgins, Q.C., and Young, in support of the motion.

Glasse, Q.C., and Price, for the defendants (the plaintiffs in the action), submitted that the Court had no power to interfere with the judgment in the Common Pleas Division. Such power as this Court formerly had was taken away by the Judicature Act, 1873, s. 24, sub-s. 5, and the Common Pleas Division had full power to decide any question of equity that might arise.

Wilkinson, for the sheriff.

The Vice-Chancellor was of opinion that the agreement made upon the marriage of Mr. Wright and his wife was a valid settlement of the household goods and furniture upon the wife for her separate use. The doctrine of this Court was that the husband and wife were separate persons in regard to the wife's separate property, which could no more be taken to pay the husband's debts than could the property of a total stranger. The order of the Court of Common Pleas was that the sheriff should distrain upon the goods of the husband; and the wife, who was no party to that action, was justified in bringing an action in this Court to restrain the sale of her separate property. He was of opinion that the 24th section, 5th sub-section of the Judicature Act applied only to questions arising between the same persons who were parties to any proceedings in a particular Court, but not to third persons who were not parties to such action. He was not interfering with the order of the Common Pleas Division, but was protecting the separate property of the wife. He would grant the injunction, but there would be no objection to an inquiry what portion of the furniture was actually in the house at the time the settlement was executed, and the plaintiff might have a receiver if necessary.

Copyright of Designs Act (5 & 6 Vict. c. 100)—Photograph—Portrait of Public Character—New and original Design.

The plaintiff, who was a manufacturer of earthenware, claimed an injunction to restrain the defendant, who was also a manufacturer of earthenware, from infringing his copyright in a design which he had registered under the Copyright of Designs Act, 5 & 6 Vict. c. 100. The design consisted of a portrait of General Martinez de Campos, Captain General of Cuba, copied from a photograph which had been sent to the plaintiff from Cuba, and which design had been applied by him to plates and other articles of earthenware which had been sent out to Cuba in pursuance of an order received from that place.

The defendant had also received an order for the supply of earthenware to Cuba, and had been furnished with a similar photograph of General Martinez de Campos, which had been copied as a design for articles of earthenware.

Higgins, Q.C., and Herbert Smith, moved for the injunction.

Glasse, Q.C., Aston, Q.C., and Ingle Joyce, appeared for the defendants.

The Vice-Chancellor was of opinion that the mere copy of a photograph of a well-known public character, which was common to all the world, was not "a new and original design" within the meaning of the Copyright of Designs Act, for which the plaintiff could claim protection. He therefore refused to grant the injunction.

On the 17th of January, 1878, Genese and Edwards commenced an action against Mrs. Levy in the Exchequer Division. On the 23rd of January, 1878, a fire happened, the damage of which was agreed upon, on the 15th of February following, at 330*l.* On the 5th of February, Genese and Edwards served the defendants, Lovell and Broomfield, representing the company, with a writ of attachment in action in the Lord Mayor's Court against Mrs. Levy in her own right for 40*l.* 8*s.* 5*d.*, and with another writ of attachment in another action entered in the same Court against Mrs. Levy as executrix de son tort in a plea of debt for 28*l.* 3*s.* 5*d.* On the 11th of February, judgment was recovered by Genese and Edwards against Mrs. Levy in the Exchequer action for 40*l.* 8*s.* debt, and 3*l.* 14*s.* costs.

Mrs. Levy's liquidation petition was filed on the 25th of February; on the 13th of April a writ was issued in this action by Mrs Levy as executrix to recover the 330*l.*, and on the 15th of April a liquidation resolution was passed, and Lord was appointed trustee. The 330*l.*, less costs, had been paid into Court to the credit of the action.

De Gex, Q.C., Romer, and Phipson, for the applicants, Genese and Edwards:—We are secured creditors within the 12th section of the Bankruptcy Act, 1869: Ex parte Joselyne (8 Ch. D. 327), and the circumstance that this was a foreign attachment, and not a garnishee order under the Common Law Procedure Act, makes no difference: In re London Cotton Mills Company (25 W. R. 109).

Sir H. Jackson, Q.C., and Laing, for the respondent, Lord, the liquidation trustee:—A garnishee order is always made after judgment. A writ of attachment issues at once, and, in this instance, before judgment in the Lord Mayor's Court, came the liquidation. A writ of attachment is only an inchoate right: Richter v. Laxton (27 W. R. 214).

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said he thought the applicants had done all that lay in their power to ripen their security. Service of the writ had the effect of placing the property in custodiâ legis. He had no constat for holding this money to be part of the testator's estate. There would be a declaration that the applicants had a security by reason of the two attachments, and an order that the amount claimed by them with costs be paid to them out of the fund.

DENT v. SOVEREIGN LIFE ASSURANCE COMPANY.

Practice—Rules of Court, 1875, Order XXXVI. r. 6—Direction of Issues.

Horton Smith, Q.C., and Oswald, moved on behalf of the plaintiff that the issue of fact raised and joined in this action as to the temperate or intemperate habits of the plaintiff at the time of effecting a policy on his life with the defendant company, might be heard before a judge and jury in Middlesex before the other issues in the action, and that the trial of the action might stand over in the meantime.

The action was in effect brought to try the validity of a policy of assurance on the plaintiff's life, granted by the defendant company in September, 1877, the validity of which was disputed by the defendant company on the ground that it was obtained by misrepresentation, and in particular that the plaintiff had made untrue statements as to his health and habits in his answers to the questions submitted on making his proposal.

Notice of trial before the Master of the Rolls (from whose Court the action was transferred) had been given by the plaintiff, who now moved under Order XXXVI., r. 6, that the issue whether he was a man of temperate or (as alleged by the defendants) of intemperate habits might be tried in Middlesex by a judge and jury.

J. D. Davenport, for the defendants, was not called on.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR in the exercise of his discretion refused the motion with costs. The plaintiff had already given notice of trial in a particular manner; no sufficient reason for changing his option was assigned; and this particular issue could not be so severed from the rest of the case as to admit of being heard separately by a jury.

Demurrer.

In 1861, hereditaments of gavelkind tenure, of which John Shirt was seised in fee, were conveyed to the use of trustees during the life of Elizabeth Shirt upon trust for her separate use, and after her death, in case her husband, John Shirt, should survive her, to the use of John Shirt for life, with remainder to such uses as Elizabeth Shirt should by deed or will direct.

Elizabeth Shirt died in 1869 without having exercised her power of appointment, leaving four sons, the eldest of whom, John Joseph, died in March, 1875, intestate, seised of the premises, leaving a widow and two infant sons.

John Shirt, husband of Elizabeth, died in December, 1874.

A partition action having been commenced by the three surviving sons of John and Elizabeth Shirt, the infant sons of John Joseph had demurred, claiming to be entitled to the property in fee simple in possession, as coparceners by descent, subject to the dower in gavelkind of their mother.

Ratcliff, in support of the demurrer, contended that the descent must be traced as from John Joseph Shirt as the person last seised, and that the Inheritance Act, 3 & 4 Wm. 4, c. 106, s. 4, was limited to land descending as at common law, and did not apply to lands of any customary tenure.

J. G. Wood, for plaintiffs, contended that the words of s. 4 were plain and admitted of no exception, and that the ancestor, through whom the descent was to be traced as being the first purchaser, was Elizabeth Shirt.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said that the Act of Parliament was too strong to be got over, and the demurrer must therefore be overruled.

Liquidation Resolutions—Objection to Registration—Locus standi of Creditor—Misdescription of Debtor in Petition—Bankruptcy Act, 1869, s. 82—Bankruptcy Rules, 1870, rr. 273, 208, 295.

Appeal from Nottingham County Court, confirming the refusal of the registrar to register resolutions passed at a creditors' first meeting for a liquidation by arrangement.

On the 2nd of December, 1878, the debtor filed a petition for liquidation by arrangement, in which he was described as "George Draper Mason, of Marston, in the county of Lincoln, Cattle Dealer," under which, on the same day, a receiver was appointed. On the 3rd of December the receiver took possession, and on the same day, John Kirkwood, a registered bill of sale holder, took possession of the debtor's effects comprised in his bill of sale. An interim order was obtained by the receiver, restraining Kirkwood from selling under his bill of sale, which was continued till the 13th of January.

Digitized by Google

On the 21st of December the first general meeting of the creditors was held, at which resolutions for liquidation by arrangement were passed; at this meeting Kirkwood attended, and put in his proof, and then withdrew it again. On the 23rd of December, Kirkwood served notice of his desire to be heard in opposition to the registration of the resolutions, and the hearing of this objection was fixed for the 13th of January. At the hearing it was objected that Kirkwood had no locus standi, on the ground that there was no proof of his debt on the file. A proof was thereupon put in, in which the debt due to him was stated to be 316*l.*, and the value of his security, the bill of sale, was assessed at 315*l.* 19*s.* 11*d.* This proof was objected to, but the objection was overruled by the registrar, who also declined to register the resolutions, on the ground that the debtor was misdescribed in his petition by the term "cattle dealer," when it was alleged that he was only "a farmer."

The County Court Judge having confirmed the order of the registrar, this appeal was brought by the debtor. The questions were: 1. Whether a creditor who had withdrawn his proof at the first general meeting, had, under Bankruptcy Rules, 1870, rr. 273, 295, any locus standi before the registrar on the registration of the resolutions. 2. Whether the misdescription of the debtor was under the circumstances a fatal objection.

E. Cooper Willis, and Seward Brice, for the debtor.

Winslow, Q.C., and Northmore Lawrence, for Kirkwood.

THE CHIEF JUDGE considered that the words of rule 273, "without prejudice to his again proving his debt on any subsequent occasion," must mean an occasion at which debts could properly be proved, and that therefore Kirkwood had under the circumstances no locus standi under r. 295 to object to the registration. Even if he had, the description of the debtor not being in substance a misdescription and misleading, his objection ought not to have been entertained.

Appeal allowed with costs, and the debtor's description amended by adding to it the words, "and farmer."

Ex. Div. WOODGATE v. GODFREY. Feb. 17.

Bill of Sale—Inventory of Goods with Receipt for Purchase-money—Receipt of Sheriff's Officer for Purchase-money of Goods sold under Execution—17 & 18 Vict. c. 36, ss. 1, 7.

This was an interpleader issue tried before Pollock, B., in which the plaintiff affirmed and the defendant denied that certain household furniture, seized by the Sheriff of Surrey in 1878, under a writ of fi. fa., in execution of a judgment recovered by the defendant Godfrey against C. D. Watson, were the property of Woodgate as against Godfrey. Woodgate, who was the father-in-law of Watson, the judgment debtor, claimed the goods under a purchase, from the sheriff's officer, in 1875. It appeared that the sheriff's officer having in 1875 seized the goods in question under a fi. fa., issued on a judgment obtained against C. D. Watson by one Wood, sold them to Woodgate for 589*l.* 17*s.*, and gave him a receipt in the following terms:—

"51, Stamford Street, Blackfriars Road,
"31st May, 1875.

"In the Common Pleas

"Robert Wood, plaintiff, and
"Charles Dillon Watson, defendant.

"Received of Mr. Thomas William Woodgate of the Boundaries, Balham, Surrey, the sum of five hundred and eighty-nine pounds, seventeen shillings, being the value of the undermentioned goods, chattels, and effects seized by the Sheriff of Surrey in the above action at 15, Altenburg Gardens, Lavender Hill, Battersea, in the county of Surrey, and sold to the said Thomas William Woodgate.

"(Signed) H. Herrick & Son."

The receipt contained an inventory of the goods.

At the same time Woodgate, by a written agreement bearing date the 31st of May, 1875, let the house, 15, Altenburg Gardens, together with the goods in question, to Watson on a quarterly tenancy, at a rent of 112*l.* a year, and Watson continued in possession as before Pollock, B., directed the jury that the receipt was not a bill of sale and did not require registration under 17 & 18 Vict. c. 36, and the jury found a verdict for the plaintiff.

R. Vaughan Williams, for the defendant, now moved for a rule nisi for a new trial, on the ground of misdirection, and relied on Ex parte Cooper, In re Baum (39 L. T. N. S. 521), and Ex parte Odell, In re Walden (10 Ch. D. 76), as authorities that such a receipt was within sects. 1 and 7 of 17 & 18 Vict. c. 36, and required registration.

THE COURT (Cockburn, C.J., and Pollock, B.,) held that since the sale was an out and out one by the sheriff's officer, and since his receipt was not the medium of transfer, but only evidence of the payment, it was not within the Act and did not require registration.

Rule refused.

Millward, Q.C., and W. G. F. Phillimore, on behalf of the owners of the steam-tug Admiral, now moved the judge in Court to direct the issue of two warrants, one for the arrest of the United States frigate Constitution, and the second for the arrest of her cargo. The affidavit to lead warrants alleged inter alia that the Admiral had lately rendered salvage service to the Constitution and her cargo, when the Constitution had stranded at Bollard Point, near Swanage; and that the cargo then laden on board her consisted principally of machinery belonging to private individuals, exhibitors at the Paris Exhibition, 1878.

E. C. Clarkson, for the Government of the United States, stated that the Constitution was a national ship of war commissioned by the Government of the United States of America, and that her cargo consisted of property of which the United States Government had taken charge for public purposes.

The Admiralty Advocate (Dr. Deane, Q.C.), appearing for the Attorney-General, stated that Her Majesty's Government recognised the character of the Constitution as a public vessel belonging to a sovereign State, and protested against the Court exercising any jurisdiction in the case.

THE COURT refused to allow the warrants to issue.

Appeal—Locus Standi—Alleged Creditor—"Person aggrieved" by Order—Bankruptcy Act, 1869, s. 71.

The comptroller in bankruptcy reported to the Court that in his opinion the trustee in this bankruptcy had been guilty of neglect whereby 4000*l.* had been lost to the estate, and applied for an order that the trustee should pay 4000*l.* to the credit of the estate. Mr. Registrar Hazlitt, acting as Chief Judge, refused the application. The comptroller did not appeal, but an appeal was presented by a person who described himself as a creditor under the bankruptcy, and as a "person aggrieved" by the registrar's order. He claimed to be an equitable mortgagee, by deposit, of a lease belonging to the bankrupt. After the bankruptcy the trustee, with the leave of the Court, disclaimed the lease (vide 1 Ch. D. 557; 3 Ch. D. 459). The appellant had never tendered any proof in the bankruptcy.

Sir H. Jackson, Q.C., and Lumley Smith, for the appellant.

Finlay Knight, for the comptroller.

THE COURT (James, Brett, and Cotton, L.JJ.) held that as the appellant had not proved, he had no locus standi, and on this ground they dismissed the appeal.

Stoppage in Transitu—Constructive Delivery—Delivery of Part of Cargo—Master's Lien for Freight.

On the 30th of July a cargo of 114 tons of miscellaneous iron castings was shipped at Alloa, in Scotland, by the Albion Iron Company, consigned to McLaren, in London, in a ship chartered by the vendors. On the 7th of August the ship arrived in the port of London, and on the same day thirty tons of the iron were placed on board a barge belonging to the purchaser. On the 8th of August the vendors gave notice to stop the unloading, and no more was unloaded until after the purchaser had on the 19th of August filed a liquidation petition in the London Bankruptcy Court. Prior to the 8th of August, something had been paid on account of the freight, but the balance was not paid until the 23rd of August, when it was paid by the receiver in the liquidation. The remainder of the cargo was then landed and placed in medio. On the 21st of September a sequestration was issued against the vendors in the Scotch Court. The cargo was claimed both by the Scotch trustee and the English trustee. Mr. Registrar Hazlitt, acting as Chief Judge, decided in favour of the Scotch trustee. The English trustee appealed. Before the appeal came on for hearing the Scotch trustee abandoned his claim to the thirty tons which had been unloaded before the 8th of August.

Digitized by Google

J. Brown, Q.C., and Stern, for the appellant, contended that the actual delivery of the thirty tons amounted to a constructive delivery of the whole cargo, so that it was too late afterwards to stop in transitu.

Benjamin, Q.C., and R. T. Reid, for the Scotch trustee, were not heard.

THE COURT (James, Brett, and Cotton, L.JJ.) held that the delivery of the thirty tons did not amount to a constructive delivery of the whole cargo, on the ground that, the whole of the freight not having been then paid, it could not be supposed that the master of the ship intended to give up his lien on the cargo for the unpaid freight. There could not therefore be a constructive delivery of the whole so far as he was concerned, and, if so, there was no constructive delivery to the purchaser. The stoppage in transitu was, therefore, in time, and the appeal must be dismissed.

JAMES, L.J., stated the following proposition as one to which the Court unanimously agreed:—"When goods are placed in the possession of a carrier to be carried for the vendor to be delivered to the purchaser, the transitus is not at an end so long as the carrier continues to hold the goods as a carrier, and it is not at an end until the carrier by agreement between himself and the consignee agrees to hold for the consignee, not as carrier, but as his agent."

Mortgagor and Mortgagee—Secured Creditor—Valuation of Security—Proof for Balance of Debt—Costs of Unsuccessful Defence of Title to Mortgaged Property.

The bankrupt had deposited with the Crédit Lyonnais, a French bank, the dock warrants of some tobacco, which he represented to be his own property, as security for advances made to him by the bank. After the bankruptcy it was discovered that part of the tobacco belonged to one Johnson, to whom the bankrupt had sold it, the warrants relating to it being left with the bankrupt to enable him to clear the tobacco when Johnson required it. Johnson sued the bank, and they, under legal advice, defended the action. Johnson recovered as damages the sum which he had paid for the tobacco, with costs, and the judgment was affirmed on appeal: Johnson v. Crédit Lyonnais (2 C. P. D. 224; 3 C. P. D. 32). The bank having realised their security, which proved insufficient, tendered a proof in the bankruptcy for the balance of their debt. In estimating the balance, they deducted from the sum realised the costs (both Johnson's and their own) of the action, and also the difference between the damages they had paid to Johnson and the amount produced by the sale of his tobacco. Mr. Registrar Murray, acting as Chief Judge, held that they were right in making these deductions, with the exception of the costs of the appeal in the action. The trustee in the bankruptcy appealed.

Winslow, Q.C., and Lane, for the appellant, contended that the costs of the action could not be directly proved in the bankruptcy, and that, therefore, by analogy to the rule that interest accrued due after an adjudication of bankruptcy, which cannot be proved in the bankruptcy until all the creditors in respect of principal have been paid in full, cannot, as against the bankrupt's estate, be taken into account in estimating the unpaid balance for which a mortgagee is entitled to prove (vide In re Savin, L. R. 7 Ch. 760), the costs of the action could not be deducted from the value of the security. They relied on Ex parte Stephens (2 Mont. & A. 31) as a decision exactly in point. They also contended that the loss on the sale of Johnson's tobacco had been caused by the bank's improper delay in selling it.

Cookson, Q.C., and S. Woolf, for the bank, were not heard.

THE COURT (James, Brett, and Cotton, L.JJ.) held that the suggested analogy did not exist. The costs in question were in the nature of salvage, and under the circumstances the bank were quite justified in defending their security. Ex parte Stephens was not a decision which could be followed, for the report stated no facts, and gave no reasons for the judgment. If necessary, their Lordships would be prepared to overrule it. As to the loss on the sale, there was no evidence that it had resulted from any improper delay of the bank. The Registrar's decision was accordingly affirmed.

M. R. MILLER v. BEAL. Feb. 14.

Auctioneer—Commission—Mortgage—Sale conducted by Mortgagee.

The plaintiff, as the mortgagee of a mansion and other real estate, distrained upon the furniture and effects therein under an attornment clause in his mortgagee. Two days previously the defendant Beal, who was an auctioneer, had entered into possession of the furniture and effects by virtue of a bill of sale thereof to him from the mortgagor. The bill of sale was in form an absolute sale, but was admitted to be in fact a security for 1200*l.* and interest. Under an arrangement between the plaintiff and Beal and the mortgagor it was agreed that Beal should sell the furniture and effects and pay the proceeds into a bank to the joint account of himself and another, pending the settlement of the questions between the plaintiff and Beal, in trust for the person who should be ultimately entitled. Under this arrangement, Beal sold and conducted the sale himself as auctioneer.

The real estate having been sold meanwhile, and having realized more than sufficient to pay the plaintiff his debt, Beal did not carry out the agreement for the payment of the proceeds of the furniture to the joint account. The plaintiff brought this action for specific performance of the agreement, and on August 14, 1878, obtained from the vacation judge an order for payment of the money by Beal into the joint account. He now moved for leave to issue a writ of attachment against Beal for non-compliance with that order; a cross motion was also made on behalf of Beal to discharge the order. Waddell, the trustee in liquidation of the mortgagor, was a defendant to the action but supported the plaintiff's motion.

Chitty, Q.C., and W. W. Cooper, for the plaintiff.

Edward Ford, for Waddell, objected to Beal's claim to the ordinary commission as an auctioneer for having conducted the sale being allowed. No provision for an commission was made in the bill of sale to him or the above stated agreement.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS said Beal must be allowed a reasonable commission. The object of an auctioneer in entering into a transaction of this kind was to earn his commission. A rule of equity must not be strained so as to do an injustice.

V.-C. M. SILBER LIGHT COMPANY v. SILBER. Feb. 15.

Company—Shareholders suing in Name of—Liberty to make Company Defendants.

This action was brought by certain shareholders of the Silber Light Company, in the name of the company, against the managing director and his co-directors, claiming an account of moneys alleged to have been improperly expended by them in the management of the affairs of the company. The company was formed in 1873 for the purchase from Mr. Silber and the carrying out of a patent for a particular construction of lamp-burners. The business was carried on successfully for several years, but the profits having fallen off the shareholders passed a resolution for winding-up voluntarily, and appointed Mr. Allott the liquidator; a resolution was also passed authorising the liquidator to sell the business of the company to the defendant Silber, and a further resolution was passed by a very large majority that the name of the company should not be allowed to be used by the dissentient minority of shareholders as plaintiffs in any action against the directors.

J. Pearson, Q.C., and Phear, on behalf of the liquidator, now moved that the company might be struck out as plaintiffs in this action.

Sir J. Holker, A.G., Glasse, Q.C., and F. Thompson, for the defendant Silber.

Higgins, Q.C., and Whitehorne, for the plaintiff shareholders, contended that they had a right to use the name of the company, and that the Court, under the circumstances of this case, would sanction the use of the name.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR was of opinion upon principle that the Court ought not to sanction the use of the name of the company by a small body of dissentient shareholders contrary to the wishes of the overwhelming majority, by whom a resolution had been passed that the name of the company should not be used. But he would give the plaintiffs leave to amend the writ by striking out the company as plaintiffs and adding them as defendants to the action.

BINDLEY v. PARTRIDGE.

Will—Conversion—Discretion to postpone.

The question in this case was whether trustees of a will, with a discretionary power of postponing the sale and conversion of the testator's personal estate, were personally liable for loss that had occurred to the estate from retaining portions of the property (Egyptian bonds and shares in a bank) in specie.

The testator, a chemist and druggist at Barnstaple, by his will made in October, 1869, gave his real and personal estate unto the defendants Partridge and Rafarel upon trust if they should think proper to sell the same and pay the annual income of the proceeds to, or permit the same to be received by his wife, and after her death to assign the trust funds to his daughter (the plaintiff). Power was given to the trustees to invest the trust moneys in the purchase of the stocks or funds of Great Britain, Bank Stock, East India Stock, or any stock or shares of any railway or other company, whether debenture, preference, or otherwise, &c., with power to vary the securities, such investment and variation to be with the written consent of his wife. Until conversion the net income of the real and personal estate was to be applied in the same manner as was directed of the income of the purchase-money; and the trustees were empowered to employ in his business, until disposed of with the written consent of his wife, all or any part of the trust funds. The trustees were also empowered "to postpone for such period as they in their free discretion should think fit the sale and conversion into money of all or any part of his real and personal estate, and his trustees were not to be responsible for any loss, risk, or damage which might be occasioned by or which might result from such postponement."

The testator at the time of his death in February, 1870, was possessed of—

(a.) A large business of chemist and druggist in Barnstaple. This business was purchased by the defendant Partridge soon after the testator's death for 1400*l.*, the sum for which the business and stock in trade had been valued, nothing being paid for the goodwill.

(b.) Four Egyptian 100*l.* bonds. These bonds which in February, 1870, were at the price of 80 were handed over to the widow. One of them was paid off, and in April, 1876, the remaining three bonds, which after considerable fluctuation had fallen to 53, were sold by the widow for that price, a further fall having taken place after the sale.

(c.) Shares in the West of England Bank which had not been converted when the bank failed in January, 1879.

(d.) Shares in gas and other companies, some of unlimited liability.

The action was brought by the daughter and her husband for the purpose of fixing the trustees with the loss that had been occasioned to the trust estate by not having converted, at the ordinary period of one year from the testator's death, the Egyptian bonds and Western bank shares; and also to set aside the sale to the defendant Partridge of the testator's business.

The defendants contended that by the terms of the will they were expressly authorized to postpone conversion so as to give the widow the full benefit of the income of the property in its unconverted state, and that they had acted honestly in the exercise of their discretion. If the sale was set aside then the widow would be entitled to the profits made in the business, and the defendant Partridge to an allowance for his management.

Sir H. Jackson, Q.C., and C. Herbert Smith, for plaintiffs (the daughter and her husband).

Horton Smith, Q.C., and Maidlow, for defendants (the trustees and the widow).

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that upon the terms of the will the trustees had an ample discretion given to them to postpone a conversion, and until such discretion was exercised the widow was entitled to the enjoyment of the property in specie. The testator intended them to be active, if necessary, and to be supine also if there was no ground for activity. As to the Egyptian bonds there had been some irregularity, no doubt, in handing over these bonds into the custody of the widow. But this was to enable her to get the dividends by detaching the coupons, and was a very venial offence. The sale of the bonds, when they were rapidly depreciating in the market, was no breach of trust, nor anything but a prudent exercise of discretion. The trustees did no wrong in retaining the gas and water shares, nor were they responsible in respect of the West of England Bank shares, which, up to the failure, were considered to be a perfectly safe investment. The sale to the defendant Partridge could not, however, stand, and must be set aside and a resale directed; but the defendant must be held to his price of 1400*l.* if a less sum were produced on a resale. There would be an account of profits made by Partridge in the business, with just allowances, but no salary, and such profits, when ascertained, would form part of the corpus of the estate, to the income only of which was the widow entitled. The trustees must pay the costs of the action up to the hearing.

V.-C. B. BAGOT v. EASTON. Feb. 20.

Practice—Pleading between co-Defendants—Judicature Act, 1873, s. 24, sub-s. 3—Rules of Court, Order XVI., r. 17.

The statement of claim in the action, which was commenced by writ issued on the 5th of May, 1877, between Arthur Bagot as plaintiff and Charles Easton and Fitzroy Bagot as defendants, set forth two agreements for a partnership adventure, which were executed by the three parties, alleged that the plaintiff was induced to execute the agreements by the misrepresentations of the defendant Easton, and claimed to have the agreements delivered up to be cancelled, or in the alternative to have the partnership dissolved; with other relief; but claimed no relief against the defendant Fitzroy Bagot. On the 28th of November the defendant Easton filed a statement of defence and counter-claim. By the former he denied the alleged misrepresentations, and by the latter he claimed damages against the plaintiff and the defendant Fitzroy Bagot for breach of the agreement, with other relief. On the 7th of January, 1878, the plaintiff delivered a reply to the last mentioned pleading, joining issue with the defendant Easton on the statement of defence, and in reply to the statements in the counter-claim, pleading the facts stated in the statement of claim, and objecting that the counter-claim was not properly constituted, inasmuch as Fitzroy Bagot was not made a party thereto. Thereupon the defendant Easton on the 11th of January, amended his pleading of the 28th of November by entitling it in Bagot v. Easton, and as between Easton as plaintiff, and Arthur and Fitzroy Bagot (who was out of the jurisdiction) as defendants. On the same day he joined issue with the plaintiff in the original action.

On the 6th of April a summons was taken out on behalf of the defendant, Fitzroy Bagot, to be at liberty, under s. 24, sub-s. 3 of the Judicature Act, 1873, and Order XVI., r. 17, to serve the defendant Easton with notice of a claim; and on the 11th of April he delivered a statement of defence, a reply to the counter-claim of Easton, and a claim against Easton. On the 17th of April an order was made in chambers on the summons that no order be made, other than that the costs be reserved.

V. Hawkins, for the defendant, Fitzroy Bagot, now moved that directions might be given as to the terms in which the order of the 17th of April should be drawn up, and if necessary that the order might be varied or discharged. In Marner v. Bright (23 S. J. 62) the Master of the Rolls said that, if he thought a question between co-defendants could be more conveniently and cheaply tried in the action, he usually granted the application.

H. Burton Buckley, for the plaintiff, did not object.

Sir H. Jackson, Q.C., and Henry Fellows, for the defendant Easton, opposed the application:—This is not a "remedy or relief over," or a claim between co-defendants. It is the same claim as that in Bagot v. Easton, and Fitzroy Bagot would have been a co-plaintiff if he had not happened to be out of the jurisdiction. If this order is made, we shall have no security for our costs.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said he thought the questions raised on these pleadings must now be put in the course of trial. The Court would know how to deal with the costs. The order would be that the defendant Fitzroy Bagot be at liberty to prosecute his claim or deliver his last pleading; and the defendant Easton would have liberty within fourteen days to deliver such statement of defence or other pleading in that claim as he might be advised, the costs of his application to abide the result of the new claim; and the plaintiff's costs of this application to be costs in the action.

Will—Construction—Gift to Issue of Deceased Children—Original Gift—Substitutional Gift.

The testatrix by her will made in exercise of a general power of appointment, and dated in 1869, appointed realty and personalty to trustees upon trust as to a moiety to pay the income thereof to her sister Sarah Harriman for life, and after her death in trust "for all and every the child and children of her said sister who should be living at her death, such children to take equally amongst them if more than one as tenants in common, and if but one then for such one, provided that if any child of her said sister should die in the lifetime of her said sister, leaving issue who should be living at the death of her said sister, the issue of such child should take the share and interest which his, her, or their parent would have taken if living at the death of her said sister; provided that if there should be no such child or children, or issue of a child or children of her said sister so living at the death of her said sister, then" that the said moiety should be held upon the trusts declared of the other moiety, which were similiar trusts in favour of the other sister of the testatrix Ann Fielding, her children and issue.

One child of each of the two sisters of the testatrix had died before the date of the will, leaving issue now living. Ann Fielding died in 1874, and Sarah Harriman in 1876, and they both of them left children now living.

W. Pearson, Q.C., and F. T. White, for the plaintiff, who was a surviving child of Ann Fielding:—The gift to issue is substitutional, and the issue of such children of the sisters as died before the date of the will cannot take under it: Christopherson v. Naylor (1 Mer. 320); West v. Orr (8 Ch. Light—Prescription Act (2 & 3 Wm. 4, c. 71), s. 3—"Consent or Agreement."

In 1814 Kirkbride, the owner in fee of a house in Whitehaven, signed and gave to Spencer, the owner in fee of an adjoining house, a document whereby, after reciting that he had lately put out four windows which overlooked Spencer's property, he declared that these windows were put out and remained upon the leave of Spencer, and that he, Kirkbride, would, upon the request of Spencer, his heirs and assigns, to be made at any time thereafter, block up the same, and in the meantime he promised to pay 6*d.* a year to Spencer, his heirs and assigns, for such indulgence.

In 1877 the defendant, the successor in title to Spencer, after giving notice to the plaintiff, the successor in title to Kirkbride under a conveyance dated in 1866, built a wall blocking up the four windows, and the plaintiff immediately brought this action for a mandatory injunction, contending that the document of 1814 was only intended to operate during the life of Kirkbride, that not being signed by Spencer, the licensor, it was not such a "consent or agreement expressly made or given for the purpose" of enjoyment as to bring the case within the exception in the 3rd section of the Prescription Act, 1832, and that the plaintiff had acquired an absolute and indefeasible right to the access of light through the four windows by virtue of an uninterrupted enjoyment for upwards of twenty years.

The plaintiff admitted that the rent of 6*d.* a year had been paid down to 1854, and the evidence shewed that it had in fact been paid down to 1859, though not since then.

Karslake, Q.C., and T. Archibald Roberts, for the plaintiffs.

Dickinson, Q.C., and Ingle Joyce, for the defendants.

Karslake, in reply.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held the document of 1814 was not limited in duration to the life of Kirkbride, that it was a sufficient "consent or agreement" within the exception in the 3rd section of the Prescription Act, that if not the agreement was one which, under the circumstances, was enforceable in equity; and dismissed the action with costs.

Q. B. Div. STAHLSCHMIDT v. WALFORD. Feb. 20.

Practice—Discontinuance—Rules of Court, 1875, Order XXIII. r. 1 —Discretion.

This was an action by the lord of a manor against the defendant for preventing the seizure of twenty-one heriots by the plaintiff, and in his statement of claim the plaintiff claimed to seize by virtue of an alleged custom of the manor, and in the alternative he alleged that the tenements in respect of which he claimed to take the heriots were held by heriot service. The action was referred to an arbitrator to state a special case, and, it being found impossible to deal with the evidence in any other way, it was agreed at the hearing before the arbitrator by the parties that he should find as facts in the case whether the alleged heriot custom existed, and whether the tenements in question were held by heriot service. The arbitrator found in the case stated by him that there was no such custom, and with regard to twenty of the tenements and a portion of the twenty-first, that they were not held by heriot service. With regard to the remainder of the twenty-first tenement he found that if a certain entry on the Court Rolls were admissible in evidence it was held by heriot service, but otherwise not. The plaintiff thereupon applied for leave to discontinue the action under Order XXIII. r. 1. Field, J., at chambers granted leave upon certain terms as to costs and as to no other action being brought. Against this order the defendant now appealed.

Wills, Q.C., and Moorsom, moved to rescind the order.

Webster, Q.C., and Curtis Bennett, shewed cause.

THE COURT (Cockburn, C.J., and Mellor, J.) were of opinion that the findings of the arbitrator were analogous to a general verdict, after which, under the practice previous to the Judicature Act, the plaintiff was not allowed to discontinue, and that as a rule the Court in the exercise of their discretion ought not to give leave to discontinue at such a stage of the proceedings. They therefore made the order absolute to rescind the order of Field, J.

Statement of defence: assuming that the property tax was paid by the plaintiff as alleged, no demand, application, or request was ever made by the plaintiff for the said property tax to be paid, allowed, or deducted out of the rent which became due and payable by the plaintiff to the testator next after each payment of the said property tax respectively, but the plaintiff made each payment of rent without making or claiming any such deduction of the amount liable to be deducted in respect of property tax according to the statutes in such case made and provided.

Reply: that demands or requests were made frequently by the plaintiff for the said property tax to be paid, allowed, or deducted out of the rent which became due and payable by the plaintiff next after each payment of the said property tax respectively; that the said testator promised the plaintiff that if he would continue to pay the said rent in full, without deducting anything for the said payments of property tax, he, the testator, would repay to him all the sums which he had paid, or should pay, for the said property tax; and that the plaintiff did continue to pay the said rent in full, but the testator did not repay such sums as agreed.

BEAUCHER v. LONDON AND CHATHAM RAILWAY COMPANY.

Practice—Motions for New Trials from the Winter Assizes—Order XXXIX., rule 1*a*.

Action by the plaintiff, a clergyman, for personal injury alleged to have been sustained by him as a passenger on the defendants' railway.

At the trial before Hawkins, J., at the Winter Assize at Maidstone (which commenced on the 11th of January), a verdict was found for the defendants.

Willis, Q.C., moved for a new trial on the ground that the verdict was against the weight of evidence, which (after conferring with the learned judge) was refused.

Before moving, the learned counsel suggested a doubt as to whether he was entitled to do so at the present sittings or must wait until the commencement of the next Easter Sittings,—by reason of the new rules as to motions for new trials, of November, 1876, as to the application of which (though the language is precise) a diversity of opinion had prevailed. Those rules are as follows:—

"Order XXXIX., rule 1, is hereby repealed, and instead thereof the following provision shall take effect:

"Rule 1. Where, in an action in the Queen's Bench, Common Pleas, or Exchequer Division, there has been a trial by a jury, any application for a new trial shall be to a Divisional Court. And, where the trial has been by a judge without a jury, the application for a new trial shall be to the Court of Appeal.

"Rule 6. Applications for new trials shall be by motion calling on the opposite party to shew cause at the expiration of eight days from the date of the order, or so soon after as the case can be heard, why a new trial should not be directed. Such motion shall be made within the times following, unless the Court or a judge shall enlarge the time;—

"An application to a Divisional Court for a new trial, if the trial has taken place in London or Westminster, shall be made within four days after the trial, or on the first subsequent day on which a Divisional Court to which the application may be made shall have actually sat to hear motions. If the trial has taken place elsewhere than in London or Middlesex, the motion shall be made within the first four days of the next following sittings."

LORD COLERIDGE, C.J.:—That rule, to which I was an assenting party, was made before, and therefore could not have contemplated the institution of a Winter Assize for the trial of civil actions, and can have no application to the present state of things. We will, however, consult the other judges.

Having done so, his Lordship afterwards said:—The judges of the other two Divisional Courts think with us that the words of the rule referred to cannot receive a literal construction, seeing the great inconvenience which would ensue from leaving all the motions from the Assizes just concluded to stand over until the first four days of the Easter Sittings, which will not commence until the 22nd of April next. The rule had reference to country trials taking place, as had always been the practice, in the interval between one term or sittings and another. We will endeavour to get this difficulty removed by a supplemental rule. In the meantime we will hear the motions now.

C. P. Div. SHAW v. EARL OF JERSEY. Feb. 26.

Landlord and Tenant — Distress—Injunction — Judicature Act, 1873, s. 8.

MOTION for injunction.

Plaintiffs hired mines and premises of the defendant under a ninety-nine years' lease, dated the 1st of April, 1840, which reserved certain rents and royalties in respect of coal and ironstone to be used in two blast furnaces then already erected; and also royalties in respect of coal, ironstone, and fireclay to be used and consumed in every additional blast furnace to be erected on the premises, such payments to be made half-yearly, and to continue thenceforth for and during the continuance of the lease.

Additional furnaces were afterwards erected, but were afterwards pulled down. The defendant claimed and distrained for royalties in respect of these additional furnaces. The plaintiffs replevied and brought actions in which a special case will be stated.

Pending the trial the defendants threatened to distrain again for 750*l.* further royalties becoming due in respect of the additional furnaces.

An application to Field, J., at chambers for an injunction to restrain the defendant from levying distresses until after the decision of the Court on the special case having been referred to the Court,

Harrison, Q.C., and C. A. Anderson, now moved accordingly. They contended that the claim to royalties was unfounded, and the distress should be restrained.

C. E. Bowen shewed cause:—There was no precedent for restraining a landlord in the exercise of his legal right of distress. If it were not exercised until the end of the litigation the royalties might be lost. The money should be paid into Court.

THE COURT (Lord Coleridge, C.J., and Denman, J.) thought it just that the money should be brought into Court, and therefore ordered that the distress should be restrained for a fortnight, and if at the end of a fortnight the money be brought into Court, the injunction should be continued, and so on from time to time as the accruing royalties became due and were paid in, but if at the end of the fortnight the money be not brought into Court the injunction should be dissolved.

In re WHITTING.

Equitable Assignment of future Rent—Authority to pay—Parol Agreement for Loan—Statute of Frauds, s. 4.

This was an appeal from the decision of the Chief Judge, which is noted Weekly Notes, 1878, p. 200.

Whitting was adjudicated a bankrupt on an act of bankruptcy committed on the 11th of August, 1877. On the 18th of July, 1877, he had given to his bankers a letter addressed to Messrs. Horrell, who were the tenants of a farm belonging to him, authorising and requesting them to pay 200*l.* to the bankers "when your Michaelmas rent becomes due to me." The tenants received the letter, but no payment was made by them to the bankers. The trustee claimed a declaration that the letter was void as against him. There was parol evidence that the letter was written in pursuance of a verbal agreement between the bankrupt and the bankers that they should advance him 200*l.*, and that he should charge the Michaelmas rent with the repayment of the loan, and that the 200*l.* was actually advanced to him by the bankers. The Chief Judge held that the letter was void as against the trustee on the ground that, when the rent accrued due, it was due, not to the bankrupt, but to the trustee. The bankers appealed.

Winslow, Q.C., and Reginald Brown, for the appellants.

Cookson, Q.C., and H. Percival, for the trustee.

THE COURT (Jessel, M.R., and James and Bramwell, L.JJ.) held that, as the alleged agreement related to an interest in land, s. 4 of the Statute of Frauds prevented the reception of parol evidence of it. The case, therefore, stood simply on the letter to the tenants, which on the face of it was nothing but a revocable authority to pay the rent to the bankers, and was revoked by the bankruptcy. The appeal was accordingly dismissed.

Bankruptcy Act, 1869, s. 91—Post-nuptial Settlement of Leaseholds—"Purchaser" for Value.

Within two years before the bankruptcy of Pumfrey, a trader, he executed a post-nuptial settlement by which he assigned to trustees for the benefit of his wife and children two leasehold houses, subject to the payment of the rent reserved by, and the performance of the lessee's covenants contained in, the lease. The trustee in the bankruptcy claimed to have the settlement declared void as against him. The Chief Judge (reversing the decision of the judge of the Birmingham County Court) held that the settlement was void under sect. 91. The trustees of the settlement appealed.

Roxburgh, Q.C., and Tarleton, for the appellants, contended that they were purchasers for valuable consideration of the houses within the meaning of the exception in sect. 91, because they had become liable to pay the rent and perform the covenants of the lease: Price v. Jenkins (5 Ch. D. 619).

Digitized by Google

De Gex, Q.C., and Finlay Knight, for the trustee in bankruptcy, were not heard.

THE COURT (Jessel, M.R., and James and Bramwell, L.JJ.) held that the word "purchaser" in sect. 91 was used in the ordinary commercial sense of "buyer," and it could not be said that in any sense the trustees of a settlement were buyers of the settled property. Price v. Jenkins was a decision upon the Act 27 Eliz. c. 4. The appeal was therefore dismissed with costs.

Winding-up—Restraining Action—Garnishee Order Nisi—Judicature Act, 1875, s. 10.

The Sheffield Wagon Company had recovered judgment against the Stanhope Company, and on the 22nd of January obtained a garnishee order nisi attaching a debt due from the Newmarket Gas Company to the Stanhope Company. On the 24th of January a petition was presented for winding up the Stanhope Company, on which an order was afterwards made. The garnishee order nisi was served on the 25th of January. The official liquidator moved before Mr. Justice Fry that the Sheffield Company might be restrained from proceeding against the Newmarket Company. His Lordship held that when the winding-up petition was presented, the debt due by the Newmarket Gas Company was the property of the Sheffield Company, and not of the Stanhope Company, and the motion was refused with costs.

The official liquidator appealed from the decision.

Glasse, Q.C., and Everitt, for the appellant, contended that the garnishee order nisi not having been served on the garnishees before the winding-up petition was presented, the plaintiffs in the original action were not secured creditors. The decision in Ex parte Joselyne (8 Ch. D. 327) did not apply, because in that case the order nisi had been served before the commencement of the bankruptcy.

Millar, for the Sheffield Company.

JESSEL, M.R., said that until the garnishee order nisi was served the plaintiffs had no security. It was in effect an imperfect execution, which was not saved by the Bankruptcy Act; and by the Judicature Act, 1875, s. 10, the same rules as to secured creditors applied in the winding-up of companies as in bankruptcy. The injunction asked must therefore be granted.

JAMES and BRAMWELL L.JJ., expressed their opinion to the same effect.

Mortgage—Priority—Want of Consideration—Non-communication to Mortgagee—27 Eliz. c. 4—Consolidation of Mortgages—Cross Appeal.

This case came before the Court on cross-appeals from a judgment of Fry, J. (Weekly Notes, 1878, p. 164). The plaintiffs appealed from so much of the judgment as held that they had no right of consolidation. The trustee gave cross notice of appeal against so much of the judgment as declared Diana Pellowe's mortgage invalid as against the plaintiffs.

Cookson, Q.C., and Creed, for the plaintiffs.

North, Q.C., and Rigby, for the trustee.

THE COURT (Jessel, M.R., and James and Bramwell, L.JJ.) held that the plaintiffs were assignees of the equitable mortgage of the policy and the other securities deposited along with it, and were entitled to consolidate their securities. As regards Diana Pellowe's mortgage the judgment was affirmed. The decree was further varied by ordering the defendant to pay the plaintiffs the costs of the action so far as it related to setting aside Diana Pellowe's mortgage instead of merely allowing the plaintiffs to add them to their debt. The Court held that as the defendant had given cross notice of appeal this point was open to the plaintiffs, though they had not raised it by their own notice of appeal.

Company — Voting — Show of Hands — Companies Act, 1862, ss. 51, 179.

This was an appeal from a refusal by Vice-Chancellor Bacon to restrain a sale of property of the company by Kippax, who was acting as liquidator under a voluntary winding-up. By the articles of the company each shareholder had a vote for each share. At the meeting at which the winding-up was resolved upon five shareholders were present. One shareholder proposed Masterman as liquidator, another proposed Kippax. Three shareholders voted for Masterman, and two, who held a greater number of shares, voted for Kippax. A poll was not demanded. Vice-Chancellor Bacon held that Kippax was duly elected. The sale was impeached on other grounds beside the question whether Kippax had any authority to make it, but the Court of Appeal did not enter upon them.

Hemming, Q.C., and Grosvenor Woods, for the appellants.

Sir H. Jackson, Q.C., and Hatfield Green, for the respondents.

On the 19th of February THE COURT (Jessel, M.R., and Bramwell and Brett, L.JJ.) held that a poll not having been demanded the voting was by show of hands, and not according to the number of shares, and that Kippax, for whom two persons only had voted, while three voted against him, was not duly elected; and on the present occasion the Court (Jessel, M.R., and James and Bramwell, L.JJ.) held on the same ground that Masterman was duly elected.

Company—Profit by Promoter not mentioned in Prospectus—Liability to refund—Net Profits—Allowance for bonâ fide Expenses.

This was the trial of two issues, first, whether the defendants Maurice and Albert Grant were promoters of the plaintiff company; and, secondly, what sums had been received by them or either of them without the knowledge of the plaintiff company as promoters in the purchase of the company's property.

By an agreement of the 2nd of November, 1871, the owners of a mine agreed with Grant & Co. for the sale of the mine to T. W. Park on behalf of the then intended company for 1,000,000*l.*, out of which Grant & Co., who were to bear the expense of starting the company, were to receive 20 per cent.

By an agreement of the 4th of November, 1871, made between Park and G. A. Dean, who was described as acting on behalf of the company, it was agreed that the mine should be sold to the company for 1,000,000*l.*, but no mention was made of the allowance of 20 per cent. to Grant & Co.

The prospectus of the company was issued by A. Grant on the 7th of November, 1871, and referred only to the agreement of the 4th of November. The company was formed, and the action was brought to recover from M. and A. Grant the moneys received by them for the promotion of the company.

The claim against M. Grant was compromised. A. Grant claimed, if liable at all, to be entitled to deduct the sums actually paid by him in procuring and qualifying directors and other promotion expenses.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS held that the case was governed by Bagnall v. Carlton (6 Ch. Div. 371), and found for the plaintiff company on both issues. His Lordship considered that the profits for which Albert Grant was liable to account were net profits after being allowed the amount bonâ fide expended in formation expenses, and that he was liable to refund the same with interest at 4 per cent. from the time when the sums in question were received.

Mortgagor and Mortgagee—Reversionary Interest—Expectant Heir—Pecuniary Distress—Want of Information—Unconscionable Bargain—Security to stand only for Sums advanced—Interest.

In 1858 petitioner, a married woman, and her three brothers, then living on weekly wages, being entitled absolutely in reversion expectant on the death of their mother, to vested shares in a sum of 1500*l.* charged on land, and being in necessitous circumstances, applied to one Barber for an advance of money, and by a deed dated 22nd of December, 1858, in consideration of 500*l.* purported to be advanced and paid by Barber to the four co-owners, they assigned to Barber the 1500*l.* by way of mortgage to secure 500*l.* and interest at 4 per cent A receipt for 500*l.* was indorsed; both deed and receipt being attested by a clerk of Scriven & Terry, of Nottingham, Barber's solicitors, who were the only solicitors employed. Notwithstanding the deed, only 250*l.* was advanced, and a payment of 12*l.* 10*s.* for interest was made on the 22nd of December, 1859. In 1860 the same four persons applied for a further advance, and by deed dated the 12th of June, 1860, after reciting the former deed and that 250*l.* only was advanced, it being considered that the difference between 250*l.* and 500*l.* was a fair and reasonable remuneration for the delay in payment until the death of the tenant for life, it was witnessed that in consideration of 150*l.* paid by Barber to the borrowers, they further charged the 1500*l.* with not only the 500*l.* but also the further sum of 300*l.*, and interest at 5 per cent. The deed then contained what purported to be a declaration by the borrowers that the nature and effect of the receipt were perfectly understood by them, and that the 300*l.* was a reasonable and fair equivalent to Barber for the present payment of 150*l.*, taking into consideration that Barber paid for the security, the age and health of the tenant for life, and other circumstances, that Barber would be prevented from employing his money in business or otherwise during the life of the tenant for life, and that others had declined to make advances. The deed then contained a covenant by Barber not to call in the money or any part thereof during the life of the tenant for life, "except only" in case of non-payment of interest. Execution of this deed was attested by both Scriven and Terry. By a deed dated the 27th of February, 1861, in consideration of 400*l.* theretofore lent by Scriven to Barber, Barber assigned his securities to Scriven. No interest after the payment of the 12*l.* 10*s.* was ever paid.

The tenant for life died in 1876, and the trustee of the settlement having paid the 1500*l.* into Court, the petitioner, now a widow, representing as administratrix the share of one of her brothers, prayed for a declaration that the deeds of mortgage and further charge might stand as securities only for the moneys actually advanced, and interest, on the ground that in 1858 and 1860 the borrowers were in distressed circumstances and without independent advice, and that the bargain was unconscionable.

It was not disputed that the deeds not having been acknowledged by the petitioner were inoperative upon her own share.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR observed that he had had no kind of explanation why the security in 1858 was taken for 300*l.*, when only 250*l.* was advanced, though he could suggest one for himself. The circumstances that the borrowers were in abject poverty, and were, in the commonly accepted sense of the term, "expectant heirs," rendered the transaction a very suspicious

one. Then came the second deed, in which it was attempted to be set up that the difference between the sum advanced and the amount secured was considered a reasonable remuneration for delay, although Barber had a right to foreclose at any time, and this was followed by a number of palavering, insincere recitals, as that Barber would be kept out of money for his business, and so forth. His Lordship entertained the strongest suspicion that Barber had no more to do with the transaction than he had; but without founding his judgment on that suspicion, he must hold that the utmost the mortgagee was entitled to was that the deeds should stand as a security for the moneys advanced.

The Court also decided that the mortgagee was entitled to no more than six months' interest.

V.-C. B. In re ALLEN. Feb. 27.
DAVIES v. CHATWOOD.
Solicitor—Retainer.

Adjourned summons on the part of G. P. Allen, a solicitor, for a review of taxation. The applicant claimed to be entitled to a lien for the whole of his costs upon a balance, in his hands, of money recovered on behalf of the East Rocks Hematite Iron Ore Company in the suit of Davies v. Chatwood, on the ground that the company was liable upon their retainer to pay the whole of such costs. The company was one of nine defendants, all represented by the applicant as their solicitor to an action by a shareholder to recover on the ground of misrepresentation the amount paid by him on his shares.

The taxing master not being satisfied that the solicitor had received any retainer by the company which would make it liable to more than a proportion of the whole costs, had held that the assets of the company were not liable to bear the whole, but one-ninth only of the costs.

The question turned upon the terms of the retainers given to Mr. Allen by the directors, and also on behalf of the company, who were defendants in the action.

For Mr. Allen it was contended that these retainers were joint, and that he was entitled to recover the whole amount of his costs out of the assets of the company (now in liquidation), on whose behalf the action had been defended by the directors.

For the liquidators it was contended the liability was separate, and that the assets of the company were liable only for the rateable proportion of the costs.

Kekewick, Q.C., and Hornell, for Allen.

Sir H. Jackson, Q.C., and Northmore Lawrence, for the liquidators.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR, though holding that the taxing master's decision, which involved a question of principle and not of detail, was open to review, could not see any ground for questioning such decision. The defendants undertook to make common cause in defending the action and to pay the solicitor the whole amount of his costs, but did not thereby undertake that any one of them should pay the whole amount. The decision of the taxing master, that the assets of the company were liable for one-ninth only, was quite right, and the summons to vary must be refused with costs.

V.-C. B. SPRATT'S PATENT v. WARD & Co. Feb. 27.
Practice — Mode of Trial — Rules of Supreme Court, 1875, Order XXXVI., rr. 3, 26.

Adjourned summons on behalf of the plaintiff for a trial of this action before the judge himself, before whom it had been set down to be tried notwithstanding the defendant's notice requiring the action to be tried by a judge and special jury.

The action was for the purpose of restraining the defendants from selling dog biscuits under the title of "Fibrine Dog Cakes," or under any title intimating that the biscuits sold by the defendants were manufactured under Spratt's Patent, of which the plaintiffs were the registered proprietors, and relief by way of account and damages was also claimed. One instance was given by the plaintiffs of a sale by the defendants on a written order of an alleged spurious imitation of the plaintiff's dog biscuits.

A statement of defence had been put in and issue joined, and notice having been given by the defendant that they required the action to be tried by a judge and special jury, the plaintiffs, who had set down the action for trial before the Vice-Chancellor, took out this summons.

Sir H. Jackson, Q.C., and Dauney, for the plaintiffs, contended that under Order XXXVI. r. 26, the mode of trial was in the discretion of the judge. No sufficient ground existed for sending the action to be tried by a judge and special jury, and there was no issue of pure fact that could be picked out such as to render the assistance of a jury necessary.

Romer, for the defendants:—Order XXXVI., r. 3, gives a defendant a right, if he gives notice of his wish within a certain time, to have issues of fact tried by a jury, and though by r. 26 he may be deprived of this right for special reasons, such special reasons must be shewn. As a matter of fact there are in this case no special reasons for depriving the defendant of his primâ facie right to a jury, and as the whole question turns upon one alleged instance of improper sale, that is an issue of fact for which a jury is the proper tribunal.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR:—The defendants have given notice that they require to have the action, and not merely an issue of fact in it, tried before a jury. But upon the record it is plain that there are questions to be submitted and argued, beyond the mere issue of fact which would be disposed of in a few minutes perhaps. Am I to send that to be tried by a judge and special jury, and by bandying about suitors from one Court to another fall into the vice which was intended to be prohibited by the Judicature Acts and Rules? To send this action to be tried as required by the defendants would be within neither the words nor the meaning of Order XXXVI., and the plaintiffs are entitled to the order asked for by their summons.

On behalf of Messrs. Cunliffes, Brooks, & Co., it was contended that the two guarantees constituted a continuing security for all sums which might become due to them in respect of their accepting the drafts named in the guarantees, and that there had been nothing amounting to an appropriation for the purpose of meeting the sums due upon the guarantees.

For the executors of Booth it was contended that the guarantee was not continuing, and that in any case the entries in the books shewed that funds of the guarantors in the hands of Cunliffes & Co. had been appropriated to meet these debts.

Everitt, for Cunliffes & Co.

Swanston, Q.C., and Millar, for the executors.

V.-C. H. In re HARGREAVES' TRADE-MARK. Feb. 27.

Trade-marks already registered for Articles in a certain Class—New Mark similar to those registered—Motion for leave to register New Mark refused.

On the 14th of January, 1879, John Hargreaves of Liverpool provision merchant, sent to the registrar of trade-marks an application to be registered as the proprietor of a trade-mark consisting of the words "Anchor Brand" surmounting a representation of an "anchor," and he applied that the same might be registered in respect of goods in Class 42 of the 1st Schedule to the Rules under the Act, i.e. bacon and hams. On the 1st of February the registrar wrote to Hargreaves to say that the mark was not of that special and distinctive form which would make it a satisfactory sign to associate with his business, and he pointed out that in the Index of Marks in Class 42 he would see several marks, consisting in part of an "anchor," of which the forms bore considerable resemblance to his proposed mark. The registrar suggested that Hargreaves should adopt a mark which should be so distinct from those already on the register for other owners in Class 42, that the public might at once be able to recognise it as that specially associated with his business in particular goods; and in a letter of the 10th of February, the registrar pointed out that four marks of the same description were on the register, and that in view of the provisions of sect. 6 of the Act of 1875, and of rule 19 made under it, he was unable, except by leave of the Court, to register the "anchor" as a new trade-mark. Hargreaves deposed that the marks referred to by the registrar had been registered in respect of biscuits for feeding dogs and other animals and biscuits generally; of cattle food, &c.; of butter; and of imported articles of food, viz., preserved fish, vegetables, and meat, also fresh meat and shell fish; and that none of the articles for which an "anchor" was registered resembled bacon or hams. Hargreaves said that he had a large business in the provision trade, and imported large quantities of bacon and hams, which were packed in boxes, and that he had for some time past used this trade-mark, which had become well-known in the trade; and he alleged that to alter the mark as suggested by the registrar would greatly interfere with and prejudice his business, and therefore he submitted that he could not make any alteration.

This was a motion on behalf of Hargreaves that the leave of the Court might be given to the registration of the mark, and that the register of trade-marks might be rectified by entering therein the name of Hargreaves as the proprietor of the trade-mark above mentioned as belonging to bacon and hams in the said Class 42.

Lawson, for the applicant.

Rigby, for the registrar.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said that it was not necessary to decide the question whether there could be a registration of more than one or two new marks as to articles in the same class. In all these cases the Court had a discretion as to granting the leave asked for, but in exercising its discretion it must have regard to the whole of the circumstances of the particular case. The onus was upon those who asked for the leave of the Court, and they must make out a case substantial and good for that purpose. In all these cases the persons proposing to register new marks must ascertain, as they could do, what marks had been registered in the particular class, and they could then adopt marks which would raise no questions. In this case there had been four marks of anchors placed upon the register, i.e., they had got there either as old or new marks—there might be some of one sort and some of the other, but that being so the distinction attempted to be shewn, in this case, as to the different characters of the articles for which this new mark was now sought to be registered in reference to the other descriptions of articles for which marks had been already registered, was not in itself so absolutely clear and distinguishable as that he ought to grant the leave sought for, therefore the motion must be refused and with the usual costs.

Trustee Relief Acts—Bankers, Payment into Court of Deposit, by—Judicature Act, 1873, s. 25, sub-s. 6—Costs.

The West of England and South Wales District Bank (now in liquidation) having received notice of two conflicting claims to a sum of money placed with them on deposit, paid it into Court after first deducting from it their costs of so doing. One of the claimants now petitioned to have the fund carried over to the credit of an administration action which he had instituted, and sought to charge the bank with the costs of the payment in on the ground that not being trustees within the meaning of the Trustee Relief Acts, they were not justified in paying it in thereunder. The petition was entitled in the matter of the administration action and of the Trustee Relief Acts, and the liquidator of the bank contended that the Judicature Act, sect. 25, sub-sect. 6 gave to trustees or other persons liable to a debt and having notice of conflicting claims to it, the alternative of either calling on the claimants to interplead, or of paying the amount into Court under the Trustee Relief Acts; and that at all events, as the petitioner had submitted to the jurisdiction under the Trustee Relief Acts, the bank were entitled to their costs.

Renshaw, for the petitioner.

Romer, for the liquidator of the bank.

W. Barber, for the other claimant.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that the sub-section above mentioned only applied to debts of which there had been an assignment in writing; that the bank not being trustees were not justified in paying the sum deposited with them into Court; but that as the petitioner had come into Court under the Trustee Relief Acts the bank were, upon the authority of In re Haycock's Policy (1 Ch. CASE stated by the judge of the Southwark County Court.

The plaintiff, a solicitor, sued for 15*l.* 16*s.* 10*d.*, the amount of his bill of costs. The defence was a discharge by a resolution of the defendant's creditors for a composition under s. 125 of the Bankruptcy Act, 1869, and a tender and refusal of the amount of the composition on the debt before action brought. A witness called for the defence stated that he and the defendant's solicitor (since deceased) went to the offices of the plaintiff, and there tendered the amount of the composition to one of the plaintiff's clerks, who informed him that the plaintiff was out, and that he, the clerk, had received no instructions, and refused to accept the amount tendered. This transaction was altogether denied; but the judge found it to be proved, and gave judgment for the defendant.

On appeal:

Poulter, for the plaintiff, contended that as the clerk was not authorized to receive the money the tender was bad.

Melsheimer, for the defendant, relied on cases to shew that the tender being made at the office to a person representing the plaintiff was valid.

THE COURT differed in opinion. Lord Coleridge, C.J., held that the mere statement by the clerk that he had received no instructions was not a denial of authority to accept the money, and that as he might therefore be deemed to have implied authority to receive it, the tender to him was good.

DENMAN, J., thought that the clerk had, in effect, disclaimed authority, and therefore the inference of authority which might primâ facie have been drawn was rebutted and the tender was insufficient, as in Bingham v. Allport (1 Nev. & M. 398).

SPECIAL CASE stated by consent of parties at Nisi Prius.

In 1871 the plaintiffs contracted with the Newington Vestry to pave a public road with asphalte, and to keep the pavement in repair for fifteen years. The pavement, when laid complete, was to be the property of the vestry. The plaintiffs indemnified the vestry against all loss, damage, or accident caused by any defective state of the pavement. The pavement was made, and from time to time repaired by the plaintiffs. The defendant company, acting under statutory powers, constructed a tramway upon and along the pavement; but they negligently caused unnecessary damage thereto, for which this action was brought. The question was (1) whether plaintiffs could maintain the action against the defendants; (2), if not, whether the judge at nisi prius ought to have joined or substituted any other parties who could maintain the action. If the Court should answer either of the questions in the affirmative, then, if necessary, the writ and proceedings were to be amended by the addition or substitution of other parties as plaintiffs, and the action was to be remitted to an arbitrator.

C. Russell, Q.C., and A. L. Smith, for the plaintiffs:—The defendants, notwithstanding their statutory powers, were clearly liable for negligence; the plaintiffs had such possession of the pavement as entitled them to sue, or the vestry should be added or substituted as plaintiffs to sue for their benefit; Order XVI., r. 2. A mistake of law is within the rule: Duckett v. Gover (6 Ch. Div. 82).

Kempe, Q.C., and Humphreys, for the defendants.

THE COURT (Lord Coleridge, L.J., and Denman, J.) ordered that the vestry should be substituted as plaintiffs under r. 2.

WEIR, APP.; BELL AND BAIN, RESPS. Feb. 28.

Contract, alleged Breach of.

In this case Mr. Alexander Weir complained that the respondents, printers in Glasgow, had broken a contract made with him in not printing the third of three elementary school books, of which he was the author. The respondents had printed the first and second at a rate per page agreed on, when the appellant came and took the manuscript of the third book away, saying, as the respondents alleged, that he should prefer to wait until he saw the commercial result of the first and second books. The following year the appellant brought back the manuscript, but the respondents refused to print it except at a higher rate than that charged for the prior books. After another year, when the respondents sought to obtain payment for the printing of the first and second books, the appellant demanded compensation for breach of contract.

The Lord Ordinary (Lord Curriehill) and the Second Division (Feb. 2, 1877) held that the appellant had not made out his case.

On the appeal Mr. Weir, having been admitted to sue in formâ pauperis, addressed the House in person.

Mr. M'Clymont appeared for the respondents, but was not called upon.

THEIR LORDSHIPS dismissed the appeal; THE LORD CHANCELLOR (Earl Cairns) remarking that the moment the appellant took the manuscript away it became optional with the respondents to resume the contract which thus had been interrupted, and agree as it were de novo to print the third book; but this they had not done. The decision appealed from must therefore be affirmed.

COURT OF APPEAL.

From Ch. Div. CHILD v. STENNING. Feb. 28.

Measure of Damages—Covenant for quiet Enjoyment—Costs.

In this case (which is reported 5 Ch. D. 695; 7 Ch. D. 413, and Weekly Notes, 1878, p. 22) the plaintiff brought an action against the defendant Stenning, an adjoining landowner, claiming damages against him for trespass. The other defendant, Wagner, was the plaintiff's lessor, and Stenning justified his acts by the allegation that previously to the lease to the plaintiff, Wagner had granted to Stenning a right of way over part of the land. The plaintiff, therefore, in the event of Stenning establishing his right of way, claimed, as alternative relief, damages against Wagner under his covenant for quiet enjoyment. At the trial, Mr. Justice Fry gave judgment for Stenning, being of opinion that he had established his right of way over the plaintiff's land; and he also gave judgment against Wagner to indemnify the plaintiff against the injury he had received from Stenning. His Lordship assessed the damages at 400*l.*, and ordered the plaintiff to pay Stenning's costs, and Wagner to pay the plaintiff's costs, but not to pay the costs which the plaintiff had to pay to Stenning.

From this decision Wagner appealed.

Kekewich, Q.C., and Fellows, for the appellant, contended that the damages were excessive. The Judge had taken the measure of damages as if the plaintiff had been evicted from a portion of his land; whereas he was only entitled to the damages for the injury sustained up to the time of bringing the action, from the exercise of the right of way.

Cookson, Q.C., and Morshead, for the plaintiff, supported the finding of the learned judge as to the amount of damages, and also contended that Wagner ought to pay all the costs of the whole action, which had been caused by his fault.

JESSEL, M.R., said that if the plaintiff had been evicted from the portion of his land covered by the right of way, he would have been entitled to damages for the permanent injury to his property. But in the present case his claim against Wagner was only under his covenant for quiet enjoyment, and he was only entitled to damages for the injury he had sustained up to the date of the writ. There was no evidence that there had been any serious injury up to that time, and he was therefore only entitled to 40*s.* damages to establish his right. On the other hand, he was of opinion that the plaintiff was entitled to recover from Wagner not only his own costs but the costs of the defendant Stenning. The whole litigation was caused by Wagner's fault and he ought to pay the costs of the action. There would be no costs of the appeal.

JAMES and BRAMWELL, L.JJ., concurred.

From Ex. Div. BRITTAIN v. ROSSITER. March 4.

Master and Servant, wrongful Dismissal—Contract not to be performed within one year—Part Performance of Contract—Statute of Frauds.

Action for wrongful dismissal.

A parol agreement was entered into on the 21st of April between the plaintiff and the defendant, that the plaintiff should serve the defendant as a clerk for a year, the service to commence from the 24th of April. The plaintiff entered the defendant's service, and after the lapse of some months the defendant dismissed the plaintiff, paying him all that was due to him. The judge at the trial nonsuited the plaintiff on the ground that the contract was one which was not to be performed within the space of one year and ought to have been in writing to satisfy the Statute of Frauds. The Exchequer Division affirmed the judgment of the learned judge.

Two questions were argued: First, that the contract of the 21st of April was absolutely void under s. 4 of the Statute of Frauds, and that therefore a new contract might be implied to serve from the 24th of April, and an action would lie for the breach of such new contract. Secondly, that there had been a part performance of the original contract within the equitable doctrine of part performance in cases relating to the sale of land, so as to take the case out of the Statute of Frauds.

Contempt—Attachment—Untrue Copy of Order delivered.

On the 12th of December, 1878, Vice-Chancellor Malins gave leave to issue a writ of attachment against C. H. Holt for his non-compliance with an order, made in June, 1878, on the petition of his wife, that he should deliver over his infant daughter to her within four days after service of the order upon him. The order was served on him. It was headed, "In the matter of the infant (naming her), and in the matter of the Act 36 & 37 Vict. c. 12," but the copy which was delivered to him was headed only in the matter of the Act, omitting the name of the infant. Holt was arrested in pursuance of the order of the 12th of December, and lodged in prison.

W. Renshaw, for Holt, moved to discharge the order of the 12th of December, and to set aside the writ of attachment as irregular, on the ground that the service of the order of June, 1878, was ineffectual, because a true copy of the order was not delivered to Holt.

Damage—Interrogatories—Lords of the Admiralty.

E. C. Clarkson, on behalf of the defendants in an action of damage instituted on behalf of the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty against the steamer Helvetia, moved to direct that certain interrogatories administered in the action should be answered by the plaintiffs. The action was brought to recover damage sustained by the coast-guard cruiser Fanny, recently in collision with the Helvetia, and the interrogatories which formed the subject of the motion were principally directed to the question of the condition and position of the lights of the Fanny at the time of the collision.

The Admiralty-Advocate (Dr. Deane, Q.C.), Staveley Hill, Q.C., and Stokes, appeared for the plaintiffs, and stated that they were prepared to argue that the Court had no jurisdiction to grant the motion, but that they were willing, without establishing a precedent, to afford such information to the defendants as would probably render it unnecessary for the motion to come again before the Court.

THE COURT made no order on the motion.

Adm. THE ENDORA. March 4.

Bottomry—Practice—Arrest before Bond payable.

This was a motion on behalf of the owners of the ship Endora, the defendants in an action of bottomry instituted on the 25th of February, 1879, against the Endora and her freight, to direct the Endora, which had been arrested in the action, to be released without bail, and to condemn the plaintiffs in damages and in the costs of the motion and all costs incurred by the institution of the action.

March 1. E. C. Clarkson, on behalf of the defendants, brought on the motion, and the Court, with the consent of Myburgh, counsel for the plaintiffs, ordered the vessel to be released on the amount of the bond and interest being paid, and adjourned the rest of the motion.

March 4. The motion was renewed. Clarkson, in support of the motion referred to a stipulation in the bottomry bond providing that if the advance on bottomry and the bottomry premium should be paid at or before the expiration of seven days after the safe arrival of the vessel at London the bond should be void, and to affidavits which alleged that the vessel arrived safely at London on the 22nd of February, 1879, and that the amount of the bond and the maritime interest thereon was tendered out of Court to the plaintiffs' solicitors on the 27th of February.

Myburgh, in opposition to the motion, referred to The Jane (1 Dodson, 461) and to statements on affidavits that the bond holders had before the 22nd of February communicated with the persons interested in the vessel, but had received no intimation that the bond would be met when due, and that they had been apprehensive that the vessel would have been discharged before the seventh day after her arrival, and the security for payment of the bond thereby diminished.

THE COURT granted the motion, except so much thereof as prayed that the plaintiffs should be condemned in damages.

COURT OF APPEAL.

From Bkcy. Ct. Ex parte BALL. In re SHEPHERD. March 6.

Proof—Felony—Embezzlement by Clerk—Omission to prosecute—Trustee in Bankruptcy.

This was an appeal from a decision of the Chief Judge in Bankruptcy, which is reported 9 Ch. D. 704.

Shepherd, a clerk to Willis & Co., bankers, absconded, having embezzled 7852*l.* of their money. They issued a warrant for his arrest, but he had left England and was not arrested, and consequently was not prosecuted. He having been adjudicated a bankrupt, and Willis & Co. having filed a liquidation petition, their trustee tendered a proof in the bankruptcy for the 7852*l.* The Chief Judge ordered the proof to be admitted, being of opinion on the evidence that the bankers had used due diligence in endeavouring to prosecute the bankrupt. The trustee in the bankruptcy appealed.

De Gex, Q.C., and H. F. Dickens (Winch with them), for the appellant, contended on the authority of Ex parte Elliott (3 Mont. & Ay. 110), Wellock v. Constantine (2 H. & C. 146), and other cases, that a proof in bankruptcy in respect of a felony could not be admitted unless the person injured had first prosecuted the felon, or prosecution had become impossible, or the felon had been prosecuted by some one else.

Winslow, Q.C., and Bush Cooper, for the trustee of Willis & Co., were not heard.

THE COURT (James, Baggallay, and Bramwell, L.JJ.) dismissed the appeal with costs.

JAMES and BRAMWELL, L.JJ., were of opinion that, even if the injured person was bound to prosecute the felon before he could prove in his bankruptcy, as to which they expressed some doubt, the obligation was a personal one, and did not extend to a trustee in bankruptcy.

BAGGALLAY, L.J., was of opinion that the injured person could not prove if he had failed in his duty of bringing the felon to justice, and that his trustee in bankruptcy stood in no better position. But his Lordship agreed with the Chief Judge that there had been no default on the part of Willis & Co. sufficient to deprive them of a right to prove had they continued solvent.

Leave was given to appeal to the House of Lords.

PRICE v. PRICE.

Husband and Wife—Extinguishment of Debt.

This was an appeal from a decision of Vice-Chancellor Hall in chambers.

Price was indebted to his wife's mother on a bond for a sum of money payable by yearly instalments. Default was made in regular payment of the instalments during the mother's life. She died in November, 1869, leaving a will by which she made her daughter sole executrix, and bequeathed all her property to her, not limiting it to her separate use. The husband and wife passed the residuary account of the mother's estate, not noticing this bond. The husband converted to his own use all the mother's other property, and kept possession of the bond till his death in April, 1871, without cancelling it. A considerable number of the instalments were not payable till after his death. The question now was whether the wife had any right of proof against the husband's estate in respect of the money secured by the bond. Vice-Chancellor Hall held that she had. The plaintiffs, who were some of the next of kin, appealed.

W. Pearson, Q.C., and Dryden, for the appellants.

Dickinson, Q.C., and Langworthy, for Mrs. Price.

Mulligan, for the other next of kin, having liberty to attend proceedings.

THE COURT (Jessel, M.R., and Baggallay, and Bramwell, L.JJ.) reversed the decision, and held that upon the estate of the mother being fully administered in the husband's lifetime the debt pay-

SWANSTON v. TWICKENHAM LOCAL BOARD OF HEALTH.

Public Health Acts (11 & 12 Vict. c. 63, and 38 & 39 Vict. c. 55)—Construction of Sewers—Side Entrances—Adjoining Landowner—Compensation or Purchase.

The defendants had constructed under a public road in Twickenham, known as the Station Road, a deep sewer nearly thirty feet from the surface, and they had constructed on land adjoining the road belonging to the plaintiff a side entrance or man-hole. This structure consisted of a large brick shaft nearly thirty feet deep, imperfectly covered at the top by a large iron plate which allowed the sewer gases to escape. The plaintiff alleged that this man-hole prevented the plaintiff's tenants from using the land on which it stood, and that the defendants claimed a perpetual right of user of the structure, and a right to go in and upon the plaintiff's adjoining land for the purpose of descending the shaft and bringing up the sewage. The plaintiff alleged that a fever had broken out in the neighbourhood of the man-hole which was caused by the noxious vapours emanating from the sewers, and that great damage had been caused to him in consequence of the defendant's works. The plaintiff also alleged that the defendants had given him notice of their intention to make two similar man-holes upon his property. He claimed an injunction to restrain the defendants from continuing the said structure or side entrance to the sewer in the Station Road, and a direction to the defendants to remove it. He also claimed an injunction to restrain the defendants from constructing any similar side entrances to the sewer on any part of his land.

Higgins, Q.C., and E. J. Payne, for the plaintiff, contended that the defendants had no power under the Public Health Act, 1848, or the Public Health Act, 1875, to enter upon his land for the purpose of constructing any works not being an actual sewer without purchasing the land.

J. Pearson, Q.C., and V. Hawkins, for the defendants, submitted that the side entrance or man-hole was a necessary part of the sewer, without which the sewer could not be kept in repair. But if any damage was caused to the plaintiff it could be compensated for under the Acts.

FRY, J., after commenting upon the different sections of the Public Health Act, 1848 (11 & 12 Vict. c. 63), and the Public Health Act, 1875 (38 & 39 Vict. c. 55), decided that although the defendant had power to make sewers and to give compensation for any damage done by their works, they had no power to make side entrances and other structures which involved a right of perpetual entry upon the land of an adjacent proprietor without purchasing the land required for the purpose. He therefore granted an injunction to restrain the use of the man-hole already in existence, but suspended the order for six months to enable the defendants to make such alterations as might be necessary, and an injunction to restrain the construction of other similar man-holes without purchasing the land.

Company—Winding-up—Creditor's Petition—Opposition of great Mass of Creditors—Companies Act, 1862, s. 91.

Petition to wind up the company by J. R. Singleton, a creditor for 30*l.*, alleging that on the 14th of January last a resolution was passed for winding up the company voluntarily, on the ground that it had been proved to the satisfaction of the company that by reason of its liabilities it could not continue its business, and that the company was insolvent and unable to pay its debts.

Sir H. Jackson, Q.C., and W. Hatfield Green, for the petition. The winding-up resolution was invalid for want of proper statutory notice. Nevertheless it is a sufficient admission of insolvency upon which to ground a petition: Bridport Old Brewery Company (Law Rep. 2 Ch. 191).

Bunting, for a creditor, in support.

Hemming, Q.C., and G. Woods, for the company:—The petition is not bonâ fide. It was presented at the instigation of a Mr. Shaw, who was a friend of Mr. Firth, the petitioner's manager. The petitioner had no reasonable expectation of payment. If the resolution was invalid, the ground of the petition failed, if valid, there was already an existing liquidator.

Swanston, Q.C., and Everitt, for creditors to the alleged value of upwards of 20,000*l.*, and for shareholders holding 180 shares, opposed the petition, and cited In re West Hartlepool Company (Law Rep. 10 Ch. 618) and In re Langley Company (Law Rep. 12 Eq. 26).

Sir H. Jackson, in reply.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said that as against the company the petitioner's right was clear and indisputable. But it was impossible to disregard the opposition of the other creditors, for whom a petitioning creditor in every case was to some extent pursuing his remedy, as well as for himself; and considering the weight of that opposition, the petition must be dismissed; but inasmuch as the opposing creditors, had stood by and made no sign until the actual hearing of the petition, when they came forward and opposed, the dismissal of the petition would be without costs.

V.-C. H. ESDAILE v. VISSER. March 13.

Judgment against a Defendant with Costs—Subpœna for Payment—Motion under the Debtors Act, 1869, s. 5—Order for Payment in Monthly Instalments.

This action was brought against several defendants to recover the payment of tithes claimed by the plaintiff from the occupiers of property in a parish in the City of London. The sum claimed against the defendant Ilderton was about 4*l.* At the hearing of the action judgment was given for the plaintiff with costs, which, after taxation, amounted to 148*l.* 12*s.* The order for payment was dated the 8th of May, 1878. A subpœna had been issued against Ilderton for payment, but he had not satisfied the demand made against him.

Maclean, for the plaintiff, now moved, under the Debtors Act, 1869, s. 5, not for an attachment as in the notice of motion, but for an order that Ilderton do pay the sum due in monthly instalments. Such an order could be made: Dillon v. Cunningham (Law Rep. 8 Ex. 23). The costs ordered to be paid were a debt within the meaning of the Act, and the order for payment was capable of being enforced under sect. 5: Hewitson v. Sherwin (Law Rep. 10 Ex. 53).

Alexander Young, for the defendant.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR, being satisfied that the defendant Ilderton had some means, ordered that he do pay the sum of 8*l.* monthly until the whole demand made against him should be satisfied: the first instalment to be paid at the end of a month from the date of the order and the sum of three guineas to be added to the sum claimed for costs allowed to the plaintiff upon the motion.

Public Company—Taking Lands—Charity—New Scheme—Payment of Income to new Trustees—Costs of Petition.

In 1855 the London Docks Company, now the London and St. Katharine's Docks Company, under the powers of a special Act of 1853, which incorporated the Land Clauses Consolidation Act, 1845, took the school building and premises belonging to this charity and paid the purchase-money of 3600*l.* into Court. An order was then made upon petition for payment of the dividends on this sum to any two of the trustees of the charity. The charity having become practically superseded by the School Board in the vicinity, a scheme was sanctioned by the Charity Commissioners re-casting the charity into an educational fund with a new set of governors instead of the old trustees.

This was a petition for payment out of the corpus of certain expenses connected with the scheme, and for payment of the income of the fund to any two of the new governors. The company objected to pay the costs of the petition on the ground that the case was analogous to that of a tenant for life assigning over after the taking of the land.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that this was not so, and that the company must pay the costs of the petition.

Medd, for the petitioners.

Buckley, for the company.

Devise—Estate—Tenant for Life—Right Heirs—Vesting Order.

W. F. Grayson made a devise of land to trustees on trust to permit Sir R. Fleming to receive the rents during his life, and after his decease to permit his eldest son to receive the rents, and upon the decease of such eldest son on trust to convey the lands to the right heirs of Sir R. Fleming.

Sir R. Fleming died, leaving an eldest son, Sir M. Fleming, who entered into possession, and required the surviving trustee of the will to concur in a sale. The trustee refused, and Sir M. Fleming presented a petition for a vesting order.

Dryden, in support of the petition.

Quayle Jones, for the trustee.

His Lordship held that the right heir was ascertained at the death of Sir R. Fleming, and was Sir M. Fleming, who was therefore entitled to a vesting order.

Trade-Mark—Imitation—Onus of Proof—Deception of ultimate Purchaser.

The plaintiffs were manufacturers of Turkey-red yarn for exportation to Aden and Bombay, and other places. They had for many years affixed to the packets in which their yarn was made up a ticket of triangular shape and of a green colour, which had embossed on it, in gold, a crown, two elephants (one on each side of the crown), and a banner underneath the crown. On the banner was printed the name of the plaintiffs' firm in Guzerathi characters. The plaintiffs' yarn had become known in the Bombay market as "Bhe Hathi" (i.e., two elephants) yarn, and was asked for and sold under that name, and no other yarn was known by that name. The defendants, who were also manufacturers of Turkey-red yarn, which they exported to the same places as the plaintiffs' yarn, had recently commenced using a ticket of a similar shape and colour to the plaintiffs' ticket. It also had two elephants upon it, but between them was (instead of a crown) the figure of a Hindoo idol, and the elephants stood in a different position from those on the plaintiffs' ticket. There was also a banner under the idol, and on the banner was printed the name of the defendants' firm in English letters. The plaintiffs had applied for the registration of their ticket as a trade-mark under the Trade-marks Registration Act, 1875, but this application was refused by the Committee of Experts, whose decision was affirmed by the Court of Appeal: In re Orr Ewing's Trade-Marks (8 Ch. D. 794). An appeal to the House of Lords is, however, pending. The plaintiffs claimed an injunction to restrain the defendants from using the ticket which they had adopted, or otherwise imitating the plaintiffs' ticket. There was no evidence that any purchasers had been deceived by the defendants' ticket, but several witnesses in Bombay said that, though the dealers in Bombay would not be deceived, it was probable that the ultimate purchasers of the yarn, i.e. the native weavers who lived in the country, would be deceived.

North, Q.C., and H. A. Giffard, for the plaintiffs.

T. Aston, Q.C., and J. Cutler, for the defendants.

FRY, J., was of opinion that the defendants had appropriated a material and substantial part of the plaintiffs' ticket, especially having regard to the fact that it was the part which had given the name to the plaintiffs' yarn in the Bombay market. This being so, the defendants were (according to what was said by Lord Justice James in Ford v. Foster (Law Rep. 7 Ch. 611), and by Lord O'Hagan in Singer & Co. v. Wilson (3 App. Cas. 395) bound to use every reasonable precaution to prevent error and deception, and the onus was on them to shew that they had done so. This onus his Lordship thought that they had not discharged, especially having regard to the fact that, whereas the name of the plaintiffs' firm was printed on their ticket in letters which the natives in Bombay could read, the name of the defendants' firm was printed on their ticket in letters which the natives did not understand. His Lordship granted the injunction asked for, and ordered the defendants to pay the costs of the action.

BANKRUPTCY.

C. J. B. Ex parte JAMES. March 17.
In re BAMFORD.

Bankruptcy—Liquidation—Bill of Sale—After-acquired Property.

Appeal from the County Court at Merthyr.

By a bill of sale, dated 27th of November, 1874, Samuel Bamford, a farmer, in consideration of a past debt of 249*l.*, assigned to William Games all and every his household goods and effects, in general terms, and also his implements of husbandry, crops, live and dead stock, lease, goods, and chattels, then being or which should thereafter be about the farm-house, and all and every his books debts, and all other his permanent estate whatsoever and wheresoever, to secure the debt and interest.

So far the deed did not depart in substance from a lithographed form upon which the deed was made; but it went on to agree and declare that after default in payment it should be lawful for Games to recover the debts, and quietly to receive and take into possession and hold and enjoy all the assigned premises, and also (by insertion in ink) "to seize and take possession of any household goods and furniture, stock in trade, and other goods, chattels and effects, which or may shall from time to time be substituted in lieu of the said household goods and furniture, stock-in-trade, goods, chattels, and effects, or any part thereof, or which should for the time be found in or about the messuage or dwelling-house and premises . . . or which may at any time hereafter during the continuance of this present security be in the occupation of the said S. Bamford, either in the lifetime or after the decease of the said Bamford;" and also to sell, &c.

Possession under the deed was taken on the 5th of November, 1878; and a sale was advertised for the 19th of December. On the 14th of December the debtor Bamford filed a liquidation petition; and the question was whether the bill of sale was good for anything beyond the property of which Bamford was possessed on the 27th of November, 1874, the date of the bill of sale.

The learned County Court judge gave to the liquidation trustee the conduct of the sale, thereby deciding in effect that the after-acquired chattels were not within the mortgage security.

E. Cooper Willis, and Maclean, for the bill of sale holder, the appellant.

Winslow, Q.C., and Bigham, for the trustee.

Willis, in reply.

THE CHIEF JUDGE held that the deed, so far as it purported to comprise within the security after-acquired property of the debtor, was invalid, and dismissed the appeal with costs.

Church Discipline Act (3 & 4 Vict. c. 86), s. 3—Obligation on Bishop to issue a Commission to inquire into Complaint—Mandamus.

Application for a mandamus to the Lord Bishop of Oxford directing him to issue a commission under 3 & 4 Vict. c. 86, s. 3, to inquire into the matter of the complaint of Frederick G. Julius, Doctor of Medicine, a parishioner of the parish of Clewer, in the county of Berks, against the Rev. Thomas Thelluson Carter, rector of the said parish, for offences against the law ecclesiastical in respect of unauthorized deviations from the ritual of the Church in the communion service, and the use of unauthorized vestments. A rule nisi having been obtained.

The Lord Bishop of Oxford appeared in person to shew cause, and contended that it was discretionary and not obligatory on his part to issue the commission under 3 & 4 Vict. c. 86, s. 3.

Arthur Charles, Q.C., and Dr. Phillimore, appeared for the Rev. T. T. Carter.

Dr. Stephens, and Jeune, supported the rule.

Cur adv. vult.

March 8. The judgment of the Court (Cockburn, C.J., Field and Manisty, JJ.) was delivered by Cockburn, C.J.

THE COURT held: 1. That it was obligatory on the Bishop under 3 & 4 Vict. c. 86, s. 3, to issue the commission, or, in the alternative, send the case to the Court of Arches in the first instance. 2. That the provisions of the 3 & 4 Vict. c. 86, s. 3, were not superseded by the Public Worship Regulation Act, 1874. 3. That the Court in its discretion ought to issue the writ. They therefore made the rule absolute. Rule absolute.

Attachment of Debts—Order dismissing Action for want of Prosecution not equivalent to a Judgment—Rules of Court, 1875, Order XLII., r. 20; Order XLV., r. 2.

Appeal against the decision of Lopes, J., refusing to make an order attaching debts due to the plaintiff under Order XLV., r. 2. The defendant had obtained an order against the plaintiff dismissing the action for want of prosecution with costs, and it was contended that this order, by virtue of Order XLII., r. 20, might be enforced by an attachment of debts as a judgment against plaintiff. Order XLII., r. 20, provides that every order of the Court or a judge, whether in an action, cause, or matter, may be enforced in the same manner as a judgment to the same effect.

Aspland, moved to vary the order of Lopes, J.

THE COURT (Cockburn, C.J., and Manisty, J.) were of opinion that the order dismissing the action was not equivalent to a judgment, so as to be within the provisions as to attachment of debts. Rule refused.

Arbitrator—Architect—Action against, by Contractor.

Claim in substance alleged that the defendant was employed by a company to act as architect in the erection of a hall to be built under a contract between the plaintiff and the company; that the architect was empowered to order additions and deductions, the amount of which should be ascertained by him in the same manner as the quantities had been; all matters in dispute were to be left to him, and his decision should be final; that the plaintiff was to be paid on the certificate of the architect; that the work was done, and a certificate given; that the defendant did not use due skill and care in ascertaining the amounts to be paid by the company to the plaintiff, and neglected and refused to ascertain the amount of additions and deductions in the same manner as the quantities had been measured, and knowingly or negligently certified for a much less sum than was in fact the net balance payable; that the defendant refused to reconsider the certificate and allow the plaintiff to point out to him errors in the bill of quantities, or to explain the accounts, or to hear any objection on the part of the plaintiff to the certificate, whereby the plaintiff was unable to obtain payment of and had lost the balance to which he was entitled.

On demurrer.

A. Wills, Q.C., and Graham, for the defendants:—The architect was a quasi arbitrator. There was no privity of contract between him and the defendant, and no breach of duty for which an action would lie.

L. Cave, Q.C., and Wood Hill, contrà.

THE COURT (Lord Coleridge, C.J., and Denman, J.) held that the claim was bad. The architect had not merely ministerial, but judicial functions to perform; he had not acted fraudulently, nor in collusion with the company, and on principle and authority the action could not be maintained against him. MARITIME MARINE INSURANCE COMPANY v. FIRE RE-INSURANCE CORPORATION.

Insurance, Marine—Re-insurance against Fire—Open Policies—Declarations of Risks, Order of—Usage.

Further consideration.

This action was brought by the plaintiffs, a marine insurance company, against the defendants, a fire insurance corporation, who by open policies had re-insured them against loss by fire of coal-laden ships insured by the plaintiffs between prescribed ports, to recover for such a loss. The case was tried and afterwards argued before Lopes, J. The questions contested were whether the usage of merchants stated in Stephens v. Australasian Marine Insurance Company (Law Rep. 8 C. P. 18), as to the order and time in which risks must be declared under open policies, applied to the defendants, they being a fire insurance corporation, and whether mere negligence of the plaintiffs' manager in declaring the loss disentitled them to recover,

Russell, Q.C., and Myburgh, argued for the plaintiffs.

Herschell, Q.C., and Wheeler, for the defendants.

Cur. adv. vult.

LOPES, J., held that the contract although one of fire insurance was in respect of a marine risk, and the defendants when they made it were doing the trade or business of marine insurance and contracted with reference to the usage; that the usage therefore applied; further, that there was no such negligence as as disentitled the plaintiffs to recover. Bottomry—Jurisdiction—Absence of Maritime Interest.

Butt, Q.C. (H. R. Hodyson with him) moved the judge in Court in an action of bottomry instituted on behalf of the plaintiffs against the Danish vessel Cecilie to pronounce for the validity of two several instruments granted in the same form by the master of the Cecilie on the 31st of July, 1878, at Hamburg, when the Cecilie was about to proceed on a voyage from Hamburg to Africa and back to London. The following is the material portion of one of the instruments:—"I, the undersigned captain of the Danish vessel, the Cecilie, hereby acknowlege for myself and my heirs that I am indebted to Mr. Wilhrodewaldt for provisions and equipment of the said vessel and for the prosecution of her voyage from Hamburg to Africa and back to London in the sum of two thousand seven hundred and thirty-nine marks. Wherefore I pledge my ship and appurtenances and bind myself to pay the above sum within six days after my arrival in London; or wheresoever else I may put in. Said payment to be prompt and uncontested according to the law of exchange in all parts."

E. C. Clarkson, on behalf of material men intervening, objected that the claim of the plaintiffs was not founded on bottomry.

THE COURT pronounced for the force and validity of the bottomry instruments proceeded on, together with interest thereon at the rate of 4 per cent. per annum from the time when the same became due until payment thereof, and costs.

Adm. THE PARLEMENT BELGE. March 15.

Collision—Warrant to arrest Mail Packet belonging to Foreign Sovereign State—Treaty-making Power of Crown.

An action of damage against the Parlement Belge, one of the Belgian mail steamers running between Dover and Ostend, in respect of a collision which occurred in the port of Dover. No appearance was entered, and the action having proceeded by default, the plaintiffs, on the 4th of February, 1879, moved for judgment and for a warrant for the arrest of the Parlement Belge. In support of the motion they relied on an affidavit which stated, inter alia, that the Parlement Belge was in the habit of carrying goods and merchandise between Dover and Ostend.

The Admiralty Advocate (Dr. Deane, Q.C.) on behalf of the Crown, opposed the motion, and the Court ordered that the question at issue should be formally raised. An information and protest was filed by the Attorney-General on behalf of the Crown, alleging that the Parlement Belge at the time of the collision was the property of the King of the Belgians, and a public vessel of the sovereign state of Belgium, carrying his majesty's royal pennon, officered by officers commissioned by him, and in the pay and service of his government, and employed in carrying his majesty's mails under a convention of the 17th of February, 1876, between Her Majesty the Queen and His Majesty the King of the Belgians. It appeared that one of the terms of the convention was, that the Parlement Belge should in all British ports be considered and treated as a vessel of war. The convention was not confirmed by any Act of Parliament.

Feb. 25. Webster, Q.C., and W. G. F. Phillimore, on behalf of the plaintiffs, renewed the motion.

The Solicitor-General (Sir H. S. Giffard), The Admiralty Advocate (Dr. Deane, Q.C.), and Bowen, contrà.

March 15. THE COURT allowed the warrant to issue, holding:—(1.) That the Parlement Belge was not a public ship of war, but a packet conveying mails and carrying on commerce, and did not belong to the category of public vessels which are exempt from process of law. (2.) That it was not competent to the Crown without the authority of Parliament to clothe with the immunity of a foreign ship of war a vessel such as the Parliament Belge, so as to deprive a British subject of his right to redress by proceedings in rem against the vessel.

SHAW v. EARL OF JERSEY.

Practice—Injunction—Landlord and Tenant—Distress.

Appeal of the plaintiffs from so much of an order of Coleridge, C.J., and Denman, J., as directed that an injunction restraining a distress should be dissolved, unless a sum of money should be brought into Court within a fortnight. The case is noted ante, p. 40.

Harrison, Q.C., for the plaintiffs, in support of the appeal, relied upon Beddow v. Beddow (9 Ch. D. 89), but admitted that he had not found any case in which the Court of Chancery had restrained by injunction the exercise of an alleged right to distrain. He contended that the injunction should be continued until the hearing of the special case.

C. S. C. Bowen, for the defendant, was not called upon.

company. In 1868 the company passed resolutions for a voluntary winding-up and appointed liquidators.

In the year 1876 the liquidators laid their final account before a general meeting of shareholders and made a return of this having been done to the registrar of joint stock companies.

In January, 1878, the petitioners applied for payment of their debt, which was refused on the ground that the liquidation was closed, and the company had been dissolved under the provisions of the 142nd and 143rd sections of the Companies Act, 1862. They accordingly filed the present petition for winding up the company. It was not denied that the liquidators had notice of the claim of the petitioners. The Master of the Rolls dismissed the petition and the petitioners appealed.

Chitty, Q.C., and Millar, for the appellants.

Davey, Q.C., and H. B. Buckley, for the liquidators.

THE COURT (James, Baggallay, and Bramwell, L.JJ.) were of opinion that the Court had no jurisdiction to make the order asked for, the company being now dissolved. They could see no distinction between this case and In re Pinto Silver Mining Company (8 Ch. D. 223) in which it was decided that in the absence of fraud such an order could not be made if the company had been dissolved. The appeal must therefore be dismissed.

Ship—Collision—Limitation of Liability—Both Ships to blame.

This was an appeal from a decision of the Master of the Rolls in a suit for the limitation of the liability of the owners of one of two ships between which a collision had occurred.

The plaintiff was the owner of the steamship Savernake; the defendants were the owners of the steamship Vesuvius, and the owners of her cargo. A collision had occurred between the two vessels, whereby the Vesuvius had been sunk, and was lost with her cargo. The Savernake was also damaged. In an action in the Admiralty Division both vessels had been found to blame, and the ordinary Admiralty rule where both vessels were to blame was ordered to apply, namely that each was to pay half the damage to the other. The present plaintiff then took proceedings in the Chancery Division to obtain the benefit of the provision of the Merchant Shipping Act which enables shipowners to limit their liability to a sum equal to 8*l.* per ton of the tonnage of their ship. The loss on the Vesuvius and her cargo was about 28,000*l.*, and the limit of liability at 8*l.* per ton of the Savernake would be only 5200*l.* The loss on the Savernake was about 4000*l.* The plaintiff, the owner of the Savernake, while claiming to limit his own liability to 8*l.* per ton, claimed, nevertheless, to recover half the damage sustained by his own ship against the owners of the Vesuvius, which would make him liable for a balance of about 3200*l.* The owners of the Vesuvius, on the other hand, claimed to have the two sets of damages first assessed, and the Savernake's half-damage deducted from the Vesuvius's half-damage, and then contended that the owners of the Vesuvius should prove against the Savernake for the balance to the extent of 8*l.* per ton, which would make the plaintiff liable to the full limit of his liability, namely 5200*l.*

The Master of the Rolls decided in favour of the defendants, and the plaintiff appealed from the decision.

Holl, Q.C., and W. Phillimore, for the owners of the Vesuvius.

Chitty, Q.C., and Stubbs, for the owners of the cargo of the Vesuvius.

BAGGALLAY, L.J., was of opinion that the Master of the Rolls had proceeded upon an erroneous principle, and that the principle advocated by the plaintiff was the correct one. He therefore held that the judgment of the Master of the Rolls must be reversed.

BRETT, L.J., differed from the opinion of Lord Justice Baggallay, and agreed with the Master of the Rolls.

COTTON, L.J., concurred with Lord Justice Baggallay in holding that the judgment of the Master of the Rolls ought to be reversed.

The appeal was accordingly allowed, and the judgment of the Master of the Rolls reversed.

As regarded actual dedication to the public, the Court, on the evidence came to the same conclusion as Fry, J. The appeal was therefore dismissed.

ATTORNEY-GENERAL v. GREAT EASTERN RAILWAY COMPANY.

Railway Company—Ultrà vires—Letting of Rolling Stock.

This was an appeal by the Great Eastern Railway Company from a decision of the Master of the Rolls. The Tilbury Company were owners of a line of railway communicating with the line of the Great Eastern Railway Company, and under a deed of arrangement dated the 1st of June, 1876, it was, among other things, provided, that the Great Eastern Railway Company should on certain terms and conditions supply the Tilbury Company with locomotive power for a term of five years from the 1st of July, 1875, and also with carriages and waggons and brake vans. The action was at the relation of persons representing the body of manufacturers and dealers in locomotive engines and rolling stock to restrain the Great Eastern Company for letting for hire any locomotive engines or other rolling stock except for the purpose of traffic on another railway on extraordinary emergencies, and from manufacturing locomotive engines or other rolling stock for the purpose of letting the same on hire, or for any other purpose except the purpose of being used by the company upon a line worked by them. The Master of the Rolls granted a perpetual injunction according to the above terms, with a proviso that it was not to prevent the supply of locomotive engines under the agreement of 1 June, 1876, but no engine or rolling stock manufactured by the Great Eastern Company after the date of the judgment was to be so supplied.

Grant of Annuity—Policy of Assurance effected by Grantee—Right of Grantor on Redemption.

By deed of the 20th of March, 1822, Mr. and Mrs. Preston, in consideration of 600*l.*, granted to S. J. Neele an annuity of 64*l.* 7*s.* 6*d.* during the term of ninety-nine years, if Mrs. Preston should so long live, and by the same deed Mrs. Preston granted the rents, issues, and profits of copyhold property, to which she was entitled under her father's will, unto Neele, during her life upon trust to retain and pay the annuity thereout, and all costs, charges, and expenses occasioned by the non-payment thereof, and of such premiums of assurance therein mentioned, and subject thereto to pay, account for, and dispose of the residue unto Mrs. Preston, or as she should direct and appoint, for her sole and separate use. By this deed Preston also covenanted for his wife's title and for further assurance by her, and that she would not during the continuance of the annuity go beyond the seas without giving notice in writing to Neele, to enable him to pay additional premiums so as to prevent any loss or damage to himself by reason of her going beyond the seas. The deed contained a power of sale in case of non-payment of the annuity, and a power to Preston to repurchase the annuity at any time after the expiration of three years on payment to Neele of 600*l.*, together with all arrears of the annuity. On the 19th of March, 1822, Neele had effected a policy on the life of Mrs. Preston for 600*l.*, at an annual premium of 16*l.* 7*s.* 6*d.*, which with 48*l.*, the interest on 600*l.* at 8 per cent., was by the bill alleged to have been charged on the copyhold hereditaments, and secured by the annuity of 64*l.* 7*s.* 6*d.*

S. J. Neele died in 1824, and he and his representatives had been in possession of the premises mortgaged by the deed of March, 1822, down to the present time. Mr. Preston died in 1858, and Mrs. Preston in January, 1869.

The question in the present suit, by the representative of Mr. and Mrs. Preston against the representatives of S. J. Neele, was whether the proceeds of the policy effected by S J. Neele on Mrs. Preston's life formed part of his personal estate, or whether the surplus of the policy money after payment of all arrears of the annuity up to her death, and payment of the 600*l.*, the consideration money for the annuity, belonged to Mrs. Preston's personal estate. Accounts were prayed of what was due upon the annuity and against the defendants, as mortgagees in possession of the property mortgaged as a security for the annuity, on the footing of wilful default.

Sir H. Jackson, Q.C., and Willis Bund, for the plaintiff.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held, upon the authority of Knox v. Turner (Law Rep. 5 Ch. 515), and Gottlieb v. Cranch (4 D. M. & G. 440) that the policy effected by Neele, the grantee of the annuity, as an indemnity against default of payment, did not constitute a security in which the grantor of the annuity had any right or interest; and that the plaintiff, as representative of the grantor or of the assured, was not entitled to the surplus proceeds of the policy.

Mortgage of Leasehold Premises—Delivery of Lease to Mortgagee's Solicitor—Desire to redeem—Fraudulent Dealing with Lease by Defendants' Solicitor—Action to recover possession of Premises and Title Deeds; Damages; an Indemnity; an attested Copy of Lease; Compensation and Costs—Plaintiff allowed to bring Action for the recovery of possession of Lease.

Further consideration. The plaintiff, who was possessed of leasehold premises at Bournemouth, in February, 1872, executed a mortgage deed of them to the defendants, and at the same time handed the indenture of lease to their solicitor. In September, 1876, the plaintiff was desirous of redeeming the mortgage at once, and in lieu of notice it was agreed that he should pay, with the principal sum due, three months' interest. The mortgagees had got rid of the solicitor formerly employed by them, and it was shortly after, September, 1876, discovered that the indenture of lease could not be produced. After a correspondence between the solicitors of the parties, the plaintiff, in June, 1877, brought this action, complaining that he had sustained considerable damage in being prevented from redeeming, and claiming that an account might be taken; a surrender by the defendants of the premises; the delivery to him of the title deeds; and, if the lease was lost, a proper indemnity in respect of such loss; an attested copy of the lease, and compensation for damages and costs.

At the hearing of the action in March, 1878, directions were given to the chief clerk to inquire into the facts relating to the lease, and he had certified that it was fraudulently dealt with by the defendants' former solicitor by depositing it as an equitable security for a sum of money advanced to him, and that it was in the possession of the solicitor of the lady who advanced the money.

W. Pearson, Q.C., and Maclean, for the plaintiff.

Hastings, Q.C., and Cope, for the defendants.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said that upon this hearing his order would be that the plaintiff be at liberty to take such proceedings as he might be advised against the solicitor who was named in the chief clerk's certificate, or such person or persons who might be in possession of the indenture of lease as he might be advised for the recovery of possession of it. If the plaintiff should not get possession of the lease he would be entitled to an indemnity framed in the way mentioned in the certificate. The plaintiff was right in coming to the Court to have the matter inquired into. There was nothing in the pleadings which established the right of the plaintiff to compensation, and therefore the claim for it would not be allowed. As to interest, there having been an arrangement in September, 1876, that the principal should be paid at once with the payment of three months' interest in lieu of notice, interest would cease as from the 1st of January, 1877. The defendants must pay the costs of the action. Further consideration would be reserved, and there would be liberty to apply.

Exclusive Power of Appointment, Exercise of—Forfeiture Clause—Change of Faith by Appointee—Remoteness—Public Policy.

The donee of an exclusive power of appointment amongst her children, by will, dated the 23rd of June, 1874, in exercise of the power, appointed the fund among the objects of the power in certain shares, subject to a proviso that if either during her lifetime or after her death any son or daughter of her's should marry a person who did not profess the Jewish religion, or was not born a Jew, though converted to Judaism, or should forsake the Jewish and adopt the Christian or any other religion, then such son or daughter should forfeit all share in the fund, and in case of forfeiture the forfeited share was to accrue and go over to the others or other of the children living at the time of the forfeiture.

By codicil dated the 12th of July, 1876, the donee of the power, after reciting that one of her sons had married a Christian, and that another had become a Christian, and that they had thus forfeited all right under her will, revoked her will, so far as it was in their favour, and declared that their shares should accrue to her other children.

The plaintiff was a daughter of the donee of the power, who was not born until after the death of the creator of the power, and who after her mother's death became a Christian and afterwards married a Christian. Julius, another child of the donee of the power, born after the death of the creator of the power, married a Christian in his mother's lifetime and without her knowledge; and the principal questions were as to how the shares of the plaintiff and Julius were affected by the forfeiture clause.

W. Pearson, Q.C., and Chadwyck Healey, for Julius.

Robinson, Q.C., and Solomon, Graham Hastings, Q.C., and Byrne, and Schloss, for other parties.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held first that the forfeiture clause was not void as against public policy; secondly, that it was valid so far as it took effect during the lifetime of the donee of the power, and therefore that the share of Julius was forfeited; and, thirdly, that the forfeiture clause must be read in conjunction with the gift over, and therefore that so far as it affected, after the death of the donee of the power, the share of a child born after the death of the creator of the power, it was void for remoteness, and consequently that the plaintiff had not forfeited her share.

This was an action for the administration of the personal estate of E. W. Wingrove by the trustee of the will, the defendant being a legatee. The defendant put in a statement of defence and a counter-claim charging the plaintiff with wilful default.

On the 13th of November, 1878, the defendant's solicitor was informed that the plaintiff was dead.

The defendant's solicitor thereupon made inquiry as to whether the plaintiff left a will, and discovered that he had died insolvent, and that his solicitors did not intend to prosecute the suit. No grant of probate or letters of administration could be found.

Whitehorne applied on behalf of the defendant Thompson, that a legal personal representative of the deceased plaintiff might be appointed under s. 44 of the Chancery Procedure Act, 15 & 16 Vict. c. 86, in order that the defendant might move against him that the action might be dismissed unless revived. He said that he could find no case where such an application had been made in the case of a deceased plaintiff, but he referred to Chaffers v. Headlam (9 Hare, App. xlvi); Davies v. Boulcott (1 Dr. & Sm. 23); Price v. Berrington (11 Beav. 90).

FRY, J., said his difficulty was, that though the legal personal representative when appointed might be liable for costs, it did not follow that he could be made to carry on the action; but he might take the order; the motion to dismiss must be a further and separate application.

Bankruptcy—Liquidation—Removal of Trustee—Notice of Meeting—Bankruptcy Act, 1869, ss. 83, 84—Bankruptcy Rules, 1870, Nos. 304—308.

Appeal from the County Court at Stoke-upon-Trent.

James Bagnall filed a liquidation petition, and on the 5th of May, 1874, John Wright was duly appointed trustee.

On the 28th of December, 1878, a meeting of creditors was held at which a resolution was passed removing Wright from the office of trustee, and appointing John Whitta Thomas to be trustee in his place; and on the 8th of January, 1879, the resolution was registered by the registrar of the Court.

On the 3rd of February an application to the County Court judge was made on behalf of John Kenderdine, a creditor, and of Wright, for an order directing the registration to be vacated, and revoking any certificate of the appointment of any person other than Wright as trustee, on the ground that Wright had received no notice of the meeting.

The County Court judge dismissed the application, and this was the order appealed from.

E. Cooper Willis, for Wright, the appellant:—The rules bearing on the point are rules 304, 305, 307, 308, and 309. The mode of calling a general meeting in liquidation as distinct from in bankruptcy is provided by rules 304, 305: Ex parte Hopkins (Law Rep. 9 Ch. 506). This meeting was not duly "summoned" within the meaning of rule 305, owing to want of notice to the trustee.

Finlay Knight, contrà:—Neither sub.-s. 4, s. 83, of the Act, nor rule 305, says that notice of a meeting summoned by a creditor either for the removal of a trustee or for any other purpose must be served on the trustee; and sect. 125 of the Act and rule 308 both say that the certificate of the registrar in respect of the appointment of any new trustee shall be "conclusive evidence" of his appointment. There was no necessity for the presence of the trustee.

THE CHIEF JUDGE held that the resolution was invalid by reason of notice of the summoning of the meeting not having been served on the trustee; and discharged the order of the County Court, referring the question of the costs of the appeal and of the other hearing to the judge of the Court below.

Fraudulent Debtor—Removal of Goods—Subsequent Recovery by Trustee—Ex parte Application for Leave to prosecute—Debtors Act, 1869 (32 & 33 Vict. c. 62), ss. 11, 16.

Appeal from the Westmoreland County Court refusing an application by the trustee for an order to prosecute the debtor for offences under the Debtors Act, 1869. The debtor, who had been in business at Kendal as a builder and joiner, presented a petition for liquidation in July, 1878. A few days before the filing of this petition the debtor had sent away a large quantity of goods used in his trade to his brother, in payment of an alleged debt for wages. These goods were subsequently recovered by the trustee, and now formed part of the assets. On the 23rd of January, 1879, the trustee made his report under sect. 16 of the Debtors Act, 1869, in the usual form, stating that he "verily believed that the debtor had been guilty" of certain offences under the Debtors Act, 1869, which he specified. An ex parte application for an order to prosecute was made on the 27th of February and refused by the County Court Judge on the ground that as the trustee had recovered and taken possession of the goods removed by the debtor, he had compromised any question of criminal liability.

The trustee appealed ex parte.

E. Cooper Willis, for the appellant, referred to Ex parte Marsden, In re Marsden (2 Ch. D. 786).

THE CHIEF JUDGE considered that the order to prosecute should have been made on the report of the trustee, and that the fact that the goods had been recovered could have nothing to do with the matter.

Appeal allowed, and the order refusing leave to prosecute discharged.

Writ specially indorsed for 70*l.* 16*s.* for goods sold and hired and rent of a furnished house. The plaintiff having taken out a summons under Order XIV. upon an affidavit that the defendant was indebted in the amount claimed and had no defence, the defendant made an affidavit that 41*l.* 6*s.* of the claim was due, and that he was and had always been willing to pay the 41*l.* 6*s.* As to the residue, 29*l.* 10*s.*, the affidavit disclosed a defence on the merits. The master made an order that the defendant should pay the plaintiff within a week 41*l.* 6*s.*, and that in default the plaintiff should be at liberty to sign judgment for the amount claimed on the writ with costs; and that if the 41*l.* 6*s.* were paid as aforesaid the defendant should be at liberty to defend the action as to the residue.

The defendant having appealed, Lopes, J., refused to vary the order.

Polmer, for the defendant, now moved to vary the order.

Vesey Fitzgerald, for the plaintiff.

THE COURT (Kelly, C.B., and Hawkins, J.) held that under Order XIV. r. 4, there was no power to require the defendant to pay to the plaintiff the amount admitted to be due as a condition of being allowed to defend as to the residue, and varied the order thus: The plaintiff to have judgment for 41*l.* 6*s.*, the amount admitted to be due; the defendant to have leave to defend as to the residue.

An action of damage instituted on behalf of the Nelson against the Hankow, belonging to the port of London, to recover for damage sustained in a collision between the two vessels in the River Thames above Gravesend. The statement of defence alleged that at the time of the collision the Hankow was carrying passengers and was proceeding up the Thames on a voyage from New South Wales to London, and that the collision was caused by the negligence of a licensed pilot, employed on board the Hankow by compulsion of law. The action coming on for hearing on the 6th and 7th of March, the Court decided that the collision was caused solely by the negligence of the pilot of the Hankow. The defendants then called as a witness the secretary of the Trinity House, who produced the charter of confirmation granted to the Trinity House by James II. The charter provided for the appointment of Trinity House pilots for the conducting of vessels up and down the Thames.

March 18. Milward, Q.C., and Verney (W. G. F. Phillimore with them), for the defendants, argued that under 17 & 18 Vict. c. 104, ss. 353, 370, 376, the employment of the pilot was compulsory by law.

E. C. Clarkson, for the plaintiffs, contended that the exemption from compulsory pilotage with respect to vessels within the limits of the port to which they belong, contained in the 6 Geo. 4, c. 125, s. 59, and preserved by the 17 & 18 Vict. c. 104, s. 353, applied to the case.

THE COURT held that it had been proved that the port of London was a port in relation to which particular provisions had before the 6 Geo. 4, c. 125, been made for the appointment of pilots, and that consequently the employment of the pilot of the Hankow was compulsory by law at the time and place of the collision, and dismissed the action without costs.

The prisoner was convicted at a sessions at Liverpool under s. 9 of 24 & 25 Vict. c. 99, "for uttering and putting off two false and counterfeit sovereigns, knowing them to be false and counterfeit."

The Recorder of Liverpool submitted to the above Court the question whether the coins which were uttered could properly be held to be false or counterfeit coins within the above statute.

The facts were as follows:—The two coins uttered had been, or were, real sovereigns, coined at the Mint. They had been fraudulently filed at the edges to such an extent as to reduce the weight by one twenty-fourth part. The effect of the filing was to remove the milling entirely, or almost entirely. In order to restore the appearance of the coins a new milling had been made on each coin with tools.

Eyre Lloyd appeared for the prosecution.

Agreement to disentail—Declaration of Trusts; Power to revoke.

A father being desirous to disentail his estate, procured the consent of his eldest son. The written agreement between them provided that the father should pay the son 7000*l.*—4000*l.* absolutely and without any qualification, but the residue, 3000*l.*, was to be handed over to trustees for the use and behoof of the son; it being open to the father to limit the power and control of the son over the said 3000*l.* to such extent and in such a way and manner as he should think proper, and in particular to restrict his interest to a life-rent only; the fee to go to his issue, whom failing, to his nearest heirs or assignees.

The estate being disentailed, a bond was executed by the father in favour of the trustees "and for the ends, uses, and purposes expressed in a declaration of trusts" of even date therewith. The deed of declaration of trusts restricted the son's interest to an alimentary life-rent, and, failing his issue, the fee was given to his aunt (the appellant) and cousins. The son declared his concurrence and acquiescence in the bond, and declaration of trusts. The trustees received the bond and paid the son's income. Shortly afterwards the father died, and the son married, and then he also died survived by his widow (the respondent) but without issue. The son a few days before his death executed a deed of revocation of the declaration of trusts and bequeathed the 3000*l.* to his widow. The aunt contended that the son was not entitled to revoke the declaration of trusts.

On the 19th of March, 1878, the Second Division (Lord Ormidale dissenting) held, reversing the interlocutor of the Lord Ordinary (Curriehill), that the deed of revocation was effectual. (Scotch Cases, 4th Series, vol. v., p. 782). On appeal,

Mr. Benjamin, Q.C., and Mr. M'Clymont, were heard for the appellants.

The Lord Advocate, and Mr. E. E. Kay, Q.C., appeared for the respondent, but were not called upon.

THEIR LORDSHIPS dismissed the appeal with costs.

BRYANT v. LEFEVER AND ANOTHER.

Access of Air—Interruption of Access of Air to Chimney after Twenty Years' Enjoyment—Nuisance.

Action for obstructing access of air to chimneys.

The plaintiff and the defendants were occupiers of adjoining houses, and for more than twenty years before 1876 the occupiers of the plaintiff's house had enjoyed access of air to the chimneys of it; in that year the defendants began to take down their house, and in rebuilding it carried up a wall far beyond its original height, and they put timber on the roof. Owing to these acts of the defendants the chimneys of the plaintiff's house smoked, and the plaintiff was unable to light fires in his house.

At the trial judgment was entered for the plaintiff, and the defendants appealed.

1878. Dec. 11, 12. Gates, Q.C., and Edward Clarke, for the defendants, relied on Webb v. Bird (13 C. B. (N.S.) 841; 31 L. J. (C.P.) 336).

A. Staveley Hill, Q.C., and Cock, for the plaintiff.

1879. Mar 22. THE COURT (Bramwell, Brett, and Cotton, L.JJ) held that the action could not be maintained either on the ground that an easement had been acquired, or on the ground that the defendants had created a nuisance. The judgment was therefore reversed.

Practice—New Trial—Action remitted to be tried in County Court under 19 & 20 Vict. c. 108, s. 26—Rules of Court, 1875, Order XXXIX., r. 1.

An action commenced in the High Court of Justice had been remitted to a County Court under 19 & 20 Vict. c. 108, s. 26, to be tried. The cause was tried by the judge without a jury and a verdict found for the plaintiff.

Graham, for the defendant, moved for a new trial under Order XXXIX., r. 1 contending that the action though remitted to the County Court was still pending in the High Court, and in cases where the trial was before a judge without a jury the application for a new trial ought to be made to the Court of Appeal. He further contended that London v. Roffey (3 Q. B. D. 6) was wrongly decided.

THE COURT (Brett and Cotton, L.JJ.) held that Order XXXIX. r. 1, did not apply to actions remitted to be tried in a County Court, and that London v. Roffey (3 Q. B. D. 6) was rightly decided.

Debtor's Summons—Arrest of Absconding Debtor—Absconding Debtors Act, 1870, s. 1.

A debtor's summons was issued against a Spanish subject, who was in England for a temporary purpose. The debt claimed was due from the firm of which he was a member, and which carried on business at Havannah. He had come to England on behalf of his firm, who were insolvent, to endeavour to make an arrangement with their English creditors. He offered them a composition of 5*s.* which some of them (including the summoning creditors) were willing to accept. In consequence, however, of proceedings being taking at Havannah by others of the English creditors, the arrangement could not be carried out, and the debtor was requested by his partner to return home. He wrote to the summoning creditors telling them that he was going. They then issued the debtor's summons, and at the same time obtained a warrant under the Act of 1870 for the debtor's arrest. The summons was served on him, and at the same time he was arrested under the warrant. Mr. Registrar Murray, acting as Chief Judge, refused to release him. The debtor appealed.

Alexander, for the appellant.

Winslow, Q.C., and E. C. Winslow, for the summoning creditors.

THE COURT (Jessel, M.R., James and Bramwell, L.JJ.) held that there was no presumption in the case of a foreigner about to leave England after a temporary stay there (as there might be in the case of an Englishman going abroad), that he was going away with the intention of avoiding payment of a debt. And on the evidence their Lordships held that the debtor had no intention of avoiding payment of the summoning creditors' debt. There had been a gross abuse of the procedure of the Court. The warrant was accordingly set aside with costs, and an order was made for the immediate discharge of the debtor.

Debtor's Summons—Bankruptcy Petition—Tender of Part of Debt—Refusal to accept—Bankruptcy Act, 1869, ss. 6, 7, 8, 9.

On the 9th of November Astrup and Harland commenced an action in the Mayor's Court against Lefevre, on a bill of exchange for 40*l.*, accepted by him and indorsed to them, and dishonoured. He obtained leave to defend on paying 20*l.* into Court. On the 17th of October an order was made staying all further proceedings in the action, on the defendant's undertaking to pay the plaintiffs 20*l.* 10*s.*, in addition to the 20*l.* paid into Court, and the costs of the action. If default was made in paying the 20*l.* 10*s.* and the costs, the plaintiffs were to be at liberty to sign judgment and issue execution. On the 24th of October the costs were taxed at 9*l.* 2*s.*, and the defendant tendered 29*l.* 14*s.* 6*d.* to the plaintiffs solicitor. He refused to receive it unless the defendant would also pay 30*l.*, the amount of another overdue acceptance of the defendant which the plaintiffs held. The defendant refused to pay the 30*l.*, alleging that the acceptance for the 30*l.* had been obtained from him by fraud, and that the plaintiffs had taken it with notice of the fraud the day before it became due. The plaintiffs then issued a debtor's summons against the defendant for 59*l.* 14*s.* 6*d.* The defendant applied to have the summons dismissed, but the usual order was made that he should give security. The security was not given within the time limited, and the plaintiffs presented a bankruptcy petition against the defendant in respect of the 59*l.* 14*s.* 6*d.* Mr. Registrar Pepys, acting as Chief Judge, dismissed the petition. The petitioners appealed.

Maidlow, for the appellants.

Yate Lee, for Lefevre.

The Court (James, Baggallay, and Bramwell, L.JJ.) said that after the order to stay proceedings had been made, the plaintiffs had no right but what that order gave them. The debt on the bill was at an end. If the defendant made default, the plaintiffs could sign judgment; and, if judgment were signed, the judgment debt might be used for the purposes of a debtor's summons. Under the circumstances the registrar was quite right in dismissing the petition.

James, L.J., said that he thought the summons ought to have been dismissed.

Court of Bankruptcy—Jurisdiction—Setting aside Deed void under Bankruptcy Law—Bankruptcy Act, 1869, s. 72.

This was an appeal from an order made by Mr. Registrar Hazlitt, acting as Chief Judge, setting aside a mortgage deed executed by the bankrupt on the ground that it was fraudulent as against his creditors, and also an act of bankruptcy as being an assignment of the whole of the bankrupt's property to secure a pre-existing debt. The mortgagee appealed.

Horton Smith, Q.C., and A. Young, for the appellant, objected that, the mortgagee being a stranger to the bankruptcy, the Court of Bankruptcy ought to leave the case to be decided by the ordinary tribunals.

E. C. Willis, for the trustee, was not heard.

The Court (James, Baggallay, and Bramwell, L.JJ.) dismissed the appeal.

James, L.J., said that cases in which, by the operation of the bankrupt law, the trustee had a higher and better title than the bankrupt himself were intended to be dealt with by the Court of Bankruptcy. Cases in which the trustee had only the same rights as the bankrupt should be left to the ordinary tribunals.

Husband and Wife—Action to enforce Separation Deed—Counter-claim for Judicial Separation—Charge of Cruelty—Lapse of Time—Infants' Custody Act, 1873 (36 Vict. c. 12)—Costs.

This was an action by the plaintiff to enforce the covenants in a deed of separation between himself and his wife, dated the 25th of October, 1873, and to restrain the wife from returning to cohabitation. The defendants were the trustees of the deed and the wife.

The wife by her defence alleged that the plaintiff was disentitled to relief by reason of his own breaches of the covenants in the deed, especially in having deprived her of the custody of her infant daughter, and by her counterclaim, as amended, she alleged various acts of cruelty on the part of the husband, and claimed a judicial separation. The allegations of cruelty were denied by the plaintiff.

It appeared that the parties had lived apart for some little

Ince, Q.C., and W. W. Cooper, for the plaintiff.

Mrs. Besant appeared in person.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS held that the Court could not entertain a claim for judicial separation founded on charges of cruelty prior to the date of the separation deed, and dismissed the counter-claim. His Lordship further held that the Court would enforce a separation deed as against a wife, and as the plaintiff in this case had received from the wife's solicitors letters stating her intention to return to cohabitation, and as the alleged breaches of the covenant on his part were not established to the satisfaction of the Court—the Court itself having removed the child under the Infants' Custody Act, 1873, which was passed before the agreement—he was entitled to an injunction. Under the special circumstances of the case there would be no order as to costs, except that the plaintiff pay 10*l.* in respect of the trustees' costs.

Vendor and Purchaser—Misleading Condition—Sale by Court.

Summons by a purchaser at a sale under an order of the Court to rescind his contract, or that an open reference as to title might be directed, on the ground that one of the conditions of sale was misleading.

The condition provided that a declaration should be produced to the purchaser that the property was taken by the declarant from Esther Banister in 1835, and had since been held by him of her, and those claiming under her in succession, up to the time of the sale. "The purchaser shall be satisfied with the title so made as showing a good and sufficient title, without the production of any other document of title whatever previous to the will of the said Esther Banister in 1860, who shall be assumed to have been seised of and entitled to the entire property in fee simple in possession, free from incumbrances, at the time of letting the farm in 1835, and up to and at her death. It is not accurately known and cannot be now satisfactorily explained how she acquired the property, and it is expressly stipulated that no other title than as above shall be required or inquired into, whether in the vendor's possession, power, or knowledge or not, neither shall he be bound to answer any requisition relative thereto. If any liability to succession duty shall appear, the same shall be settled or provided for as the Court shall direct."

The abstract of title delivered to the purchaser commenced with the will of Esther Banister, and contained the declaration mentioned in the condition. The purchaser's solicitor inquired whether succession duty had been paid by her devisee, and was informed that the receipt for succession duty on her death did not include the property sold. He made inquiries at the Inland Revenue Office, and was informed that the property had not been accounted for as forming part of the property of Esther Bannister. A summons was taken out to settle the question of succession duty, and on the return of this summons the vendor's solicitor stated for the first time that Esther Banister was a mortgagee in possession of the property, and that her executor had on passing his residuary account paid legacy duty on the mortgage debt. The hearing of the summons was adjourned, and the purchaser's solicitor then searched the records of the Court of Chancery, and discovered that in 1845 a suit had been instituted by Esther Banister against William Ellis and others. From the bill in that suit it appeared that Esther Banister was the executrix of her father, John Banister, who was second mortgagee of the property, Ellis being first mortgagee. John Banister had by his will bequeathed the mortgage debt to three of his daughters, of whom Esther was one. The suit was not a foreclosure one, but was brought to determine the rights of the first and second mortgagees with reference to the proceeds of a policy of assurance which had been included in the mortgages. On making this discovery the present summons was taken out. The hearing was adjourned into Court. It appeared that the conditions of sale and the abstract of title had been prepared under the advice of the conveyancing counsel of the Court.

J. Pearson, Q.C., and E. T. Holland, for the purchaser.

Glasse, Q.C., and Buckley, for the vendor, were not heard.

FRY, J., was of opinion that the condition was not misleading, that the vendor had acted with perfect good faith, and that there was nothing to shew that the purchaser would not get a good holding title. The summons was therefore dismissed.

In re NORWICH PROVIDENT INSURANCE SOCIETY.

Company—Companies Act, 1862, s. 38—Past Member.

Adjourned summons on the part of the liquidator of the Norwich Insurance Society to obtain an order for payment by E. A. Bath within 14 days of a call made on the 8th of July, 1878, on 2000 B. shares held by him in the company.

The company was established in 1860 for effecting life insurances and insurances on such other kinds of risk as might thereafter might be determined by general meeting. In March, 1872, it was resolved by a special general meeting that fire insurance and fidelity guarantees should be added to their business as a distinct and separate department. A special issue of 1*l.* B., or fire shares, was made to provide for this new business, and Bath took 2000 of these shares, which were allotted to him in July, 1873.

Doubts having arising as to the validity of the new business and issue of B. shares, a new company was formed in September, 1873, to carry on the business of fire and guarantee insurance. Shares in the new company credited with the amounts paid on the B. shares were to be issued to the B. shareholders, and the B. shares were to be cancelled. Under this arrangement shares were allotted to Bath in the new company, and on the 24th of September, 1873, his B. shares in the old company were cancelled. On the 24th of April, 1874, a resolution was passed for winding up the old company. Mr. Bath's name having been placed on the list of contributories, an application to remove it was refused by V.-C. Bacon in chambers. On appeal, Mr. Bath's name was retained on the list of contributories of the old company as a past member only, his membership having ceased on the 24th September, 1873 (see Bath's Case 8 Ch. D. 384).

The question now argued was whether having regard to the Companies Act, 1862, s. 38, Mr. Bath, as a past member, was liable to contribute to claims on fire policies until it was shewn that the contributions to be obtained from existing life as well as well as fire shareholders had been exhausted.

Hemming, Q.C., and T. Brett, for the official liquidator.

Sir H. Jackson, Q.C., and Seward Brice, for Bath.

Ingle Joyce, for Messrs. Butterworth, judgment creditors in respect of a fire claim.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that two classes of assets and two distinct classes of liabilities had been created. The creditors on fire policies had the fire assets only to look to for payment of their claims, and could not make any part of the life assets available. Having exhausted the existing fire shareholders, the official liquidator had rightly called upon the past fire shareholders to contribute to payment of the fire claims.

Order according to summons, costs of all parties out of fire department assets.

Vendor and Purchaser of Colliery—Company in Liquidation—Summons by Liquidator under Companies Act, 1862, s. 100, for delivery up of Possession of Estate—Order made and Accounts directed.

Adjourned summons.

Mr. Guy Senior was the vendor of a colliery of which he was the lessee, situate at Barnsley, Yorkshire, to this company, and had been, as alleged, paid a part of the purchase-money. There was a conflict of evidence as to whether he had been paid the whole of it. He had not delivered up the possession of the property to the company. The company having been ordered to be wound up, Mr. Guy, who was a director, was placed on the list of contributories. The liquidator applied under sect. 100 of the Companies Act, 1862, for the delivery up of possession of the estate to which the company was primâ facie entitled to him.

Mr. Senior denied that he had made any contract with the company, and this application was resisted on the grounds that it was for the specific performance of an agreement, and was tantamount to bringing an action of ejectment, and that the Court had not any jurisdiction upon the summons under s. 100. Further, that Mr. Senior ought not be ordered to deliver up the property before he was paid his purchase-money.

Hastings, Q.C., and Cozens-Hardy, for the liquidator.

W. Pearson, Q.C., and Bagnold, for Mr. Senior, and Bennett, for trustees.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that he had ample jurisdiction to make the order asked upon this summons, and ordered possession to be delivered to the liquidator, and directed accounts of the purchase-moneys to be taken; an account of moneys expended by Mr. Senior in developing the colliery, and an account of certain rents paid by him, and also directed that Mr. Senior do attend to be examined at any place, and when he should be required by the liquidator, with the sanction of the judge.

Rule against Perpetuities—Covenant for Right of Pre-emption of Land.

By a deed dated the 3rd of September, 1856, Offley conveyed a piece of land to Rutter in fee, reserving the minerals under it. The deed contained a covenant by Offley that, in case he, his heirs or assigns, should at any time thereafter sell or agree to sell to any person the minerals under adjoining lands of Offley, he, his heirs or assigns, would at the same time offer to Rutter, his heirs or assigns, the minerals under the piece of land thereby conveyed, and give him or them the refusal of the same for a month from the time such offer should be made, at the same price per acre as Offley, his heirs or assigns, should have agreed to sell the adjoining minerals. The piece of land was afterwards conveyed by Rutter to the plaintiff company. The action was brought against the devisees in trust for sale of Offley, and a purchaser from them of the adjoining minerals, to enforce specific performance of the covenant. A verbal offer of the minerals had been made by the devisees to the company, but it had not been accepted within a month. The defendants contended that the plaintiffs had lost their right of pre-emption, and also that the covenant was a violation of the rule against perpetuities.

North, Q.C., and Speed, for the plaintiffs.

Kekewich, Q.C., and Hornell, for the devisees.

Cookson, Q.C., and Whitehorne, for the purchaser.

FRY, J., held that the covenant was not obnoxious to the rule against perpetuities, and also that it required the offer to be in writing, and he decreed specific performance with costs.

BANKRUPTCY.

C. J. B. Ex parte LUDLOW. March 31.
In re HANCOCK.

Custom of Trade—Wine and Spirit Merchants and Warehousemen.

Appeal from the County Court at Exeter.

The sole question was whether or not there exists in the city of Bristol a custom of trade that wine merchants who are also warehousemen or bonded cellar keepers have a general lien upon the goods of a customer lying in their cellars for the amount of their general account against such customer, whether such goods are paid for or not.

The trustee in the liquidation of Hancock, a customer of the appellants, Ludlow & Co., wine and spirit merchants and bonded warehousemen of Bristol, claimed possession of goods purchased and paid for by Hancock, and still in Ludlows' possession. Ludlows claimed a lien for their general account, and had proved for their debt less the value of the goods in their possession.

By the order appealed from, dated the 6th of February, 1879, Ludlows were ordered to deliver up the goods to the trustee.

De Gex, Q.C., and Poole, for the appellants.

Robinson, Q.C., and C. F. Gill, for the respondent, the trustee.

THE CHIEF JUDGE held upon the evidence that the custom was clearly proved; and discharged the order with costs in both Courts.

Q. B. Div. TOMLINSON, APP.; BULLOCK, RESP. March 27.

Case stated by justices.

An application for an order of affiliation against the respondent had been made by the appellant under 35 & 36 Vict. c. 65, but refused by the justices. The child in respect of which the application was made was born on the 10th of August, 1872, the day on which the Act received the royal assent. The Act, which repealed the previous Bastardy Act, 7 & 8 Vict. c. 101, applies only to children born after the passing of the Act. The application not being made within six months of the passing of 36 Vict. c. 9, did not come within that Act, which in certain cases gives a remedy with regard to children born before the passing of 35 & 36 Vict. c. 65. The question therefore was whether the child must be taken to have been born after the passing of the Act 35 & 36 Vict. c. 65, and whether the justices were right in holding to the contrary.

Lockwood, for the appellant.

Crompton, for the respondent.

THE COURT (Mellor and Lush, JJ.) held that the statute must be taken to have come into force at the commencement of the day on which it received the royal assent, and that the decision of the magistrates was incorrect.

Bastardy—Mother of Bastard Child married at Date of Application —7 & 8 Vict. c. 101, s. 5; 35 & 36 Vict. c. 65, s. 3.

Upon application to justices for an order in bastardy under 35 & 36 Vict. c. 65, which by s. 3 enacts that "any single woman who may be with child, or who may be delivered of a bastard child, may either before the birth or at any time within twelve months from the birth of such child, &c." . . . make application for a summons against the putative father—it appeared that the applicant at the time of the birth of the child was a single woman, but that she had married previous to the application, and at the time of the hearing was living with her husband. The justices having dismissed the application, a case was stated under 20 & 21 Vict. c. 43.

W. Graham, for the applicant, contended that 35 & 36 Vict. c. 65, having expressly repealed the proviso in 7 & 8 Vict. c. 101, s. 5, to the effect that a bastardy order should not operate after the marriage of the mother of the child; it must be taken that the marriage of the applicant was no bar to the order, more especially as it had been decided upon the construction of the earlier statute that it was competent for a married woman delivered of a bastard child while living separate from her husband to apply for a bastardy order.

Croome, for the respondent.

THE COURT (Mellor and Lush, JJ.) gave judgment for the respondent, holding that the applicant being married and living with her husband was not a single woman within the meaning of 35 & 36 Vict. c. 65, s. 3.

Case stated by a metropolitan police magistrate.

An information under the 6th section of the Sale of Food and Drugs Act had been preferred against the respondent by an inspector of nuisances who had purchased for the purpose of analysis under the Act. The inspector not having purchased the article for his own consumption, or with his own moneys, the magistrate thought that the sale was not to the "prejudice of the purchaser," within the meaning of the Act, and declined to convict. The question was whether he was right in so deciding.

Poland, for the appellant.

Ex. Div. DAVEY v. SHANNON. March 31.

Contract not to be performed within a Year—Statute of Frauds, s. 4.

The claim alleged that in October, 1866, the defendant entered into the plaintiff's employment as a foreman tailor for a term of three years, on the terms, amongst others, that if he should leave the plaintiff's employment he should not engage in the service of any one carrying on, or himself carry on, the business of a tailor or outfitter within five miles of Devonport. The defendant, on the expiration of the three years, continued in the employment of the plaintiff on the like terms, except as to the period of employment, until the end of October, 1877.

Breach, that about the end of October, 1877, the defendant left the plaintiff's employment and shortly afterwards began and still continued to carry on business as a tailor and outfitter in Devonport.

Defence that the contract was not in writing signed by the defendant or any person, &c.

Demurrer to the defence.

Anstie, for the plaintiff.

A. Charles, Q.C. (Ringwood with him), for the defendant, relied on Eley v. Positive &c. Assurance Company (1 Ex. D. 20).

HAWKINS, J., held that the contract amounted to an agreement on the defendant's part not to set up the trade of a tailor or outfitter within five miles of Devonport during the joint lives of himself and the plaintiff; that primâ facie therefore it was not to be performed within a year, and so fell within the Statute of Frauds, sect. 4.

This action would be dismissed without costs, but in future the general rule would prevail and costs in Admiralty appeals would follow the result.

Fraudulent Preference—Repayment of Money sent for specific Purpose—Bankruptcy Act, 1869, s. 92.

At the end of September, 1878, Kelly & Co. of Glasgow, remitted to Smith, Fleming, & Co., of London, three cheques respectively for 2500*l.*, 2000*l.*, and 800*l.*, for the purpose of meeting some bills of exchange drawn by Kelly & Co. upon and accepted by Smith, Fleming, & Co., which were to become due on the 5th of October, the arrangement between the two firms being that Kelly & Co. were to provide funds to meet the bills at maturity. Smith & Co. kept two banking accounts, one at the Bank of England for the purpose of paying their acceptances, and the other, their general account, at the London Joint Stock Bank. It was intended that all the three cheques should be paid into the Bank of England, but, through the mistake of a clerk, only two of the cheques were so paid, the cheque for 2000*l.* being paid to the London Joint Stock Bank. On the 2nd of October Smith & Co. found that they were insolvent, and consulted their solicitors, and called in Mr. Harding, an accountant, to investigate their affairs. On the 3rd of October they announced to their creditors that they had suspended payment. They drew a cheque on the Bank of England for 5300*l.* (the amount of Kelly & Co.'s remittances) and proposed to pay it to Kelly & Co., but their solicitors advised them that, as the 2000*l.* had been paid into their general account, it was doubtful whether they could properly pay it back to Kelly & Co. The 5300*l.* was accordingly placed in joint names. The London Joint Stock Bank claimed a lien on the balance of Smith & Co.'s account with them, and refused to allow them them to withdraw the 2000*l.* Kelly & Co. paid the bills at maturity, and ultimately 3300*l.* (part of the 5300*l.*). was paid to them and the 2000*l.* was placed in the hands of Harding to await the determination of the rights of the parties. On the 1st of November, Smith & Co. filed a liquidation petition under which Harding was appointed trustee. Kelly & Co. applied to the Court for an order that the 2000*l.* should be paid to them. Mr. Registrar Brougham, acting as Chief Judge, refused the application. Kelly & Co. appealed.

Herschell, Q.C., and A. Morley, for the appellants.

Benjamin, Q.C., and W. D. Gardiner, for the trustee.

THE COURT (James, Baggallay, and Bramwell, L.JJ.) held that, as Smith & Co. had never intended to misappropriate the remittances, but had throughout endeavoured to apply them to the purpose for which they were sent, the relation of debtor and creditor had never arisen between them and Kelly & Co. in respect of the remittances, and consequently the repayment of the 2000*l.* to them would not have been a voluntary preference of a creditor within sect. 92. There was nothing in the bankruptcy law to prevent Smith & Co. from doing that which as honest men they were endeavouring to do. The 2000*l.* must, therefore, be paid to the appellants.

Double Proof—Two Firms composed of same Persons—Estate administered in two Countries—Bankruptcy Act, 1869, s. 37.

J. K. Hooper, and J. K. Hooper the younger carried on business in partnership in London as wine merchants, under the firm of Richard Hooper & Sons, and in Oporto, as wine shippers, under the firm of Hooper Brothers. They filed a liquidation petition in London, and immediately afterwards proceedings were taken in Oporto for the liquidation of their affairs there according to the law of Portugal. The Banco de Portugal, who were the holders for value of five bills of exchange of which Hooper Brothers were the drawers, and R. Hooper & Sons the acceptors, received a dividend of 8*s.* in the pound in respect of the bills in the Portuguese liquidation, and afterwards tendered a proof upon the bills in the English liquidation. Mr. Registrar Murray, as Chief Judge, held that the proof could be admitted only upon the condition that the bank should not receive any dividend thereon until the other creditors had received a dividend equal to that which the bank had received in the Portuguese liquidation. The bank appealed.

Cookson, Q.C., and S. Woolf, for the bank.

De Gex, Q.C., and Finlay Knight, for the trustee, were not heard.

THE COURT (James, Baggallay, and Bramwell, L.JJ.) held that, as there were not distinct estates, but only one estate being administered in different countries, s. 37 did not apply. In this respect that section was equivalent to s. 152 of the Bankruptcy Act, 1861, and the case was governed by the decision of the Court of Appeal in Ex parte Wilson (L. R. 7 Ch. 490). The appeal was dismissed. Leave was given to appeal to the House of Lords.

Practice—Leave to amend—Striking out Name of Defendant—Defendant ceasing to have an Interest—Rules of Court, 1875, Order XVI, rr. 13, 14.

This action was brought in April, 1876, to secure a trust fund, and administer the trusts. T. L. Elwon, one of the defendants, had an interest in the income determinable on his assigning or charging it, or doing or suffering any act whereby it would become vested in some other person. In September, 1876, he filed a liquidation petition, and a trustee of his property was appointed, and thus his interest in the income came to an end. In November, 1876, the plaintiffs obtained an order giving them leave, on payment of costs, to substitute a new plaintiff for the original plaintiffs, and otherwise to amend the writ and statement of claim as they should be advised. Elwon was served with notice of the summons on which this order was made, and his costs of it were paid. Some time after his solicitor discovered that in amending the writ and statement of claim the plaintiffs had struck out Elwon's name as a defendant. A summons was then taken out asking that the plaintiffs might be ordered to pay Elwon's costs of the action.

Higgins, Q.C., and Creed, for the summons.

Glasse, Q.C., and Romer, contrà.

FRY, J., held that the plaintiffs were not entitled under the order to amend to strike out Elwon's name. But as his interest in the matter had ceased, his costs of the action could not be obtained without an order of revivor, and such an order could not be made for costs only. The plaintiffs could not be ordered to pay his costs merely because they had taken a wrong course in striking his name out. The summons must be dismissed with costs.

Trade Mark—Registration—Regulations of Commissioners of Patents—Words in Foreign Character—Trade Marks Registration Act, 1875 (38 & 39 Vict. c. 91), ss. 1, 5, par. 3.

Motion under s. 5 of the Trade Marks Registration Act, 1875, to rectify the register of trade marks by inserting the name of Rotherham & Sons as the proprietors of a trade mark which had been advertised in the Trade Marks Journal. The registrar had refused to register the mark on the ground that it consisted of a word in Arabic character, and that the Commissioners of Patents had issued a regulation forbidding marks comprising words in a foreign character to be registered as trade marks. The word, if rendered from Arabic into English character, would be represented by "Tod." Rotherham & Sons were watchmakers; one of their consignees was a firm called Tod, Müller, & Co. The word "Tod" in Arabic was said to signify a "huge mountain." It was stated that the mark was well known in the East.

Sir H. Jackson, Q.C., and Moloney, for the motion.

Rigby, for the registrar, submitted wholly to the jurisdiction. The registrar had simply obeyed the regulation of the commissioners, and the only question was whether the Court would think it expedient to support the regulation, the ground of which was understood to be, that officials in the Trade Mark Registry Office would be unable to distinguish one trade mark in foreign character from another.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR observed that there were no words to be found in the statute declaring that words in trade marks must be exclusively in English characters. The powers of the Commissioners of Patents were very large, but they did not extend to altering or repealing an Act of Parliament. The reasons for the regulation appeared to the Court to be insufficient, and the regulation itself to be ultrà vires. There must be a declaration that the applicants were entitled to have the trade mark registered, with a direction to the registrar to proceed accordingly.

Gift by Codicil for Life—Direction for Maintenance of Children—Gift of Capital to Children at 21*—Child who survived entitled.*

John Grimshaw, who died in March, 1821, by a codicil made in November, 1819, after giving unto the three trustees appointed by his will, made in September, 1817, the sum of 3000*l.* upon trust to pay the income unto his son-in-law, named, for life, and after his death to divide the principal sum amongst his three children as they should severally attain the age of 21 years, with benefit of survivorship, and giving a further sum of 2000*l.* upon trust to apply the income, or of so much thereof as they should think proper, in the maintenance, education, and bringing up of those three children during their respective minorities, and upon their attainment of the age of 21 years to pay the sum of 2000*l.* with the accumulations thereof unto them or the survivor of them; gave unto the same trustees a further sum of 3000*l.* upon trust to pay the income unto his son-in-law, Charles Greenway, and Ann, his wife, during their joint lives, and to the survivor of them during his or her life, and after the decease of the survivor of them to apply the income "thereof or of so much thereof as they shall think proper in the maintenance, education, and bringing up of their child or children, during their respective minorities, and upon their attainment to the age of 21 years do and shall pay and divide the same principal sum with the accumulations thereof unto and equally amongst such child or children, and if there shall be no such child unto the said Charles Greenway, his executors, administrators, or assigns." The testator made a bequest unto the trustees "of the further sum of 3000*l.* upon the last-mentioned trusts for the benefit of my-son-law C. B. Walker and Dorothea his wife and their issue, and in default thereof to the said C. B. Walker" absolutely; and a bequest of the further sum of 2000*l.* "upon the same trusts for the benefit" of another son-in-law and his wife "and their issue."

C. B. Walker and Dorothea his wife had issue four children; 1st, John, who attained the age of twenty-one years and died in 1845 in the lifetime of his father intestate, and without having been married; 2nd, Penelope, and 3rd, Elizabeth, who died in the lifetime of their father infants, and without having been married; and 4th, Henrietta Louisa, the wife of Henry Stowe, who had attained the age of twenty-one years and had survived her father (who died in January, 1878) and her mother (who died in 1826). Upon the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Stowe in 1855 her share of the fund was placed in settlement. The trustees of the will had paid the residue of the trust fund into Court, and this was a petition by Mr. and Mrs. Stowe and the trustees of the settlement asking for the payment of it out to the trustees.

The question upon the construction of the codicil was, whether the shares of the children vested before they attained the age of twenty-one years, or at that age.

Farwell, for the petitioners.

Humber, for the representatives of C. B. Walker.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that there was no gift of capital to any child who did not attain the age of twenty-one years. The direction for maintenance came first in this case, and that was not to be disregarded in the present state of the authorities; and further, the trustees were to apply the whole income, or so much of it as they might think proper, for that purpose. There was no trust of the capital and accumulations till the children attained the age of twenty-one—therefore the two who died in infancy were not entitled to any share in this fund, and the order must be as prayed.

QUEEN'S BENCH, COMMON PLEAS, AND EXCHEQUER DIVISIONS.

Q. B. Div. MELLOR, APP.; DENHAM, RESP. March 29.

Elementary Education—School Board—By-laws—Attendance of Child at School—Factory, Child employed in—Elementary Education Act, 1870 (33 & 34 Vict. c. 75), s. 74.

Case stated by justices under 20 & 21 Vict. c. 43, the facts of which were as follows:

An information was preferred by the appellant, the clerk to the Oldham School Board, against the respondent, the father of a boy between ten and eleven years old, for neglecting to cause the boy to attend school during the whole of the ordinary school hours as required by the by-laws of the School Board. It appeared that the boy was employed in a factory and was attending an efficient elementary school pursuant to the Factory Acts, though not attending the number of hours required by the by-laws. The 74th section of the Elementary Education Act, 1870, provides that the School Board may make by-laws for the purpose of determining the time during which children are to attend school, provided that no such by-law shall be contrary to anything contained in any Act for regulating the education of children employed in labour. The by-laws of the Oldham School Board provided that nothing therein contained should have any force or effect in so far as it might be contrary to anything contained in any Act for regulating the education of children employed in labour. The justices dismissed the information, and the question was whether their decision was correct.

Hamilton, for the appellant.

Aspland, for the respondent.

March 29. THE COURT (Mellor and Lush, JJ.) were of opinion that the School Board were not entitled to enforce the by-laws against children who, though not obeying such by-laws, were attending efficient elementary schools pursuant to the conditions of the Factory Acts. They therefore gave judgment for the respondent.

FOULKES v. METROPOLITAN DISTRICT RAILWAY COMPANY.

Negligence—Carriers—Contract, Express—Implied.

ACTION for negligence.

The plaintiff went to the booking-office of the New Richmond Station of the London and South-Western Railway. Over the office was inscribed a direction to passengers to book there for the London and South-Western and the Metropolitan District Railways. He took a ticket to Hammersmith and back viâ the Metropolitan District Railway. No company was named on the ticket. The Metropolitan District Railway Company have running powers over the London and South-Western line from New Richmond to Hammersmith and back. On his return journey with the ticket he travelled in a Metropolitan District Railway train in charge of guards and a driver of that company. Being adapted to the platforms of the Metropolitan Line, which were on a level with its floor, the carriage had no step. The plaintiff arrived at the New Richmond Station, and being unaware that the platform there, belonging to the London and South-Western Railway Company, was more than two feet lower than the floor of the carriage, he stepped out, fell, and was hurt. He sued the defendants for the injury. The jury found negligence in the construction of the carriage. A verdict was entered for the plaintiff, and a rule having been granted to enter it for the defendants on the ground that there was no evidence of liability in the defendants, Parry, Serjt., and A. L. Smith, shewed cause.

Waddy, Q.C., and Bray, in support of the rule.

THE COURT (Grove and Lopes, JJ.), held that there was evidence of liability. The defendants had invited and permitted the plaintiff to enter their carriage and to be carried by them, and therefore undertook to carry him with reasonable precautions for his safety, and the express contract made with the London and South-Western Railway Company did not operate to exempt the defendants from liability.

Further, per Grove, J., that there was evidence that the express contract was made by the London and South Western Railway Company as agents of the defendants, who were therefore liable for their negligence in the carriage of the plaintiff.

Rule discharged.

COOPER v. LONDON, BRIGHTON, AND SOUTH COAST RAILWAY COMPANY.

Deposit of Money under Contract—Forfeiture of Deposit—Performance of Contract Condition Precedent to Right to recover Deposit.

Action in the City of London Court to recover 10*s.* deposit. The plaintiff bought from the defendants a season ticket entitling him to travel by their railway for one month, paying the usual charge for the ticket, and also 10*s.* deposit, and signed a memorandum agreeing to be bound by certain conditions. The fourth condition was, that the ticket "is to be considered as the property of the company, to be delivered up at the secretary's office on the day after expiry, or on forfeiture." The sixth was, "that the ticket and all benefit and advantages thereof, including the deposit, shall be absolutely forfeited to the company if it shall be lost, or in case of any breach of any of the above conditions." The plaintiff delivered up the ticket some few days after the month expired, and (as the City of London Court found) within a reasonable time after the month expired. The judge having given judgment for the plaintiff, the defendants appealed.

Jeune (Moseley with him), for the defendants.

Anderson (Bremner with him), for the plaintiff, contended that the 10*s.* was in the nature of a penalty and not liquidated damages, and that as the company had not shewn any damage, the plaintiff was entitled to a return of the deposit, and that a strict performance of the conditions was not a condition precedent to the right to recover.

THE COURT (Kelly, C.B., and Hawkins, J.), held that a strict performance of every one of the conditions was a condition precedent to the right to recover the deposit; and that as the ticket had not been delivered up "on the day after expiry," the conditions had not been performed, the deposit was forfeited, and the plaintiff could not maintain the action.

Judgment for the defendants.

MULKERN AND OTHERS v. LORD. April 7.

Benefit Society—Arbitration.

Appeal against a decision of the Court of Appeal which had discharged an order of the Master of the Rolls.

The appellants were the trustees of the Birkbeck Permanent Benefit Building Society, established under the 6 & 7 Wm. 4, c. 32. The respondent became a member of the society in 1869, and held a considerable number of shares, which number he afterwards increased, and on both his holdings borrowed money from the society and executed mortgages to the trustees. Differences arose with respect to the payment of moneys by Lord, and the trustees sold part of the mortgaged property. Lord, in 1877, brought an action against the trustees praying for accounts, and for an injunction to restrain future sales, and for farther relief. The trustees insisted that under certain rules of the society (and the provisions of the 10 Geo. 4, c. 56), which as a member of the society he was bound to observe, Lord was under the obligation of making the differences between themselves and him the subject of arbitration, and therefore that his action must be dismissed. The case was heard on motion before the Master of the Rolls who, on the 14th of December, 1877, made an order that the matters in difference should be submitted to arbitration pursuant to the rules of the society. On appeal the Lords Justices discharged this order, chiefly on the ground that under the circumstances of this case justice could not be completely effected by an arbitrator, and that a Court alone could do what might become necessary. This appeal was against that decision.

Railway Charges—Fractions of Miles—Stopping.

In this case the Court of Appeal had affirmed a decision of the Court of Exchequer, refusing to grant a new trial in a case in which the respondents had brought an action against a Mr. Theophilus Bevan (now represented by the appellant), to recover a considerable sum of money in respect of goods carried on the respondents' railway. The real question was whether, under the provisions of the Acts passed with respect to the railway the respondents were entitled to charge for fractions of miles, and also for "stopping." The Court of Appeal had in substance held that the charges were justifiable.

Mr. H. Matthews, Q.C., and Mr. Arthur R. Jelf, for the appellant.

Mr. Benjamin, Q.C., and Mr. A. T. Lawrence, for the company.

THE LORD CHANCELLOR and LORD SELBORNE agreed with the Court of Appeal.

THE LORDS being thus equally divided, the judgment of the Court below stood affirmed. No order was made as to costs.

Patent—Specification.

Appeal against a decision of the Court of Appeal which had reversed a judgment of Mr. Justice Fry. The question was, whether the specification of the patent under which the appellant company claimed its monopoly had sufficiently described the invention. Mr. Justice Fry had held that it had done so, and that the patent was sustainable. The Court of Appeal thought otherwise—hence this appeal.

MUIR AND OTHERS, TRUSTEES, APPS. April 7.
CITY OF GLASGOW BANK AND LIQUIDATORS, RESPS.

Unlimited Company—Personal Liability of Trustees to meet Calls in general Liquidation.

This appeal involved the important question whether trustees holding shares as part of the trust estate in an unlimited banking company in Scotland were personally and individually liable for calls in respect of those shares, or whether they were responsible only to the extent of the trust estate. The joint stock company, the City of Glasgow Bank, was constituted in 1839; in 1862 it was registered as an unlimited company under the Companies Act of that year; and on the 2nd of October, 1878, it stopped payment with debts calculated at about 6,000,000*l.* over assets. The partnership contract had been registered as the articles of the company. In 1873 Mr. John Murdock died, leaving a trust disposition and 5000*l.* of this bank stock. But a question having arisen whether the bank stock would pass under it, his two daughters, Mrs. Syme and Mrs. Boyd, who had after their father's death purchased another 1000*l.* of new stock issued by the bank, made out a title to his estates as executrices-dative. They were then put on the register for the whole 6000*l.* On the 20th of September, 1873, they executed a supplementary deed of trust, by which they made over to the appellants the whole estate of their father, to be held upon the trusts contained in his settlement. In January 1874, a transfer of the bank stock was executed by Mrs. Syme, who was a widow, and Mrs. Boyd with the consent of her husband, by which they assigned and made over to the appellants, described as "the trust disponees in the deed of conveyance in trust, dated the 20th of September, 1873, and their successors and assigns whomsoever," the 6000*l.* capital stock; the appellants, as "trust disponees foresaid by acceptance hereof, being in terms of the contract of co-partnership of the bank, subject to all the articles and regulations of the company in the same manner as if they had subscribed the said contract," and the appellants, "as trust disponees," accepted the transfer on those terms and conditions. In the stock ledger of the bank the names and addresses of the appellants were followed by the words, "as trust disponees" of Mrs. Mary Syme and Mrs. Boyd. A stock certificate issued on the 4th of February, 1874, gave the same description, and the back was indorsed with the names and addresses of the appellants "as trust disponees within mentioned." In the returns to the Board of Inland Revenue and the Registrar of Joint Stock Companies, the stock was entered as held by the trust disponees of Mrs. Syme and Mrs. Boyd, and in no published list of shareholders did the appellants' names appear. The liquidation of the bank commenced on the 22nd of October, 1878, and the appellants were entered by the liquidators in the first part of the list as contributories in respect to the stock in question, the effect being to make them personally liable for calls. The first call was for 500*l.*, and the second for 2250*l.* per 100*l.* share. The appellants contended that they were not personally answerable; that the bank entered into a special contract with them to "admit them as holders of stock in their representative capacity, as trust disponees, and by the terms of their obligation they undertook only to subscribe to the undertaking and be liable in the obligation incumbent on holders of stock, to the extent of the trust funds under their administration." The liquidators maintained that the appellants were personally liable. The First Division on the 20th of December, 1878, pronounced an interlocutor in favour of the contention of the liquidators.

On appeal,

Mr. Napier Higgins, Q.C., and Mr. McLaren (of the Scotch Bar), with them Mr. Grosvenor Woods, appeared for the appellants.

Mr. E. E. Kay, Q.C., Mr. Benjamin, Q.C., Mr. Davey, Q.C., and Mr. Kennear (of the Scotch Bar), for the respondents.

THEIR LORDSHIPS having taken time to consider their judgment, affirmed the interlocutor of the Court below and dismissed the appeal with costs, holding that Lumsden v. Buchanan (4 Macq. 950), was undistinguishable. THE LORD CHANCELLOR remarked that it would have been incompetent for the directors of the bank under their deed of co-partnery to make with the appellants any contract but a contract of personal liability; and the words "as trust disponees" relied on by the appellants as limiting liability, were introduced for and served a different purpose.

STIRLING-MAXWELL v. CARTWRIGHT.

Administration—Domicil—Scotch Effects—Limited Decree for Administration.

This was an appeal from a decision of Vice-Chancellor Hall (reported 9 Ch. D. 173). The action was brought by one of the six executors of a testator domiciled in Scotland, to have his personal estate administered in the English Court. The defendants, who were the other five executors, contended that the decree for administration ought only to extend to property in England, which might come to the executors by virtue of their English probate. The Vice-Chancellor having refused to limit the decree for administration, as proposed, and made the ordinary administration decree, the defendants appealed.

Infant—Ward of Court—Immoral Publication by Mother—Separation Deed—Infants Custody Act, 1873 (36 & 37 Vict. c. 12).

This was an appeal from an order of the Master of the Rolls (Weekly Notes, 1878, p. 119).

The petition was presented by the Rev. F. Besant, the father of an infant who had been made a ward of Court, and the infant, by her father as next friend, praying for an order that the infant might be delivered to her father's custody by her mother, Mrs. Besant.

Mr. and Mrs. Besant were married in 1867. They had two children—a boy, born in 1869, and a girl, the infant petitioner, born in August, 1870. On the 25th of October, 1873, a deed of separation was executed whereby it was agreed that the mother should have the custody of the girl for eleven months, and the father for one month in the year, and the father the custody of the boy for eleven months, and the mother for one month in the year.

The petitioner alleged that Mrs. Besant held and propagated Atheistic opinions; that she deprived the child of all religious instruction; and that she had published books or pamphlets of an immoral character, one of which had been already condemned in other Courts of competent jurisdiction, and that for these reasons she was unfit to have the custody of the child. Evidence was adduced in support of these allegations, and also on behalf of the respondent.

The Master of the Rolls ordered that the infant should be given up to her father, on the ground that it would be prejudicial to her interest that she should remain with her mother.

Mrs. Besant appealed from this decision.

The appellant appeared in person.

Ince, Q.C., and Bardswell, for the infant and her father.

JAMES, L.J., delivered the judgment of the Court (James, Baggallay, and Bramwell, L.JJ.). He said that the question being simply what was most for the good of the infant, it was unnecessary to consider whether the father was in any way precluded by his own contract from asking the aid of the Court in enforcing his legal power and natural authority. The settled rule of the Court was that a fatherless ward must be brought up in the religion of his father, and if the utmost effect was given to the separation deed, it would only place the infant in the present case in the position of a fatherless child. That consideration was sufficient to dispose of the case: but in addition to this, Mrs. Besant had been convicted by a jury of publishing, and she still persevered in publishing, a book which the jury considered to be calculated to deprave public morals. The future of a girl brought up in association with persons propagating such opinions would be exceedingly prejudiced, and the Court could not allow her to remain in the custody of her mother under such circumstances. The order of the Master of the Rolls must therefore be affirmed.

Sale of Goods—Divisible Contract.

At the trial before Lord Coleridge, C.J., it was proved that the defendants entered into a contract with the plaintiffs for the purchase of about twenty-five tons (more or less) of Penang black pepper, October or November shipment from Penang to London per sailing vessel or vessels, at fourpence and three-sixteenths of a penny per lb. . . . the name of the vessel or vessels, marks, and full particulars to be declared to the buyer in writing within sixty days from date of bill of lading; but should the vessel or vessels which may apply to this contract be lost before declaration, this contract to be cancelled as far as regards such lost vessel or vessels.

On the 22nd of January, within sixty days of the dates of three respective bills of lading, the plaintiffs in one declaration declared three distinct parcels of pepper shipped on board the Borga—285 bags, bill of lading dated the 29th of November; 110 bags, bill of lading dated the 29th of November; 105 bags, bill of lading dated the 11th of December. The two first parcels, amounting to 20 tons, were shipped and declared according to contract; the third parcel, amounting to five tons, was not of October or November shipment. On arrival of the pepper the defendants declined to accept any portion of it. Lord Coleridge, C.J., held that the defendants were not bound to accept the pepper, and directed judgment to be entered for them.

March 6, 7. Benjamin, Q.C., and Pollard, for plaintiffs, contended that the contract was divisible, and that the defendants were bound to accept the twenty tons of pepper which were shipped and declared according to the contract.

W. Williams, Q.C., and J. C. Mathew, for the defendants, contended that the contract had not been fulfilled on the plaintiff's part, and they were not bound to accept any portion of the pepper.

April 9. THE COURT (Thesiger and Cotton, L.JJ., Brett, L.J., dissenting), held that the contract was an entire contract, that the time, within which the pepper was to be declared, was an essential condition which had not been complied with, and that therefore the defendants were not bound to accept any portion of the pepper. They dismissed the appeal.

M. R. MEMORANDUM. March 27.

Ancient Lights—Obstruction—Interlocutory Order for Injunction—Stoppage of Building—Action dismissed at Hearing—Defendant entitled to Damages.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS mentioned a recent case which came before him in Chambers where an interlocutory order had been made on motion for an injunction restraining a defendant from continuing his building so as to obstruct the plaintiff's ancient lights, but on the trial of the action it turned out that the intended building, if erected, would not have occasioned such obstruction, and the order was accordingly dismissed. On the question of damages, the plaintiff contended that the defendant was not entitled to damages, as the injunction did not stop the intended building; but the defendant contended that a man could not reasonably be asked to go on with the building and incur risk of committal for breach of an injunction which had been granted by the Court on the ground that a primâ facie case had been made out to restrain the building. His Lordship held that the defendant, having stopped building by reason of the order, was entitled to damages.

Mrs. Musselwhite, in March, 1879, sold her business to the co-plaintiff, T. Buttenshaw. About the same time the defendant gave notice to leave his situation and began to supply milk to some of the customers, and within the specified area.

The plaintiffs moved for an injunction to restrain him.

GILES v. HAMER.

Partnership Action—Costs—Attorneys and Solicitors Act—Solicitor's Lien—Summons or Petition.

The costs of a partnership action which has not been occasioned by any fault on either side should come out of the partnership assets, following the ordinary rule in administration actions; but where the action has been occasioned by the misconduct of one party the Court has jurisdiction to order that party to pay the costs occasioned by his misconduct.

The rule is not as stated in Seton, new edition, p. 1206.

There is nothing in the Attorneys and Solicitors Act prohibiting a solicitor from obtaining a lien for his costs on the property recovered in an action either on summons or petition; and it is sufficient if the order is intituled in the action alone.

Railway Company—Superfluous Land—Land over Tunnel—Lands Clauses Consolidation Act, 1845, s. 127.

The company contracted with Cosh to sell to him as freehold a piece of vacant land over the tunnel through which the railway passed. The agreement was made subject to a special condition as to the mode of building on the land. The company had acquired the land under their Act, had excavated a cutting, arched it over, and restored the surface over the arch. The purchaser afterwards took out a summons under the Vendor and Purchaser Act, 1874, asking a declaration that the company had no right or title to sell the land, and that his deposit might be returned with interest.

Glasse, Q.C., and Sefton Strickland, for the purchaser.

J. Pearson, Q.C., and S. Roberts, for the Company.

FRY, J., held, on the authority of Mulliner v. Midland Railway Company (ante, p. 12), that the land in question was not superfluous land, but, on the contrary, land required for the purposes of the company's undertaking, and consequently that they had no title to sell it. His Lordship ordered the company to repay the deposit, with interest at 4 per cent., but gave no costs of the summons.

Company—Preliminary Expenses—Clerk to Promoter.

This company was incorporated in 1873 by an Act which provided that "All costs, charges, expenses of and incidental to the preparing for, obtaining, and passing of this Act, or otherwise in relation thereto, shall be paid by the company." In 1875 an order was made to wind up the company. Pike carried in a claim for 239*l.*, "for work and labour done by me as parliamentary agent in and about and incident to the preparing for, obtaining, and passing" the Act. The liquidator alleged that the company had never entered into any agreement with Pike, and that he had acted only as clerk or servant to one Gough, who was the parliamentary agent and solicitor engaged in the obtaining of the Act. The Chief Clerk disallowed the claim. Pike took out a summons to vary the certificate.

Terrell, for the summons.

Glasse, Q.C., and Solomon, for the liquidator.

FRY, J., held that under sect. 69 a promoter who had performed work for the company without any contract for remuneration was entitled to prove, but that a person who had looked only to the promoter for his remuneration could not prove against the company, and, on the evidence, his Lordship held that Pike had looked only to Gough for payment. The summons was accordingly dismissed.

Higgins, Q.C., and Mulligan, for the plaintiff.

FRY, J., held, upon the authority of Chesterfield Colliery Company v. Black (24 W. R. 783), and the analogy of Allhusen v. Labouchere (3 Q. B. D. 654), that the particulars asked for ought to be given, and he adjourned the hearing of the summons for that purpose.

Landlord and Tenant—Rent in Arrear—Company in Liquidation—Right of Distraint not allowed—Judicature Act, 1875, s. 10—Bankruptcy Act, 1869, s. 34.

From Midsummer, 1876, Pickford & Co. demised their Plymouth Foundry premises, situate at Millbay, East Stonehouse, to the Bridgewater Engineering Company, Limited, for twenty-one years at a rent for the first seven years of 350*l.* a year. The rent being in arrear in 1877, the lessors obtained a distraint warrant and sent it to their agent at Plymouth, but in consequence, as alleged, of the directors asking that further time should be granted, they fearing a great sacrifice in the property under a forced sale, and paying one quarter's rent, the lessors were induced to abstain from enforcing their right of distraint.

On the 23rd of October, 1878, the shareholders resolved that the company should be wound up voluntarily, and in November following an order was made by the Court under the Companies Acts 1862 and 1867, continuing the winding-up, but under supervision.

The liquidator sold the company's machinery, plant, and other things which were upon the premises for about 800*l.*, and, as ordered, paid the net proceeds of sale to a special account at a bank.

The lessors claimed to be paid the sum of 437*l.* 10*s.*, being the amount due for rent at the date of the order; and also claimed to be paid the rent which had accrued due since the liquidation, as for occupation by the liquidator, and this was a motion on their behalf for an order that both sums should be paid to them out of the money in the bank.

Robinson, Q.C., and Rigby, for the motion.

Dickinson, Q.C., and Romer, for the liquidator, opposed.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that as to the rent which was due at the date of the winding-up order he could not, considering the decision in In re Coal Consumers Association (4 Ch. D. 625), which he felt that he was bound by, and must follow, and the decisions in subsequent cases, allow the claim; and that as to the rent which had accrued due subsequently to the date of the order the correspondence shewed that the postponement in dealing with and selling the property on the premises had been made for the benefit of both landlords and tenants, and that the case was very much like that of In re Progress Assurance Company, &c. (Law Rep. 9 Eq. 370), therefore the claim that the liquidator had occupied the premises for the purposes of the liquidation and ought to pay the rent due to the present time, must also be disallowed. The motion would be refused, but without costs.

Partners appointed Agents of Company—Liquidation by Arrangement of Partners—One Partner a Member of Company—Indebtedness of Partners to Company—Application by Trustee for transfer of Partner's Shares to him refused—Companies Act, 1862, Table A, Article 10.

In August, 1878, W. W. Hoyland, and his partner Zimmerman commenced proceedings for liquidation by arrangement of their estate, and O. H. Caldecott was appointed the trustee of the joint estate of the partners, and of the separate estate of Hoyland.

Hoyland was a member of the Bentham Mills Spinning Company Limited (carrying on business in Yorkshire), and there were standing in his name in the register of members of the company 855 shares.

Hoyland and Zimmerman resided at Birmingham, and had been employed by the company as agents for the sale of their goods there and in the adjacent districts, and the firm became, and was at the date of the liquidation, indebted to the company to the amount of 2608*l.* 8*s.* 7*d.*, which the managing director proved for in the liquidation, on the joint estate of the debtors.

This was a motion on behalf of the trustee of the separate estate of Hoyland that the register of members might be rectified by entering therein his name as a member of the company in respect of the shares in the place of Hoyland, and that the company might be ordered to pay the costs of the application, and any damages that might have been sustained by refusing to rectify.

Dickinson, Q.C., and Brooke, for the trustee.

W. Pearson, Q.C., and Buckley, for the company, were not called upon.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that on the proper construction of the Companies Act, 1862, First Schedule, Table A, Article 10, "the company may decline to register any transfer of shares made by a member who is indebted to them." The company were not compellable to register a transfer of Hoyland's shares to the trustee until they had been paid the sum which was due to them, and therefore the motion must be refused with costs.

Secured Creditor—Valuation of Security—Bills held by Bank "pending Discount"—Bankruptcy Act, 1869, ss. 16, 40—Bankruptcy Rules, 1870, r. 99.

The debtor had indorsed to his bankers a number of bills of exchange, accepted by different persons, that the bank might discount them for him. At the commencement of the liquidation the bank had discounted some of the bills, and had carried the amount of them (less the discount) to the credit of the debtor's current account. The remainder of the bills had not been discounted, the bank desiring to make inquiries about the acceptors, but they held the bills "pending discount." They had, however, made advances to the debtor on the credit of those bills, but without attributing the advances to any particular bills. In proving for the balance due to them the bank did not set any value upon the bills held "pending discount," but proved for the whole balance. The trustee claimed to have those bills delivered up to him, on the ground that the bank had forfeited their security by proving for the full amount of their debt. The Judge of the Huddersfield County Court held that such bills were not securities within the meaning of the Act, and dismissed the application. The trustee appealed.

Appeal from a decision of a Master, referred by Field, J., to the Court.

This was a petition of right claiming about 300*l.* under an agreement between the suppliant and the Crown to pay him 1*s.* a ton on goods carried over a jetty which the Crown had erected on his foreshore. The Crown paid a small sum into Court and disputed the rest, denying that the number of tons alleged in the petition had been carried over the jetty. Upon a summons taken out by the Crown the Master ordered the suppliant to give discovery of documents.

Herschell, Q.C., and English Harrison, for the suppliant, offered to give discovery if the Crown would do likewise, but contended that as it had been held that the Crown was not bound to give discovery—Thomas v. Reg. (Law Rep. 10 Q. B. 44)—so neither was the suppliant.

Sir J. Holker, A.G., and Bowen, for the Crown, contended that under s. 7 of the 23 & 24 Vict. c. 34, combined with s. 50 of the Common Law Procedure Act, 1854, and Order XXXI. r. 12, the Crown was entitled to discovery.

THE COURT (Kelly, C.B., and Pollock, B.) held that the Crown was not entitled to discovery, and reversed the Master's order.

THWAITES v. HARPER AND OTHERS. April 21.

Partnership.

Appeal against a decision of the Court of Appeal which had affirmed a previous decision of the Master of the Rolls. The question related entirely to the construction of articles of a private partnership. Three persons named Eden, Thwaites, and Harper entered into partnership. The 25th article of the deed of partnership provided that if there should happen "a partial dissolution of the partnership" by the death of Eden the two remaining partners should be at liberty to divide his share between them, basing the calculations of its value upon the accounts rendered at the last stock taking. Eden died, and his share was disposed of in this way. Some time afterwards Harper died, and Thwaites claimed to take his share upon the same basis of calculation. There was no positive provision to that effect in the deed, but it was contended that many expressions in the various articles of partnership shewed that it was intended that what had been done in one case should be repeated in the other. The Master of the Rolls had decided the other way, and the Court of Appeal had affirmed his decision.

Mr. Southgate, Q.C., and Mr. Romer, were heard for the appellant.

Inclosure—Rights of Way over Allotments.

Appeal against a decision of the Court of Appeal on a case originally decided in the County Court of Essex. In the year 1869 a Mr. Hardcastle was possessed of several pieces of land in a neighbourhood where the General Inclosure Act was about to be put in force. He sold some of these pieces of land expressly reserving the anticipated allotments. The appellant purchased those lands, and the conveyance contained the usual words as to ways, paths, &c. The former possessors of the lands sold had, for upwards of forty years, been accustomed to use certain paths (which, however, though not paths of necessity, were more convenient than some others) over the wastes expected to be allotted, and the appellant continued to use the paths down to the time of the allotment. Before the allotments were actually made, Mr. Hardcastle sold them to the respondents.

Digitized by Google

The usual proceedings under the Inclosure Act took place, and the official valuer set out certain paths over the allotments, but among them the paths the use of which was claimed by the appellant, were not included. He claimed to use them, and the respondents brought trespass. The Lords Justices were of opinion that the paths in question had been extinguished.

COURT OF APPEAL.

LEE CONSERVANCY BOARD v. BUTTON.

Lee Navigation—Towing-Path—Rights of Riparian Owners.

This was an appeal from a decision of Vice-Chancellor Malins (Weekly Notes, 1878, p. 130).

The action was brought by the plaintiffs, as conservators of the navigation of the River Lee from Hertford to London, claiming an injunction to restrain the defendant, who was an owner of land adjoining the towing-path, from using the towing-path for his horses and carts, or otherwise than as a footpath, or in any manner inconsistent with the free and convenient navigation of the river. The navigation was vested in the plaintiffs by various Acts of Parliament commencing in the thirteenth year of Queen Elizabeth, and had been ever since maintained for the use of the barges plying on the river. The defendant had in the year 1872, opened a brickfield on his land, and had used that portion of the towing-path adjoining his land, and also beyond it, in the removal of the bricks, and the plaintiffs alleged that he had thereby cut up and materially injured the towing-path and had impeded the free passage of the bargemen and horses. The defendant claimed to be owner of the soil of the towing-path adjoining his land, and asserted his right to pass over it so long as he did not impede the navigation of the river; and also asserted that the whole of the towing-path from London to Hertford was a highway.

The Vice-Chancellor held that the plaintiffs had established their claim as owners in fee simple of the soil of the towing-path from London to Hertford; that the conduct of the defendant, who had been wrong from beginning to end, was without excuse; and that accordingly the plaintiffs were entitled to a perpetual injunction, as asked by their statement of claim, with costs. From this order the defendant had appealed.

Higgins, Q.C., and Crossley, for the appellant.

J. Pearson, Q.C., Bond Coxe, and Romer, for the plaintiffs.

THE COURT (James, Brett, and Cotton, L.JJ.) were of opinion that the Vice-Chancellor's order could not be maintained. The plaintiffs had entirely failed in establishing any right as owners of the soil of the towing-path, either under their Acts of Parliament or by presumption of law. They had no possessory title nor any easement in respect of the towing-path, but merely a right of entry upon the land over which the towing-path was constructed, with the corresponding duty of maintaining the canal or river and the towing-path along the banks, so that there should be no interference with the free right of navigation. Upon the evidence it did not appear that there had been any act by the defendant which had obstructed the navigation opposite to that part of the towing-path which did not adjoin his own land. But there was evidence of some use by him of the towing-path adjoining his own land by hauling bricks, &c., which would have the effect of cutting it up and making it unfit for the purposes of navigation, and also might impose an additional burden on the plaintiffs in keeping it up. The order of the Vice-Chancellor would be varied by adding a declaration that the plaintiffs had failed in shewing any title to the soil of the towing-path, or any possessory right therein; and the injunction granted would be modified by limiting it to an order restraining the defendant from damaging or obstructing the towing-path, or from using the same in any manner so as to interfere with the navigation of the River Lee. There would be no costs in respect of the proceedings in the Court below, and the appellant would have his costs of the appeal.

Vendor and Purchaser—Stoppage in Transitu—End of Transit—Delivery on board Ship chartered by Purchaser—Contract to deliver free on Board at a specified Port.

This was an appeal from a decision of the Chief Judge, which is noted ante, p. 22.

The appellants had contracted with Cock to deliver 100 tons of China clay free on board at Fowey, for the price of which he was to accept a bill of exchange, and the clay was actually delivered, on the 20th of December, on board a ship at Fowey, which he had agreed to charter to carry it to Glasgow. On the 24th of December Cock had absconded, and was afterwards adjudicated a bankrupt. On the 31st of December the company, having heard that he was insolvent, gave notice to stop the clay in transitu, the ship being still in Fowey harbour. The master of the ship delivered the clay, by the order of the company, at another port, where it was sold, and the purchase-money was paid to the company. The money was afterwards claimed by the trustee. The Judge of the Truro County Court held that the stoppage was in time. The Chief Judge reversed the decision, on the ground that the transit was at an end when the clay was delivered on board the ship. The company appealed.

Winslow, Q.C., and E. C. Willis, for the company.

Northmore Lawrence (De Gex, Q.C., with him), for the trustee.

THE COURT (James, Brett, and Cotton, L.JJ.) held that the right to stop in transitu exists so long as the goods have been only constructively delivered to the purchaser, so long as they are in the possession of a carrier as carrier, to be carried to their final destination. The transit was not at an end until there had been an actual delivery to the purchaser, his servant, or agent, a carrier, quâ carrier, not being a servant or agent of the purchaser, even though employed by him. Consequently, in this case the right to stop in transitu existed, and the notice having been given in time, the company were entitled to the proceeds of sale. The appeal must be allowed, with costs.

rent of 130*l.* The lessee was entitled to determine the lease at the end of the first seven or fourteen years of the term by giving six months' previous notice in writing to the lessor, and on paying the rent and performing and observing the covenants up to the day of the term being determined. In September, 1878, the debtor filed his petition. On the 7th of October a trustee was appointed. On the 29th of November he obtained leave of the Court to disclaim the lease, and on the 4th of December he executed a disclaimer. On the 6th of December the lessor tended a proof for (1) 140*l.* for breach of the lessee's covenant to repair; (2) 150*l.* loss caused to the lessor by the disclaimer, on the ground that the house would then let for only 120*l.* a year (instead of 130*l.*), the loss being therefore calculated at 10*l.* a year for fifteen years. The trustee admitted the proof for the 140*l.*, but rejected it for the 150*l.*, with the exception of 10*l.*, the loss of rent of the one year remaining of the first seven of the term. Mr. Registrar Hazlitt, as Chief Judge, affirmed the decision of the trustee. The lessor appealed.

Herbert Lake, for the lessor, contended that it had now become impossible to give notice to determine the lease, and, if not, the breach of covenant prevented the notice from being given.

R. Vaughan Williams, for the trustee.

THE COURT (James, Brett, and Cotton, L.JJ.) affirmed the Registrar's decision, on the ground that the lessee could, on putting the house in repair, have determined the lease at the end of the first seven years. The appeal was dismissed.

WEST CUMBERLAND IRON AND STEEL COMPANY v. KENYON.

Mine — Water — Use of Property — Water discharged into neighbouring Mine.

This was an appeal by the defendants from a judgment of Fry, J. (6 Ch. D. 773).

Herschell, Q.C., Cookson, Q.C., and Plummer, for the appellants.

North, Q.C., and Ingle Joyce, contrà.

THE COURT ((James, Baggallay, and Cotton, L.JJ.) held that as only the same quantity of water came upon the plaintiff's property, and in the same mode, as if the defendants had not done the acts complained of, the plaintiffs had no ground of action. The decision was therefore reversed.

Market — Grant — Action by Owners of Tolls — Proposed Weekly Sale by Auction in same Place on different Day — Injunction.

Motion to restrain defendants from holding sales by auction or otherwise of cattle, stock, wares or merchandize, upon a piece of land in the parish of Bigby, and from doing any other acts whereby the plaintiffs might be deprived of the benefit of their tolls and other franchises as owners of the tolls of the market in the said parish.

The plaintiffs and their predecessors in title had been owners of the tolls for 150 years, and their right was traced to a grant in the reign of Henry the Third.

The grant comprised the right to hold the market weekly on Thursday, and it was held on that day on a site appropriated for the purpose.

The defendants, who were auctioneers, had recently taken a piece of land in the same parish, near the market-place, and were about to commence weekly sales by auction of live stock, to be held on Monday, and had issued circulars announcing such sales.

The plaintiffs alleged that the proposed sales would be an interference with their rights.

Bristowe, Q.C., and S. Dickinson, in support of the motion.

Jason Smith, for the defendants.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS considered that, assuming the proposed sale to come within the definition of a market, it would, though held on Monday, be injurious to the plaintiffs' interests; that what the defendants proposed would amount to holding a market; and that an injunction should be granted.

Rent—Apportionment—Apportionment Act, 1870—Will executed before Act—Codicil executed after Act.

A testator, by his will executed before the passing of the Apportionment Act, 1870, bequeathed the remainder of his personal estate to trustees upon certain trusts. And, subject to certain charges, he devised his real estates to his son for life, with remainder to his first and other sons successively in tail male, with remainders over in strict settlement. And the testator declared it to be a condition precedent to his son or his issue taking any estate under the will that he should within a year after the testator's death execute a settlement of certain other real estate of which he was tenant in tail in the same way as the real estate which was settled by the will. If the son should decline or neglect to do so the limitations by the will directed in favour of him and his issue were to become void and the limitations in remainder to be accelerated. And the testator gave the clear and undisposed of rents of his devised real estates to trustees until his son should make the settlement, in case he should make the same within the year, or otherwise until the expiration of the year, in trust, in the former alternative, for the son, and in the latter alternative upon the trusts and in the manner in which the same would have gone in case the then accelerated limitations of the will had taken effect immediately on the testator's death. After the passing of the Act the testator executed a codicil making some alterations in the will, not affecting the above-mentioned gifts, and in all other respects confirming the will. Within a year after his death the son executed the settlement required by the will. This suit was for the administration of the testator's estate. It now came on to be heard on further consideration, and the only question was whether the rents of the testator's real estate accruing at the time of his death were to be apportioned between the son and the trustees of the residuary personalty.

Married Woman—Separate Estate—Action for Debt contracted as Feme Sole—Form of Judgment.

This action was brought against a married woman in respect of the price of goods supplied to her in the belief that she was a feme sole. She pleaded coverture. She was in fact living separate from her husband, under the provisions of a separation deed by which an annuity was settled to her separate use. The husband was afterwards made a co-defendant, but the trustee of the deed was not made a party. At the trial, Fry, J., gave judgment declaring that all property then vested in the wife, or in any other person in trust for her, was chargeable with payment of the debt and the costs of the action, and directed an inquiry as to the separate estate. The master by his certificate found that the separate estate consisted of an annuity secured by the husband's covenant in the separation deed, and that the annuity was vested in one Erskine as trustee of the deed. The plaintiff took out a summons to shew cause why he should not be at liberty to sign judgment for the debt and costs.

Brett, for the plaintiff.

Woodroffe, for the defendants.

FRY, J., said that, the trustee not being a party, no order could be made on him. The only order that could be made was to direct the taxation of costs, and order the plaintiff to pay the husband's costs and add them to his own. Then there would be a declaration that the debt, with interest at 4 per cent., and the costs were a charge on the annuity. But the order must be without prejudice to any claim of the trustee.

Practice—Supplement—Infant—Rules of Court, 1875, Order L., r. 4.

This was a pending action, commenced by bill filed the 27th of June, 1865.

About six weeks ago a son was born to the former of the two defendants, named William James Eckford, which son, under the will of the testator, and the declarations and orders which had been made in the action, was now tenant in tail of the property, in remainder expectant on the death of his father.

The question was, whether the infant could be made a party by an order of the Court under Order L., r. 4, of the Judicature Act, 1875, or whether a supplemental action was necessary.

Crossley mentioned the matter to the Court ex parte.

He referred to Capps v. Capps (Law Rep. 4 Ch. 1) and Austen v. Haines (Ib. 445); but observed that the following words which occur in the new rule, namely, "or by reason of any person interested coming into existence after the commencement of the action," are not to be found in s. 52 of the 15 & 16 Vict. c. 86. No step or proceeding had been taken in the action since the birth of the infant.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said that if any proceeding or step in the action had been taken since the birth of the child he would have followed the two authorities cited, and should have considered a supplemental action necessary; but inasmuch as nothing had occurred to alter the relative position of the parties prior to the birth of the infant, he would make an order under r. 4 of Order L. His Lordship added that the application was a very proper one to have been made to him in Court.

Will — Construction—Legacies—Insufficient Personalty— General Devise of Residue — Whether Legacies charged.

Testator, who died in November, 1863, by his will directed all his just debts and funeral and testamentary expenses (not mentioning legacies), to be paid out of his personal estate. He then gave a number of legacies, amounting, together with interest, to 890*l.* 5*s.* 8*d.* In a certain contingency he directed that two of the legacies should not be paid, but should "fall into and form a portion of" his residuary estate. He wished the legacies, if possible, to be paid within twelve calendar months of his decease. As to one of the legacies, he directed it to be accumulated for four years, "in aid of" the residue of his estate, and declared that such interest for the four years should be treated as "part of such residue," and on the expiration of the four years, to be paid. He then proceeded "All my fee-simple, freehold, and leasehold lands houses and hereditaments situate in the parishes of Bodmin, Lanivet, and Redruth, and elsewhere in the county of Cornwall, and all the rest residue, and remainder of my real and personal estate, money, mine shares, chattels, and effects of whatsoever kind, and wheresoever situate,

I give, devise, and bequeath," and gave the same to his executors and trustees upon trust to pay a weekly sum to his wife during widowhood, and to invest the clear residue, and after the death of his wife, as to all his freehold and leasehold hereditaments, and the rest, residue, and remainder of his estate and effects, to hold the same in thirds for three legatees named.

In 1877 the widow died. The pure personalty was insufficient to pay the legacies; the leaseholds were practically of no value; the only real estate were certain freeholds in Bodmin, Lanivet, and Redruth, worth about 1700*l.*; and the question now, upon adjourned further consideration, was, whether the legacies were charged on the real estate, or whether the residuary devisees took the freeholds free from the charge of legacies.

Cozens-Hardy, for the plaintiff, a legatee, relied upon Greville v. Brown (7 H. L. C. 689).

Rawlins, for one, and Ingle Joyce, for the other residuary legatees, opposed:—The devise of the freeholds in Bodmin, Lanivet, and Redruth, was specific. Had there been any residue after this devise, the legacies might have been chargeable upon that.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said he must follow the decision in the House of Lords. The three classes of property—that in Bodmin, Lanivet, and Redruth—that situate elsewhere in the county of Cornwall—and the rest, residue, and remainder of the real and personal estate—were all linked together, and together were chargeable with the legacies.

A contract for the purchase and sale of certain landed property was, in December, 1877, entered into, but in consequence of the lunacy of the defendant, Miss Smith, who was a party to the contract, the performance of it was delayed.

Miss Smith was, by an inquisition in August, 1878, found a lunatic, but no committee of either her person or estate had been appointed, and she had ever since been residing in a lunatic asylum.

The action was for the specific performance of the contract.

Samuel Stephens now applied for directions as to how the service of the writ should be effected upon the Miss Smith, and he referred to Rules of Court, 1875, Order IX. rr. 2 and 5, and Order XVIII.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR directed that service of the writ should be made upon the keeper of the asylum, or upon the person with whom the lunatic was now residing.

Pharmacy Act, 1868 (31 & 32 Vict. c. 121), ss. 1, 12, 15—Sale of Poisons by Joint Stock Company—Liability to Penalties—"Person."

Appeal from the decision of the judge of a County Court in an action for a penalty under 31 & 32 Vict. c. 121.

By 31 & 32 Vict. c. 121, s. 1, it shall be unlawful for any person to sell or keep open shop for retailing, dispensing, or compounding poisons, or to assume or use the title chemist and druggist . . . unless such person shall be a pharmaceutical chemist . . . and be registered within the Act, and by s. 15 a penalty is imposed upon "any person" who shall act in contravention of s. 1.

The defendant company, which was registered under the Companies Act, 1862, was formed to carry on the business of wholesale and retail grocer and general warehouseman. The business of the company included amongst other departments a chemist's and druggist's shop as described in the Act, which was conducted by a shareholder who was a duly qualified chemist, with the aid of two assistants, all three being servants of the company and paid by salary or wages. No other shareholder was a chemist.

The question was whether the company as such was amenable to the penal enactments of the statute.

Sir J. Holker, A.G. (Lumley Smith with him), for the plaintiffs.

A. Wills, Q.C. (Finlay with him), for the defendants.

THE COURT (Cockburn, C.J., and Mellor, J.) after time taken to consider, held that the defendants were liable. Having regard to the object of the Act, the word "person" must be taken to include a corporate body, and there was ample authority for holding that a corporation as such could be liable in an action for penalties.

Metropolis Management Act, 1855, ss. 159, 161—District Rate—Special Benefit of particular part of Parish—Equal Pound Rate.

By the Metropolis Management Act, 1855, s. 159, "where it appears to any vestry or district board that all or any part of the expenses for defraying which any sum is by such vestry or board ordered to be levied, have or has been incurred for the special benefit of any particular part of their parish or district, or otherwise have or has not been incurred for the equal benefit of the whole of their parish or district, such vestry or board may by any such order direct the sum or sums necessary for defraying such expenses, or any part thereof, to be levied in such part, or exempt any part of such parish or district from the levy, or require a less rate to be levied thereon, &c."

By s. 161, the parish overseers in levying the required amounts are to make separate equal pound rates upon their parish; and such rates shall be levied on the persons and in respect of the property by law rateable to the poor-rate.

The Board of Works for Lewisham issued their precept requiring the respondents to levy 11,524*l.*, and inasmuch as this sum was not for the equal benefit of the parish, requiring that as regards such part of the parish as consisted of arable land, &c., the rates should be assessed in the proportion of one-fourth of the net annual value of the land. The parish contained arable land which did not lie together, but was scattered through the parish. All this land was rated on the lower scale. It was objected that the rate was not an equal pound-rate, and was bad.

F. M. White, Q.C. (Paine with him), for the respondents, relied on Howell v. London Dock Company (8 E. & B. 212).

Oppenheim, for the appellants, contended that the Act only gave a discretion to exempt a particular part of the parish marked out by metes and bounds, but not a discretion to exempt particular parts of different properties wherever situate within the parish.

THE COURT (Cockburn, C.J., and Lopes, J.) held that Howell v. London Dock Company was precisely in point, and authorised the mode of assessment adopted by the parish. This case, notwithstanding the observations of Erle, J., in Reg. v. Great Western Railway (E. B. & E. 600) must be treated as a binding decision. The rate was therefore good.

YORKSHIRE BANKING COMPANY v. BEATSON AND MYCOCK.

Bill of Exchange—Acceptance—Firm's Name—Name of Individual Member—Liability of Dormant Partner—Onus of Proof.

Action upon two bills of exchange. One of the bills was drawn upon Wilson, and indorsed "William Beatson," the other addressed to "Mr. William Beatson, Chemical Works, Rotherham," and accepted and indorsed "William Beatson."

At the trial it appeared that the defendant, William Beatson, having for many years prior to 1878 carried on the business of a chemical manufacturer at Rotherham, on the 1st of January, 1878, entered into partnership with the defendant Mycock, on the terms that the style of the firm was to be "William Beatson;" that the defendant Beatson should have the whole management of the business; and that neither party should have authority to draw, indorse, or accept bills without the previous consent in writing of the others. Beatson had kept an account at the S. & R. Bank for many years, and after the formation of the partnership no change was made either in the heading of his account or in the method of keeping it. It was headed "William Beatson, Esq." The firm had no separate account. The bills sued on were dated respectively the 6th and 13th of March, and were renewals of earlier bills originating in accommodation transactions of Beatson, and the bills were accepted and indorsed by him without the knowledge of Mycock. They were discounted by the plaintiffs, who never heard of the existence of any partnership, and knew nothing of Mycock until several months after the discounting. The proceeds of the bill went into the account at the S. & R. Bank, and Beatson drew on this account from time to time to pay for goods supplied to the business, but his account was overdrawn; and he had drawn out of the account for his own purposes a much larger sum than was brought into it by the proceeds of the bills in question.

The jury having given doubtful and unsatisfactory answers to questions left to them, upon which a verdict was entered for the plaintiffs, a rule for a new trial was afterwards obtained, on the ground that the verdict was against the evidence.

Digby Seymour, Q.C., and Tindal Atkinson, shewed cause, contending that as "William Beatson" was the firm name, the defendant Mycock, a sleeping partner, was primâ facie liable on the bills.

Waddy, Q.C., and Gainsford Bruce, in support of the rule:—The signature of Wm. Beatson was that of the individual. The onus of shewing that the bill was the bill of the firm lay on the plaintiff.

THE COURT (Denman and Lopes, JJ.) held that when a business is carried on in the name of one of the partners, and his name alone is the name of the firm, it is necessary not only to prove the signature, but that it was used as the signature of the firm by a party authorized to use it on that occasion and for that purpose; and that there was no evidence to support the plaintiff's case against the defendant Mycock, for whom judgment must be entered under Order XL., r. 10.

Judgment accordingly.

C. P. Div. WEST v. HOUGHTON. April 25.

Covenant in Sporting Lease to keep down Game—Breach—No Damage to Lessor—Damage to Crops of Lessor's Tenant—Measure of Damages—Nominal.

Case stated by the judge of the Denbigh County Court.

The appellant brought an action against the respondent for the breach of a covenant in a lease of sporting rights made between them, whereby the respondent, the lessee, covenanted that he should and would during the term keep down and destroy the rabbits on the estate, so that no appreciable damage might be done to the crops on the estate.

The lease was for five years, but might be determined on breach of the covenants.

A tenant of the appellant was the occupier of the farm over which the sporting rights were exercised by the respondent. It was admitted that the appellant never was under any liability to compensate the occupier for any damage done to his crops by rabbits, and that he had in fact paid him no sum whatever in respect of such damage. It was also admitted for the purposes of the case that appreciable damage had been done to the crops of the occupier by rabbits on the estate during the subsistence of the lease. The judge gave judgment for the appellant for nominal damages only.

The question was whether, under the circumstances, the appellant was entitled to recover more than nominal damages for the injury to the crops of the occupier by the respondent's breach of covenant.

McIntyre, Q.C., and A. G. McIntyre with him, for the appellant, contended that the covenant was inserted for the benefit of the occupier, and the appellant was entitled to sue and recover substantial damages as trustee for the occupier.

W. R. Kennedy, for the respondent:—The occupier was not a party to the covenant, nor even named in the sporting lease. The appellant had himself suffered no damage, and there was no precedent for his suing as trustee for the occupier. The power of determining the lease was treated as sufficient protection against improper use of the sporting right.

THE COURT (Lord Coleridge, C.J., and Denman, J.) held that the plaintiff was only entitled to recover the damages suffered by himself from the breach of the covenant, which damages were found to be nominal, and that he had no right and was under no obligation to sue on behalf of the occupier for the damage to him.

Judgment affirmed.

HUSSEY v. HORNE PAYNE AND WIFE. May 1.

Agreement.

Appeal against a decision of the Court of Appeal which had reversed a previous decision of Vice-Chancellor Malins.

Mrs. Horne Payne was possessed, for her separate use, of certain freehold land called the Mornington Estate, at Fulham. Mr. Hussey was desirous to purchase it. Negotiations were entered into, letters were written, and interviews took place, but ultimately no sale was made, and Mr. Hussey filed a bill for specific performance. The defendants demurred, on the ground that there never had been a complete contract. Vice-Chancellor Malins thought that there had been, on the face of two letters dated on the 4th and 6th of October, 1876, a complete contract, and that nothing which had occurred between the parties after that time affected it; and so, he overruled the demurrer. The Court of Appeal reversed his decision, and allowed the demurrer (8 Ch. D. 670).

Mr. J. Pearson, Q.C., and Mr. H. M. Pope, appeared for the appellant, and

Mr. Fox Bristowe, Q.C., Mr. Benjamin, Q.C., and Mr. F. W. Busk, for the respondents.

GOVERNORS OF MAGDALEN HOSPITAL v. KNOTTS AND OTHERS.

Charity Lands—Occupation—Statute of Limitations.

Appeal against a decision of the Court of Appeal on the question of the application of the Statute of Limitations to an occupation of charity lands (8 Ch. D. 709). The plaintiffs were the governors of a charitable corporation established in 1753, and their predecessors had in December, 1783, made a lease of lands, which undoubtedly were then the property of the hospital, for the term of ninety-nine years at a peppercorn rent. This lease the present governors desired to set aside and took proceedings accordingly. There were several questions debated in the Court below but ultimately the case resolved itself into two questions. First, whether the defendants could be established as deriving title under this lease, and if so, whether it was void or only voidable under the statute 13 Eliz. c. 10; and secondly, if void, whether the time which had elapsed since the defendants had been in possession did not disable the plaintiffs under the Statute of Limitations, from taking the present proceedings. On this last point the Court of Appeal had given judgment for the defendants. Hence this appeal.

Succession Duty Act.

This was an appeal against a decision of the Court of Appeal on the construction of the Succession Duties Act (2 Ex. Div. 398). S., a tenant for life in possession, and his eldest son W., by deed in 1854 barred the entail, and on the next day appointed the estates to such uses as they should jointly appoint, and in default to S. for life, remainder to W. for life, and to his sons in succession in tail male; in default, to such uses as S. and his second son T. should jointly appoint, and in default of appointment to T. for life with remainders over. The joint power of appointment was not exercised by S. and W.; and W. died in 1864, without issue. In 1866 S. and T. appointed (subject to the life estate of S.) to the use that A., the wife of S., should, after his decease, receive a rent-charge, subject to which the estates should go to D., the daughter of T., during a certain period, if she should so long live. S. died in 1873, and A. entered into possession of her rent-charge, and D. into possession of the estates. The Crown claimed 1*l.* per cent. on the rent-charge of A., as coming to her from her son W., and claimed 3*l.* per cent. on the estates which went to D. as coming to her from her uncle W., the benefit in each case being asserted to be derived from W., the first tenant in tail as donor. The Exchequer Division had held A. liable to 1*l.* per cent. on a moiety of her rent-charge as derived from her son W., and D. liable to 1*l.* per cent. on her life interest in the estates as being derived from her grandfather S., and her father T. The Court of Appeal had in substance affirmed the contention of the Crown. This appeal was then brought.

Mr. Fox Bristowe, Q.C., Mr. G. S. Law, and Mr. Spencer Butler, for the appellants.

Practice—Appeal—Security for Costs.

The first of these suits was instituted for the administration of the estate of Mrs. Brown deceased. After the estate had been partly distributed the second suit was commenced by persons claiming to be entitled as next of kin. On the 26th of February, 1879, Vice-Chancellor Malins decided against the plaintiffs in the second suit, and dismissed it with costs. The plaintiffs appealed from this decision, and the Court of Appeal, on the application of the defendants, made an order that the appellants should pay 1500*l.* into Court as a security for costs. This order was made on the 26th of March. The money not having been paid in, the defendants now moved to dismiss the appeal for want of prosecution, or else that the Court would fix a peremptory time for payment of the security into Court.

Bagshawe, Q.C., and Eyre, for some of the defendants.

Higgins, Q.C., and Everett, for other defendants.

J. Pearson, Q.C., and E. Beaumont, for the plaintiffs, stated that the plaintiffs had promised that the money should be paid into Court in a few days.

JESSEL, M.R., said that as a general rule the Court would not fix a day for the payment of money ordered to be paid as security for costs; but if the money was not forthcoming within a reasonable time, then a motion might be made to dismiss the appeal. The meaning of a reasonable time must have reference to the circumstances of the case; and, considering the nature of this litigation, and that the parties had made arrangements for payment of the money, but only required a short time to provide it, the Court would refuse this motion, with costs.

Transfer of Action to Chancery Division—Staying Proceedings under an Arbitration—Order to be admitted as Creditors in Chancery Action.

This was an appeal from an order of Vice-Chancellor Bacon (ante, p. 13).

The Corporation of Reigate, acting as the local board of health, took proceedings in the Queen's Bench Division against Edmunds, the executor under the will of a testator who died in 1873, to enforce an award. A decree had been made in a suit in the Court of Chancery in July, 1873, for the administration of the testator's estate, and on the 23rd of January last, Edmunds moved before Vice-Chancellor Bacon, that the proceedings in the Queen's Bench Division might be stayed, and that they might be transferred to the Chancery Division. The Vice-Chancellor made the order asked for, but added to it a direction that the corporation should be admitted as creditors in the Chancery suit for the amount claimed with liberty to apply for payment.

Edmunds appealed from so much of the order as admitted the Corporation as creditors.

Hemming, Q.C., and Swan, for the appellant.

JESSEL, M.R., said that the order seemed to have been made in the form in which it was made per incuriam. The Court had no power on this motion to make the order that this corporation should be admitted a creditor for the amount claimed. That part of the order must therefore be discharged.

Practice—Costs of Action—Rules of Court, 1875, Order LV.

Action for malicious prosecution. Judgment for plaintiff. Damages one farthing. The plaintiff applied at the trial for a certificate for costs, which the judge declined to grant. The Common Pleas Division, on a motion of the defendant under Order LV., r. 1, ordered that the plaintiff should bear and pay his own costs. The plaintiff appealed on the ground that the Divisional Court had no jurisdiction to make the order (see 4 C. P. D. 100).

W. Graham, for the plaintiff.

THE COURT (Bramwell and Thesiger, L.JJ., Baggallay, L.J., entertaining grave doubts), held that under Order LV., of the Rules of Court, 1875, the Divisional Court had an original jurisdiction to make the order, and that the order they made was right.

In re SHANKS.

Solicitor—Authority to receive Money for Client—Possession of Deed—Court of Bankruptcy—Jurisdiction—Bankruptcy Act, 1869, s. 72.

The trustee in the liquidation of M. Shanks applied to the Court to declare void as against him a mortgage which the debtor had executed to John Robinson, professedly in consideration of 400*l.* advanced by Robinson, on the ground that Shanks had received no consideration for the deed. The same solicitor acted for both Shanks and Robinson. Shanks had instructed the solicitor to raise 400*l.* by a mortgage of the property, and he executed the deed without receiving the mortgage money, and left it in the solicitor's hands. The solicitor afterwards handed the deed over to Robinson as security for 300*l.*, which he already owed to Robinson, telling him that he had himself advanced money to Shanks. He had in fact advanced 200*l.* to Shanks without any agreement for security. Soon after the deed had been handed over to Robinson, the solicitor absconded, having defrauded many of his clients. Robinson advanced no money when he obtained the deed, but after the solicitor had absconded he paid 100*l.* for the mortgaged property to a person who had agreed to sell it to Shanks for that sum. The conveyance to Shanks had not been executed when the mortgage was executed, but, on payment of the 100*l.*, the vendor executed the conveyance to Shanks and delivered it to Robinson. The Judge of the Newcastle-on-Tyne County Court declared the mortgage void, and that the property of Shanks comprised in it passed to the trustee free from any charge by Robinson. The Chief Judge held that the mortgage was valid to the extent of 300*l.* (i.e., the 200*l.* advanced by the solicitor to Shanks, and the 100*l.* paid by Robinson to the vendor). The trustee appealed. On the hearing of the appeal, after the appellant's counsel had been heard, the objection was taken by the respondent's counsel that, as the trustee was asserting only the title which the debtor himself could have asserted, and was not claiming any higher or better title by virtue of the bankruptcy law, the Court of Bankruptcy would not exercise jurisdiction under s. 72, but would leave the case to be dealt with by the ordinary tribunals (vide Ex parte Brown, ante, p. 63). This objection had not been taken in the County Court or before the Chief Judge.

Swanston, Q.C., and Finlay Knight, for the appellant.

Winslow, Q.C., and Creed, for Robinson.

THE COURT (James, Brett, and Cotton, L.JJ.) held that the objection as to the jurisdiction had been taken too late. Such an objection ought to be taken at the earliest opportunity. Upon the evidence they held that the solicitor had no express authority to receive the mortgage money for Shanks, or if he had any authority, it was an authority to receive the whole money and retain 200*l.* for himself. He had no right to hand over the mortgage deed in consideration of an antecedent debt of his own. The order of the County Court declaring the deed void was right, but Robinson was entitled to an equitable charge on the property for the 100*l.* which he had paid to the vendor, and the order must be expressed to be without prejudice to that right.

Easement—Constructive Notice—Window.

This was an appeal from Vice-Chancellor Hall. The action was brought to restrain the defendant from suffering a building recently erected by him to remain so as to darken a particular window belonging to the plaintiff. The plaintiff was entitled to access of light to this window under an agreement made in 1869 with a former owner of the defendant's property. It was admitted that the defendant purchased without any actual notice of the agreement, and the question was whether the existence of the window was constructive notice of the right to have access of light to it over the defendant's property. The Vice-Chancellor held that it was constructive notice and granted a mandatory injunction. The defendant appealed.

Owen, for the appellant.

Chester, for the plaintiff.

May 2. THE COURT (James, Brett, and Cotton, L.JJ.) held that knowledge of the existence of a window was not constructive notice of an agreement giving access of light to it over the property of the adjoining owner.

The case then proceeded on the question whether apart from the agreement the plaintiff was not entitled to access of light to the window by prescription, and if so whether that right had been so far interfered with as to make a mandatory injunction proper.

THE COURT held that plaintiff was entitled to an ancient light, but that under the circumstances it was not right to give the extraordinary remedy of a mandatory injunction. Their Lordships accordingly discharged the order of the Vice-Chancellor, and substituted an order giving the plaintiff damages.

The plaintiff, as appeared by the indorsement on the writ, claimed as the administratrix with the will annexed of a person named (who was stated at the bar to be residuary legatee of the testator), and the defendants were sued as the executors of the will. In re WATKINS.

Bankruptcy—Liquidation—Appointment of Receiver upon Issue of Writ in Chancery Action—Effect on Judgment Debt of the Mortgagee Plaintiff—Bankruptcy Act, 1869, s. 16, sub-s. 5.

Appeal on behalf of the trustee in the liquidation of Watkins, the debtor, from an order of the County Court at Aberdare, whereby it was declared that William Davies was entitled to have an account of what was due to him on a judgment recovered against the debtor on the 15th of May, 1878; and that Davies had obtained a charge or lien on the equity of redemption in certain leaseholds, in respect of the judgment, and certain subsequent proceedings in Chancery, or to tack the judgment debt to his mortgage.

Davies was a transferee, on the 26th of July, 1878, of a mortgage of the leaseholds, made by Watkins in 1859.

On the 7th of August, 1878, a writ was issued by Davies against Watkins in the Chancery Division, claiming to have an account of what was due to him on the mortgage and judgment, and for payment; or a sale, and payment out of the proceeds, and a receiver and injunction; and on the same day a receiver was moved for ex parte before the Master of the Rolls on an affidavit of the plaintiff, which stated that the defendant was not, to plaintiff's knowledge, entitled to any other lands or hereditaments or any other property against which a writ of elegit, fi. fa., or other process of execution might be issued: and the Court made an order for a interim receiver, without security, until after the 14th instant. On the same day notice of motion was served on defendant for the absolute appointment of the receiver, and by an order of the 14th of August the same person, upon giving security, was appointed receiver.

On the same 14th of August the liquidation petition was filed. Davies had not sued out an elegit.

Romer, for the trustee:—The debtor is not entitled to tack, or have an account taken of his judgment debt, because he has not sued out a writ of elegit.

Poor Law—Divided Parishes Act (39 & 40 Vict. c. 61), s. 34—Settlement by Residence—Child under Sixteen.

Case stated upon appeal against an order for the removal of Beatrice E. Wright, aged 8 years, the illegitimate child of Caroline Wright. It appeared that the child was born in the parish of Roundhay, and when it was about a fortnight old, it was placed by its mother in the care of John Oakes and his wife, who resided in the parish of Seacroft from December, 1871, to February, 1878, the child during all that time residing with with them. In 1878, Oakes and his wife went with the child into the respondent's union and there became chargeable. The sessions held that the child was settled in Seacroft.

Lofthouse, for the respondents, relied on 39 & 40 Vict. c. 61, s. 34, which enacts that "Where any person shall have resided for the term of three years in any parish in such manner and under such circumstances in [illegible] of such years as would in accordance with the statutes on that behalf render him irremoveable, he shall be deemed to be settled therein," &c.

Poland, and Lumley, for the appellants, contended that the section did not apply to infants who were not in a condition to select a residence for themselves.

After the claim was delivered, the defendant obtained an order under 30 & 31 Vict.

c. 142, s. 10, remitting the cause for trial before the County Court. That section provides that upon such order being made, "the plaintiff shall lodge the original writ and the order with the registrar of such County Court, and the County Court so named shall have all the same powers and jurisdiction with respect to the cause as if both parties had agreed . . . that the said County Court should have power to try the said action, and the same had been commenced by plaint in the said County Court."

At the trial in the County Court the plaintiff proposed to give evidence of the emission of smoke from the defendant's roof as well as from the chimney, but the judge restricted him to the claim as indorsed on the writ, refused to look at the statement of claim which had been sent to him and lay before him, declined to amend the writ in accordance with it, and eventually nonsuited the plaintiff. TASMANIAN MAIN LINE RAILWAY COMPANY v. CLARK, PUNCHARD, AND OTHERS.

Procedure—Action against Principal and Sureties—Liability of Surety—Issue of Fact—Order to try it before other Issues—Rules of Court, 1875, Order XXXVI., r. 6.

Appeal from chambers.

In an action brought against contractors and their sureties for breach of covenant in the construction by the former of a railway in Tasmania, the contractors by their defence alleged that the works had been completed, and set up a counter-claim; the sureties, without admitting any breach of covenant on the part of their principals, alleged that an alteration of the terms had been made which released the sureties.

On the application of the plaintiff a master made an order under Order XXXIV., r. 2, that the question of law should be raised by special case. The sureties appealed to Lindley, J., at chambers on the ground that the question of their liability was a question both of fact and law. His Lordship so thought, and ordered, under Order XXXVI., r. 6, that the question should be tried before the others in the case.

On appeal to the Court,

Bray, for two sureties, contended that Order XXXVI., r. 6, applied only to pure questions of fact, and not to mixed questions of fact and law, and that there was no jurisdiction to make the order on appeal from that made under the other rule.

Moulton, for a third surety, argued that until the liability of the principal was established the question of the liability of the surety was hypothetical. It might become unnecessary to try it.

Finlay, for the plaintiff:—The great expense of a commission to Tasmania would be saved by the effect of the order, which was discretionary.

THE COURT (Denman and Lindley, JJ.) held that there was jurisdiction to make the order, but that the inconvenience of trying the hypothetical question of the liability of the sureties before that of the principal was established rendered the order unadvisable.

Order discharged with costs.

Ship—Merchant Shipping Act, 1854 (17 & 18 Vict. c. 104), s. 357 —Detention of Pilot beyond Limits of License—Compensation—"Pilotage Dues"—Liability of Shipbrokers.

Case stated by Borough Justices of Cardiff.

The appellants were the brokers at Cardiff of an Italian vessel, in which the respondent, a licensed Bristol Channel pilot, after he had piloted her to Lundy Island, had been carried on against his will to Genoa.

The Merchant Shipping Act, 1854 (17 & 18 Vict. c. 104), s. 357, enacts that a pilot so taken beyond the limits for which he is licensed shall be entitled over and above his pilotage to 10*s.* 6*d.* a day during the time necessary to return, and travelling expenses.

By s. 363 the ship's agents are liable to pay "pilotage dues," which may be recovered before justices after demand in writing.

The pilot took proceedings against the brokers before the justices, and claimed 10*s.* 6*d.* for each day that he was away. The justices thought that the allowance was in the nature of pilotage dues, and made an order for payment of it.

The question was, whether the allowance for detention was recoverable in the same manner as pilotage dues, under s. 363, against the agents of the ship.

Clarkson, for the appellants.

Milward, Q.C., for the respondent.

THE COURT (Denman and Lindley, JJ.) held that upon the true construction of the Act the term, "pilotage dues" in sect. 363 did not include charges for detention under sect. 357, and that the decision of the justices was erroneous.

Action on a charterparty, by the freighters of a cargo of wheat against the owners of the steam-ship Olympias, for the loss of the cargo. By the charterparty the Olympias was to proceed with the wheat on board from Cronstadt to the Mediterranean. The excepted perils were the usual perils of the sea. The Olympias left Cronstadt on the 21st of November, 1877; she passed the Skager-Rack on the 28th; and on the 30th, whilst in her proper course, she sighted and went to the assistance of another ship in distress, called the Arion; and on the same day the master of the Olympias entered into an agreement to tow the Arion to the Texel for 1000*l.* In pursuance of this agreement, the master of the Olympias took the Arion in tow, and proceeded with her towards the Dutch coast. On the night of the 2nd of December, 1877, the Olympias got ashore near the Tershelling Light, and she and her cargo were ultimately lost. It was for this loss of cargo that the plaintiffs sued the defendants.

In answer to questions put to them by the learned judge, the jury found,—first, that it was not reasonably necessary to take the Arion to the Texel in order to save the lives of those on board her; but,—secondly, that it was reasonably necessary so to do in order to save that vessel and her cargo.

LINDLEY, J., upon motion for judgment, held that the plaintiffs were entitled to recover,—the deviation being unjustifiable, inasmuch as it was not for the purpose of saving life, but for the purpose of saving property only.

ELIAS v. SNOWDON SLATE QUARRIES COMPANY.

Quarries—Term of Years.

Appeal against a decision of the Court of Appeal, which, in one respect, had reversed a decision of Vice-Chancellor Hall. In 1802 land had been demised to a mortgagee for a term of 500 years at a peppercorn rent. There were two quarries on the property, one called the lower, the other the upper quarry, both on the slopes of Snowdon. The plaintiffs, the owners of this property, subject to the mortgage of 500 years, complained that the persons who had become owners of the term had improperly opened and worked the upper quarry. There was conflicting evidence on the point whether that quarry had not been opened and worked by the mortgagor himself. The Vice-Chancellor had thought that that quarry had not been so opened and worked, and therefore, on the application of the plaintiffs, granted an injunction, and ordered accounts. The Court of

COURT OF APPEAL.

From Q. B. Div. Howell v. West. May 5.

Practice—Pleading—Joinder of Parties—Joinder of Causes of Action.

Claim alleged that the plaintiff was a medical man, and the defendant West head master of Epsom College, and the defendant Jones a medical man practising as a surgeon and apothecary in the neighbourhood of Epsom; that the college was under the management of the medical council; that the defendant West had a separate boarding-house of his own, where he received boys to be educated at the college, and which was exclusively under his own management; that the plaintiff required an assurance and promise from the defendant West that his son John, if received by him, should be and remain under his or his wife's personal care, and not under the care of the council, and the defendant West gave this assurance; and it was agreed that the plaintiff should pay for such medical attendance as his son required; that upon these terms the plaintiff's son was received by the defendant West; that the plaintiff's son became ill and was attended by the defendant Jones; that the illness proving to be scarlet fever, with the sanction of the defendant Jones the defendant West caused the plaintiff's son to be removed to a room in the infirmary of the college, which was not in a fit state to receive him, and in which he was not properly attended; that owing to the removal the plaintiff's son became worse and died. As regarded the defendant West, the plaintiff charged that he was guilty of a breach of contract with the plaintiff in causing the boy to be removed to the infirmary where he ceased to be under the defendant's own personal care and was transferred to the care of the medical council, and further that he was guilty of negligence. As regarded the defendant Jones, the plaintiff charged that the defendant was employed to attend upon his son, but that he neglected to exercise reasonable skill and care. In the alternative the plaintiff charged that the defendant Jones as a surgeon and apothecary warranted that he would exercise reasonable skill and care in his attendance upon his patients, yet that being employed to attend the plaintiff's son, he did not possess, or neglected to exercise, reasonable and competent skill and care. The plaintiff alleged that he had incurred expenses and loss in attending himself and in procuring attendance upon his son, and in procuring assistance in his business during his absence. Denman, J., ordered the claim to be struck out, on the ground that it was embarrassing: the Queen's Bench Division affirmed the decision of Denman, J., on the ground that there was a misjoinder. The plaintiff appealed to this Court.

Practice—Staying Proceedings pending Appeal—Application to Court of Appeal—Rules of Court, 1875, Order lviii., rr. 16, 17.

This was an action on behalf of the bondholders of the Bolivian Republic, claiming the return of a sum of about 700,000*l.*, a portion of the loan, on the ground that the making of the railway for which the money was subscribed was practically impossible. On the 24th of April Mr. Justice Fry dismissed the action, with costs. On the 30th of April the plaintiff entered an appeal. Mr. Justice Fry, after giving his decision, made an order in another action of National Bolivian Navigation Company v. Lloyd, to which the plaintiffs in Wilson v. Church were not parties, that the trustees of the fund should pay 7200*l.* to the sub-contractors for the railway. The plaintiffs in Wilson v. Church now applied to the Court of Appeal to have the hearing of the appeal advanced, and asked for an injunction to restrain the trustees from parting with any of the money pending the hearing of the appeal.

Southgate, Q.C., and Cozens-Hardy, for the plaintiffs.

North, Q.C., and Ryby, for the Navigation Company, contended that this being in effect an application to stay proceedings under the judgment appealed from ought to have been made in the first instance to the Court which gave the judgment under Order lviii., rr. 16, 17.

The Court (Jessel, M.R., Brett and Cotton, L.JJ.) held that after the dismissal of the action Mr. Justice Fry had no jurisdiction to stay the proceedings, and that the application had been properly made to the Court of Appeal. The Court ordered that the appeal should be advanced, and that the trustees should be restrained by injunction from parting with the fund in the meantime.

Bill of Sale—Registration—Act of Bankruptcy—Notice—Assignment of whole of Grantor's Property—Consideration—Forbearance of Grantee to enforce former Bill of Sale—Bill of Sale set aside as void against Trustee in Bankruptcy—Rights of Trustee against Holder of subsequent Bill of Sale—Practice—Cross Notice of Appeal—Co-respondents—Rules of Court, 1875, Order LVIII., r. 6—Bankruptcy Act, 1869, ss. 6, 94, 95—Bills of Sale Act, 1854, s. 1.

This was an appeal from a decision of the Chief Judge (ante, p. 28).

On the 2nd of May, 1878, Cross, a farmer, gave to Payne a bill of sale of his furniture, farming stock, and growing crops, to secure 322*l.* 10*s.* This bill of sale was given in substitution for a prior one, which Cross had given to Payne on the 29th of December, 1877, to secure the same amount, and under which Payne was then entitled to seize the property. No fresh advance was made when the second bill of sale was given. On the 3rd of May, 1878, Cross gave a bill of sale of the same property to Cochrane to secure 300*l.* then advanced, and 75*l.* for bonus and expenses. Cochrane had no notice of Payne's bill of sale. Neither bill of sale was registered. On the 20th of August, 1878, Cochrane, and on the 23rd of August, Payne took possession of the property. On the 26th of August Cross filed a liquidation petition, and on the 1st of October he was adjudicated a bankrupt in the Shrewsbury County Court, the filing of the liquidation petition being alleged as an act of bankruptcy. The registrar of the County Court (acting as judge) declared both bills of sale void as against the trustee in the bankruptcy. The Chief Judge held that Payne's bill of sale was void as against the trustee, but that Cochrane's was valid, because he had no notice of the act of bankruptcy committed by the execution of Payne's bill of sale. Payne appealed as against the trustee, and also as against Cochrane. The trustee did not appeal, but he gave a cross notice of appeal in Payne's appeal against Cochrane.

On the first appeal,

Roxburgh, Q.C., and Finlay Knight, for Payne, contended that consideration was given for the bill of sale of the 2nd of May in the forbearance to seize under the bill of sale of the 29th of December.

De Gex, Q.C., E. C. Willis, and Redman, for the trustee, were not heard.

THE COURT (James, Brett, and Cotton, L.JJ.) held, on the authority of Ex parte Stevens (Law Rep. 20 Eq. 786) and Ex parte Cooper (10 Ch. D. 313), that no consideration was given for the bill of sale of the 2nd of May, and that it was therefore void as against the trustee as an act of bankruptcy. The appeal was dismissed.

On the second appeal,

Roxburgh, Q.C., and Finlay Knight, for Payne, said that if Cochrane succeeded as against the trustee, Payne claimed the property as against him.

De Gex, Q.C., E. C. Willis, and Redman, for the trustee, proposed to open the cross appeal.

Winslow, Q.C., and Robson, for Cochrane, objected that such a notice could not be given as between co-respondents.

THE COURT (James, Brett, and Cotton, L.JJ) held that under the circumstances the Court ought to decide who was entitled to the property, and that the notice had been properly given.

De Gex, Q.C., E. C. Willis, and Redman, for the trustee:—Payne's bill of sale is avoided only because it is fraudulent as against the trustee; therefore the trustee ought to stand in Payne's place, and have priority over Cochrane. But, at any rate, if Cochrane is protected as to the growing crops by sects. 94 and 95 of the Bankruptcy Act, 1869, because he had no notice of the prior act of bankruptcy of the 2nd of May, that does not apply to the chattels which are within the Bills of Sale Act. As to the chattels the want of notice of the act of bankruptcy is immaterial: Ex parte Attwater (5 Ch. D. 27).

Winslow, Q.C., and Robson, for Cochrane:—Ex parte Attwater does not apply where the bill of sale itself was not executed till after the secret act of bankruptcy.

THE COURT (James, Brett, and Cotton, L.JJ.) held that as to the growing crops Ex parte Leman (4 Ch. D. 23) applied, and Cochrane was entitled to them. But as to the chattels, registration under the Bills of Sale Act was necessary. Ex parte Attwater applied, and the trustee was entitled to them. Cochrane succeeded, because though, by virtue of the relation back of the trustee's title, the crops belonged to the trustee, yet the protecting sections of the Bankruptcy Act enabled the bankrupt to give a good title to a person who had no notice of the prior act of bankruptcy. Payne, therefore, could not take them from Cochrane.

GLOSSOP v. HESTON AND ISLEWORTH LOCAL BOARD.

Nuisance—Pollution of Stream—Local Board—Public Health Act, 1875—Mandatory Injunction.

This was an appeal from a judgment of Vice-Chancellor Malins.

The plaintiff was the owner of a residence on the banks of the River Crane, within the defendants' district, and complained that by the sewage discharged into the river his residence was rendered unhealthy. The defendants were not constituted as a local board till November 1875, and they alleged that they had not been guilty of unreasonable delay in trying to place the drainage of the district in a satisfactory state. The action was commenced on the 12th of July, 1876. The Vice-Chancellor granted an injunction in terms of the claim.

The defendants appealed from this judgment.

Higgins, Q.C., and Method, for the appellants.
Glasse, Q.C., and Decimus Sturges, for the plaintiff.

James, L.J., said that the action had been commenced through a misapprehension of the legal liabilities of the board. It was not based upon any act done by them, but on their alleged neglect to perform the parliamentary duty cast on them as the sanitary authority of a particular district. If the action could be maintained, it would be a very serious matter to every ratepayer in every district where there was any local authority on which the performance of public duties was cast. Such an action could equally be maintained by every owner of land within the district who could allege that his property would have been improved by a proper system of drainage. Section 13 of the Public Health Act vested all existing sewers in the district in the sanitary authority as owners of them, and by that section they became under the same liabilities and had the same defence as any private owner of a sewer would have. If a sewer in the state in which it was transferred to the board gave to any owner of land a right to an injunction to restrain a nuisance, the board would be in the same position as any other owner of a sewer. But the action was not based on any common law right, only on the alleged neglect of the defendants to carry out the provisions of the Act. The board were liable to be restrained from doing that which would have been a legal wrong but for the Act, and which was not justified by the Act or excused by it, but not to a mandatory injunction. They had no particular duty cast upon them with respect to any particular individual; the duty cast on them was the effectual drainage of the whole district. It was impossible that that could be done except by means of a general scheme or system of drainage. The board could not perform it without acquiring property for the purpose, and they had no compulsory power of taking land, except by means of an application to the Local Government Board, which they could not make until they had prepared a scheme. It could not be said that the defendants, who were only appointed in November, 1875, had been guilty of any neglect when this action was commenced in July, 1876. But if they had been guilty of any refusal or neglect to put in force their powers, that would not be ground for an action by any proprietor who was deprived of the benefit he had expected to derive from the performance of their public duty. If it would, his Lordship thought that the country would be buying its immunity from nuisances at the expense of a much more formidable nuisance in the litigation which would result. If there was any neglect or refusal by such a board to perform its public duties, his Lordship thought the proper remedy was by an application for a mandamus to the Queen's Bench Division, in the exercise of its prerogative jurisdiction over all public bodies, and it was inconsistent with the practice of the Court of Chancery to attempt to enforce the performance of such a duty indirectly by means of a mandatory injunction.

Brett, and Cotton, L.JJ., gave judgment to the same effect.

CROSTHWAITE v. DEAN.

Construction of Will—Period of vesting—Joint Tenants or Tenants in Common.

James Lee by his will, dated in 1849, gave and bequeathed to his niece Jane Lee the yearly interest of 1000*l.* bank annuities so long as she continued unmarried, but in case she should marry or die unmarried then the said sum of 1000*l.* was to be divided between the brothers and sisters of the said Jane Lee or their children.

Jane Lee died unmarried in June, 1878; she had six brothers and sisters, and the question now raised was as to the share of Elizabeth Masters, one of the sisters who died in January, 1864, leaving two children, namely, Henry Masters, the petitioner, and Thomas Masters, who died in the lifetime of Jane Lee, having by his will appointed the respondent, Mary Ann Masters, his sole executrix.

The petitioner Henry Masters claimed to be entitled to the entirety of one-sixth part of the 1000*l.* on the ground that he and his brother Thomas were joint tenants of the fund.

H. M. Mills, for the petitioner.

W. Barber, for the respondent.

FRY, J., decided that Henry and Thomas Masters were tenants in common of the one-sixth share of the 1000*l.*, and that the petitioner and the respondent were consequently entitled equally to the fund.

CHAPMAN v. MASON.

Practice—Rules of Court, 1875, Order LI., r. 2*a*—Administration Suit—Action against Executor—Transfer of Action.

This was a motion on behalf of the plaintiff, J. T. Chapman, as the sole executor of the will of W. Chapman, that an action commenced by J. Hardy, R. H. Johnston, and Charles Parker (trading as bankers under the firm of Hardy & Co.) in the Common Pleas Division against the defendant J. T. Chapman, wherein the plaintiffs claimed 2110*l.* 17*s.* balance of an account between the plaintiff and defendant between August, 1877, and January, 1879, might be transferred to this Division of the Court, in which the action of Chapman v. Mason was now pending for the administration of the estate of William Chapman, deceased.

The motion was made under Order LI., r. 2a.

J. T. Chapman stated in his affidavit that his brother, the testator, was at the time of his death indebted to Hardy & Co., his bankers, 3055*l.* 8*s.* After the death of the testator he opened an account with Hardy & Co. as executor of his brother, and the account was entitled "W. Chapman, executor, J. T. Chapman in account with Hardy & Co." The account was opened by the deponent solely in his character as executor to his brother, without any intention of making himself personally liable for the balance due by his brother to the bank. Since deponent had opened the account he had paid into the bank 5713*l.* 15*s.* 7*d.*, and had drawn out 4591*l.* 19*s.*, therefore the excess of payments in over drawings out was 1121*l.* 16*s.* 7*d.* The action brought by Hardy & Co. against deponent was against him personally, but, in fact, it was against him as executor of his brother.

Messrs Hardy in answer stated that J. T. Chapman did not require any special arrangement that payments to be made by him should be carried to the credit of any account separate from his account as executor of his brother, and the understanding was that the balance due from the testator would be paid out of his estate, and that balance was according debited against the account opened with J. T. Chapman as such executor. After the account was opened J. T. Chapman paid into the bank a sum of 3100*l.* arising from sales of the testator's assets, whereby the original amount due from the testator was discharged, but J. T. Chapman had continued to draw for large sums of money, for which it was submitted he was personally liable, and it was for those sums that the action was brought.

Onslow, for J. T. Chapman.

Langworthy, for the bankers, Hardy & Co.

Partition—Partition Act, 1868 (30 & 31 Vict. c. 40), s. 4.

Partition action by the owner of a moiety of house property at Kensington seeking a sale.

The property consisted of nineteen houses in Elsham Road and Holland Road, Kensington, let at different rents for different terms.

The plaintiff had acquired the houses together with his deceased partner, in their business of solicitors, by paying off the mortgages on the property.

The widow and children of the deceased partner, who were entitled to the other moiety, opposed a sale on the ground of the great diminution of income which would thereby be occasioned.

Evinence was given by surveyors on the one side as to the extreme difficulty of making any equal division of the property; on the other that a fair partition might easily be effected.

It appeared also that some ill-feeling existed between the widow and the plaintiff from her son, who had served his articles in the firm, not having been admitted into partnership with the plaintiff after his father's death.

Sir H. Jackson, Q.C., and Harben, for the plaintiff, contended that under the Partition Act, 1868, s. 4, the obligation of shewing that the plaintiff as owner of a moiety was not entitled to a sale rested on the defendants who resisted a sale, and had not been satisfied. Even as a matter of discretion no case was shewn for a partition rather than for a sale.

Kay, Q.C., and Stallard, for the defendants:—The widow will suffer a great loss of income by a sale of this property, while the plaintiff will be in no way injured by taking his proportion of the houses and then selling or doing what he likes with them. Even under s. 4, the Court has discretion to refuse a sale where, as here, it is manifestly asked for through vindictive feeling, or is on any other ground unreasonable.

Sir H. Jackson, in reply.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that, having regard to the animosity existing between the plaintiff and the defendants, but for which the writ in this action would not have been issued, and also to the great diminution in the value of the property, and the mischievous results of a sale to all parties, including the plaintiff, while he would sustain no wrong whatever by a partition, the discretion of refusing a sale given to the Court by s. 4 would be exercised.

Kay, Q.C.:—Then the decree will be for a partition.

Sir H. Jackson, Q.C.:—I do not ask for a partition. If the defendant wants it, she may have one.

V.-C. B. SINGER MANUFACTURING COMPANY v. LOOG. May 8.

Practice—Application by Defendant to have Action tried by Jury—Issues of Fact leading to Inferences of Law—Rules of Court, 1875, Order XXXVI. rr. 3, 26.

Motion on behalf of the defendant that the action should be tried before a judge and jury, and that the action might be transferred to one of the Common Law Divisions.

The action was to restrain the defendant from selling or advertising as "Singer's Machines" any sewing machine not of the plaintiffs' manufacture, and other corresponding relief. The defence was, that the name "Singer" or "Singer's Machines" never had applied exclusively to the plaintiffs' machines, and never had been used to denote machines manufacture by the plaintiffs exclusively.

The issues of fact were whether the word "Singer" was a trade name or designation of the plaintiffs' machines to which the plaintiffs were exclusively entitled, or whether it was a name which was descriptive of a particular class of machines, whether the defendant had used the name for the purpose for appropriating to his machines the reputation of the plaintiffs' machines, or as descriptive only of the class, and whether the defendant had induced purchasers to buy under the belief that they were buying the plaintiffs' machines.

Notice of trial of the action had been given by the plaintiffs on the 30th of April. The notice of this motion was dated on the 5th of May.

Sir H. Jackson, Q.C., and Everitt, for the motion, relied on West v. White (4 Ch. D. 631).

Aston, Q.C., Hemming, Q.C., and Rigby, for the plaintiffs, opposed, and cited Garling v. Royds (25 W. R. 123).

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said that not only were the issues of fact of a complex kind, but they involved inferences of law, which it was not the province of a jury to decide, and refused the motion with costs.

Charge of Debts and Funeral Expenses—Gift of Annuity and Legacy—Gift of Estates Real and Personal in Moieties to Charities and Legatees—Failure of Gift of Real Estate to Charity—Payment of Debts, &c., Costs, Legacy and Annuity, Order as to.

W. R. P., who died in 1876, by will made in 1874 directed that all his just debts and funeral expenses should be paid off and discharged. He then gave unto E. M. O. an annuity of 100*l.* for life, and said that within one month after his decease there should be paid into her hands the sum of 100*l.*, and subject thereto, and also to the provisions imposed by the wills of his late father and sister, he gave all his real and chattel real and also all his personal estate unto the use of two trustees (whom he appointed executors of his will), their heirs, executors, &c., upon trust, subject to any incumbrance affecting the same, as his trustees, in order to effectuate any of the purposes of his will, or with a view to the advantage of his estate, or the more convenient division between the persons beneficially entitled thereto under his will, should in their discretion, as soon as could be done, sell the whole. And he directed his trustees to stand possessed of the moneys to arise from the execution of the trusts, and gave one-half of the proceeds of sale to the different charities of Plymouth, and as to the other half of the proceeds he gave to the said E. M. O. 500*l.*, and to five cousins named legacies amounting in the whole to 2700*l.*; and to his two trustees for the trouble they would be put in carrying out his will he desired that they accept as a small acknowledgment for their services 100*l.* each, free of legacy duty, and the remainder, after all the aforesaid legacies and annuity were provided for, he directed to be divided equally between certain persons named. The testator's property consisted of a balance at his bankers, and a sum there on deposit notes; furniture and other effects of the value of about 500*l.*; rents due in respect of his freehold and leasehold property, and upwards of forty freehold houses and several pieces of freehold land, and four leasehold houses (most of which were subject to mortgages to secure in the aggregate upwards of 16,000*l.*)

The pure personal estate was, as alleged, insufficient for payment of the debts and funeral and testamentary expenses and the pecuniary legacies, and questions arose in respect to the bequest of one moiety of the residuary estate to charities, and the action was by one of the residuary legatees for the administration of the estate.

On the 24th of April, 1877, the action came on for further consideration, and on a motion to vary the chief clerk's certificate the Court declared that the guardians of the poor of Plymouth were a charity, but were not capable of acquiring by will the proceeds of sale of real or leasehold estates, or personal estate connected with land, and that the gift of one moiety of the residue, so far as it related to such estate was void, and that so far as it related to pure personal estate was good, and the costs of all parties were ordered to be taxed and paid.

Directions were given in reference to a sale of the estate remaining unsold, and certain inquiries were ordered to be made as to the relative values at the date of the testator's death of his real estate and of his pure and impure personal estates, and of the debts. This was a second further consideration.

Hastings, Q.C., and Chubb, for the plaintiff.

Dickinson, Q.C., and Whiteford, for the heir-at-law.

Eddis, Q.C., and F. Webb, for next-of-kin and trustees.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that the debts and funeral and testamentary expenses, other than the costs of the suit, must be paid out of the personal estate; that the costs of the suit must be paid rateably out of the mixed fund according to the values certified by the chief clerk; that the legacy and annuity, and the duty on the two legacies to the executors, must be paid out of the latter moiety of the estate.

V.-C. H. In re LOVEMAN, DECEASED. May 8.
WATSON v. WATSON.

Bequest of Gas Shares—Amalgamation of Companies—Conversion of Shares into Stock of New Company—Ademption.

Special case. E. Loveman, who died in 1878, by her will, made in 1867, bequeathed her shares in the Imperial Gas Light and Coke Company to B. F. W., whom she appointed her executor upon trust to pay the dividends to M. W. for life, and after her death to divide the shares between the daughters of B. F. W. equally. There were three codicils, the last being made in July, 1872, but they did not affect the bequest.

At the date of the will the testatrix was possessed of shares in the above company, some fully paid up, and others partly so, and on the latter she paid calls, and she bought other shares in that company. In January, 1876, these shares were converted into ordinary stock and H. 7*l.* per cent. stock of the Gas Light and Coke Company in pursuance of a scheme made under that company's Act of 1871, and the City of London Gas Act, 1862. The scheme provided for the amalgamation of the Imperial, the Independent, and the Gas Light and Coke Companies into a company named as the last mentioned, and the capital of it was appropriated to the shareholders of the old companies pro ratâ: and it was further provided that every share and all the stock should be vested in those entitled on the same trusts and be subject to the same limitations as to the amount of dividends, and to the same powers as at the date of the scheme affected the shares at that time existing in the capital of the amalgamating company for which they were substituted, and so as to give effect to and not revoke any testamentary disposition.

In November 1876, the testatrix bought more H. 7*l.* per cent. stock in the Gas Light and Coke Company. The plaintiffs were the specific legatees, and the defendants represented the persons interested in the residuary estate.

The material question was whether the ordinary stock and the aggregate sum of H. 7*l.* per cent. stock in the Gas Light and Coke Company, or any and what parts passed under the specific bequest.

Hastings, Q.C., and Andrew Anderson, for the defendants.

Armstrong, for the plaintiffs.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said that under the scheme of amalgamation the new stock took the place of the shares in the original company for the purposes of testamentary disposition, and there was no ademption. The bequest was capable of extension by the testatrix acquiring more shares after the date of her will, and after the same date she acquired the substituted stock, and he held that it passed under the bequest; and also that the small purchase of additional stock passed under the same bequest, i.e. all the stock which she had at her death was in the same position.

Q. B. Div. THE QUEEN v. JUSTICES OF WILTSHIRE. May 8.

Poor-rate — Appeal — Valuation List — Objection made to List before making of the Rate — Union Assessment Committee Amendment Act, 1864, s. 1.

Application for a mandamus to the justices of Wiltshire to enter continuances and hear an appeal against a poor-rate.

The facts were as follows:—A supplemental valuation list for the parish of Stratton St. Margaret, in the Highworth and Swindon Union, was deposited on the 13th of April, 1878. On the 11th of May, 1878, the appellants, the Great Western Railway Company, gave to the assessment committee of the union notice of objection to the amount at which their property was entered in the list. On the 15th and 22nd of May meetings of the assessment committee were held for hearing the objections to the list, and on the latter day the committee refused to reduce the amount of the valuation. A rate was made upon the property of the appellants based upon the list on the 23rd of May, 1878. The rate was published on the 26th, and demanded on the 28th of May. The next meeting of the assessment committee took place on the 12th of June, and the quarter sessions were held on the 2nd of July. The appellants having to give twenty-one days notice of appeal to the assessment committee would not, if they were obliged again to make objection to the list and go before the assessment committee to obtain relief after the making of the rate, have time to give the necessary notice of appeal before the 2nd of July. The appellants gave to the assessment committee notice of objection to the list on the 31st of July, which objection the committee heard but declined to alter the list. The appellants then gave notice of appeal to the Michaelmas sessions in October against the rate. The court of quarter sessions refused to enter and respite the appeal at those sessions on the ground that the appellants should have appealed to the previous sessions.

Webster, Q.C. (Lopes with him), moved for a rule nisi for a mandamus:—He contended, on the authority of Queen v. Great Western Railway Company (Law Rep. 4 Q. B. 323), that under the Union Assessment Committee Amendment Act, 1864, s. 1, before the appellants could appeal against the rate they must subsequently to the making of the rate have given notice of objection to the list, and failed on such objection to obtain relief, and that as there was not time to do this and give the necessary notice of appeal before the sessions in July, the sessions in October were the next practicable sessions.

Charles, Q.C., and Ravenhill, shewed cause in the first instance:—They contended that it was not necessary as a condition precedent to the appeal that objection to the list should have been made before the assessment committee after the making of the rate, provided that an objection to the list had been made at some time previous to the appeal.

THE COURT (Cockburn, C.J., and Lopes, J.) refused the rule, on the ground that the appellants were in a position to have appealed to the July sessions.

Procedure—Action for Land—Discovery of Documents before Claim—Rules of Court, 1875, Order XXXI., r. 12.

Appeal from chambers.

In an action for land the plaintiff delivered a statement of claim alleging that he was the heir and residuary devisee of certain predecessors of the defendants, and that, as such, he was, under and by virtue of certain deeds, assurances, wills, and documents in the possession and control of the defendants, entitled to the premises of which they were in possession.

The Claim was struck out as embarrassing pursuant to a judgment of the Court of Appeal, which held that the claim should allege the nature of the deeds and documents relied on by the plaintiff: Phillips v. Phillips (4 Q. B. D. (C.A.) 127). The plaintiff therefore took out a summons for discovery of the deeds and documents, under Order XXXI., r. 12.

His application was referred from chambers to the Divisional Court.

Sir H. Giffard, S.G., C. E. Bowen, and B. B. Rogers, for the plaintiff.

Cave, Q.C., Whitehorne, and Gould, for the defendants.

Affidavits were used on both sides.

THE COURT (Denman and Lindley, JJ.), were of opinion that although they could not lay down an absolute rule that in no action for land should discovery be ordered before statement of claim, yet that discovery ought not to be ordered until a stage in the proceedings was reached at which the Court could clearly perceive that the plaintiff's case was not of a merely speculative kind, but rested on some reasonable foundation. But the conclusion to be drawn from the affidavits was that the present claims were merely speculative. They were made indistinctly, in the alternative, and without apparent cause.

Order refused.

Practice—Rules of Court, 1875, Order XIV. r. 6—Leave to defend—Payment into Court—Judgment for Defendant—Notice of Appeal—Right to take the Money out pending Appeal.

Appeal from Chambers.

An action having been brought against the defendants upon two bills of exchange for the sums of 276*l.* 15*s.* and 484*l.* 13*s.* respectively, by writ specially indorsed the defendant Mycock was allowed to defend on payment into Court of 100*l.* The case was tried, and a rule for a new trial afterwards being obtained and argued, the Court, under Order XL. r. 10, entered judgment for the defendant Mycock, on the ground that there was in law no evidence of his liability. On the 1st of May he took out a summons to chambers, calling on the plaintiff to shew cause why the 100*l.* should not be paid out to the defendant Mycock. On the 3rd of May notice of appeal against the judgment was lodged. On the 5th of May the summons was dismissed by a Master, whose decision was affirmed by Field, J., at chambers.

Waddy, Q.C., for the defendant.

T. Atkinson, for the plaintiff.

THE COURT (Lord Coleridge, C.J., and Denman, J.) said that if at the time when the order for payment into Court was made the law had been established in the defendant's favour, as it now must be taken to be by the judgment of the Court, the condition upon which he was allowed to defend would not have been imposed. That he had a good defence to the action was for the present at least determined, and the reason for such condition was removed. He was therefore entitled to have the money paid out to him.

Order accordingly.

MORTIMORE v. MORTIMORE. May 15.

Time for ascertaining "Next of Kin."

Appeal from a decision of the Court of Appeal by which a previous decision of Vice-Chancellor Bacon had been reversed. John Clarke, by a will in 1825, disposed, among other property, of 12,000*l.* consols among his four daughters and their children, and the will as to this matter concluded thus:—"And from and immediately after the decease of my last surviving daughter that the said sum of 3000*l.* consols be paid and divided to and among the child and children of any of such last surviving daughter, or if there be no such children that the same be paid to such person or persons as will then be entitled to receive the same as my next of kin under the Statute of Distributions." This last surviving daughter died in 1875, and the question was at what time the next of kin must be ascertained. Vice-Chancellor Bacon held that the next of kin constituted a class to be ascertained at the death of the last surviving daughter. The Court of Appeal held that the class was to be ascertained at the death of the testator (7 Ch. D. 822), in that respect following Bullock v. Downes (9 H. L. C. 1), and so reversed the decision of the Vice-Chancellor.

J. Pearson, Q.C., and E. T. Holland, for the appellant.

Glasse, Q.C., and Buckley, for the vendor.

In the course of the argument the statement of title laid before the conveyancing counsel of the Court by the vendor's solicitor, on which the conditions of sale were framed, was handed up to the Court. This document was in evidence in the action, but was not seen by Mr. Justice Fry.

JESSEL, M.R., said that having seen the statement of title, he was clearly of opinion that the purchaser would get a good holding title, and probably also a good marketable title. He did not understand for what reason the condition of sale was drawn as it was drawn by the conveyancing counsel. He was of opinion that the purchaser was entitled notwithstanding the condition to have a good holding title; and if it was not shewn within fourteen days, he would be entitled to rescind his contract.

BRETT and COTTON, L.JJ., expressed their opinion to the same effect.

Beneficed Clergyman—Sequestration—Priority—Bankruptcy Act, 1869, s. 88.

This was an appeal from a decision of the Chief Judge (ante, p. 27).

The question was which of two sequestrations issued against the profits of the benefice of the bankrupt (a clergyman) was entitled to priority. Both sequestrations were issued after the commencement of the bankruptcy. The first was issued by the assignee in a former bankruptcy of the bankrupt, under the Bankruptcy Act, 1861, in which he had obtained an order of discharge; the second was issued by the trustee in the second bankruptcy. The assignee in the first bankruptcy had notice of the act of bankruptcy on which the second adjudication was founded. The Chief Judge held that the sequestration issued by the assignee in the first bankruptcy was entitled to priority. The trustee in the second bankruptcy appealed.

Winslow, Q.C., and Finlay Knight, for the appellant.

De Gex, Q.C., and C. Hall, for the respondent.

THE COURT (James, Brett, and Cotton, L.JJ.) held that, notwithstanding the discharge in the first bankruptcy, the assignee was entitled to issue the sequestration.

JAMES and COTTON, L.JJ., held that sect. 88 could not be construed literally, but that it was only intended to give priority to a sequestration issued by the trustee in a bankruptcy over sequestrations issued by individual creditors who were entitled to prove in that bankruptcy. It did not, therefore, apply as between the creditors under two different bankruptcies, and consequently, the assignee in the first bankruptcy, whose sequestration was issued first, was entitled to priority.

BRETT, L.J. differed, holding that sect. 88 must be construed literally, and consequently, that the trustee in the second bankruptcy was entitled to priority over the assignee in the first bankruptcy, whose sequestration was issued after the commencement of the second bankruptcy, and with notice of the act of bankruptcy.

The appeal was dismissed with costs.

Will—Annuity—Corpus or Income.

This was an appeal from a decision of Vice-Chancellor Hall (reported 9 Ch. D. 151).

The question for decision arose on the construction of the will of Robert Gee. The testator empowered his trustees to make leases of his real estate for building purposes, and also at their discretion to sell his real and personal estate, and directed them to invest the proceeds and the rents, issues, and profits of his estate, and to set apart a sufficient part of such investments to produce an annuity of 1200*l.*, which he bequeathed to his wife for her life, payable on the usual quarter days, the first payment to be made on the first of such quarter days as should happen after the testator's death; and he gave the entire residue of his trust estate, and also that part thereof set apart for his wife, after her death, upon certain trusts for the benefit of his children.

The income of the estate was not sufficient to provide for the widow's annuity of 1200*l.* The Vice-Chancellor held that the widow could not resort to the capital of the testator's estate to make up the deficiency of the income. From this decision an incumbrancer on the widow's life interest appealed.

Maidlow, for the trustee.

THE COURT (James, Brett, and Cotton, L.JJ.) were of opinion that upon the true construction of the will the annuity was payable out of the corpus if the income was deficient. The appeal was therefore allowed.

This was an action to restrain the infringement of a patent for ships' pumps. The defendant Young was the master of a ship fitted up with pumps alleged to be an infringement of the patent. The defendants Wallace & Co. were the manufacturers of those pumps. When Young took the command of the ship it was already fitted up with the pumps complained of, and they had never been actually used within British waters, the only occasion on which they had been worked having been at Buenos Ayres. Vice-Chancellor Bacon granted an injunction to restrain Young from using the plaintiff's invention, and from using any pump constructed according to that invention, or only colourably differing from it, and an injunction to restrain Wallace & Co. from infringing the patent, and an account of profits made by them by the sale of pumps infringing the patent. Residuary Legatee—Right of Creditor to follow Assets—Non-joinder of Executor.

Appeal by the plaintiff from an order of Cleasby, B., allowing a demurrer to a statement of claim.

Claim alleged that plaintiff was executrix of Samuel Hunter, who died in 1867. In 1869, S. Witley received on behalf of Samuel Hunter, 227*l.* In 1873 Witley died, having in hand a balance of 40*l.* of the said sum, and having by his will made M. C. Witley his residuary legatee. In March, 1877, M. C. Witley died, having made the female defendant her residuary legatee, to whom letters of administration with the will annexed were granted. Upon the 21st of December, 1877, a portion of the residuary estate of Samuel Witley, to the amount of 250*l.*, was paid by his surviving executor to the defendants, and the remainder of such estate was assigned by the said executor to the defendants by deed. The plaintiff claimed payment of 40*l.* by the defendants.

Demurrer on ground that defendants were not representatives of S. Witley.

Petheram, for the defendants, objected that the executor of Witley ought to have been joined.

May 19. THE COURT (Bramwell, Baggallay, and Thesiger, L.JJ.) held that the claim disclosed a good cause of action, and that under the practice introduced by the Judicature Acts the defendants, if they wished to bring the executor of Witley before the Court, ought to have made him a party to the suit. They therefore held that the demurrer ought to have been overruled, and they allowed the appeal.

The application had been heard and disposed of in the Queen's Bench Division on the 25th of November, 1878. Notice of appeal to this Court was given upon the 14th of December, and the appeal was set down upon the 16th of December. Upon the 15th of May, 1879, the respondents gave notice of application to this Court for security for costs. The appeal was about the seventh out of the list for the day.

Raikes, for the respondents, now appeared in support of the application for security for costs, and relied upon the facts stated in affidavits, which went to shew that the appellant would be unable to pay the costs of the appeal if he were unsuccessful.

C. H. Turner, for the appellant, contended that the present application was too late, and that it would be unreasonable to compel the appellant to give security, when the respondents had allowed so many months to elapse since the appeal to this Court was set down for argument.

THE COURT (Bramwell, Baggallay, and Thesiger, L.JJ.) held that the present application was too late and refused it: the costs occasioned by it to be the appellant's in any event.

Lease—Agreement that Underlease should contain "Similar Covenants" to those in Lease—Proviso for Re-entry for Breach of Covenant.

Summons in the matter of a contract for the sale of a leasehold property, and of the Vendor and Purchaser Act, 1874.

By an agreement dated the 3rd of March, 1879, William Tebb agreed to sell, and Alfred Elkins agreed to purchase for 300*l.*, a leasehold house, described in the schedule as being held with an adjoining house. By one of the conditions of the agreement the vendor agreed to grant to the purchaser an under lease of the property for the residue of his term thereof, less the last ten days, at the rent of 5*l.* per annum, and the condition stated that "such underlease shall contain similar covenants to the covenants in the lease under which the said vendor holds." In the superior lease was a proviso for re-entry by the vendor on non-payment of rent, or non-observance of covenants. The purchaser's solicitor prepared a draft underlease, but insisted that it ought not to contain the proviso for re-entry, contending that the proviso was not "a covenant."

The purchaser took out a summons under the above statute, for a declaration that the vendor was not entitled to have a proviso for re-entry (except for non-payment of rent) inserted in the underlease.

G. O. Edwards, for the summons, referred to Hodgkinson v. Crowe (Law Rep. 10 Ch. 622). This was not an underlease at a rack rent.

Pace, contrâ, was not called upon.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said that the authority cited had no application to a case like the present where there was an express agreement that the under-lease should contain similar covenants to those in the lease; and dismissed the summons with costs.

In an administration action in which the usual judgment had been taken, and while the accounts and inquiries were being prosecuted, a married woman who was absolutely entitled to a share of the residue presented a petition for a settlement in the usual form of the whole of her share. She had six children, was shortly expecting her confinement, her husband was bankrupt, and the share was under 600*l.*

Farwell, for the petitioner.

Levett, for the husband's trustee in bankruptcy, contended that the right to enforce the equity only attached to the right to receive the property, and that as the property was not distributable until further consideration, the petition was premature and must stand over until then.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that inasmuch as if the estate had not been under administration by the Court a judgment enforcing the equity could have been obtained in an action for the purpose by the wife, so the petition being equivalent to such an action, the circumstance that the fund was under the control of the Court ought not to prejudice or to postpone the enforcement of the equity until a further consideration, which might be indefinitely delayed; and made the order accordingly.

Use of Property—Owner of Foreshore—Right to remove Shingle—Prerogative of Crown—Natural Defence of Coast against Water.

This was an information by the Attorney-General on behalf of the Crown, and an action by the Secretary of State for War as plaintiff, to restrain the defendant from removing shingle from the shore of the river Deben, in Suffolk, near its mouth, in front of a piece of land in the possession of the Secretary of State, and occupied partly by a martello tower and partly by a coast guard station. The Crown sued, not by virtue of any prerogative, but simply as owner of the land. The defendant was the owner of the foreshore.

Sir J. Holker, A.G., Sir H. Giffard, S.G., and J. Rigby, for the Crown.

Cookson, Q.C., and Phear, for the defendant.

One question argued was whether the defendant was making a natural use of his land. Another question was whether it being the prerogative and the duty of the Crown to maintain the defences of the realm against the inroads of the water, any subject could be entitled, even under a grant from the Crown, to destroy the natural defences of the land against the water.

FRY, J., held, upon the evidence, that the acts of the defendant had been such as to endanger the land in question. He was disposed to hold that the digging and removal of the shingle was a natural use of the defendant's land, and that, therefore, on the authority of such cases as Smith v. Kenrick (7 C. B. 515), Baird v. Williamson (15 C. B. (N.S.) 376), and Smith v. Fletcher (Law Rep. 9 Ex. 64) the defendant was not responsible even if an injury was caused to his neighbour's land. But many old authorities had laid down that it was the prerogative of the Crown to maintain the defences of the land against the inroads of the water, and there was a corresponding duty on the Crown to maintain those defences for the benefit of its subjects. The Court was bound to recognise the existence of this prerogative and duty, though it could not enforce the performance of the duty. Its existence was recognised in Hudson v. Tabor (2 Q. B. D. 290), and, if it existed, it would be absurd to suppose that a subject was at liberty to destroy that which the Crown was bound to maintain. The decision in Hudson v. Tabor was not inconsistent with this view, for there might be the greatest distinction between the liability to maintain an artificial barrier and the right to destroy a natural one. His Lordship, therefore held, that there was an obligation on every subject to do nothing to destroy the natural banks of a river or of the sea, but he had arrived at this conclusion after some difficulty and doubt. An injunction must be granted to restrain the defendant from so digging or removing the shingle so as to endanger the land in question. The defendant must pay the costs of the action.

Adjudication of Bankruptcy—Appeal—Person aggrieved—Limit of time for appealing—Bankruptcy Act, 1869, s. 71—Bankruptcy Rules, 1870, r. 143.

Appeal from the Norwich County Court.

The debtor, a farmer and cowkeeper, rented a farm from the appellant Wigg at 403*l.* per annum.

On the 29th of November, 1878, the appellant put in a distress for rent and on the same day a bill of sale holder took possession of the debtor's effects under a registered bill of sale.

On the 5th and 6th of December the debtor's property was sold and a sum of 527*l.* was paid to the appellant for arrears of rent and costs.

On the 14th of December the order of adjudication was made, on the petition of another creditor, which was afterwards advertised in the usual way in the London Gazette of the 17th of December. On the 4th of January a trustee was appointed; on the 7th of January the trustee applied to the appellant to refund so much of the 527*l.* as was in excess of what he was legally entitled to.

The trustee's claim being disputed, an order, dated the 22nd of March, 1879, was obtained by the trustee directing the appellant to pay over to the trustee a sum of 103*l.* out of the 527*l.*

On the 29th of March the appellant gave notice of motion for the 4th of April to review and rescind the order of adjudication of the 14th of December, 1878, and this motion was dismissed with costs. Wigg appealed and notice of motion for appeal was served on the trustee's solicitors on the 18th of April, 1879.

It was objected by the respondent that it was too late now to appeal against the adjudication.

Rule to shew cause why a certiorari should not issue to bring up for the purpose of quashing it an order for the abatement of a nuisance made by justices for the borough of Weymouth sitting in petty sessions.

It appeared that complaint having been made to the Local Government Board under the Public Health Act, 1875, of a nuisance caused by certain timber pounds belonging to the applicants, the board communicated with the town council of Weymouth, who were the urban sanitary authority, and required them to abate the nuisance. The council having made inquiries, passed a resolution that steps should be taken for the removal of the nuisance, and a summons was taken out against the applicants upon which the order in question was made. Liverpool Passage Court—Costs—Action for Slander—Rules and Orders of Judicature Act, 1875—16 Vict. c. cxxi., ss. 53, 54.

Rule calling on the registrar of the Court of Passage of the borough of Liverpool to shew cause why a mandamus should not issue commanding him to tax the plaintiff's costs in an action of King v. Hawkesworth tried in that Court. It appeared that the action was for slander, and there was a verdict for the plaintiff, damages one shilling. On application to the registrar he refused to tax costs for a larger amount than the damages.

The Liverpool Court of Passage Procedure Act, 1853, 16 Vict. c. cxxi., s. 52, incorporates s. 223 of the Common Law Procedure Act, 1852 (which enables general rules to be made for the execution of the Act), and by s. 53 in any case not expressly provided for herein, or by the rules regulating the practice of the Court, the general principles of practice in the Superior Courts of Common Law at Westminster shall and may be adopted and applied to actions and proceedings in the Court. Under this Act the assessor had adopted the rules and orders of the Judicature Act, 1875.

McConnell, and Byrth, shewed cause, and contended that Order LV. of the Judicature Act, 1875, was a rule of law and not of practice, and was therefore not legally adopted by the assessor of the Passage Court, so that the plaintiff could not recover his costs without a certificate.

French, in support of the rule, relied on the Judicature Act, 1873, s. 91: "The several rules of law enacted and declared by this Act, shall be in force and receive effect in all courts whatsoever in England so far as the matter to which such rules relate shall be respectively cognizable by such courts."

The Court (Cockburn, C.J., Mellor and Lush, JJ.) made the rule absolute, thinking that s. 91 extended Order lv. to the Passage Court, and that the plaintiff was entitled to his costs in the absence of a judge's order depriving him of them.

Rule calling one of the masters of the Court to shew cause why a mandamus should not issue commanding him to tax the costs and disbursements of E. Fowler in an arbitration under the Lands Clauses Acts.

It appeared that Fowler, having obtained under the arbitration an award of compensation, applied to the master to tax his costs, when it was objected by the defendants, the other parties to the arbitration, that the costs were not recoverable, for one Lloyd, who had acted as solicitor for the claimant, had not taken out his certificate to practise during the progress of the arbitration. This was the fact, though the claimant had not previously been aware of it. The master refused to tax, and the rule above mentioned was obtained.

A. T. Lawrence, shewed cause.

B. F. Williams, in support of the rule.

The Court (Cockburn, C.J., Mellor, J., and Lush, J.) discharged the rule, thinking that under 37 & 38 Vict. c. 68, s. 12, which enacts that the costs of an uncertificated solicitor "shall not be recoverable by any person whatsoever," such costs could not be recovered by the client.

Ship and Shipping—General Average—Custom of Average Adjusters.

Special case stated in an action by the owners of a ship against the owners of cargo to recover a sum of money as a general average contribution. The ship having met with severe weather, it was necessary to cut away the foretop mast, and the fall of the mast occasioned other damage which made it necessary for the ship to put into port to repair. To effect the repairs it was necessary to discharge a portion of the cargo, and expense was occasioned in landing and warehousing it. The repairs having been effected, the part of the cargo so discharged was reshipped, and expense was incurred in respect of the reshipment. Further expense was also incurred for pilotage and other charges in respect of the ship's leaving the port of refuge and proceeding upon her voyage. The ship with her cargo arrived in safety at Liverpool, her port of destination. The plaintiffs sought to treat the expense of warehousing and re-shipment of the above-mentioned portion of the cargo, and also the pilotage and other charges in respect of the ship's leaving the port of refuge, as matter of general average. It was found in the case that it is, and for from seventy to eighty years has been, the practice of English average adjusters in adjusting losses where ships have put into port to refit, whether such putting into port has been occasioned by a general average sacrifice, or a particular average loss, to treat the expense of discharging the cargo as general average, but the expense of warehousing it as particular average on the cargo, and the expense of re-shipment of the cargo, and pilotage, port charges, and other expenses incurred to enable the ship to proceed on her voyage, as particular average upon the freight. Upon this practice the defendant relied.

The question was, whether the plaintiffs were entitled to recover in respect of the general average contribution claimed as above-mentioned.

Belmonte and Others v. Ayward and Another.

Paul Gütschow and E. Ford (Trustee, &c.) Claimants.

Practice—Plaintiff residing Abroad—Security for Costs—Interpleader—Real Plaintiff.

Motion for an order to the plaintiff to give security for costs in interpleader proceedings.

Paul Gütschow, in Japan, consigned silk to A. & R. in London, who had agreed to make advances upon it to ninety per cent. of its value. It was to be held to his order. They made the advances, but applied to F. G., at Hamburg the representative in Europe of Paul Gütschow, for further security to cover the advances, and F. G. sent to A. & R. about 1200*l.* worth of bills as security. The silk was sold by A. & R., and realised enough to leave in their hands a balance of 962*l.* 10*s.*, upon the proceeds of it and of the bills, beyond the amount of the advances. D. & B., London creditors of F. G., attached the balance in the hands of A. & R., and commenced an action in the Mayor's Court against them as garnishees. D. & B. went into liquidation, and E. Ford was appointed their trustee. F. G. also went into liquidation, and Belmonte and others were appointed his trustees, and commenced an action in the Common Pleas Division against A. & R. for the 962*l.* 10*s.* Paul Gütschow also claimed it as the consignor of the silk.

Belmonte & Co. lived at Hamburg. Ford lived within the jurisdiction. A. & R. entered an appearance, and the plaintiffs, Belmonte & Co., were ordered to give security for costs. A. & R. then took out an interpleader summons, on which a master ordered an issue to be tried, in which Belmonte & Co. were to be plaintiffs, and Paul Gütschow and Ford severally defendants. E. Ford took out a summons calling upon the plaintiffs to give security for costs. The master made no order, and on appeal to Manisty, J., the application was referred to the Court.

Lamaison, for the defendants, contended that the plaintiffs, being foreigners beyond the jurisdiction, ought therefore to give security.

R. V. Williams, for the plaintiff:—The test of the liability to give security is to ascertain who are the plaintiffs in the substance and not merely in name. Here the nominal plaintiffs were really defendants.

The Court (Denman and Lindley, JJ.) held that although when the party who is virtually in the position of plaintiff initiating an action is a foreigner residing abroad, he should be ordered to give security for costs, yet that the nominal plaintiffs in the present action did not occupy such a position. They were made plaintiffs for the sake of convenience only. Ford was practically the plaintiff moving the litigation, and suing them for a debt. The order therefore should be refused.

Order refused.

THE CITY OF GLASGOW BANK APPEALS.

May 20.

These appeals arose out of the stoppage of the City of Glasgow Bank on the 2nd of October, 1878. The first five, besides raising special grounds, also raised the general question of the personal liability of trustees, which was decided adversely to trustees by Muir's Case (ante, p. 72). The whole of the different appellants in the following cases having been put upon the list of contributories as holding stock in their own right, disputed liability on special grounds, which are as follow:—

THE CASE OF BELL AND OTHERS.

Note of Assumption of Trustees in Stock Ledger.

Mr. Bell is the sole surviving trustee and executor under the trust disposition of the late Mr. James Lang, of Dumbarton; and the other appellants, Mrs. Lang and her children, the beneficiaries, are assumed trustees. Mr. Bell contended that the bank stock was not properly transferred into his name, and that he had never been a shareholder. Mrs. Lang and her children maintained that they never gave any authority for their names being placed on the register of shareholders; and Mrs. Janet Lang or Hill, one of the children, further alleged that at the time of the transfer she was a minor under curators, and that now she was a married woman. The transfer to Mr. Lang's original trustees, Mr. Bell and others, took place in 1850, when 400*l.* of bank stock was transferred to their names as trustees. In 1851 Mr. Bell authorized Mrs. Lang to receive the dividends, and in December of the same year Mr. Bell and his co-trustees purchased 550*l.* of additional bank stock.

Digitized by Google

In 1865 it was agreed by the surviving trustees to assume Mrs. Lang and her children as new trustees, and the deed of assumption was engrossed on the sederunt book of the trust. In 1867, at another meeting of trustees, it was unanimously resolved that the whole of the stock in the bank should be transferred to the original and assumed trustees. And a note appeared on the stock ledger of the bank giving the names of all the appellants as assumed trustees. On the 27th of June, 1871, and the 26th of September, 1872, there were meetings of all the trustees, and on the latter day they all signed a minute which set forth that Mr. Lang (one of them) "tabled the scrip of the bank stock, shewing that the same had been transferred into the names of all the trustees, original and assumed, as directed at the previous meeting." In September, 1872, Mrs. Janet Lang or Hill was of full age but married, and her husband was no party to this appeal. The Court of Session the 22nd of January, 1879, held that all the appellants had duly become shareholders, and were rightly put on the list of contributories (Scot. Law Rep. vol. xvi. p. 249).

On appeal, Mr. Napier Higgins, Q.C., and Mr. Romer, appeared for the appellants.

Mr. Kay, Q.C., Mr. Benjamin, Q.C., Mr. Davey, Q.C., and Mr. Kinnear, appeared for the respondent, the liquidators.

THEIR LORDSHIPS affirmed the decision of the Court below, except as to Mrs. Janet Lang or Hill; whose name it was declared should in hac statu to be removed from the list without prejudice to the right of the official liquidators to place upon the list the names of her husband and herself in her right.

Appeal dismissed with costs.

ALEXANDER MITCHELL'S CASE.

Resignation of Office of Trustee after Stoppage, and Intimation to the Public of Insolvency of Joint Stock Company—Companies Act, 1862, ss. 25, 35.

The appellant was a trustee and executor of Andrew Watters, who died in 1875 possessed of City of Glasgow Bank stock; and on the 16th of October, 1878, 3500*l.* of this stock was standing in the names of the appellant and his co-trustees in the books of the bank. On the 16th of October the appellant resigned with the consent of his co-trustees, who were also the beneficiaries, his office of trustee, under 24 & 25 Vict. c. 84, s. 1, and 30 & 31 Vict. c. 97, s. 10, by a minute entered in the sederunt book of the trust. This was fourteen days after the bank had suspended payment, and eleven days after a notice had been issued (5th of October) convening an extraordinary general meeting of the shareholders for the purpose of passing a resolution to wind up the company voluntarily on the ground of its insolvency. On the 17th of October the appellant caused a notarial copy of the minute of resignation to be delivered to the directors, and requested that in pursuance thereof his name should be removed from the register, but they declined to alter the register on the ground that under the present circumstances they were not warranted in registering any transfer of bank stock. The appellant claimed to have his name removed from the register under the 25th section of the Joint Stock Companies Act, 1862. The Court of Session held that the appellant's name was properly placed on the list of contributories, and that the resignation was too late after the declaration of insolvency by the bank (Scot. Law Rep. vol xvi. p. 165).

On appeal, The Lord Advocate, and Mr. Napier Higgins, Q.C., appeared for the appellant.

Mr. Kay, Q.C., Mr. Benjamin, Q.C., Mr. Davey, Q.C., and Mr. Kinnear, for the respondents.

THEIR LORDSHIPS dismissed the appeal with costs, THE LORD CHANCELLOR remarking that the appellant's resignation alone could not terminate his liability.

And if the directors had permitted the alteration of the register after their notice of the 5th of October, they would have been acting in bad faith to those having claims upon the bank; and therefore there was no default under the 35th section of the Companies Act, 1862, on the part of the directors.

Agent for the appellant: W. A. Loch.

Agents for the respondents: Martin & Leslie.

CASE OF RUTHERFURD AND OTHERS.

The appellants are four accepting trustees of late Miss Jessie Fletcher, and they appeared as such on the bank register of members as holders of 500*l.* stock. The question was whether the assumption, on the 18th of October, 1878, after the bank had stopped payment, of the two beneficiaries as new trustees and the resignation at the same time of the original trustees, effectually relieved the original trustees from personal liability. The Court of Session on the 8th of January, 1879, held that Alexander Mitchell's Case decided this.

On appeal, the same counsel appeared as in the last case.

Appeal dismissed with costs.

BUCHAN'S CASE.

Trustee placed on Register as Executor—Question as to Liability.

Mr. Gibson of Peebles, under his trust disposition and settlement appointed three persons as his trustees, and who were further to be his "sole executors" with his moveable means and estate which included City of Glasgow Bank Stock. In 1851, on the death of one of them, he executed a codicil appointing the appellant as trustee with the same powers confirmed on the others. Mr. Gibson died in 1854, and the appellants and his co-trustees accepted the trust, and were entered on the register of the bank as executors for sixty shares, subsequently converted into 540*l.* of consolidated stock.

On the 22nd of October, 1878, the appellant resigned, under the 10th section of 30 & 31 Vict. c. 97, his office of trustee. He contended that he never was an executor, nor gave his consent to his name being placed on the bank register, and in any view, being on the register as an executor he was only liable in a representative character. The Court of Session on the 23rd of January, 1879, held he was personally liable.

On appeal, Mr. Napier Higgins, Q.C., Mr. Trayner, and Mr. J. A. Reid, appeared for the appellant.

Mr. Kay, Q.C., Mr. Benjamin, Q.C., Mr. Davey, Q.C., and Mr. Kinnear, for the respondents.

THEIR LORDSHIPS held that the appellant was personally liable on the ground that upwards of twenty years ago he had had the stock transferred into his name, and had ever since been upon the register as a partner.

Appeal dismissed with costs.

Agent for the appellant: William Robertson.

Agents for the respondents: Martin & Leslie.

KER'S CASE.

Circumstances under which Authority to register Name as Trustee inferred.

Mr. Ker, the appellant, was one of four trustees named in an ante-nuptial contract dated 1855, between a Mr. and Mrs. Fyfe of Greenock, by which Mrs. Fyfe conveyed to them 270*l.* of bank stock. None of the trustees signed this deed, but they all signed, Mr. Ker among them, a subsequent deed in which they were described as "trustees nominated under and by virtue of the said ante-nuptial contract of marriage." After the marriage contract was executed the law agent made a declaration of its contents and sent it to the bank, and all the trustees were thereupon entered in the stock ledger as trustees. In 1856, Mr. Ker signed as "trustee" one dividend warrant, and leaving Greenock that year he subsequently took very little interest in the trust. In 1868, on the death of Mr. Fyfe, a meeting of the trustees having been called, he sent a formal letter of declination which the other trustees accepted, but it was not intimated to or acted upon by the bank. The Court of Session on the 24th of January, 1879, held that he had been properly put on the list of contributories.

On appeal, Mr. Napier Higgins, Q.C., and Mr. M'Laren (of the Scotch Bar), appeared for the appellant.

Mr. Kay, Q.C., Mr. Benjamin, Q.C., Mr. Davey, Q.C., and Mr. Kinnear, for the respondents.

THEIR LORDSHIPS dismissed the appeal with costs, holding that Mr. Ker's trusteeship and his assent to the transfer of the stock was clearly established, and that his resignation had no effect, it being governed by the authority of the previous decision.

Agent for the appellant: Andrew Beveridge.
Agents for the respondents: Martin & Leslie.

TENNANT'S CASE.

Reduction of Transfer on the Ground of Fraud.

On the day the City of Glasgow Bank suspended payment, the 2nd of October, 1878, Mr. Hugh Tennant appeared on the register as the holder of 6000*l.* stock; and he had so appeared since 1873. On the 21st of October, 1878, he had raised an action for reduction of the transfer of stock to him on the ground that he was induced to purchase the shares by the fraudulent misrepresentation of the directors. Subsequently, the liquidators having placed Mr. Tennant's name on the list of contributories in respect of the above stock he raised a further and supplementary action to have it declared that he never was a partner, and to have his name removed from the list. The Court of Session on the 22nd of January, 1875, held that the rights of innocent third parties had attached, and that the contract could not now be annulled (Scot. Law Rep. vol. xvi. p. 238).

On appeal, Mr. Southgate, Q.C., Mr. Macnaghten, and Mr. Whiteway, appeared for the appellant.

Mr. Kay, Q.C., Mr. Benjamin, Q.C., Mr. Davey, Q.C., and Mr. Kinnear, for the respondents.

NELSON MITCHELL'S CASE.

Sale of Stock—Registering Sale after Stoppage of Bank—30 Vict. c. 29, and Joint Stock Companies Act, 1862, s. 35.

The appellant, Mr. Nelson Mitchell, on the 28th and 30th of September, 1878, sold through his brokers in the ordinary course of business on the Glasgow Stock Exchange, in all 2500*l.* of bank stock, for settling-day on the 16th of October. The brokers who bought, bought for the bank, who had authority to buy their own shares under their deed. But the names of the seller and purchaser was not made known until the 11th of October. Before the settling-day the bank stopped payment. On the 15th of October the appellant's brokers handed to the bank the certificate of the stock with a request that they would prepare a transfer. On the same day the secretary of the bank wrote back declining under the present circumstances of the bank to accept or register the transfer. The appellant was put on the list of contributories. The questions raised were, first, whether there was a valid contract for the sale of stock having regard to the terms of the 30 Vict. c. 29; and, secondly, was the company in default for not accepting and registering the transfer. The Court of Session, on the 20th of December, 1878, decided both these points against the appellant (Scot. Law Rep. vol. xvi. p. 155).

On appeal, Mr. Napier Higgins, Q.C., Mr. Balfour, and Mr. James Bryce, appeared for the appellant.

Mr. Kay, Q.C., Mr. Benjamin, Q.C., Mr. Davey, Q.C., and Mr. Kinnear, appeared for the respondents, but were not called upon.

THEIR LORDSHIPS held that there was no default on the part of the directors, as, for the same reasons as given in the previous cases, it would have been improper for the company to have, on the 16th of October, registered the transfer, and it was therefore unnecessary to decide the first question. Appeal dismissed with costs, but without prejudice to any application the appellant might make to the Court of Session to correct an alleged mistake in his minute of admissions as to the amount of stock for which he appeared on the books at the stoppage of the bank.

CITY OF GLASGOW BANK AND LIQUIDATORS, APPS.
MACDONALD AND OTHERS, EXECUTORS, RESPS.

This appeal from an interlocutor of the Court of Session, holding that the executors were not personally liable for calls, the entry of their names on the register after the stoppage of the bank being unwarrantable (Scot. Law Rep. vol. xvi. p. 290) was compromised.

THEIR LORDSHIPS being satisfied that the compromise was one proper for the parties to make, allowed the case to be removed from the list of appeals. House of Lords Minutes, 29th April, 1879.

Supreme Court of Judicature.

COURT OF APPEAL.

From Ch. Div. May 21.

In re BENTHAM MILLS SPINNING COMPANY.

Company—Transfer of Shares—Companies Act, Table A., art 10.

This was an appeal from a decision of Vice-Chancellor Hall (ante, p. 76).

W. W. Hoyland held 855 shares in the Bentham Mills Spinning Company which had adopted as its articles of association Table A. of the Companies Act, 1862. Article 10 provides that the company may decline to register any transfer of shares made by a member who is indebted to them. Article 13 provides that any person being entitled to a share in consequence of the death, bankruptcy, or insolvency of a member may be registered as a member upon producing the proper evidence.

The firm to which Hoyland belonged became bankrupt, and the trustee who was appointed of Hoyland's separate estate applied to the company to register him as the owner of Hoyland's 855 shares. The company refused to register the trustee on the ground that Hoyland's firm was indebted to them in more than 2000*l.* The trustee then moved to have the registor rectified by inserting his name as the owner of 855 shares. The Vice-Chancellor having refused the application on the ground that it was covered by the 10th article, the trustee appealed.

Dickinson, Q.C., and J. Brooke, for the trustee.

W. Pearson, Q.C., and Buckley, for the company.

JESSEL, M.R., said that the exact point now raised did not seem to have been present to the mind of the Vice-Chancellor when he gave his judgment. The point was that the trustee of a bankrupt member of the company asked to be admitted as a member under clause 13 and did not ask for a transfer at all. There was a difference in the provisions of Table A. with respect to "transfer" and "transmission." In the present case there was neither a transfer nor a transfer by a member of the company, but the joint operation of the bankruptcy law and of Table A. gave the trustee a right to call on the company either to admit him as a member or to allow him to transfer the shares to some one else. It was plain that clause 10 did not apply. The company must, therefore, register the trustee as the owner of the shares.

JAMES, L.J., said that a "transmission" was made by operation of law, whereas a "transfer" was an act of the parties. Table A. made provision by clause 10 for the one case, but not for the other.

BRETT, L.J., concurred.

Procedure—Action against Principal and Sureties—Liability of Surety—Issue of Fact—Order to try it before other Issues—Rules of the Supreme Court, 1875, Order XXXVI., r. 6.

Practice—Joinder of Causes of Action—Leave of Court—Rules of Court, 1875, Order XVII., r. 2.

This was an appeal from a decision of Mr. Justice FRY.

The writ in the action was issued for the administration of the estate of a testator, of whom the defendants were the executors, and also for the recovery of three freehold messuages in the possession of the defendants. The writ was issued without obtaining leave of the Court to join the causes of action, which is required by Order XVII., r. 2. The defendants, however, appeared to the action; and after they had appeared, the plaintiff took out a summons in chambers for an order "to continue the action in its present form." The summons having been adjourned into Court, was dismissed by Mr. Justice Fry.

The plaintiff appealed from this decision.

Oswald, for the plaintiffs.

Stallard, for the defendants.

JESSEL, M.R., said this was not a question of enlarging a period of time, which might be done on sufficient ground being shewn. Here the meaning of the rule was that an action for recovery of land should not be joined with another action without leave being previously obtained. This had not been done here, and the Court could not now rectify the error. The decision of Mr. Justice Fry was correct, and the appeal must be dismissed with costs.

The Decision of Fry, J., affirmed.

From Adm. Ct. THE CASSIOPEIA. May 26.

Practice—Admiralty—Action in rem—Service of Amended Writ—Rules of Court, 1875, Order IX., r. 13; XXVII., r. 10.

In this case an action in rem was brought against the owners of the Cassiopeia for necessaries supplied to the ship. The writ was served in the ordinary way on the ship, but the owners did not appear. The ship was at that time under arrest in a previous action by another party, and was afterwards sold and the proceeds brought into Court in that action.

The plaintiffs in the present action then amended their writ by adding a claim as mortgagees. Not being able to serve the amended writ on the ship, they got the writ which had been already filed in the registry amended, and at the same time filed the amended writ in the office.

The plaintiffs then filed a statement of claim and notice of motion for judgment.

The Judge of the Admiralty Court refused to give judgment for the plaintiffs by default because the amended writ had not been served. His Lordship's attention was not, however, called to the fact that the ship had been sold before the writ was amended. The plaintiffs appealed.

May 21. W. G. Phillimore, for the plaintiffs, contended that the ship having been sold and the defendants not having appeared, the only way of serving the amended writ was by serving the registrar.

JESSEL, M.R., said that service on the registrar was sufficient, the ship having been sold. If this fact had been known to the Judge of the Admiralty Court he would doubtless have given judgment for the plaintiffs.

JAMES and BRETT, L.JJ., concurred.

THE COURT also expressed its opinion that an amended writ ought always to be served in the same manner as if it had been the original writ.

May 26. W. G. Phillimore mentioned the case again. He said that the registrar refused to draw up the judgment on the ground that although the amended writ had been filed, it had not been served on the registrar; and also, that the amended writ was not indorsed with the date of service as required by Order IX., r. 13.

BRETT, L.J., said that he was of opinion that the registrar was right in not drawing up the judgment, as the service was not sufficient. The plaintiffs did not intimate to the registrar or his clerk that the amended writ was intended to be served on the registrar. It was simply filed. And moreover Order IX., r. 13, was not complied with. Therefore the judgment could not stand.

Copyright of Designs—Piracy—Designs Copyright Act (5 & 6 Vict. c. 100), s. 7—Words "caused to be applied."

Action by the plaintiffs, manufacturers of lace, to restrain the defendant from manufacturing or selling any lace in imitation of the plaintiffs' registered design which was registered under the Act 5 & 6 Vict. c. 100.

The defendant was not a manufacturer, but a lace merchant who bought the undressed lace from manufacturers and then caused it to be dressed and completed ready for sale.

The defendant had received a pattern of lace sent him by letter of the plaintiffs' registered design, which he had sent with other designs to the manufacturer. He had only sold one parcel of the lace complained of when he received notice that the same was registered, and stopped the sale.

The Court being of opinion, when the case came on for trial, that the defendant's design was an imitation of the plaintiffs', the question was, whether what had been done by the defendant came within s. 7 of the said Act, by which, in order to prevent the piracy of registered designs, it is provided that no person "shall either do or cause to be done" the acts therein mentioned, including the application of any such design for the purpose of sale, and the sale of any article to which such design shall have been so applied without the consent of the proprietor.

Davey, Q.C., and Macrory, for the plaintiffs.

Chitty, Q.C., and Fellows, for the defendant.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS considered that a manufacturer of an article within the provisions of the Act was bound to inquire whether the design was already registered; that the defendant, though not the actual manufacturer, had "caused to be applied" the plaintiff's design within the meaning of the 7th section; that this amounted to a piracy, and that the plaintiffs were entitled to judgment.

An arrangement was come to by which all further proceedings in the action were stayed.

V.-C. B. KELLY v. BYLES. May 7.

Copyright—Right to use Title of Book—Trade-mark—Exclusive Use of Name "Post Office" Directory—Copyright Act, 1842 (5 & 6 Vict. c. 45).

Action by the registered proprietor, under the Copyright Act, 1842, of a book entitled "Post Office Directory of West Riding of Yorkshire," which included the town of Bradford, to restrain the intended publication by the defendants of a directory of Bradford as advertised by them with the words "Post Office" forming part of the title, and from in any way representing their directory as a "Post Office" Directory or from doing anything which should induce the belief that the directory advertised by the defendants was published by the plaintiff's authority, or in any way connected with him.

Some seventy-five years ago an officer in the London Post Office published, with the assistance of the letter carriers, a directory which he called "Post Office" Directory. In 1837 a brother of the plaintiff's became the publisher and proprietor of the work, which was carried on by him till 1846, with the assistance of the letter carriers as before. After 1846 the plaintiff's brother was prohibited by the Post Office authorities from employing the letter carriers, and he thereupon employed a large staff of private agents and travellers to obtain the information necessary for the continuance of his directory, which was still called "Post Office" Directory. In 1852 the plaintiff began publishing country directories, making use of his brother's staff of agents and travellers, and, with his brother's consent, called his directories "Post Office" Directories. The plaintiff alleged that his directories were distinguished and known in the trade and to the public as "Post Office Directories," and that the term "Post Office" was a very valuable trade distinction.

The defendants had announced the publication of a directory of Bradford to be called the "Post Office Bradford Directory." The defendants had received the assistance of the postmaster at Bradford, and had with his sanction employed the letter carriers to obtain for them the materials necessary for the greater portion of their work, though the Postmaster General had prohibited any further assistance being given. It was not alleged that there had been any copying or colourable imitation of any part of the text of the plaintiff's work, neither was there any similarity in price or appearance between the two directories; the only question being as to the plaintiff's exclusive right to the use of the word "Post Office" as applied to directories.

Kay, Q.C., Hemming, Q.C., and Leeson, for the plaintiffs, contended (1) that the plaintiff having registered the title of his work under the Copyright Act, he was entitled to prevent the user or appropriation of any of the words protected by registration; and (2), that independently of the Act the plaintiff was now entitled to the exclusive use of the name he had adopted as the quasi trade-mark of the commodity he offered for sale.

Sir H. M. Jackson, Q.C., and Ribby, for the defendant.

Kay, Q.C., in reply.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR considered that the taking a part of the title of a registered copyright work, without fraud, and without any circumstances from which an animus furandi on the part of the defendants could be inferred, was not an infringement under the present or any of the preceding Copyright Acts.

As to the plaintiff's property in the name "Post Office" as a quasi trade-mark; a right of that kind could only attach where the wares offered for sale were so nearly identical that the use of the particular trade-mark or name might mislead unwary purchasers. The defendants were clearly entitled to publish a directory of Bradford, and as no person wishing to possess the plaintiff's "Post Office Directory for the West Riding of Yorkshire" could be misled or deceived into buying the defendant's Post Office Bradford Directory, judgment must, on this ground also, be given for the defendants.

V.-C. B. CORPORATION OF BRISTOL v. WESTCOTT. May 22.

Lessor and Lessee—Covenant by Co-lessees not to part with Possession—Departure by one Lessee.

demised by Jane Hicks Westcott to Charles Baker and Robert Houghton for twenty-one years from Lady Day, 1870, at a certain rent, and the indenture contained a covenant by the lessees that they, "their executors, administrators or assigns, or any or either of them," would not "assign, underlet, or part with the possession of" the premises without the written consent of the lessor. Baker and Houghton were then partners in business, which was carried on upon the above premises. On the 12th of June, 1872, they agreed to dissolve partnership, and by an agreement of that date they agreed that a deed should be prepared which should contain an assignment by Houghton to Baker of the partnership property and effects .... and of all his (Houghton's) estate and interest in any leasehold premises in which the said partnership business was then carried on "with the consent of the lessor .... if such consent can be obtained." The consent of the lessor was sought to be obtained, and she refused. No assignment was executed, and on the 4th of August, 1872, Houghton gave up possession of the premises to Baker, who continued in sole possession until the premises were taken by the plaintiffs for the purpose of a street improvement.

The question was, whether a forfeiture had been incurred by the fact of one of the lessees having parted with possession, the other having retained it.

Sir H. Jackson, Q.C., and E. S. Ford, for the plaintiffs.

H. Smith, Q.C., and Maidlow, for the lessor.

Trade-mark—Registration—Name "Royal"—Evidence of the Goods or Class of Goods as belonging to which the Mark was to be registered—Trade Marks Registration Act, 1875 (38 & 39 Vict. c. 91), ss. 2, 10.

Motion on behalf of the company trading at New York, that the register of trade-marks might be rectified by entering thereon the name of the company as proprietors of the trade-mark numbered 14,940, in the Trade Marks Journal of Wednesday the 18th of September, 1878. The mark, as appeared from the journal and from an exhibit to the application, consisted of the word "royal" in white letters, shaded black, on a label which had the shape of part of the space which might be covered by a circular band laid on the paper. The registrar had refused to register the word "royal" alone; but had said that an application for the registration of the full name, "The Royal Baking Powder Company," might be proceeded with. The application was for the registration of the word "in respect of the description of goods following; that is to say, baking powder, baking compound, or yeast powder;" and it was alleged that the company had used the word "royal" as a trade-mark for years; but no parcel or packet of goods stamped with or bearing the name was produced in Court.

Aston, Q.C., and Begg, moved under the 3rd section of the Trade Marks Registration Act, 1875.

Sir H. S. Giffard, S.G., and Rigby, for the registrar, were not called upon.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said that the word "royal" was not a "special and distinctive word" within the meaning of sect. 10 of the Act; nor had the Court sufficient evidence as to the "particular goods or classes of goods," within the 2nd section, as belonging to which it was proposed that the mark should be registered, and refused the application with costs.

FISHER v. SHIRLEY.

Administration—Overseer's Debt—Priority under 17 Geo. 2, c. 38, s. 3.

An adjourned summons for declaration that the plaintiffs, as co-overseers of Sheffield with the late William Booth, whose estate was now being administered by the Court, were entitled to priority over all his unsecured creditors in respect of 6,213*l.* 18*s.* 10½*d.*, as being money which he received by virtue of his office as overseer.

Booth was appointed overseer every year from 1858 to 1876 inclusive, and died in office during that year. Shortly after his death it was discovered that Booth had received and misappropriated large sums of money from the poor rates and from the watch rates, which latter rates were collected by the overseers under a precept annually directed to them by the mayor. The poor rates money had been drawn out of the bank by cheques signed by Booth and a co-overseer, who it was admitted thought that the moneys were to be properly applied. The watch rates moneys were received by Booth direct from the collectors. Certain banker's charges, occasioned by Booth's defalcations were included in the plaintiffs' claim. The plaintiffs had been surcharged by the district auditor after appeal to the Local Government Board in the sum of 2397*l.* 18*s.* 10½*d.*, and there was at Booth's death an admitted deficiency in the watch rates account of 3816*l.* 5*s.* 0*d.* These sums together making the total claim.

It was the practice of the overseers to pay all watch rates as well as poor rates into the poor rates account at the bank, in order to obtain interest on the account under an arrangement with the bank, and in order to feed the watch rate account, transfers of money were frequently made from the poor-rate account to the watch rate account. In consequence of Booth's abstractions these transfers created a further deficiency in the poor rates account, being the difference between the amount surcharged and the amount originally abstracted by Booth from the poor rate account.

Edward Walker, for the plaintiffs, claimed under the statute.

Dunning, for the executor (as representing the other creditors):—The priority claimed is a specialty within Mr. Hinde Palmer's Act (32 & 33 Vict. c. 46). 17 Geo. 2, c. 38, is a poor law act, and therefore the priority can only exist as to poor rates. Watch rates and derivatives claims for interest are not within the section. The whole of these moneys were fraudulently obtained, and were not in Booth's hands by virtue of his office. The overseers have been guilty of laches, and have therefore lost their priority.

E. Walker, in reply:—Mr. Hinde Palmer's Act does not apply to a priority under a statute: Moors v. Marriott (7 Ch. D. 543). The words of s. 3 of the Act of Geo. 2 are very general, and may well include all moneys which overseers, and only they, are bound to collect. Booth, as overseer, had perfect right to receive all the moneys; but neither his misapplication nor the laches of his co-overseers can affect the priority (Moors v. Marriott).

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that the claim for priority existed as to poor rates received by Booth, but not as to watch rates or banker's charges or interest; and he directed an inquiry as to what poor rates were received by Booth and remained by him unpaid at his death, and as to what securities were held by the plaintiffs for each part of their claim; and also that the securities so held should go in diminution of that particular part of the plaintiffs' claim for which they had been respectively given.

This was a petition upon the abandonment of a railway for the payment out of a parliamentary deposit. The Act authorizing the abandonment contained the usual clause providing for the application of the deposit towards compensating landowners.

B. E. Rogers, for the petitioners, produced an affidavit by the secretary of the company that no notices to treat had ever been given, and that none of the powers of the company had ever been put in force, and asked that the usual inquiry and advertisements as to landowners might be dispensed with.

In answer to his Lordship, the registrar (Mr. Teesdale) stated that in the case of Freshwater Railway Company (unreported) the Court of Appeal had refused to dispense with the inquiry, whereupon the Vice-Chancellor declined to dispense with the inquiry and advertisements, and made the usual order.

Fry, J. ROBINSON v. DULEEP SINGH. May 27.

Common—Fold-course—Right of Lord to approve—Inclosure—Digging Gravel—Statute of Merton, c. 4—Grant—Construction—"Warren of Conies."

The plaintiff, who claimed a fold-course over Lakenheath Warren, in Suffolk, brought the action to restrain the defendant, the Maharajah Duleep Singh, from inclosing any part of the warren, and from digging and taking away the gravel thereof. The plaintiff was the owner in fee of the Lakenheath Hall Estate. The statement of claim originally alleged that the defendant was the owner in fee of the warren, as he in fact claimed to be. At the trial of the action in November, 1877 (Weekly Notes, 1877, p. 249), it was held by Fry, J., that the plaintiff had a freehold right to the herbage of the warren under a presumed grant from the lord, and that the lord could not in any way derogate from his grant. The Court of Appeal, in July, 1878, reversed this decision (Weekly Notes, 1878, p. 184), holding that the fold-course was a right of common appurtenant against which the lord was entitled to approve. And they remitted the action to Fry, J., to try the question whether the defendant had interfered with the plaintiff's right so as to entitle him to an injunction.

After the appeal the plaintiff amended his statement of claim by alleging that the defendant was entitled only to a right of warren in Lakenheath Warren, and was not the owner of the soil thereof. The defendant amended his statement of defence, and asserted his title to the soil of the warren.

This was the trial. Evidence was adduced on the question whether the defendant had left sufficient common to satisfy the plaintiff's rights.

It appeared that the defendant had purchased, in 1869, a lease of the warren which had been granted in 1866 by the Dean and Chapter of Ely to H. R. Evans, and that in 1872 he had purchased from the Ecclesiastical Commissioners the reversion expectant on the lease. The demise in the lease was of "All that the warren of conies in Lakenheath as it is there marked out, &c., and also all those two several lodges standing upon and within the said warren, and also the stock of conies upon the said warren."

One of the points argued was whether the lord of the manor had any right at all to dig gravel pits on a common, this not being an "approvement" within the Statute of Merton.

Southgate, Q.C., and W. R. Fisher, for the plaintiff.

Sir H. Giffard, S.G., Joshua Williams, Q.C., and F. Vaughan Hawkins, for the defendant.

FRY, J., held upon the construction of the demise that, following the rule laid down in Earl Beauchamp v. Winn (Law Rep. 6 H. L. 223), and having regard to the context and to the surrounding circumstances, the soil of the warren passed, and not a mere franchise. He held also, following Hall v. Byron (4 Ch. D. 667), that the lord was entitled to dig gravel pits, provided that he left sufficient common for the commoners. And upon the evidence he held that there had been no substantial interference with the plaintiff's rights. He therefore declared that the plaintiff was entitled to the fold-course which he claimed, but dismissed the action with costs.

Railway Company—Travelling without having previously paid Fare—Intent to avoid Payment of Fare—Railways Clauses Consolidation Act, 1845 (8 Vict. c. 20), s. 103.

Case stated by justices. The appellant had preferred an information against the respondent for travelling in a railway carriage without having paid his fare, with intent to avoid payment thereof, under 8 Vict. c. 20, s. 103. It appeared that the respondent had been travelling on the G. W. Railway in a train going to N. with the forward half of a tourist return ticket from L. to N., marked not transferable, which had been originally issued to another person. The original taker of the ticket had used it as far as H. on the way from L. to N, but then proceeded on a different route and, consequently not having given up the forward half of the ticket, sold it to the respondent, who was travelling with it between H. and N. The magistrates refused to convict.

Bowen, for the appellant, contended that they ought to have convicted.

No counsel appeared for the respondent.

THE COURT (Cockburn, C.J., and Manisty, J.) were of opinion that the magistrates were wrong in refusing to convict.

An information had been preferred by the appellants against the respondent under 38 & 39 Vict. c. 55, s. 35, for rebuilding a cottage without a sufficient water-closet, earth-closet, or privy.

Emma Silver Mining Company v. Lewis and Son.

Company—"Promoters"—Definition of—Liability—Profits on Sale.

Park and others, becoming possessed of an American silver mine, arranged with the defendants, who had been brokers for sale of the ore, and knew the doubtful value of the mine, that if the defendants would assist Park in endeavouring to sell the mine to a company to be formed in England for the purpose of buying it, would allow their names to appear in the prospectus as those of persons to whom reference might be made, and would keep silence about the doubtful value, they should be liberally remunerated out of the purchase-money for a diminution in the rate of their commission as brokers, and for their services aforesaid. The defendants acted accordingly, leaving Park to fix the price of the mine, get up the company, manage all the details, and protect their interests, which he did, and pursuant to the arrangement he gave to the defendants 250 fully paid-up shares of the company, and of the value of 5000*l.*, out of the shares given to him by the company for the mine. The company brought an action shaped in several forms, but in substance to recover the proceeds, dividends, and interest of the 250 shares as profits alleged to have been received by the defendants to the use of or as trustees for the plaintiffs.

At the trial, Denman, J., left it as a question of fact, inter alia, for the jury to say whether the defendants were promoters of the company, and the jury found that they were. On Further consideration after argument, his Lordship thought that there was evidence to support that finding, and gave judgment for the plaintiffs. A rule having been obtained for a new trial on the ground of misdirection, in holding that there was evidence, &c., and in not sufficiently guiding the jury as to what constitutes a promoter.

Sir John Holker, A.G., C. E. Bowen, and Foulkes, shewed cause.

Sir Henry James, Q.C., Herschell, Q.C., and Henn Collins, supported the rule.

Cur. adv. vult.

Lindley, J., delivered the judgment of the Court (Lord Coleridge, C.J., Denman and Lindley, JJ.) that there was ample evidence of facts which together justified the finding; that the word "promoter" has no very definite meaning, but involves the idea of exertion for the purpose of getting up and floating a company, and also the idea of some duty towards the company imposed by or arising from the position which the so-called promoter assumes towards it; that a person not a director may be a promoter of a company which is already incorporated but the capital of which has not been taken up, and which is not yet in a position to perform the obligations imposed on it by its creators; that an elaborate explanation of the meaning of the word "promoter" would not have been of any advantage to the defendants nor calculated to give any real assistance to the jury in drawing proper conclusions from the facts; and that the verdict and judgment were right.

FOWLER BROTHERS v. NAISH.

Sale of Goods—Statute of Frauds, s. 17—"Note or Memorandum in Writing of the Bargain"—"Agent thereunto lawfully authorized."

On the 3rd of May, 1878, the plaintiffs verbally agreed to sell and deliver to the defendant ten boxes of bacon on the terms cash, less four months' interest, and the defendants verbally promised to accept the bacon and to pay for the same on the foregoing terms at the rate of 36*s.* per cwt. The defendant gave certain references, which did not prove altogether acceptable to the plaintiffs, who on the 6th of May wrote to him inclosing an invoice and asking for a bank-draft. On the 7th of May the defendant replied to the plaintiffs: "Why did you not tell me when I bought the bacon that you wanted cash first transaction? Had you done so, I would have given cheque; as it is, I prefer taking the usual credit." The defendant initialled the invoice, and entered the amount (more than 10*l.*) in his ledger. The plaintiffs refused to send the bacon to the defendant without first receiving payment, and ultimately the following letter was, on the 10th of May, written to them in his absence by Whitehead: "Mr. Naish is in Wales, will not return till end of next week, when he will send you cheque." Whitehead had no direct authority to write this letter, but during the defendant's absence he looked after his business. The defendant saw a copy of the letter of the 10th of May on his return home, and did not then repudiate it. As the defendant refused to pay for the bacon before it was delivered, the plaintiffs sold it, and, a loss having occurred upon the sale, they sued to recover damages. The action was tried before Manisty, J., without a jury, and the learned judge directed judgment to be entered for the plaintiffs for 30*l.*

Specific Performance—Offer subject to Acceptance within fourteen days—Acceptance by Letter posted fourteen days after Offer, but received the next day—Binding Contract.

Action for specific performance.

The defendant, the vendor, residing at Parkgate, two miles from Rotherham, offered certain property for sale to the plaintiff who resided at Rotherham, by letter dated the 2nd of September, 1878, adding, "this offer to be subject to acceptance within fourteen days from this date."

On the 16th of September, 1878, the plaintiff posted a letter at Parkgate addressed to the defendant accepting his offer This letter was not received by the defendant till the following day.

The defendant refused to complete on the ground that there was no binding contract, the acceptance not having been communicated to him till after the fourteen days had expired.

W. S. Owen, for the plaintiff.

Waller, Q.C., and Bunting, for the defendant.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS, holding that there had been a good acceptance of the offer, and that there was a binding contract, decreed specific performance with costs.

V.-C. B. DICKS v. BROOKS. May 30.

Copyright—Slander of Title—Counterclaim for Penalties—8 Geo. 2, c. 13.

Plaintiffs were the publishers and proprietors of a weekly periodical called Bow Bells. Defendants were the proprietors by assignment of the copyright of a print called "The Huguenot," engraved from Millais' picture, and of a photograph taken from the print.

The plaintiffs had published for their Christmas number of 1877, a chromo-printed pattern for wool work, called "The Huguenot," taken, as they stated, from a Berlin wool pattern which had been imported by a German warehouse.

The leading incident of Millais' picture—the farewell of two lovers of different creeds on the eve of the massacre of St. Bartholomew—was to be found in the Berlin wool pattern, but a different background had been introduced and the colours were not the same as those of the picture.

In December, 1877, the defendants issued a circular containing a warning against the sale of any copy of the subject "The Huguenot," without the stamp or imprint of their firm, in whom the sole subsisting copyright existed, and that all such unstamped copies were imitations and unlawfully made.

The plaintiffs, alleging that the publication of this circular was a false and malicious libel on their print and pattern, which was not an imitation of any picture to the copyright of which the defendants were entitled, and that their sale of the publication had been greatly damaged by such circular, brought this action to restrain, and obtain damages for, this alleged libel and slander of title.

The defendants by their statement of defence and counterclaim asserted their title to the engraving, averred that the plaintiffs had unlawfully copied it in whole or in part, and greatly damaged the defendants' property therein; and they claimed an injunction, and the penalty of 5*s.*, under the Act 8 Geo. 2, c. 13, for every copy sold by the defendants, and damages.

Horton Smith, Q.C., and Oswald, for the plaintiffs.

Hemming, Q.C., and Dauney, for the defendants.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR:—The defendants had the exclusive right of publishing the subject delineated in the print taken from Millais' picture. Beyond all question the plaintiffs' pattern was to all intents and purposes a direct copy of that print. Were they then entitled to despoil the defendants of their property and foist upon the public a very coarse imitation of a very celebrated picture? Being mere pirates, they complained that their title was being slandered, and that they were injured by the circular issued by the defendants for the protection of their property. It was the old story of the wolf and the lamb. There was no pretence for the first action, which must be dismissed with costs; and the defendants had established the right set up by their counterclaim to restrain this piratical publication by the plaintiffs, and to the statutory penalty of 5*s.* for every copy sold by the plaintiffs.

Salvage—Suits by separate Salvors having substantially the same Interest—Costs.

Two separate actions of salvage were instituted against the Pasithea, one by the owners, master, and crew of the smack Prince of Wales, and the other by the owner, master, and crew of the steam-tug Harwich. An application to consolidate the actions was made before hearing, and the plaintiffs objecting to the consolidation, no order was made. The action was now heard.

Nelson, for the owners, master, and crew of the Prince of Wales.

E. C. Clarkson, and Cottingham, for the defendants.

THE JUDGE awarded 50*l.* to the owner, master, and crew, of the Prince of Wales, and 600*l.* to the owners, master, and crew of the Harwich, and, being of opinion that the plaintiffs ought to have consented to a consolidation order, ordered that the defendants should only pay one set of costs, to be apportioned between the plaintiffs according to the amounts of their respective bills of costs, observing that the apportionment of the costs as directed in the case of the Sarah (3 P. D. 42), had been found to be inconvenient in practice.

COMMITTEE FOR PRIVILEGES. May 30.

THE ANNANDALE PEERAGE.

Patent creating a Dignity—Antecedent Bond of Tailzie and Resignation—"Heirs male" meant the Heirs male in general.

In 1877, Mr. Hope Johnstone raised the present claim, as heir female of the body of the first earl, contending that he was entitled to the vacant Marquisate and Earldom of Annandale, and Lordship of Hartfell, &c., on the ground that the patent of 1661 creating the dignity of Earl of Annandale and Hartfell followed on a bond of tailzie and resignation executed in 1657, in the time of the Commonwealth, by which the then Earl of Hartfell professed to authorize a surrender of the titles with a view to a regrant not to heirs male in general, but to heirs male of the body, and then to the heirs male of the heir female, and that by the light of this document the letters patent of 1661 ought to be interpreted. The bond of tailzie had been discovered within the last few years, and was claimed to be new evidence.

The Lord Advocate (by Her Majesty's license), with him Mr. Marten, Q.C., was heard for the petitioner Mr. Hope Johnstone.

Mr. Fleming, Q.C., with him Mr. Cust, and Mr. Asher (of the Scotch Bar), was heard for Sir F. Johnstone, who claims as heir male general, tracing his title to a common ancestor in 1445.

The Attorney-General (Sir J. Holker), with him the Solicitor-General for Scotland, and Mr. B. Nicolson (of the Scotch Bar), was heard on the part of the Crown.

Mr. Birkbeck, and Mr. Cowie, appeared for Mr. E. Johnstone.

THE COMMITTEE resolved that no reason had been shewn for departing from the resolution of the committee of the 25th of June, 1844, on which occasion the claim of the grandfather of Mr. Hope Johnstone was rejected, and it was held that the words "heirs male" in the letters patent of 1661 meant heirs male general, and not in the more restricted sense.

Remarked by THE LORD CHANCELLOR that the bond of tailzie (which was not even mentioned in the charter) could not be employed to put a restricted construction on it.

Ship—Charterparty—Demurrage—Arrival of Ship at Place of Loading.

Appeal of plaintiff from judgment at trial before Brett, L.J.

By a charterparty dated the 19th of November, 1877, the defendant engaged with the plaintiff to load on board the defendant's vessel, the Pleiades, a cargo of coal, and proceed to Dublin, "vessel to be loaded and discharged in nineteen running days, or, if longer detained, to be paid 4*l.* per day demurrage." The plaintiff engaged to load the vessel on the above terms, the words being added, "vessel to load in B. Moore or Wellington Dock, High Level." B. Moore Dock and Wellington Dock are approached through the Wellington Half Tide Basin. On the 19th of November the Pleiades finished unloading her previous cargo in the Wellington Half Tide Basin, and was ready to take a cargo as soon as she could find a berth. On the 20th she was admitted into the Wellington Dock as a matter of favour; but, in consequence of the regulations of the dock-authorities, she was unable to obtain a berth at the High Level until the 5th of December, when she began to load: she finished loading on the 6th of December. The captain refused to sign any bill of lading, except one containing the words, "sixteen days have been consumed in loading the said vessel at Liverpool, leaving three running days for discharging at Liverpool." The Pleiades sailed for Dublin, and, owing to disputes, was kept twenty days on demurrage. In order to obtain delivery of the cargo the plaintiff was obliged to sign a bill of lading in the above form and to pay 80*l.* for demurrage, being at the above rate of 4*l.* a day. The plaintiff sued to recover back the sum of 80*l.*

Appeal of J. F. Adams from an order of Cockburn, C.J., and Mellor, J., expunging certain entries in the Book of Registry kept at Stationers' Hall. The decision in the Queen's Bench Division is reported in 4 Q. B. D. 90, where the facts are stated.

C. H. Turner, for the appellant.

F. W. Raikes, for the respondents.

THE COURT (Bramwell, Brett, and Cotton, L.JJ.), dissenting from Cockburn, C.J., and Mellor, J., held that 5 & 6 Vict. c. 45, by virtue of s. 20, is retrospective as to the exclusive right to the performance of musical compositions published before the passing of the Act; but they held that inasmuch as Crouch by the deed made in 1843, had granted to D'Almaine and Mackinlay (through whom the respondents claimed) "all his present and future, vested and contingent copyright in the musical compositions," together with all "property" therein, he had also assigned to them the exclusive right of performance; and therefore in August, 1878, he had no title which he could convey to Adams. Practice—Security for Costs—Foreign Plaintiff—Interpleader.

Appeal of James Ford and another from a decision of Denman, and Lindley, JJ., refusing a motion for security for costs. The case before the Common Pleas Division is fully noted, ante, p. 102.

Digitized by Google

The facts, which were somewhat complicated, may be shortly stated thus: an interpleader order had been made in which the appellants had been joined as defendants; but it appeared that the question as to the validity of their claim could not arise unless the interpleader issue were decided in favour of the plaintiffs, who were foreigners residing at Hamburg: the appellants resided in London.

Lamaison, for the appellants, contended that as the plaintiffs in the interpleader issue were foreigners residing out of the jurisdiction, they were bound to give security for costs.

R. V. Williams, for the plaintiffs in the interpleader issue.

THE COURT (Bramwell, Brett, and Cotton, L.JJ.) held that the appellants were only nominally defendants in the interpleader issue, and were in fact plaintiffs against all the other parties thereto: they therefore held that the appellants were not entitled to an order for security for costs as against the plaintiffs, and dismissed the appeal.

Goaler—Discharge of Prisoner after Expiration of Sentence—Calendar Month, Meaning of.

Action for false imprisonment. The plaintiff had been convicted of two different assaults and sentenced to imprisonment upon each conviction. The conviction took place at 11 A.M. of the 31st of October. For the first assault the plaintiff was sentenced to be imprisoned "for one calendar month," and for the second assault "for fourteen days, to commence at the expiration of the imprisonment previously adjudged." The plaintiff was taken into the custody of the defendant, the Governor of Coldbath Fields Prison, during the afternoon of the 31st of October, and finally released at 9 A.M. on the 14th of December, having claimed to be released on the previous day.

It was contended on behalf of the plaintiff that the calendar month commenced at midnight on the 30th of October, and expired at midnight on the 29th of November, otherwise the plaintiff would have been imprisoned during the whole of the calendar month of November plus one day in October. Denman, J., held that the calendar month commenced at midnight on the 30th of October, and that the meaning of "calendar month" meant a month ending on the day in a succeeding month corresponding to the day of the sentence according to the ordinary understanding of those words, and that the defendant had not been illegally detained.

The plaintiff appealed.

The plaintiff appeared in person.

A. L. Smith, for the defendant.

THE COURT (Bramwell, Brett, and Cotton, L.JJ.) held that the judgment of Denman, J., was right, and dismissed the appeal.

Trustee—Disclaimer—Expired Lease—Bankruptcy Act, 1869, s. 23 —Bankruptcy Rules, 1871, r. 28.

An adjudication of bankruptcy was made against R. Throckmorton on the 26th of October, 1876. The lease of a house of which he was the assignee expired on the 15th of July, 1878. The trustee had not taken possession of the property or exercised any acts of ownership over it, and the lessor had not given him any notice to disclaim. After the expiration of the term the lessor brought an action against the original lessee on his covenant to repair, claiming 400*l.* damages, and the lessor served a third party notice on the trustee, stating that he claimed to be imdemnified by him. The trustee then applied to the Court of Bankruptcy for leave to disclaim the lease. The lessor opposed the application. Mr. Registrar Hazlitt, acting as Chief Judge, refused the application, on the ground that a disclaimer could not be executed of a lease which had expired.

The trustee appealed.

Yate Lee (A. R. Jelf, with him), for the appellant.

The lessor was served with notice of the appeal, but did not appear.

THE COURT (James, Baggallay, and Thesiger, L.JJ.) gave leave to execute a disclaimer, but said that this could not prejudice the rights of any person not before the Court.

The debtors against whom the petition had been presented were eight persons who carried on business in partnership in London and at Liverpool, and also in South America. Three of them resided at Liverpool, and the others resided in South America. The English partners had been adjudicated bankrupts, but no trustee had been appointed. The notice of the application to the Court of Bankruptcy had been addressed to the English firm, the receiver, and the petitioning creditor. The receiver alone gave notice of appeal.

On the 6th of February, 1879, Turnor recovered judgment in the action for the 107*l.* and costs. He then applied to the Court of Bankruptcy for payment of the 125*l.* to him. The trustee opposed the application, alleging that his title related back to the act of ROFFE v. ROSCOE AND ANOTHER.

Mortgage of Railway Stock—Action by Original Owner—Disposition of Proceeds of Sale—Transfer of Stock in blank—Laches.

Appeal of plaintiff from judgment of Huddleston, B., at trial in Middlesex. The jury were discharged from giving a verdict, and the facts were found by the learned Baron.

The plaintiff was owner of South Eastern Railway stock, and, in order to oblige one Henry, a broker on the Stock Exchange, signed a transfer of it in blank and delivered the transfer and also the certificate to Henry. The latter took these documents to the defendant Roscoe, and about the 20th of June, 1872, obtained on the security of them a loan for 500*l.* About the following September Roscoe caused the transfer to be registered, having first inserted as a consideration the nominal sum of 5*s.*, and having also filled in his own name as transferee. Notice of the registration was given to the plaintiff. The loan from Roscoe was never paid off by Henry, who ultimately became insolvent. Thereupon Roscoe sold the stock for a sum of about 700*l.*, and, after deducting the sum of 500*l.* due to him from Henry, paid over the balance of 200*l.* to the assignee of the Stock Exchange. The plaintiff now sued to recover the said sum of 200*l.*

Day, Q.C., and M. Powell, for the plaintiff, contended, first, that even if Roscoe had had no notice, he not being absolute owner had no right to deal with the balance of the proceeds of sale remaining after payment of the debt due to him; secondly, that as the transfer was in blank when it was handed to him, he received such constructive notice of the infirmity of Henry's title that he was bound to make inquiry.

McIntyre, Q.C., and Horne Payne, for the defendants, contended that nothing prevented Roscoe from dealing with the stock; that he had a right to believe that Henry was the owner of it; and that the plaintiff had been guilty of laches.

THE COURT (Bramwell, Brett, and Cotton, L.JJ.) affirmed the judgment for the defendants, and dismissed the appeal. Their Lordships were of opinion that no action could have been maintained at Common Law, inasmuch as the plaintiff had by executing the transfer in blank parted with the property in the railway stock, and there was no privity of contract between him and the defendant Roscoe, and that the latter had not received any such notice as in Equity would have bound him to make inquiries.

Landlord and Tenant—Notice to Quit.

Action for the recovery of land. At the trial before Lopes, J., it was proved that the defendant was tenant to the plaintiff from year to year, and that the plaintiff gave the defendant notice to quit in the following terms:—"I hereby give you notice to quit and deliver up possession of the shop, premises, and show rooms, situate and being 20, Moss Street, Liverpool, and now held by you as tenant from me, on or before the 1st day of May next, 1878. And I hereby further give you notice that should you retain possession of the premises after the date before mentioned, the annual rental of the premises now held by you from me will be 160*l.*, payable quarterly in advance." The learned judge held the notice to quit to be insufficient, and directed judgment to be entered for the defendant.

The plaintiff appealed.

C. Russell, Q.C., and T. H. James, for the plaintiff.

Gully, Q.C., and French, for the defendant.

THE COURT (Bramwell and Cotton, L.JJ., Brett, L.J., dissenting) held that the first paragraph contained a good notice to determine the tenancy, which was not vitiated by the minatory clause which followed; that the notice to quit was sufficient, and they allowed the appeal.

Practice—Rules of Court, 1875, Order XIV.—Discretion of High Court—Effect of Dismissal of Debtor's Summons for same Debt—Goods sent upon Sale or Return.

Appeal of defendant from order of Pollock, B., and Hawkins, J., reversing an order of Stephen, J.

The plaintiff's claim was for 62*l.* 17*s.*, being the price of certain jewellery alleged to be sold to the defendant, and the writ having been specially indorsed the plaintiff took out a summons under Order XIV., and the following facts appeared in the affidavits. The plaintiff had, upon the 23rd of February, 1878, sent to the defendant diamond earrings of the value of 40*l.*, "upon sale or return." The defendant alleged that he had delivered the earrings to a woman who stated that she thought she could find a purchaser, but who pledged them and then absconded. A warrant had been issued for her apprehension, but the defendant had been unable to get back the earrings; he did not state the names of the pawnbrokers. The defendant did not suggest any defence as to 22*l.* 17*s.*, being the balance of the plaintiff's claim after deducting the above sum of 40*l.* After the plaintiff became aware that the earrings had been misappropriated, he, upon the 1st of July, 1878, invoiced them to the defendant, and alleged that he was justified in so doing by a custom of the trade. It further appeared that upon the 3rd of December, 1878, before the commencement of this action, the plaintiff took out a bankruptcy summons against the defendant in respect of the amount claimed in this action; the defendant applied to dismiss the summons, and the registrar who heard the application stayed proceedings without calling upon the defendant to give security for the amount claimed, and he directed an action to be tried. The plaintiff did not appeal from the order of the registrar, and took no steps to enforce his claim, and upon the 3rd of May the defendant obtained an appointment for the dismissal of the summons and gave notice thereof to the plaintiff, who, upon the 6th of May, issued the writ in the present action. A master made an order that the plaintiff should be at liberty to sign judgment, unless the defendant paid into Court the amount claimed within four days. Upon appeal to Stephen, J., the master's order was rescinded. Upon appeal to the Exchequer Division it was held that the master's order was right, and that the plaintiff should be at liberty to sign judgment, if the money were not paid into Court. The defendant appealed to this Court.

Anderson, for the defendant, contended that as the plaintiff had not appealed from the order of the registrar upon the debtor's summons, he was not entitled to a summary order for judgment under Order XIV.; and further that when goods are sent "upon sale or return," the property does not pass to the person receiving them: as to this he cited Ex parte Wingfield, In re Florence (10 Ch. D. 591, at p. 593, per Jessel, M.R.).

Morton Smith, for the plaintiff, contended that as the earrings had not been returned within a reasonable time the property had passed to the defendant: as to this he cited Moss v. Sweet (16 Q. B. 439).

THE COURT (Bramwell, Brett, and Cotton, L.JJ.) held that the plaintiff was entitled to succeed and dismissed the appeal with costs, directing the amount claimed to be paid into Court within four days.

BRAMWELL, L.J., said that although Order XIV. was useful, its powers ought to be employed carefully: in the case the defendant's case did not disclose a defence upon the merits, but he ought to be allowed to defend upon condition, because the decision in Moss v. Sweet applied only to a case where goods had not been returned by a person having it in his power to return them. As the registrar had stayed proceedings upon the debtor's summons without calling upon the defendant to give security for the alleged debt, it would have been better for the master to decline to make an order under Order XIV.; but as the master had exercised his discretion and had been supported by the Exchequer Division, and as Stephen, J., had reversed the master's decision only upon the authority of Runnacles v. Mesquita (1 Q. B. D. 416), which did not really apply, his Lordship thought that the order enabling the plaintiff to sign judgment conditionally must stand.

BRETT and COTTON, L.J., substantially concurred with the reasons of Bramwell, L.J.

Costs of abandoned Appeal.

This was an application by the defendant that the plaintiff might be ordered to pay the costs of a notice of appeal by the plaintiff of the 24th of December, 1878, which had been abandoned in consequence of not having been set down in time, paid by the plaintiff, and to take off the file the plaintiff's notice of appeal of the 10th of May, 1879.

Chitty, Q.C., and W. G. Walker, for the application.

Davey, Q.C., and H. C. Deane, for the plaintiff.

JESSEL, M.R., said that the Court (Jessel, M.R., Baggallay and Thesiger, L.JJ.) were of opinion that the costs of an application for the costs of an abandoned notice of appeal on which no proceedings had been taken ought not to be allowed unless a previous demand for the costs of the abandoned notice had been made, and that this was to be considered as the rule of the Court.

Practice—Trial by Jury—Rules of Court, 1875, Order XXXVI., rr. 3, 26.

This was an action to restrain a nuisance in working a quarry at Glaslyn, near Rhayader, in the county of Radnor.

A motion was now made on behalf of the defendant that the following questions of fact might be tried at Resteign, in the county of Radnor, namely; 1. Whether the defendant had carried on his works at his quarry in such a manner as to occasion a nuisance to the plaintiff; 2. Whether the nuisance, if any, existed in the same degree twenty years ago or had been materially increased during the last twenty years; 3. What, if any, damage had been occasioned to the plaintiff by the nuisance complained of.

Higgins, Q.C., and Chapman Barber, for the motion, submitted that the defendant had a right under Order XXXVI., r. 3, to have the action tried before a judge and jury upon giving due notice of his desire to do so. This was a case in which the questions of fact ought to be tried by a jury, and it would greatly add to the expense of trial if the witnesses were brought up to London.

Glasse, Q.C., and Cracknall, for the plaintiff, objected to the form of the motion, because it required the trial of particular issues instead of requiring generally a trial of the issues of fact; and they submitted that as scientific witnesses were necessary it would be more expensive to take such witnesses down to a trial in the country. They also objected to the trial taking place at Resteign, and suggested Hereford as a more convenient place if the trial was to be in the country.

FRY, J., considered it obligatory on the Court to accede to the motion subject to the discretion given by rule 26 of Order XXXVI., and as no sufficient reason had been given by the plaintiff why the action should not be tried by a judge and jury, and as it would be much more convenient and less expensive to bring up witnesses to the assizes in the country, he should direct a reference to chambers to settle the issues of fact to be tried, but would order the trial to take place at Hereford as a more convenient place than Resteign. The objection as to the form of the notice of motion his Lordship considered valid, but not of sufficient substance to prevent the order being made. On that account, however, he should refuse to give costs to either party.

V.-C. B. DASHWOOD v. JERMYN. June 11.

Agreement—Nudum pactum.

This was an action against the executors of William Richards, who died in October, 1874, to establish a claim on his estate for a sum of 10,000*l.*, under the following circumstances:

The plaintiff, who had been in the Indian service, on his return to England on half-pay made the acquaintance at the Portland Hotel of the testator. He was at this time engaged to his cousin, Miss Marshall, but having only his half-pay, her mother, Mrs. Marshall, refused to sanction the engagement. According to the plaintiff's account the testator took a great interest in him, professed great friendship, and was most anxious to promote his happiness. He endeavoured to get him an appointment, but, failing in this, promised to make him an allowance sufficient to overcome the objections of Mrs. Marshall, and to leave him a sum after his death. This was in February, 1874, and, according to the plaintiff's evidence, Mrs. Marshall gave her consent to the marriage conditionally upon the plaintiff obtaining from the testator something tangible, and definite in writing, in support of this promise.

On the 10th of March, 1874, the testator signed the following paper:—"I, William Richards, as a mark of my esteem and of the great friendship I bear towards A. A. G. Dashwood (the plaintiff), do hereby agree to allow him the sum of 500*l.* annually, the payment of the aforesaid amount to be made in quarterly instalments of 125*l.*; and whereas at my death this allowance will cease to be paid, I have in lieu thereof bequeathed by will to him, the aforesaid A. A. G. Dashwood, the sum of 10,000*l.*, and in proof thereof do hereby affix my signature.

"WILLIAM RICHARDS."

The plaintiff at once took this paper to Mrs. Marshall, who thereupon gave her consent to the marriage, which took place on the 19th of March, 1874, by license, which (dated the 7th of March, 1874) stated that the consent of the parents of Miss Marshall (a minor) had been obtained.

On the 24th of March, 1874, 125*l.*, the first quarter of the allowance was paid to the plaintiff. In October of that year the testator died before paying the second quarter.

No legacy of 10,000*l.*, or of any other sum, in favour of the plaintiff was contained in the testator's will or codicils.

The plaintiff's case was that as the consent of his wife and her mother to the marriage had been obtained on the faith of the promise contained in the paper of the 10th of March, 1874, and that the marriage would otherwise not have taken place, the estate of the testator was bound to make good such representation.

The executors by their statement of defence raised the case that the testator was a man of intemperate habits, incapable of managing his affairs; that his signature to the paper was not fairly or honestly obtained, and that the same was not binding in equity; that the agreement was void for want of consideration, and also under the Statute of Frauds; and the allegations that the mother's consent to the marriage was obtained on the faith of such agreement were denied.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that the requisites necessary for enforcing an engagement of this kind were wanting. There was nothing directly connecting the consent given by Mrs. Marshall with the promise made by the testator. The paper came not from the testator to Mrs. Marshall, but to her from the plaintiff. What did it come to? A mere gratuitous promise on the part of the testator, which was in its terms a mere nudum pactum, and might at any time have been revoked, and moreover did not stipulate that the amount therein named should be settled on Miss Marshall in the event of her marrying the plaintiff. Such a document was of no binding force and the action must be dismissed with costs.

Winding-up—Contributories—Policy Holders.

This was an adjourned summons on the part of the official liquidator of the Albion Life Insurance Society seeking to place upon the list of contributories a policy holder who had paid premiums upon the principle of participating in the profits. The society was formed in 1863 as an unlimited company, with a capital of 50,000*l.* divided into 5000 shares of 10*l.* each. It was wound up in March, 1878. Susanna Winstone proposed to insure her life for 1000*l.* with profits, and the proposal signed by her contained the following clause—"I further agree to execute the articles of association or any deed of covenant in conformity thereto, when required." Premiums were paid upon this policy. The articles of association of the company provided that the company should consist of two classes of members, namely, shareholders and assured members for the time being, so long as there should be any shareholders, and afterwards of the assured members for the time being, and the directors were to register the names of both classes of members. It was also provided that the assured members should have votes at the meetings of shareholders, and that the payment of a premium, which would entitle the holder of a policy to be an assured member, should be deemed to be an agreement to become a member in respect thereof. Susanna Winstone's name was not on the register of the company.

FRY, J., was of opinion, upon the construction of the policy and the articles of association, that Susanna Winstone's name ought to be placed on the list of contributories, and that he had power in this case to rectify the omission in the register by inserting the names of policy holders.

Bankruptcy—Liquidation—Partnership Deed—Will of Partner—Continuation of Business by Surviving Partner—Assets of Old Firm.

In the liquidation of a firm of "J. H. Mellor & Son," an issue had been directed in which William Butcher, the liquidation trustee, was plaintiff, and the above-named bank were defendants, to try the question whether the trustee or the bank were entitled to a sum of 2535*l.*

In 1871, Joseph Wainwright Mellor, one of the partners in the present firm, was in partnership with his late father, Joseph Hague Mellor, as cotton spinners at Oldham under the firm also of "J. H. Mellor & Son," and by articles of partnership entered into between them on the 19th of October, 1871, it was agreed that the machinery, stock in trade, book debts, and capital, then belonging to and used by the father, formed no part of the partnership capital, and that the father should receive 5*l.* per cent. per annum on the capital so belonging to him; that rents and expenses should be paid, and profits shared by father and son in the proportion of five-sixths to one-sixth. On the 20th of November, 1875, the father died, having by will empowered his trustees either to wind up or continue any business in which he might be engaged at his death, and having also empowered them "to employ the capital employed in any business which they may continue to carry on in carrying on such business." The testator appointed his widow, his son the said Joseph Wainwright Mellor, and a Mr. Buckley his executors, with power for two of them, as to any matter of discretion, to bind the third. At the testator's death there was due to the bank a sum, which was afterwards reduced to about 2729*l.*, and the bank, on Mr. Mellor's representation that he and his mother were about to continue the business under the firm of "J. H. Mellor & Son," closed the old account, and opened a fresh account with the new firm, in which they debited the new firm with the old balance. In April, 1877, Mr. Buckley, who had never actively interfered, retired and on the 2nd of November, 1877, the present firm filed a liquidation petition.

The sum of 2535*l.* now in issue represented assets, such as machinery in the mill, stock-in-trade, stores, and some book debts, which had been employed by the present firm, and could still be identified as having been assets of the old firm.

By an order of the County Court of Manchester, dated the 4th of April, 1879, it was declared that this sum of 2535*l.* was the property of the trustee, and divisible amongst the creditors in the liquidation. This was the order appealed from.

Appeal from an order of the County Court at Cambridge.

The appellant, Ellen Eliza de Boos, on the 21st of November, 1878, forwarded to the trustee in the bankruptcy a proof of debt against the estate for 564*l.* 5*s.*, being made up of a claim for 64*l.* 9*s.*, for dilapidations of a house, and of a claim for 500*l.* for breach of covenant to expend that sum in rebuilding and improving the premises, which had been leased by the applicant to the bankrupts.

Not until the 23rd of February, 1879, was a notice received from the trustee disallowing the proof. Upon this an application was made to the County Court Judge for an order reversing the trustee's decision, on which occasion it was argued, with reference to s. 25 of the Bankruptcy Act, and to rules 118, 75, and 72, that the order of the Court which required that the trustee should file the proof within seven days not having been complied with, the delay must be taken to amount to an admission of the debt; and this was the only point discussed. The counsel for the applicant observed that if they did not get an order they must appeal, whereupon the learned Judge said, by all means; adding that he could find no authority which decided that delay in rejection of a proof amounted to implied admission, nor any authority as to what was a reasonable time within which a proof should be admitted or rejected; and made no order.

This was the order appealed from.

THE CHIEF JUDGE said that the Court was not bound by any such technicality as had been put forward. The rules were directory, not imperative; very necessary, but not to be used so as to defeat the rights of parties. A claim for dilapidations was always one which a trustee had a right to inquire into. The appellant's advisers having chosen to rest the case upon this single point, the appeal was unreasonable, and must be dismissed with costs.

Action by shippers against charterers for the value of a cargo of stone and cement.

The defendants chartered a foreign ship for a voyage from London to Callao. The charterparty provided that the master and owners of the ship should give the same attention to the cargo and in every respect be and remain responsible to whom it might concern as if she were loaded on the berth, by and for the account of the shipowners. The total agreed freight for the use and hire of the ship to be paid as therein stipulated. Freighters' responsibility, except for freight, to cease on the vessel being loaded. The defendants thereupon, by an agreement expressed to be made between themselves "acting for owners" of the ship and the plaintiffs, agreed to receive on board a certain quantity of cement and stone for carriage to Callao, the freight for which was to be paid one-half on signing bills of lading, the remainder on final discharge at Callao. The goods were shipped, bills of lading were given by the captain, and the vessel sailed, but put into Montevideo damaged, and was there condemned, and the captain, thinking the goods could not be forwarded, sold them without communicating with the plaintiffs, who subsequently sued the defendants for the value.

LORD ADVOCATE AND OTHERS, APPS.; LORD BLANTYRE AND ANOTHER, RESPS.

Public Navigable River—Right to Foreshore—Forty Years' Use and Possession following on Barony Title.

Lord Blantyre and the Master of Blantyre raised this action concluding for a declarator that the foreshore ex adverso their lands situated on the banks of the River Clyde, some miles below Glasgow, belonged in property to them, subject to the rights of navigation, or other rights the public or the Clyde Navigation Trustees under their statutes might have over it. They contended, that although their barony title did not contain any express grant of foreshore, yet their possession and use of the foreshore by pasturing cattle thereon, cutting reeds and seaweed, and carrying away sand and stones for building purposes, for more than forty years, following on the barony title, constituted a right of property.

The Court of Session, 19th of December, 1877, affirming the interlocutor of the Lord Ordinary (Lord Curriehill) sustained the claim of Lord Blantyre (Scottish Law Rep. vol. xv. p. 382). Against this decision the Lord Advocate, on the part of the Crown, and the trustees of the Clyde Navigation appealed.

The Lord Advocate, and Mr. Marten, Q.C., were heard for the appellants.

CREE (LIQUIDATOR OF THE BONNINGTON SUGAR REFINING COMPANY, LIMITED), APP.; SOMERVAIL AND OTHERS, TRUSTEES, RESPS.

Public Company—Trustees—Directors buying Shares in trust for Company, held personally liable—Companies Act, 1862, ss. 35, 98.

The appellant is the liquidator of the Bonnington Sugar Refining Company, formed in 1864 under the provisions of the Companies Act of 1862, and wound up in March, 1878. He applied to the Court of Session to find that the names of the respondents Somervail and others, trustees, should be placed on the list of contributories of the company in respect of fifty shares of 100*l.* each, on which 1*l.* a share has been paid up. This application was made under the combined operation of the 98th and 35th sections of the Companies Act, 1862, and it became in fact an application under the 35th section to rectify the register by removing the names of Rose, Weir, and Crabbie, who now stand upon the register in respect of these shares, and by substituting the names of the respondents. The shares belonged to the late Mr. Thomson, and the respondents are his trustees. The company, in November, 1876, through its directors, were willing to buy, and the respondents were willing to sell these shares, and an arrangement was made that Rose, Weir, and Crabbie—three of the directors—should purchase the shares for the company. The respondents, therefore, in December, 1876, more than fifteen months before the date of the winding-up, executed a transfer handing over the shares to Rose, Weir, and Crabbie, in trust for the company. And an entry was made in the register of shareholders giving the transferees thus:—"Hugh Rose, John Weir, and John Crabbie, in trust for the Bonnington Sugar Refining Company, Limited." The price was paid to the respondents out of the funds of the company; and the transaction was approved at a meeting of the shareholders. The company had no express power to purchase its own shares. On the 25th of October, 1878, the Court of Session (Lord Ormidale diss.) held that the transaction was valid, and relieved the respondents from liability in respect of these shares; and refused the appellants' application (Scotch Law Rep. vol. xvi. p. 33).

On appeal,

Mr. Benjamin, Q.C., and Mr. Davey, Q.C., were heard for the appellant.

Mr. Herschell, Q.C., and Mr. H. A. Giffard, were heard for the respondents.

THE LORDS dismissed the appeal with costs, THE LORD CHANCELLOR remarking that it was clear, according to the principle laid down in Oakes v. Turquand (Law Rep. 2 H. L. 325), that Rose, Weir, and Crabbie could not as against the creditors come forward and claim to have their own names taken off the register, and neither could the appellant do this in order that he might place upon it the names of the respondents. The creditors were entitled to assume, according to the decision in Muir's Case (ante, p. 72), that whatever amount of liability attached to the shares was assumed by the individuals in whose name they stood, and that this liability was not in any way diminished or derogated from by reference to the trust upon which they were held.

SASSOON AND OTHERS v. CABABÉ.

Vendor and Purchaser—Conveyance of Land—Grant of Right of Way—New Trial—Evidence.

Appeal of plaintiffs from order of Cockburn, C.J., and Lopes, J., for a new trial.

Before 1865, H. W. Bent was seised of certain lands, and by indentures dated the 24th of June in that year he sold part of them to the plaintiffs' predecessor in title, and the rest to the defendant. Each conveyance contained a grant of the parcels together with all "ways .... to the said premises and hereditaments or any of them appertaining or with the same or any of them now or heretofore demised, occupied, or enjoyed, or reputed, or known as part or parcel of them or any of them, or appertaining thereto." The question between the parties was whether under the above general words the defendant was entitled, after the severance of the parcels, to enjoy a right of way over a portion of the plaintiffs' land, which way was alleged by him to have existed de facto before the severance. At the trial the defendant failed to prove the existence of the way relied upon in his pleading, but he gave evidence of a different right of way, which, if it had existed, would have justified the alleged trespass committed by him. Kelly, C.B., directed the jury to find for the plaintiffs.

May 14, 15. Watkin Williams, Q.C., J. C. Mathew, and De Michele, for the plaintiffs.

Day, Q.C., and Mansel Jones, for the defendant.

May 30. THE COURT (Bramwell, Baggallay, and Thesiger, L.JJ.) held the order of the Queen's Bench Division for a new trial must stand; they thought that the evidence given by the defendant should have been left to the jury, subject to an amendment by him of his pleading.

*Fraudulent Conveyance—Assignment of whole Property, present and future, by way of Mortgage—*13 Eliz. c. 5.

This was an appeal from a decision of the Chief Judge, which is noted ante, p. 53.

THE CHIEF JUDGE held that an assignment by way of mortgage of the whole of the assignor's property, present and future, to secure an existing debt and further advances, was void under the statute 13 Eliz. c. 5, as being of necessity made to defeat and delay the creditors of the mortgagor. The mortgagee appealed.

Implied Grant—Access of Light—Sale in Lots.

The defendant in this case had purchased a silk mill, one of the lots put up for sale at an auction. A conveyance to the defendant was made, and was in the usual form, containing no special grant of lights. An adjoining piece of land forming another lot was afterwards sold and conveyed to the plaintiff. The plaintiff put up a hoarding to prevent the defendant from acquiring the right of ancient lights, and the defendant pulled it down. The plaintiff thereupon brought an action to restrain the defendant; and the defendant by counter-claim claimed a right to access of light.

Bacon, V.-C., granted an injunction against the defendant, as noted Weekly Notes, 1878, p. 220.

The defendant appealed.

Sir H. Jackson, Q.C., and Colt, for the defendants.

Horton Smith, Q.C., and Romer, for the plaintiff.

THEIR LORDSHIPS held it to be clear that a vendor could not derogate from his own grant, and no reservation would be implied if it was not expressed in the grant, except in the case of a way of necessity, and perhaps some other cases. But the reservation of a right to access of light could not implied. The appeal was dismissed with costs.

Operation of Statute—Date—Repeal—Judicature Act, 1873, s. 25, sub-s. 1—Judicature Act Suspension Act, 1874.

This was an appeal from a decision of Vice-Chancellor Malins in a suit for the administration of the estate of W. Selkirk, who died in April, 1874. The usual administration decree was made on the 16th of January, 1875, and when the cause came on for further consideration the question was raised by the Whitehaven Bank, who were secured creditors, whether the rule introduced by the Judicature Act, 1873, s. 25, sub-s. 1, by which, as to the estates of persons dying after the passing of the Act, the administration of insolvent estates in Chancery and Bankruptcy was assimilated, was applicable to the present suit. That section was repealed by the Act of 1875, but re-enacted as to the estates of persons dying after the passing of that Act. The intestate in the present case died, and the decree for administration was made, in the interval. Under these circumstances the Whitehaven Bank contended that the estate ought to be administered as before the passing of the Judicature Act, 1873, and that they were consequently entitled to prove for their whole debt without bringing in their security. The Vice-Chancellor following his own decision in Hilton v. Jones (9 Ch. D. 620) decided that the 1st sub-section of the 25th section of the Judicature Act was not suspended by the suspending Act of 1874, but was in force at the time of the death of the intestate, and that the creditors must bring in their security and prove only for the balance.

The Whitehaven Bank appealed from this decision.

J. Pearson, Q.C., Cozens-Hardy, and Whitworth, for the appellants.

Higgins, Q.C., Locock Webb, Q.C., T. A. Roberts, Jolliffe, and Howard, for the respondents.

JAMES, L.J., said that the decision of the Vice-Chancellor in Hilton v. Jones, which he had followed in the present case, appeared to be based upon the proposition that the 1st subsect. of sect. 25 of the Judicature Act, 1873, was substantially directed to come into operation on the passing of the Act, and, therefore, was not affected by the suspending Act of 1874. But he did not think this was correct; the only allusion in the subsection to the time of the passing of the Act was in the words which limited the operation of the sub-section to the estates of persons dying after the passing of the Act. That was only a description of the persons whose estates were to be affected, and had no relation to the time when the enactment was to come into operation. On the other hand, it was clear that the words "the Court" in the sub-section must mean the new Court which was constituted by the Judicature Act; and as the constitution of the Court was suspended by the Act of 1874, it followed that the alteration of the law which was to be administered in that Court must also be suspended. He was therefore clearly of opinion that the 1st sub-sect. of the 25th sect. had no application to the administration of the estate in the present suit, and the Vice-Chancellor's decision must therefore be reversed.

BAGGALLAY and THESIGER, L.JJ., expressed their opinions to the same effect.

FLUX AND ANOTHER v. CUMMING.

Nuisance—Mis-reception of Evidence—Rules of Court, 1875, Order XXXIX., r. 3—Finding against the Weight of Evidence.

This action had been commenced in the Chancery Division before Hall, V.C., but had been tried before Lord Coleridge, C.J., and a jury. The defendant was a hair-dresser and bath proprietor, carrying on business in the basement of a house in Leadenhall Street, in the City of London, and the plaintiffs were a firm of solicitors having offices upon an upper floor of the same house. The plaintiffs alleged that from the defendant's shop unpleasant smells arose, and that the air was contaminated by the presence of unwholesome gas produced by the defendant's furnace; that in fact the defendant so carried on his business as to render it a nuisance to other persons occupying rooms in the house. At the trial, Lord Coleridge allowed the defendant to be asked by his own counsel whether persons other than the plaintiffs had not objected to his having put up placards calling attention to his business at the entrance of the house, the object of the question being to shew that the present action was not brought bonâ fide. The jury found for the defendant. The plaintiffs moved, in the Common Pleas Division, for a rule nisi for a new trial the judges of that division (Grove and Lopes, JJ.) were of opinion that the question above-mentioned ought not to have been put, but held that as no substantial wrong had been thereby occasioned they ought not to grant a new trial. The plaintiffs appealed to this Court.

June 18. Herschell, Q.C. (Anstie with him), now moved for a new trial on the ground of misreception of evidence, and of the verdict being against the weight of evidence; he contended that the question had been improperly admitted, and consequently that the burthen was thrown upon the successful party of shewing that the finding was right.

June 23. THE COURT (Bramwell, Brett, and Cotton, L.JJ.) refused to grant a rule for a new trial: they held that the finding for the defendant was not against the weight of evidence, and therefore that it was unnecessary to consider whether the question was improperly allowed.

Costs—Power of Judge to order successful Plaintiff to pay Costs—Costs of Former Trial—Rules of the Supreme Court, 1875, Order LV.

Appeal of the plaintiff from an order of Cockburn, C.J., and Mellor, J., for payment of costs of trial and of rule nisi.

The action was brought to recover a sum of about 85*l.* as commission for obtaining a partnership, and also a sum of 6*s.*, being the cost of an advertisement relating to the sale of a horse. It was tried twice: at the first trial the plaintiff was nonsuited; a second trial was ordered in which the plaintiff failed as to his claim for commission, but proved his claim before the jury for 6*s.*: when the second trial was ordered, no direction was given as to the costs of the first trial. Manisty, J., ordered that the plaintiff, although he had upon the second trial recovered the sum of 6*s.*, should pay the costs of both trials. The Queen's Bench Division, acting upon the authority of Creen v. Wright (2 C. P. D. 354), refused to overrule the order of Manisty, J.

A. B. Kempe, for the plaintiff, contended, even if a judge at a trial without a jury had an absolute discretion as to costs, he could not order the successful party to pay costs where a trial took place with a jury; and further, that as the rule for a new trial had not given any direction as to the costs of the former trial, Manisty, J., had not power to order the plaintiff to pay them.

Lord, for the defendant, was not called upon.

THE COURT (Bramwell, Brett, and Cotton, L.JJ.) held that the order of Manisty, J., was right.

Evidence—Public Documents—Facts not stated in Exercise of a Duty.

This suit was instituted for the purpose of establishing a claim to certain property left by a Mrs. Browne, who died intestate in the year 1871. Mrs. Browne being a widow without children and without any brother or sister, the different sets of claimants sought to prove their relationship to Mrs. Browne's father, Antonio Mangini, who was for some years resident in London as a merchant, and was also consul to the Ligurian Republic. The question turned upon the identity of Antonio Mangini. The plaintiffs alleged that he was born at Quarto, near Genoa, in the year 1744, and that they were his next of kin. The defendants on the other hand alleged that Antonio Mangini was born at St. Illario, also near Genoa, in the year 1735, and they were the next of kin of the Mangini of St. Illario. A great amount of evidence was produced on both sides, which included a document alleged to have been found in the archives of Genoa, being a report furnished to the government by a committee of persons appointed to inquire into the fitness of Antonio Mangini to act as consul to the Ligurian Republic. This document, after setting out the merits of Antonio Mangini, described him as a native of Quarto, and as being 45 years of age. This description coincided with the allegations of the plaintiffs, but a question was raised as to the authenticity of the document, and the evidence was objected to on the ground that the particular statements as to age and place of birth were not made by persons whose duty it was to report upon these facts.

J. Pearson, Q.C., and E. Beaumont, for the plaintiffs.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR, who had reserved his judgment upon the whole case, and who now delivered it at his private residence, was of opinion that the statements regarding the age and place of birth of the consul were not facts which it was necessary for the committee in the exercise of their duty to define, and consequently, assuming the document to be genuine, it could not be received as evidence, and certainly not as conclusive evidence in a case where the statements were at variance with a mass of evidence on the other side.

Husband and Wife—Wife's Chose in Action—Reduction into Possession.

A legacy to which a married woman was entitled was, in May, 1871, paid by the executors of the will by means of a cheque drawn to the order of the husband and wife. The husband and wife gave a joint receipt for the money, and indorsed the cheque. 800*l*., part of the money, was then, with the assent of the husband, placed to the credit of an account at a bank opened in the sole name of the wife. After this she from time to time drew cheques on the account in her sole name, and the husband never interfered with the account. Part of the money was, on the wife's order, invested by the manager of the bank in the purchase of some bonds of a company, which the bank then kept for her in their custody. The wife from time to time drew cheques in favour of her husband for sums varying from 20*l*. to 50*l*. In July, 1877, the husband, at the suggestion of the manager of the bank, requested the wife to sign a memorandum charging the money and securities standing to her credit with payment of the overdrawn balance of an account of the husband with the bank. The wife refused to do this. In December, 1877, the husband filed a liquidation petition, and the trustee in the liquidation claimed the money standing to the credit of the wife's account and the bonds, on the ground that the legacy had been reduced into possession by the husband. The action was brought by the wife by a next friend against the bank, the trustee, and the husband, claiming a declaration that she was entitled for her separate use to the money and the bonds. No settlement had been made on her, and she had no other property.

Copyright—Publishing Agreement—Assignability—Vacating Registration—5 & 6 Vict. c. 45, s. 14.

The plaintiffs alleged themselves to be the owners of the copyright of a book called 'A Little Tour in Ireland,' and they brought the action to restrain the defendants, who were publishers, from publishing the book. The copyright had not been assigned to the defendants by writing or by entry on the register at Stationers' Hall. The plaintiffs were registered as the owners, and the defendants had subsequently registered themselves as the owners of the copyright. The book was composed by two joint authors, one of whom was a plaintiff, and the other was dead. The personal representative of the deceased joint author was the other plaintiff. The defendants alleged that before the first publication of the book, which was first published by a firm to whose business the defendants had succeeded, an arrangement had been made between that firm and the deceased joint author, acting on behalf of himself and his co-author, that the firm should engrave the illustrations and print and publish the book. If there was a loss from the publication the firm were to bear the whole of it. If there was a profit they were to pay half of it to the deceased joint author. The profits were to be ascertained after debiting the costs of the engraving, printing, and publication. The defendants alleged that this was an agreement for the sale of the copyright, and that they, as successors of the original firm, were entitled by assignment from them to the benefit of the agreement. No member of the original firm was a partner in the defendants' firm. The defendants had in their possession the blocks from which the illustrations to the first edition of the book had been printed, the drawings on the block having been made by the deceased joint author himself.

North, Q.C., and Macnaghten, for the plaintiffs.

Cookson, Q.C., and Romer, for the defendants.

FRY, J., held, on the authority of Stevens v. Benning (6 De G. M. & G. 223), that the alleged agreement was a mere publishing agreement, and did not amount to a sale of the copyright, and that the benefit of the agreement was not assignable without the consent of the authors. Consequently, the defendants could derive no benefit from the agreement, and the injunction must be granted. And, as by the terms of the agreement the cost of engraving was to be paid out of the gross profits, the blocks were not the property of the defendants, and must be delivered up to the plaintiffs. As the plaintiffs had not in their statement of claim asked that the registration made by the defendants should be vacated, such an order could not be made now, but a summary application for the purpose must be made under the provisions of sect. 14 of the Act. The defendants must pay the costs of the action.

Fry, J. NOCK v. NOCK. June 20.

Practice—Costs—Petition—Company—Payment out of Court—Rules of Court, 1875, Order LV.

In this case land had been taken under the Lands Clauses Act, 1845, by the Great Western Railway, the notice to treat and all the proceedings being in and since 1877, and therefore since the Judicature Acts. As there was a suit of Nock v. Nock, in which other property under the same name was being administered, and one of the vendors (the plaintiff in the suit) being an infant, the railway company on obtaining their conveyance paid the money into Court to the general credit of the suit, and to an account not intituled in the Lands Clauses Act or the Special Acts of the company. This was done pursuant to the agreement of sale duly sanctioned on behalf of the infant, and dated the 10th of May, 1878, which provided that the company should pay the costs of obtaining the order for payment into Court, and provided that after such payment into Court the company should not be liable for any further costs, more than they might be under the Lands Clauses Act, 1845.

This was a petition in the suit for dealing with the purchase-money in Court, and asked that the company might, pursuant to the agreement, pay the petitioner's costs of the petition as under the 80th section of the Lands Clauses Act, 1845, and the unpaid costs, charges, and expenses of the purchase and conveyance. The only question was as to the jurisdiction on such a petition to order the company to pay costs.

Follett, for the petitioners, referred to Order LV., and In re Mercers' Company (10 Ch. D. 481).

Medd, for the company, said there was no jurisdiction to make any order on the petition against the company, and referred to Fisher v. Fisher (Law Rep. 17 Eq. 340).

FRY, J., dismissed the petition as against the company with costs, on the ground that he had no jurisdiction to make any order on the petition against the company.

Fry, J., BARBER v. MACKRELL. June 23.

Practice—Adding to Accounts directed by Decree—Lapse of Time—Fraud—Rules of Court, 1875, Order XXXIII.

This was an action for the administration of the estate of W. T. Mackrell, a solicitor. On the 27th of April, 1867, an administration decree was made, which directed the ordinary accounts and inquiries to be taken and made. On the 1st of December, 1871, it was by consent ordered that, in addition to the accounts and inquiries directed by the decree, ordinary accounts and inquiries should be taken and made of and relating to the partnership dealings and transactions between the testator and his former partners in business. Before this order was made the testator's late partners had claimed to be creditors on his estate for a large amount, and had filed affidavits, in which they alleged that the testator had improperly withdrawn large sums from the partnership moneys, which the partners claimed to have repaid, with interest. On the 22nd of February, 1879, the then surviving partner took out a summons, asking that, in addition to the accounts and inquiries directed by the decree and the order of the 1st of December, 1871, an account might be taken of all sums of money (if any) in which the testator or his estate was indebted to his surviving partner for sums fraudulently retained or improperly applied by the testator, and of the interest (if any) which ought to be allowed to the surviving partner on taking such account.

The defendant (the executrix) opposed the summons, and it was objected that to add such a direction would be inconsistent with the decree and the order of the 1st of December, 1871, there having been no pleadings alleging fraud. It was also urged that there had been unreasonable delay in making the application.

North, Q.C., and J. T. Prior, for the summons.

Higgins, Q.C., and Ingham, for the defendant.

FRY, J., held that the affidavits which had been filed before the order of the 1st of December, 1871, were tantamount to pleadings, and they had raised the case of fraud. Therefore, on the authority of Job v. Job (6 Ch. D. 562), as explained in Mayer v. Murray (8 Ch. D. 424), there was jurisdiction to make the addition. And he was of opinion on the facts that there had been no undue delay in asking for it. He therefore made the order asked for.

Easement—Sign-board of Public-house—Twenty years User—Implication of Grant.

The plaintiffs were the owner and the occupier of a public-house in Newmarket, called the Grosvenor Arms, situate in a narrow side street or yard called Grosvenor Yard, running out of the High Street. The defendants were the owner and the occupiers of a house situate at the corner of Grosvenor Yard and High Street, and immediately adjoining the public-house. The action claimed an injunction to restrain the defendants from removing a sign-board, bearing the name of the public-house, which had been affixed to the defendant's house. The defendant's house projected in front of the public-house, so that it could not be seen from the High Street. The defendants had recently removed the sign-board. It was proved that it had been fixed to the defendant's house for upwards of forty years. It also appeared that in 1819 the plaintiffs' house was conveyed to one Parkinson, who was then the owner of the defendants' house. At that time the plaintiffs' house was not occupied as a public-house. In 1833 the devisees of Parkinson, who was then deceased, conveyed the plaintiffs' house to a predecessor in title of the plaintiff, the defendants' house having been previously conveyed to a predecessor in title of the defendants. There was no evidence as to when the plaintiffs' house was first occupied as a public-house.

North, Q.C., and Stirling, for the plaintiffs, relied on Wood v. Hewitt (8 Q. B. 913); Lancaster v. Eve (5 C. B. N.S. 717); and Hoare v. Metropolitan Board of Works (Law Rep. 9 Q. B. 296), as shewing that an easement of support for the sign-board could be claimed.

Cookson, Q.C., and Maidlow, for the defendants, contended (1) that the proper inference was that the sign-board was erected during the unity of possession of the two houses. The defendants' house was conveyed first by the common owner, and the sign-board therefore passed by the conveyance, without any implied reservation of any easement in respect of it in favour of the owner of the plaintiffs' house. (2) If there was an easement it was personal to the occupier of the plaintiffs' house in relation to the business of a publican, and did not run with the land.

FRY, J., said that he could not presume that the sign-board was erected during the common ownership. It was quite consistent with the evidence that the defendants' house might have been conveyed to their predecessors in January, 1819. The cases cited by the plaintiffs were all cases in which the easement was only useful in relation to a particular business, and they answered the second argument. The injunction asked for must be granted with costs.

Appeal from an order of the County Court Judge at Salisbury.

The order now appealed from was made on the 21st of April, 1879. The order was not drawn up till the 5th of May, but a copy of the appeal notice of motion was within twenty-one days, viz., on the 12th of May, left with the registrar of appeals. A copy of the appeal notice was not, however, sent to the registrar of the county court, or served on the respondent's solicitor until the 19th of May.

De Gex, Q.C., and Bigham, for the appellant.

Winslow, Q.C., and Cooper Willis, for the respondent, took the objection that the appeal was irregular and out of time, because notice of the appeal had not been sent to the registrar of the county court "forthwith" in conformity with r. 144.

De Gex, Q.C., and Bigham, contrà, wished to put in an affidavit explaining how the delay in sending the notice of appeal to the registrar had arisen.

THE CHIEF JUDGE declined to receive this evidence, and considering the respondent's objection valid dismissed the appeal with costs as being out of time.

plaintiff had sustained such severe personal injuries as to injure his health irreparably and render his life a burden to him, and that he had been incapacitated from carrying on his profession, and would probably never recover. It was proved that the medical and other expenses had amounted to 1000*l.*, and further expenses would probably be for a long time necessary; that the plaintiff's professional income had been 5000*l.* a year, and that for the sixteen months between the accident and the trial he had been incapacitated from earning anything. The jury gave 7000*l.* damages. A rule nisi for a new trial had been obtained on the ground that the damages were inadequate, against which,

Ballantine, Serjt., and Dugdale, shewed cause. They contended that where an action was for unliquidated damages the Court would not interfere on the ground that the damages were inadequate unless there had been a misdirection by the judge or some misconduct or mistake in the calculation of figures by the jury.

Sir J. Holker, A.G., Pope, Q.C., and A. L. Smith, supported the rule.

Cur. adv. vult.

June 20. THE COURT (Cockburn, C.J., and Lopes, J.) were of opinion that where on the facts it appeared that the jury could not have taken into account some of the elements properly involved in the plaintiff's claim, the Court should grant a new trial on the ground of inadequacy of damages. They thought that on the facts as proved this must have been the case, and therefore made the rule absolute.

Husband and Wife—Liability of Husband for Ante-nuptial Debts contracted by Wife abroad—Married Women's Property Act, 1874.

Appeal from Hertford County Court.

The question was whether the defendant, an Englishman, was liable to the ante-nuptial debts contracted by his wife, while a feme sole in Jersey, with the plaintiffs. By the law of Jersey a husband is there liable for the ante-nuptial debts of his wife.

The marriage took place in England after the passing of the Married Women's Property Act, 1874, by which a husband is relieved from such liability except to the extent of assets brought to him by his wife. The plaintiffs sued him here. No sufficient proof of assets was given. The County Court Judge nonsuited the plaintiffs.

Lumaison, for the plaintiffs, contended that the liability was governed by the lex loci contractûs.

Broadmead, for the defendant, was not called upon to argue.

THE COURT (Grove and Lopes, JJ.) held that the defendant was not liable. He was no party to the contract sued on. The lex loci contractûs did not govern all the incidents of the contract so as to attach to him the liability of his wife.

Judgment affirmed.

Appeal from Congleton County Court.

Action for damage to the plaintiff's colt by the defendant's negligence in constructing a sewer and filling in a drain. The drain was made by the defendant under a contract with the guardians of the poor being the local authority under the Public Health Act, 1875 (38 & 39 Vict. c. 55).

The defence was that no notice of action had been given according to the 264th section.

The learned judge ruled that the defendant was not "any officer of a local authority or person acting in his aid" within the terms of the section, and therefore was not entitled to notice.

McClymont, for the plaintiff.

Philbrick, Q.C., for the defendant.

THE COURT held that although a contractor would have been a person entitled to notice under the words of the Public Health Act, 1848, which entitled any member of the local board, or officer of health, clerk, surveyor, inspector of nuisances, or other officer or person "whomsoever acting under the direction of the said local board" to notice of action, those words had been purposely restricted and altered in the later Act so as to exclude contractors. The decision was right.

THE GUARDIANS OF THE POOR OF THE NOTTINGHAM UNION v. TOMKINSON.

Husband and Wife—Complaint to Justices against Husband for non-maintenance of Child—Evidence of Husband denying Paternity—Admissibility.

Case stated by justices under 20 & 21 Vict. c. 43.

At the hearing of a complaint made by the appellants against the respondent under 43 Eliz. c. 2, s. 7, and 31 & 32 Vict. c. 122, s. 36, calling on him to shew cause why an order should not be made upon him to maintain his child, born of his wife Mary, then chargeable to the appellants' union.

The child was born on the 6th of October, 1873. Since October, 1872, the husband and wife had lived apart at a distance of about four miles. He had opportunities of access to her.

The respondent set up the adultery of his wife, and a decree nisi of the Divorce Court for dissolution of their marriage. He was called on his own behalf and gave evidence that he had never had intercourse with his wife after the 20th of October, 1872, but he admitted that he slept in the same house as his wife but not with her, at Whitsuntide, 1873, and that he was tenant of the house where his wife lived, and he paid the rent and supported her and the child and his other children there until the middle of November, 1873. No evidence was given to prove that he did not have access to his wife at a time when the child might have been begotten except the evidence of the respondent himself and his sister, who swore that after October, 1872, with the exception of going to Calais to take his child to school the respondent never was out of their house at night later than 11 o'clock from October, 1872, to July, 1874. The justices admitted the respondent's evidence. The question was whether they were right in doing so, and whether there was any evidence upon which they were entitled to find that the respondent was not the father of the said child.

Wills, Q.C., and Poland, for the appellants.

Reginald Brown, for the respondents.

THE COURT (Grove and Lopes, JJ.) held, that the evidence of the husband was not admissible to bastardize his child, and that the proceedings were not "instituted in consequence of adultery," so as to be within the terms of 32 & 33 Vict. c. 68 (The Evidence Further Amendment Act, 1869), s. 3, and that there was no evidence to rebut the presumption of legitimacy.

IN THE MATTER OF AN APPLICATION OF THE COMPANY OF PROPRIETORS OF THE WARWICK AND BIRMINGHAM CANAL NAVIGATION AND THE COMPANY OF PROPRIETORS OF THE WARWICK AND NAPTON CANAL NAVIGATION v. THE COMPANY OF PROPRIETORS OF THE BIRMINGHAM CANAL NAVIGATION AND OTHERS.

Railway and Canal Traffic—Regulation of Railways Act, 1873 (36 & 37 Vict. c. 48), s. 11—Through Rate—Due and Reasonable Facility—Railway Commissioners' Jurisdiction to alter Tolls fixed by Statute—Absence of Party interested.

An application having been made by the Warwick and Birmingham Canal Navigation and the Warwick and Napton Canal Navigation to the Railway Commissioners under s. 11 of the Regulation of Railways Act, 1873 (36 & 37 Vict. c. 48), for an order allowing a through rate for traffic over the chain of canals belonging to certain canal companies, including the Birmingham Canal Navigation, the Railway Commissioners made an order in June, 1877, allowing a through rate. By an Act in 1846, the tolls which the Birmingham Canal Navigation were authorized to take for traffic over their canal were fixed, and they were by the same statute prohibited from altering such tolls unless with the consent of the London and North-Western Railway Company, who were guarantors of the interest due on the capital of the Birmingham Canal Navigation. The order made by the Railway Commissioners had the effect of reducing the tolls of the Birmingham Canal Navigation in respect of the through rate, but the London and North Western Railway Company were not present at the hearing before the Railway Commissioners and had not been summoned, and had not consented to the reduction of the tolls.

Rules nisi to prohibit the applicants from enforcing the order having been obtained both by the Birmingham Canal Navigation and the London and North Western Railway Company, cause was now shewn by,

A. Wills, Q.C., Pember, Q.C., and Webster, Q.C., for the Warwick Canal Companies, and by

THE COURT (Kelly, C.B., Pollock, B., and Hawkins, J.) made the rules absolute for a prohibition, Kelly, C.B., on the ground that the Railway Commissioners had no jurisdiction to make an order affecting the London and North-Western Railway Company without hearing them: Pollock, B., and Hawkins, J., on the ground that the Birmingham Canal Navigation had no power to alter the tolls without the consent of the London and North-Western Railway Company, and that the Railway Commissioners had no power under the Regulation of Railways Act, 1873, to compel the Birmingham Canal Navigation to alter the tolls without such consent.

Practice—Costs of Action when Official Referee reports that Money paid into Court is sufficient—Rules of Court, 1875, Order XXX., rr. 1, 4; Order LV.

This action was for dilapidations of a house let by the plaintiff to the defendant on lease, and the plaintiff claimed 500*l.* damages. The defendant by his statement of defence, while denying his liability, paid 150*l.* into Court as sufficient to satisfy the plaintiff's claim. The plaintiff having joined issue, replied that the 150*l.* was not sufficient. The issues were referred to an official referee who reported that the money paid into Court was sufficient to cover any just claim which the plaintiff had in respect of the dilapidations, the subject of the action.

The defendant now moved that this report be adopted by the Court, and that the defendant might have judgment thereon, and also judgment for the costs of the action and of the reference to the official referee.

Nasmith, for the defendant, contended that he was entitled to the whole costs on the authority of Langridge v. Campbell (2 Ex. Div. 281).

A. Powell, for the plaintiff.

THE COURT (Kelly, C.B., and Hawkins, J.) gave judgment for the defendant in accordance with the referee's report, and held that under such circumstances as the present the plaintiff is entitled to costs of the action up to the time of payment into Court, and that from that point the defendant is entitled to the costs, and gave judgment accordingly.

C. C. R. REG. v OWEN HUGHES. June 21.

Perjury—Warrant improperly issued—Jurisdiction of Magistrates.

The prisoner was convicted before Bramwell, L.J., at the Anglesea Assizes of perjury. He swore falsely and corruptly on the hearing of a charge against Stanley at petty sessions of assault on him Owen Hughes and of obstructing him Owen Hughes being a police constable in the discharge of his duty. But it was on the trial of the prisoner Owen Hughes before Bramwell, L.J., objected that the said Owen Hughes ought to be acquitted, on the ground that the proceedings at petty sessions were informal and without jurisdiction in the magistrates who then heard the case against Stanley. The facts were as follows: Owen Hughes went to the office of the clerk to the justices, saw there a clerk of the clerk to the justices, and told him he wanted a warrant against Stanley for assaulting him and obstructing him in the discharge of his duty. The clerk gave him a form of a warrant to that effect, which he, Owen Hughes, took to a magistrate who signed it.

There was no written information nor oath by Owen Hughes or any other person to found or justify the issuing of the warrant. Stanley, however, was arrested on the warrant by Owen Hughes, and brought before the magistrates. The case was gone into of assault and obstruction. No objection was taken by Stanley, who defended himself and called a witness in support of his defence. The learned judge overruled the objection, but reserved for the consideration of this Court the question whether, because there was no written information nor oath, he ought to have directed an acquittal of Owen Hughes.

CUNINGHAME, APP.; CITY OF GLASGOW BANK AND LIQUIDATORS, RESPS.; AND EARL OF EGLINTON AND OTHERS, TRUSTEES, RESPS.

Joint Stock Company—Trustee authorized Investment, and signed Mandate for Payment of Dividends, but did not subscribe Transfers—Held liable, as Contributory.

The appellant, Mr. John Charles Cuninghame, was nominated a trustee in the marriage contract, dated 1873, of Mr. J. Cuninghame and Miss Mary Blair. In August, 1875, Mr. and Mrs. Cuninghame wrote to the trustees to authorize 1450*l.*, a portion of the trust funds, to be invested in the City of Glasgow Bank stock; to this letter was appended a note signed by all the trustees, including the appellant, in which they say: "We hereby sanction and approve of the above investments." Subsequently the duly appointed law agent of the trust purchased the stock; the transfers were signed by three (a quorum) of the trustees, who are the second respondents; but the appellant did not sign them. The transfers were drawn out in the names of all the trustees, and all their names were entered on the stock ledger—the register of members—"as trustees under the marriage contract," &c. On the 13th of December 1875, the appellant signed a mandate authorizing the bank to pay the dividends to Mrs. Cuninghame. The bank stopped payment on the 2nd of October, 1878, and the appellant's name was put on the list of contributories. He contended that, never having signed the transfers, or authorized his name to be placed on the stock ledger, his name ought not to appear on the list of contributories; and in any view, the liability of trustees being not joint and several, but only joint, he was only bound to contribute in respect of one-fifth of the 1450*l.* stock.

The Court of Session, on the 21st of February, 1879, decided both the above points against the appellant.

On appeal,

Mr. Herschell, Q.C., and Mr. Chitty, Q.C., were heard for the appellant.

Mr. E. E. Kay, Q.C., Mr. Benjamin, Q.C., Mr. Davey, Q.C., and Mr. Asher (of the Scotch Bar), appeared for the respondents, the liquidators.

The Lord Advocate (Rt. Hon. W. Watson), and Mr. J. Pearson, Q.C., were for the respondents, the trustees, who signed the transfers.

THE LORDS, without calling upon the respondents, affirmed the interlocutor of the Court below; and dismissed the appeal with costs. (See cases, ante, p. 104.)

Joint Stock Company—Words for "survivor; for behoof of firm," held to create a Trust—Joint and several Liability.

The question raised in this appeal was whether the appellants, John Gillespie and Thomas Paterson, writers to the signet, Edinburgh, are rightly entered on the list of contributories of the City of Glasgow Bank in liquidation, as joint holders of stock to the extent of 1000*l.*, or whether they are entitled to be entered as contributories each for the separate sum of 500*l.* The entry in the stock ledger or register of the bank was as follows:—"John Gillespie and Thomas Paterson, and the survivor of them, for behoof of the firm of Gillespie and Paterson, W.S.." "By stock purchased from Alex Tod, 1000*l*." The first division of the Court of Session, the 27th of February, 1879, held that the appellants were to be regarded as a body of trustees, and that as such their liability was joint and several.

Nuisance—Noise—Easement—Subsequent Erection of Buildings.

This was an appeal from a decision of the Master of the Rolls (Weekly Notes, 1878, p. 146).

The plaintiff was a physician in Wimpole Street; the defendant was a confectioner in Wigmore Street, whose back premises abutted on to plaintiff's garden. The defendant had two large mortars fixed in brickwork against his kitchen wall, which formed the boundary wall of the plaintiff's garden, worked with heavy pestles; and these had been in constant use for more than twenty years.

The plaintiff having recently built a consulting room at the end of his garden against the boundary wall, found the noise and vibration caused by the hammering of the pestles a serious annoyance; and he brought this action to restrain the nuisance. The Master of the Rolls granted the injunction prayed, and the defendant appealed from the decision.

Chitty, Q.C., and Methold, for the appellant.

Waller, Q.C., and S. Dickinson, for the plaintiff.

THE COURT (James, Baggallay, and Thesiger, L.JJ.) were of opinion that as there was no actionable nuisance before the plaintiff built his consulting room, the defendant had acquired no right of an easement over the plaintiff's land either at Common Law or under the Prescription Act; and that as a serious nuisance was now proved, the plaintiff was entitled to an injunction. The appeal was therefore dismissed with costs.

Receiver—Appointment of Plaintiff's Solicitor to be Receiver.

This was an appeal from a decision of Mr. Justice Fry refusing to remove a receiver appointed by Vice-Chancellor Malins. The person appointed was the plaintiff in the action, and the firm of which he was a member acted as the solicitors in the action both for him and the appellant, who had subsequently changed her solicitors.

Higgins, Q.C., and Kingdon, for the appellant.

North, Q.C., and Everitt, for another party.

Glasse, Q.C., and De Castro, for the receiver.

THE COURT (Jessel, M.R., and Brett and Cotton, L.JJ.) held that the appointment of a member of the firm of the plaintiffs' solicitors to be receiver was improper, and discharged the appointment, ordering the receiver to pay the costs both in the Court below and in the Court of Appeal.

M. R. WALKER v. LONDON TRAMWAYS COMPANY. June 20.

Company—Contingencies Fund, Application of—Alteration of Articles—Resolution of General Meeting—Companies Act, 1862, s. 50.

The defendant company, which was registered under the Companies Act, 1862, were required by article 105 of the articles of association to set apart one per cent. of the paid-up capital as a "contingencies fund." Another article provided that, subject and without prejudice to the powers to modify the conditions contained in the memorandum of association given by s. 12 of the Companies Act, 1862, the said conditions should be deemed the only essential terms of the contract in the memorandum and articles, and that, subject thereto, and subject and without prejudice to the provisions in certain articles (including 105) every one of the articles should be deemed to be a regulation capable of alteration under s. 50 of the Companies Act, 1862.

The directors being desirous of applying the "contingencies fund" to the repairs of the tramways (which by a former decision of the Court they were precluded from doing), submitted special resolutions to a general meeting of the shareholders to alter the articles, so that the "contingencies fund" might be made applicable, at the discretion of the directors, to the purpose aforesaid. These resolutions were passed, but were not yet confirmed.

The plaintiff, who sued on behalf of himself and the other shareholders, now moved to restrain the directors from so applying the existing contingencies fund, and the question arose whether the company had power to rescind or alter the article in question.

Davey, Q.C., and Stirling, in support of the motion.

Chitty, Q.C., and Romer, for the defendant company.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS considered that no company could contract itself out of s. 50 of the Companies Act, 1862; that the articles were validly altered by the resolutions; and that the contingencies fund would upon confirmation of the resolutions be applicable to the purpose proposed.

V.-C. H. MASSEY v. ALLEN. June 26.

Practice—Plaintiff out of the Jurisdiction—Security for Costs past and future—Form of Order.

The action was commenced by the liquidator of the International Contract Company, by leave, in the name of Massey, against Allen and Hardwick, with the view of making both or one of them liable for calls for 4000*l.*, upon 200 shares (9 Ch. D. 164).

Massey having died, an order was made in 1877 that his widow, as his executrix, might carry on the proceedings in the action.

At the date of the order she was residing at Highbury New Park, Middlesex, but she had recently gone to reside in the Island of Guernsey, out of the jurisdiction of the Court. For Allen, it was deposed that the costs of the action were very heavy; that there was a great mass of documents involved extending over a period of 15 years, since the formation of the company in the year 1867, and that the costs, inclusive of the hearing of the action, would amount to the sum of 1000*l.* or thereabouts.

This was a motion on behalf of Allen that the plaintiff (Mrs. Massey) might be ordered, within ten days, to give security in the sum of 1000*l.* to answer costs in the action, and that in the meantime all proceedings in the action might be stayed as against him. The motion was brought on upon the 19th of June, and was ordered to stand over till the 26th, that further inquiry might be made into the practice of the Court before and since the Judicature Act, 1875.

Hastings, Q.C., and Fellows, for the motion, pointed out that the bulk of the costs had been incurred before the plaintiff went to reside out of the jurisdiction. They asked for an order that would cover past and future costs. In the Common Law Divisions of the Court it was customary to give security for a sum as the judge might think fit, and the Judges of the Chancery Division would, in the exercise of their discretion, follow the same practice.

Whitehorne opposed the application on behalf of the liquidator, who was really the plaintiff, and said that the old rule in Chancery was to order security for a fixed sum—100*l.*—except there was any special circumstance, but a special circumstance must be shewn. The rule did not apply to past costs at all, but only to future.

June 26. THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said that the result of the investigation into the practice of the Divisions of the High Court was, that according to the practice of the Common Law Divisions the security ordered to be given extended to past costs. That was the common form, and that practice must be considered to have been adopted, substantially, as the practice of the High Court of Justice. There might be special cases in which it would be held that the parties applying would not be entitled to have security except for future costs; for instance, the parties might come too late either for security at all, or for future costs. In this case he was of opinion that he ought to follow the practice of the Common Law Courts before the passing of the Judicature Act, but he must also give consideration to the observations of Lord Justice James in reference to the special circumstances in the case of Republic of Costa Rica v. Erlanger (3 Ch. D. 62). The order made there was, however, not at variance with the practice which existed in the Common Law Divisions. He saw no reason why in this case he should, in the exercise of his discretion, confine the security to future costs. He must have regard to the affidavit, and remember that this was a company in liquidation, and that there would be no embarrassment occasioned to any one in giving costs, as it appeared that the liquidator had a fund in the bank sufficient. The order would be in the same form as in the case referred to, but it would not extend to both defendants, viz.: "That the" plaintiff "do procure some sufficient person on" her "behalf to give security according to the course of the Court by bond to the Clerk of Records and Writs in the penalty of" (1000*l.*) "conditioned to answer the costs of the" applicant "from the" (date to be inserted) "for such security in case any such costs should be awarded to be paid by the" plaintiff "or that the" plaintiff "do pay the sum of" 1000*l.* "into Court to the credit of the" action "security for costs, to answer such costs in case any such costs shall be awarded to be paid by the" plaintiff.

A testator directed that his debts and funeral and testamentary expenses should be paid by his executors, and he appointed his brother and his son, J. T. Bailey (the defendant), trustees and executors of his will. He bequeathed to his wife

(the plaintiff) his furniture and other household effects. He bequeathed to his trustees two leasehold houses on trust for one of his daughters, Mrs. Roberts, for her life with remainder among her children. If there was no child who should attain a vested interest the property was to sink into the residue. He devised to his trustees in fee certain freehold properties, on trusts for each of his other three daughters and their children respectively, similar to the trusts declared in favour of Mrs. Roberts, with a similar ultimate limitation in each case. He devised certain other freehold property to his son J. T. Bailey (the defendant) in fee, and he devised and bequeathed certain other freehold and leasehold property to another son absolutely, and he devised and bequeathed the residue of his estate to his trustees upon trust for his wife during her life or widowhood, with remainder among his six children equally. The personal estate was insufficient for the payment of the testator's debts. The action was brought to administer the estate and to execute the trusts of the will, and it now came on for further consideration. It was contended by the defendant that by virtue of the direction that the debts should be paid by the executors, and the devise of real estates to the executors on trust for the daughters and their children, the estates so devised were in effect charged with the debts, while the real estate devised to the defendant beneficially was not so charged.

Bristowe, Q.C., and H. Fellows, for the defendant, relied upon Warren v. Davies (2 My. & K. 49).

Sturges, for two other daughters.

A. Birrell, for the fourth daughter.

FRY, J., held that neither the real estate devised on trust for the daughters nor that devised to the defendant beneficially, was charged with the debts, but that the residue was so charged. The rule laid down in Warren v. Davies did not apply in all its generality. Wasse v. Heslington (3 M. & K. 495) shewed that it was a question of intention, and it could not be supposed that the testator intended to make this inequality as between his daughters and his son.

PUGH v. GOLDEN VALLEY RAILWAY COMPANY.

Railway Company—Statutory Powers—Diversion of Private Stream—Railways Clauses Act, 1845, s. 16.

The defendant company in constructing their railway in the neighbourhood of the plaintiff's land, which was bounded by a river (not navigable) the course of which was sinuous, stopped up the bed of the river by their embankment at two points, and diverted the river into a new channel, running straight between these two points, thus taking the greater part of the water out of its old curved channel, which formed the boundary of the plaintiff's land. If the company had not done this, they would have had to build two bridges over the river at the two points where they had stopped up the channel. The action was brought for an injunction to restrain the defendants from permitting the obstruction to continue. The question was whether the defendants were justified by s. 16 of the Railways Clauses Act in doing what they had done.

Fischer, Q.C., and Bagnold, for the plaintiff.

North, Q.C., and Speed, for the defendants.

FRY, J., though his own opinion was that s. 16 justified the defendants' acts, said that a contrary construction had been put upon the section by the Court of Queen's Bench in The Queen v. Wycombe Railway Company (Law Rep. 2 Q. B. 310), which had been approved and adopted by the Master of the Rolls in Fenwick v. East London Railway Company (Law Rep. 20 Eq. 544). The view of the Court of Queen's Bench was, that the company could not make such a diversion unless it was necessary for the purpose of the construction of the railway. In the present case there was no necessity; the object was merely to save the expense of building two bridges. His Lordship thought it better to follow the decision of the Court of Queen's Bench, and therefore he should grant the injunction, but its operation would be suspended for six months.

HOUSEHOLD FIRE INSURANCE COMPANY v. GRANT.

Contract—Shares, Offer to take in Company—Assent by Correspondence.

Action for calls on shares in the plaintiff's company. In September, 1874, the defendant applied for shares in the plaintiffs' company by letter; the application was answered by letter, the secretary of the company allotting certain shares to the defendant. The secretary's letter was duly posted, but never reached the defendant. In March, 1877, a notice of a call on the shares allotted to the defendant was sent to him with a request for payment. At the trial the defendant contended that as he had never received any answer to his application by letter for shares there was no contract between the parties, and he was not liable. Lopes, J., ruled that the contract between the parties was completed when the letter of the secretary making the allotment was posted, although the defendant never received it, and ordered judgment to be entered for the plaintiffs.

Proof—Contingent Liability—Covenant to pay Annuity—Valuation—Death of Annuitant after Payment of Dividend—Bankruptcy Act, 1869, s. 31.

By a post-nuptial settlement, executed in 1874, C. Pannell covenanted to pay to trustees, during the life of his wife, an annuity of 200*l.*, to be held by them on trust for her separate use. In September, 1876, Pannell was adjudicated a bankrupt. The trustees tendered a proof for 3493*l.*, the amount at which the annuity had been valued by an actuary as at the date of the adjudication. They also tendered another proof for 148*l.*, the arrears of the annuity due at the date of the adjudication. Both proofs were admitted. A dividend of 4*s.* in the pound was paid by the trustee in the bankruptcy, and the trustees of the deed received 698*l.* 12*s.* in respect of the proof for 3493*l.* On the 21st of September, 1878, the wife died. Mr. Registrar Hazlitt, acting as Chief Judge, ordered that the trustees of the deed should repay to the trustee in the bankruptcy the sum of 297*l.*, being the difference between the 698*l.* 12*s.* and the amount which would have been paid under the covenant from the date of the adjudication to the time of the wife's death, if the payment of the annuity had been regularly made. The wife's executor appealed.

Lush, for the appellant, relied on s. 31 of the Act.
F. G. Bagshawe, for the trustees of the deed.
Doria, for the trustee in the bankruptcy, relied on Ex parte Wardley (6 Ch. D. 790).

THE COURT (James, Brett, and Cotton, L.JJ.) said that the proof was made for better for worse, and it would be contrary to s. 31 to alter the order admitting it by reason of anything which happened subsequently. The circumstances in Ex parte Wardley were very special, and that case did not govern the present. The appeal was accordingly allowed, with costs.

Practice—Vacating Appointment of Trustee—Proof improperly rejected.

The appellant applied to the judge of the Greenwich County Court for an order vacating the appointment of a trustee in the bankruptcy, on the ground that the appellant's proof had been improperly rejected by the registrar, and that his vote, if admitted, would have turned the majority against the trustee who was elected. The judge refused the application, and his decision was affirmed by the Chief Judge. From his decision the present appeal was brought.

The appellant in person.
Finlay Knight, for the trustee.

THE COURT (James, Brett, and Cotton, L.JJ.) dismissed the appeal, on the ground that it is contrary to the settled practice to disturb the appointment of trustee, merely because a proof has been improperly rejected, unless there has been fraud in procuring its rejection.

Practice—Appeal to House of Lords—Stay of Proceedings pending Appeal.

This was an application by the defendants the National Bolivian Navigation Company, the Madeira and Mamoré Railway Company, and Mr. Nash, a dissentient bondholder, to stay the execution of the decree of the Court of Appeal for the distribution of the funds in the hands of the trustees among the bondholders of the Bolivian loan pending the appeal of the defendants to the House of Lords.

Benjamin, Q.C., and Rigby, for the applicants, relied on the grounds that the bonds were payable to bearer, that nearly 1000 persons were interested in them, and that many of these persons resided on the continent of Europe and others in South America. If, therefore, the funds were distributed and the decree were afterwards reversed, the defendants would never be able to get back the money.

Southgate, Q.C., and Cozens-Hardy, for the plaintiffs, opposed the application.

Macnaghten, and Snagge, for the trustees.

COTTON, L.J., said that when a party appealed in the exercise of his undoubted right to do so, this Court ought to see that the appeal, if successful, would not be nugatory. Acting on this principle the Court ought not to allow the fund in this case to be parted with pending the appeal. But it was not the custom of the Court to stay the taxation and payment of the costs. Also the defendants must be put on terms to expedite the appeal.

BRETT, L.J., concurred.

JAMES, L.J., said that he was unable to agree with the conclusion of the majority of the Court. The question in the suit was not whether the plaintiffs or the defendants were entitled to the fund, but whether the money should be laid out in certain works. If these works were constructed they would be subject to a charge in the plaintiffs' favour for the whole loan, and he could not see that the interest which the companies had was of any value. He thought it was an exceptional case and ought to be dealt with exceptionally. But as the majority of the Court were of a different opinion the application must be granted.

JAMES, L.J., said that the document could not be received in evidence in support of the facts intended to be proved by it. The Board of Marine were directed to inquire into the fitness of the consul Mangini to be appointed a diplomatic agent of the Republic, and the facts stated as to his birth were merely hearsay evidence obtained from friends of the consul, and not necessary to the point they were specially directed to inquire into. According to the rules of evidence of the English Courts, such statements could not be received in evidence.

BRETT and COTTON, L.JJ., expressed their opinions to the same effect.

Pearson said that after the decision of the Court, by which the evidence was rejected, it was useless to take up the time of the Court by going on with the appeal.

The judgment of the Vice-Chancellor was accordingly affirmed.

In re ORRELL COLLIERY AND FIRE BRICK COMPANY. HOLT'S CLAIM.

Company—Winding-up Order pending Action against Company—Order to dismiss for want of Prosecution—Subsequent Claim by Plaintiff in the Action.

An action had been commenced against a company, and a winding-up order was made pending the action. The plaintiff obtained leave to continue his action notwithstanding the winding-up, and a statement of defence was delivered. The plaintiff not having delivered a reply or given notice of trial, the company obtained an order dismissing the action for want of prosecution.

The plaintiff in the action now took out a summons in the winding-up to establish his claim in the same matter as that to which the action related.

Ince, Q.C., and Clare, for the company, contended that the order dismissing the action was a bar to his claim.

Davey, Q.C., and H. B. Buckley, in support of the claim.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS held that the Judicature Act and Rules of Court did not provide for such a case; that the former practice was still in force; and that the order dismissing the action for want of prosecution was no bar to the present claim.

Will—Gift to Children who should attain 21—Income of Trust Fund before Distribution.

Bequest in trust for the daughter of the testatrix for life, and after her decease for all her children living at the death of the testatrix, who being sons should attain 21, or who being daughters should attain that age or marry, in equal shares.

The daughter who survived the testatrix died, leaving three children, two sons and a daughter, born in the testatrix's lifetime.

Welby King, Macnaghten, and A. Thomson, for the several parties.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS considered that the income of the property up to the time when the eldest child attained 21 should fall into the residue, and that on his attaining 21 he was entitled to the whole of the income until the next child attained 21, when the two eldest were entitled to share the income until the youngest attained a vested interest in the property, when the corpus would be divided between them in equal shares.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS directed that the recital should be altered as follows:—It appearing that the title deeds relating to the action in question have been deposited by A. the bankrupt in the hands of the plaintiff; declare the plaintiff to be a mortgagee of the hereditaments therein contained; and let an account, &c.

Northmore Lawrence, for the respondents.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said that there was nothing in the Act which enabled the Court to confer upon the trustees general powers of making grants at fee farm rents.

W. Barber, as amicus curiæ, said that the practice in such cases had been for the Court to direct a sale of the estate with the approbation of the judge in chambers; and then the parties could carry in proposals from time to time with respect to each particular grant.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR:—The order may be so made, and power to grant building leases for 999 years will be included in the order.

MARQUIS OF LONDONDERRY v. RHOSWYDOL LEAD MINING COMPANY.

Summons in Chambers—Motion in Court for Leave to add Parties as Defendants—Rules of Court, 1875, Order XVI. r. 13—Leave granted—Form of Order.

This was an action against the Rhoswydol Lead Mining Company, Limited, to prevent a stream of water from being fouled by the workings by the company of their lead mine, and an injunction had been granted till the hearing of the action. On the 19th of June, a motion under Rules of Court, 1875, Order XVI. r. 13, was made on behalf of the plaintiff for leave to amend the writ of summons and statement of claim by adding the names of Robert Girdwood and George Green as defendants. It was stated that they were officials of the company. It appeared that an application to the same effect had been made in chambers and that upon the evidence produced it was refused, as there was nothing to shew that a case could be made against those gentlemen; but on the motion the Vice-Chancellor said that the evidence produced shewed with sufficiently reasonable clearness that the plaintiff would have been right in making them defendants originally, and that it was not an idle application and made merely in reference to costs and damages. These gentlemen might be able to give substantial and material information in reference to their position with the company, and, therefore, he thought the leave asked for should be granted. The plaintiff must have known before he commenced the action of the ground put forward for making these gentlemen defendants; but the part which they had taken since the action was not unimportant. This application being, however, a repetition of the former one, and as the same evidence might have been produced in chambers, the plaintiff must pay the costs of the motion, and the order will be the same as in Edwards v. Lowther (24 W. R. 434).

The registrar had drawn up the order as follows:—"Order that the plaintiff be at liberty to amend his writ of summons and statement of claim by adding Robert Girdwood and George Green as defendants with proper statements to charge them. And it is ordered that the said Robert Girdwood and George Green have power to make defence as if the writ had been served upon them at the date of such amendment. The costs of the plaintiff and defendants of the said order dated the 21st of May, 1879, are to be costs in the action, and it is ordered that the plaintiff pay the defendants their costs of this application."

Robinson, Q.C., and Everitt, for the company now (28th of June) asked that the order given out by the registrar should be amended by striking out the words after "George Green" and down to the word "amendment," and to insert "on being respectively made defendants to this action shall be in the same position and have the same rights as they respectively would have had if this action had been commenced against them at the date of the amendment, and date of service on them of the said amended writ of summons."

Hastings, Q.C., and L. P. Pugh, for the plaintiff, opposed the application.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that the order given out by the registrar was in the proper form, and that the plaintiff was entitled to be paid his costs of this application.

This was an adjourned summons in the winding-up of the West of England Bank upon an application by William Hatcher to obtain the removal of his name from the list of contributories "as a member or contributory in his own right."

On the 6th of May, 1878, W. Hatcher intermarried with Mrs. Allen E. Parry, who was possessed of property in her own right, consisting of twenty-six shares of 20*l.* each in the West of England Bank, and two houses situate in London, the whole of which property was by a marriage settlement assigned to a trustee upon trust for the separate use of Mrs. Hatcher for life, with a power of appointment to be exercised by Mrs. Hatcher solely, and after her death upon such trusts as she should by deed or will appoint. This deed, though it operated as a transfer of the shares in the bank held by Mrs. Hatcher, was never registered, and the bank had no formal notice of it, but when the June dividends of the year 1878 became payable, Mrs. Hatcher informed the manager of the bank in conversation that she had been married, and that upon the marriage a settlement was executed under which she was entitled to the dividends for her separate use. Upon this the money was paid to her upon the joint signature of herself and her husband. The shares continued on the register of the bank up to the time of the stoppage in the name of Allen E. Parry, with a memorandum against the entry, that the certificate of the marriage had been produced to the manager. The bank was wound up in December, 1878, and the names of both Mr. and Mrs. Hatcher were placed on the list of contributories, Mr. Hatcher being entered "as a member or contributory in his own right."

Ingle Joyce, for W. Hatcher, submitted that the liability of the husband was altered by the Married Women's Property Act (37 & 38 Vict. c. 50), and that he should only be on the list of contributories in right of his wife and not in his own right.

Glasse, Q.C., and Romer, for the official liquidator, contended that the case was governed by the 78th section of the Companies Act, 1862, under which the husband was liable for the same sum as his wife would have been liable to contribute if she had not married.

FRY, J., held that the name of the husband must remain on the list of contributories upon the terms of the 78th section of the Companies Act.

In re GRASON.

Bankruptcy—Proof of Debt—Loan of Money on Contract to receive a Share of Profits—28 & 29 Vict. c. 86, ss. 1, 5.

Appeal from County Court at Barnsley.

In July, 1871, Joseph Taylor lent to the debtor Henry Parker Grason, then trading at Manchester, 4500*l.*, in consideration of an agreement by Grason to allow him one-half of the profits arising out of his business as a merchant and commission agent. Disputes arose, and Taylor having required and failed to obtain payment, in September, 1872, filed a petition in bankruptcy against Grason, which was afterwards dismissed on an arrangement being entered into, dated the 24th of December, 1872, by a deed whereby Grason granted to J. E. Lees all his estate and effects, real and personal, upon trust out of a sum of 500*l.* recently paid by Grason to the receiver, to pay certain costs and expenses, and the residue (which amounted to 268*l.* 8*s.* 10*d.*) to Taylor, and to pay and divide the proceeds of sale and conversion amongst the creditors of Grason other than Taylor, rateably in proportion to their debts, until the same were fully paid and satisfied, and the balance with interest at 10 per cent. to Taylor in discharge of the balance of the 4500*l.* No creditor other than Taylor was a party to the deed.

No payment other than that of the 268*l.* 8*s.* 10*d.* was made to Taylor. The trustee realized the estate and paid to the creditors other than Taylor a dividend of 6*s.* 0½*d.*; and by a deed dated the 15th of March, 1875, to which Grason was not a party, the creditors released the trustee, but the deed provided that the rights of the creditors against Grason should not be prejudiced.

On the 16th of November, 1877, Taylor commenced an action against Grason to recover the 4500*l.* and interest, and on the 22nd of July, 1878, judgment was given for the plaintiff, execution being stayed pending an appeal by Grason.

On the 24th of December, 1878, Grason gave up his office at Manchester, having already in 1877 ceased to reside there, and having since the early part of 1877 gone into business as a dyer at Barnsley, only occasionally transacting business as a commission agent at Manchester.

On the 4th of February, 1879, Grason filed a liquidation petition. At the first meeting of creditors on the 25th of February, the widow and executrix of Taylor tendered a proof for the judgment debt of 4500*l.*, which was objected to on the double ground that the claim was void in toto, and that the appeal was then pending. On the 7th of April the appeal in Taylor v. Grayson was heard and dismissed; and the registrar refused to register the resolutions of the 25th of February, holding that Mrs. Taylor's proof ought to have been admitted. This decision was appealed from on the 19th of April, and on the authority of Ex parte Mills (Law Rep. 8 Ch. 569), reversed by the County Court Judge, who held that the debt could not be proved, and directed the resolutions to be registered.

Poor Law—Illegitimate Child under Sixteen—Derivative Settlement—39 & 40 Vict. c. 61, s. 35.

"If any child in this section mentioned shall not have acquired a settlement for itself, or being a female shall not have derived a settlement from her husband, and it cannot be shewn what settlement such child or female derived from the parent without inquiring into the derivative settlement of such parent, such child or female shall be deemed to be settled in the parish in which he or she was born."

The pauper was born in 1869, and was the illegitimate child of Louisa Skeats, having been born three years after she was divorced from her husband. She took her husband's settlement and had acquired no other since her divorce. The appellants contended that her child, the pauper, took this settlement.

Tickell, for the appellants.

J. F. Clerk, for the respondents, was not heard.

THE COURT (Lush and Manisty, JJ.) held that the words "any child," in the latter part of the section applied to an illegitimate child, and that the mother's settlement being a derivative one the pauper did not take it, but was removable to the parish where it was born.

WALE AND THE COMMISSIONERS OF INLAND REVENUE.

Stamp—Stamp Act, 1870 (33 & 34 Vict. c. 97), s. 105, Schedule—Mortgage—Transfer or Assignment of Mortgage.

Case stated under the Stamp Act, 1870 (33 & 34 Vict. c. 97). s. 19, on appeal against an assessment of the Commissioners of Inland Revenue.

By a deed in 1877 between Fox of the first part, S. Ingram of the second, Wale of the third, and C. Sutton of the fourth (reciting a mortgage in 1872 made between Wale of the first part, S. Ingram of the second, and Fox of the third, whereby in consideration of 350*l.* paid by S. Ingram to Wale, Wale, at Ingram's request, granted, released, and conveyed certain premises to Fox in fee, with a declaration that if Wale should pay to S. Ingram the 350*l.*, with interest, at the time and in the manner mentioned, Fox should, at Wale's request, re-convey the premises to Wale); it was witnessed that—in consideration of 350*l.* paid by C. Sutton to S. Ingram, at Wale's request, in full discharge of all moneys owing upon the recited mortgage, the receipt whereof S. Ingram acknowledged, and therefrom released and discharged C. Sutton, and also in consideration of 120*l.* paid by C. Sutton to Wale at the same time, the receipt of which sums, making together 470*l.*, Wale acknowledged, and therefrom released and discharged C. Sutton—Fox granted, released, and conveyed, and S. Ingram remised and released, and Wale granted, released, conveyed, and confirmed the said premises and all the estate, right, title, &c., of Fox, S. Ingram, and Wale, respectively, to C. Sutton in fee, discharged from the proviso for redemption in the said recited mortgage; provided that if Wale should pay to C. Sutton 470*l.*, with interest, in six months, C. Sutton should, at Wale's request, re-convey the said premises to Wale. The indenture contained a covenant by Wale to pay to C. Sutton 470*l.*, with interest, at the time and in the manner named, and also powers of sale, and covenants for title, quiet enjoyment, and further assurance by Wale, and against incumbrances by Fox and S. Ingram, and followed the form given in Bythewood's Precedents, vol. vi., p. 337 (3rd edition).

The question was to what duty the indenture of 1877 was liable under the schedule to the Stamp Act, 1870.

Wills, Q.C. (S. Dickinson with him), for Wale, appellant, contended that the indenture of 1877 was as to the 350*l.* a "transfer or assignment" of a mortgage, and as such liable to a stamp duty of 2*s.* at the rate of 6*d.* per cent., and as to the 150*l.* fresh advance liable to a stamp duty of 3*s.* 9*d.* as a mortgage or principal security, making 5*s.* 9*d.* in all.

Sir H. Giffard, S.G., Q.C., (Dicey with him), for the commissioners, contended that the indenture was liable to a stamp duty of 12*s.* 6*d.* as a "mortgage" for 470*l.*, and did not come within the words "transfer, assignment, disposition, or assignation of any mortgage, &c." in the schedule to the Stamp Act, 1870.

THE COURT (Kelly, C.B., and Pollock, B.) held that the indenture was as to the 350*l.* a "transfer" of a mortgage within the meaning of the schedule, and that the contention of the appellant was right.

Adm. THE EMPUSA. July 1.

Bottomry—Assignment of Freight—Damages recovered in respect of Loss of Freight—Equitable Claim by Bondholder—Costs.

On the 26th of September last the Empusa came into collision with and sunk the Commerce, and the Commerce and her cargo and freight were totally lost. On the 19th of October the owners of the Empusa having admitted their liability for the collision, brought an action of limitation of liability, praying that their liability in damages in respect of the collision should be limited to 8,805*l.*, together with interest thereon, and after obtaining a decree of limitation of liability, paid into Court such sum of 8,805*l.*, with interest. At the usual reference of all claims to the registrar, the registrar allowed the sum of 2,088*l.* claimed by the owners of the Commerce in respect of the loss of the freight which was in process of being earned by the Commerce at the time of the collision, being the amount of such freight less the expenses of completing the voyage, and disallowed a claim brought in by the Cassa Marittima of Genoa for the sum of 598*l.* 1*s.* 4*d.*, claimed by them as the damages they had sustained by reason of the loss of such portion of the freight of the Commerce as had been pledged to them on the security of the following instrument signed by the master of the Commerce at Philadelphia before the commencement of the voyage on which the collision occurred:—

"Fifteen days after arrival at the port of Antwerp or other intermediate port which shall end the voyage of my vessel, the Commerce, I promise to pay to the order of the Cassa Marittima of Genoa the sum of 598*l.* 1*s.* 4*d.*, received as loan on freight for the last expenses for the undertaking of the voyage from Philadelphia a to Antwerp on the conditions of the regulations of the Cassa Marittima; ship and freight being in accordance with such regulations liable for non-payment with priority over every other credit."

One of the regulations of the Cassa Marittima was in the following terms: "The premium and interest on the sums granted in loan of freight must be always retained on the loan itself, and in case of a total loss, if there be no payment of freight either total or partial, the sums received as loans shall not be paid back except that which has been taken beyond the third part of the freight."

May 21. A special case having been stated as to the claim of the Cassa Marittima, Myburgh, for the Cassa Marittima, moved the Court to declare that the Cassa Marittima were entitled to receive out the fund in Court applicable to the payment of damages for the loss of freight their due proportion of the sum of 598*l.* 1*s.* 4*d.*

E. C. Clarkson, for the owners of the Commerce, contra.

THE COURT granted the motion and ordered that the costs of and incident to the special case should be borne by the owners of the Empusa.

July 1. W. G. F. Phillimore, on behalf of the owners of the Empusa, moved the Court to vary so much of the order drawn up in pursuance of the above-mentioned decision as condemned the owners of the Empusa in the costs of and incident to the special case, on the ground that such costs were extra costs over which the owners of the Empusa had had no control, and which had been merely incurred for the purpose of settling a dispute confined to claimants on the fund in Court.

E. C. Clarkson, for the owners of the Commerce.

Myburgh, for the Cassa Marittima.

THE COURT rescinded so much of its former order as condemned the owners of the Empusa in costs, and ordered that the Cassa Marittima and the owners of the Commerce should each bear their own costs of and incident to the special case.

APPEAL IN AN ACTION OF DECLARATOR.

APPEAL IN A PETITION FOR RECTIFICATION OF REGISTER.

Evidence insufficient for the House to give an Opinion on—Examination of Witnesses necessary.

The appellant, Mr. John Hunter, in February and March, 1877, signed transfers, accepting 3600*l.* of City of Glasgow Bank stock, and now stands on the register and list of contributories. He contends that as he holds merely as trustee for the bank, and accepted that position at the request of the bank manager, Mr. Stronach, who afterwards undertook in June, 1877, but failed, to remove his name from the register, he is entitled either, first, to have it declared by the Court that he is not a partner of the bank, that the entry is erroneous, and that it should be rectified by deleting his name.

Secondly, to have it declared that the bank is the proprietor of the stock, that it was entered in the appellant's name for behoof of the bank, that the bank is bound to relieve him of all liability in respect thereof, and that the respondents are not entitled to make calls upon him until the whole members of the bank, other than the appellant himself, have been fully discussed.

These alternative courses were set forth in the conclusion of a summons raised on the 11th of October, 1878, the commencement of the action of declarator. The former remedy was also sought in the form of a petition for rectification of the register presented on the 15th of October, 1878, under the 35th section of the Companies Act, 1862.

The appellant desired a proof to establish his averments, but the Lord Ordinary (Young) on the 13th of December, 1878, sustained the respondents' plea to relevancy and assoilzied them from the conclusions of the summons.

The reclaiming note against the Lord Ordinary's interlocutor having been brought before the First Division of the Court of Session, it was heard along with the appellant's petition for rectification.

The Court on the 28th of February, 1878, dismissed the action, and refused the petition, sustaining the respondent's contention that the action was irrelevant, and that the appellant is a shareholder and liable in calls.

Two appeals were brought, but were heard together.

Mr. Herschell, Q.C., Mr. Rigby, and Mr. Jameson (of the Scotch Bar), appeared for the appellant.

Mr. Kay, Q.C., Mr. Benjamin, Q.C., Mr. Davey, Q.C., and Mr. Asher (of the Scotch Bar), appeared for the liquidators.

The counsel for the parties consenting,

THE LORDS:—In the action of declarator, varied the interlocutor and affirmed it, but without prejudice to any question on the petition for rectification. In the petition, remitted it back to the Court of Session to admit a proof by both parties, declaring that the House did not think fit to pronounce any judgment on the appeal until such proof and the opinion of the Court of Session thereon had been returned.

sequestrated estates of Peter Lawson & Son, merchants in Edinburgh, and of the individual members of that firm. They claimed to rank as creditors in the sequestration for 65,000*l.* with interest, which sum was obtained by Peter Lawson & Son and others, by fraud. The respondent J. A. Molleson, C.A., was the trustee on the sequestrated estates. The first claim the appellants had had withdrawn. The second claim the trustee rejected, and the appellants appealed to the Court of Sessions, and a record was closed on the 6th of January, 1874, but proof was not led until the 15th of June, 1874. The Court of Session, and eventually the House of Lords, June 20, 1877, affirmed the trustee's decision (Law Rep. 1 App. Cas. 780; Court of Sessions Cases, 4th Series, vol. i. p. 480; Scottish Law Rep. vol. xiv. p. 1). During this time a litigation, raised originally on the 19th of April, 1873, had also been proceeding in the Court of Chancery against the same respondent with certain others for the same sum, and the bill there was thirdly amended on the 3rd of March, 1874. On the 22nd of March, 1876, Vice-Chancellor Malins, inter alia, ordered that the appellants should be at liberty to go in and prove in the sequestration suit in Scotland against the estate of Peter Lawson & Son. And this decree was affirmed on appeal by the Court of Chancery on the 13th of April, 1877 (5 Ch. D. p. 394). The appellants then, founding on that decree and on the grounds on which it had proceeded, lodged the present claim in sequestration. The trustee again rejected it (1) on the grounds that it was res judicata, the present claim being based on the same medium as the claim adjudicated on under the former appeal; (2) that the only matter pleaded upon in the chancery suit in the thirdly amended bill, and not specially pleaded upon in the closed record in the former appeal before the Court of Session and House of Lords, was a fraudulent bribe or payment of 15,000*l.*, which payment and the particulars connected therewith were known to the appellants long prior to the closing of the record in the former appeal; it having been set forth in the answer filed for John Ogle in the Chancery suit on the 22nd of November, 1873.

The appellants maintained that the judgment of the Court of Chancery in England was entitled to receive effect, because it proceeds on matters which were noviter veniens ad notitiam, and were not founded on in the case in the Court of Session; and secondly, because the claim was founded on a different medium concludendi. The Court of Session, sustaining the decision of the trustee, held that they had exclusive jurisdiction, and that a foreign judgment could not receive effect in a Scotch sequestration; and secondly, the present claim was res judicata by the former judgment (Court Sess. Cases, 4th Series, vol. v. p. 1125; Scottish Law Rep. vol. xv. p. 666).

On appeal.

Mr. H. Davey, Q.C., and Mr. Alexander Young, were heard for the appellants.

Mr. Arthur Cohen, Q.C., and Mr. Mackintosh (of the Scotch Bar), were heard for the respondents.

THE LORDS affirmed the interlocutor of the Court below, and dismissed the appeal with costs, holding that the fact relied on as the ground for this third claim was within the knowledge of the appellants by the answer of John Ogle on the 22nd of November, 1873, before the date of the proof being led in the Court of Session (15 June, 1874), and that it was within the power of the appellant to have the record up to the latter date reopened and led under the whole facts which came to their knowledge, the rule of res judicata therefore applied. Remarked by the LORD CHANCELLOR—the case need not be embarrassed with any question as to a foreign judgment; it must be looked at as if a fresh suit de novo had been commenced in Scotland without there being in the meantime any judgment in a Court in England.

Bankruptcy of Trustee—Removal from Trusteeship—Bankruptcy Act, 1869 (32 & 33 Vict. c. 71) s. 117.

Testatrix by her will gave certain messuages to trustees in trust for her daughters during their respective lives, and afterwards for their respective children, and with power to vary securities. The will contained power to appoint new trustees.

In August, 1878, one of the trustees filed a petition for liquidation, and the creditors accepted a composition of 1*s.* 1*d.* in the pound payable in January, 1879. He was requested by the adult beneficiaries to retire, but he refused, whereupon they, and the infant beneficiaries by their next friend, presented a petition for his removal under s. 117 of the Bankruptcy Act, 1869, and for the appointment of a new trustee.

This was an adjourned summons on the application of the official liquidator of the West of England Bank to have the name of Elizabeth Budden or her trustee in bankruptcy, and John Roberts or his trustee in a composition with his creditors added to the list of contributories. E. Budden, who was a shareholder in the bank, had become bankrupt before the winding-up of the bank, and John Roberts, another shareholder, had compounded with his creditors after the winding-up, but before any call was made. Will—Construction—Legacy—Vesting—Gift over in case Legatee should die before Testator, or before "Division" of his Estate.

Peter Collison by his will, dated the 13th of September, 1873, devised all his real estate, and bequeathed the residue of his personal estate to trustees upon trust with all convenient speed after his death to sell and convert the same into money, and to stand possessed of the proceeds on trust to pay his debts, and funeral and testamentary expenses, and, subject thereto and to the payment of an annuity, on trust to divide the proceeds of sale equally between two nephews and four nieces of the testator named in the will. He directed that the shares of his nephews should be paid to them as soon after his death as practicable. The shares of the nieces were to be invested by the trustees, and the income paid to them for their separate use. If any or either of his nieces should die before him, or before the division of his estate as before directed, unmarried, the share of any niece so dying was to be divided among the remaining legatees. The testator appointed the trustees executors of his will. He died on the 8th of December, 1875. The nephews and nieces all survived the testator. One of the nieces died on the 17th of April, 1876, without having been married. The testator's real estate was sold by the trustees in February, 1876, and the purchase-money was received on the 8th of April, 1876. The debts were not all paid till September, 1876. The trustees did not make any payment to the legatees until October, 1876. This action was brought by one of the nephews against the trustees to administer the estate.

The question was, whether the share of the niece who had died had gone over to the other nephews and nieces.

Higgins, Q.C., and Cottrell, for the administrator of the deceased niece.

Bardswell, and R. Swan, for other parties in the same interest as the plaintiff.

FRY, J., held that the "division" of the testator's estate meant the expiration of the period of twelve months allowed by law for the distribution of the estate, and that consequently the gift over of the share of the deceased niece had taken effect.

In a creditor's action for administration a decree had been made against the sole proving executrix as defendant, and a summons taken out for a receiver, but pending the summons the sole defendant died.

Since the death of the executrix, certain creditors and other persons had removed some lace machines and other effects forming part of the estate.

A creditor had applied for administration de bonis non, but some time would elapse before such grant could be made.

Russell Roberts, for the plaintiff, applied ex parte for an injunction to restrain the creditors and others from removing the machinery and for an interim receiver.

FRY, J., made an order appointing a receiver whose powers should extend for ten days after the appointment of an administrator de bonis non to the estate, the plaintiff undertaking to use all possible speed in obtaining the appointment of himself or some other person administrator de bonis non, and to accept short notice of motion to discharge the receiver.

Practice—Taking Accounts—Court Fees.

This was an adjourned summons taken out by the plaintiff asking that the certificate of the chief clerk might be completed on payment of a Court fee of 354*l.* 1*s.* only in lieu of a Court fee or percentage of 698*l.* 6*s.*, or that the certificate and the accounts therein referred to might be remodelled so as to certify the accounts in such a form as that the smaller Court fee of 354*l.* 1*s.* only might be chargeable. Under the old practice of the Court of Chancery the Court fee on the certificate would have been 1*l.*, but under the Judicature Rules a Court fee of 6*d.* for every 50*l.* certified to have been received by executors, trustees and others is payable.

In this case the decree, made before the Judicature Act was passed, directed an account to be taken of the receipts of the executors of the testator in the cause, and another account of the receipts of the trustees of the testator's will, there being three trustees, two only of whom had proved the will. The executors and trustees had in fact kept a common account without distinguishing their individual receipts, and the accounts were in the first instance brought in in this way, but the chief clerk directed the accounts to be separated, and separate accounts of the executors and of the trustees were accordingly brought in, the various receipts being treated as receipts by the executors, and their accounts were to a great extent balanced by the money received by them being handed over to the trustees. And in this way the same sums (amounting in all to about 290,800*l.*) were to be found as receipts in both the accounts of the executors and the accounts of the trustees. Under these circumstances the officers of the Court claimed to be paid a double percentage on the same sums: first, as being receipts by the executors, and secondly, as receipts by the trustees. It also appeared that the trustees had at various times placed sums amounting to 101,000*l.* on deposit at their bankers, and had subsequently withdrawn these sums. In taking the accounts, these withdrawals had been treated as receipts by the trustees and a percentage charged by the officers of the Court. The trustees had also occasionally overdrawn their bankers' account, and these overdrawings had in like manner been treated as receipts by the trustees and percentage charged.

Kekewick, Q.C., and Method, in support of the summons.

Rigby, for the official solicitor.

FRY, J., held that under the order as to Court fees the percentage was clearly payable on the gross receipts by both the executors and trustees, and he refused leave to remodel the accounts or certificate in any way.

In re ARMSTRONG.

Bankruptcy—Liquidation—Effect of Release of Trustee—Bankruptcy Act, 1869, s. 125, sub-ss. 5, 9.

Appeal from the County Court at Chesterfield.

A testator died on the 4th of January, 1868, having bequeathed to the debtor, Benjamin Armstrong, one moiety of his residuary estate. The liquidation petition was filed on the 27th of January, 1871; and on the 21st of February, William Fisher Tasker was appointed trustee. On the 27th of August, 1872, the trustee's accounts were audited and confirmed, the close of the liquidation was fixed on the 17th of September, 1872, and the trustee was released on and from that date. On the 29th of April, 1878, a resolution was passed granting the debtor his discharge.

A dividend of 11*d.* in the pound had been declared and distributed, but no mention throughout the proceedings was made of the debtor's interest under the will, of which the trustee was not aware. This interest was not yet realized, but was estimated to amount to about 225*l.*

Upon an application to the county court for an order declaring that the above moiety formed part of the property of the debtor divisible amongst his creditors, and that the executor of the will might be directed to pay the same, after deducting costs, charges, and expenses, to Tasker, or to the registrar of the Court, for distribution among the creditors, the learned judge refused the application with costs, on the ground that there was no provision in the Bankruptcy Act, 1869, enabling either the trustee or the registrar to obtain possession of the money.

Winslow, Q.C., and Robson, for the appellant, one of the creditors:—In bankruptcy, when a trustee is released, the registrar becomes trustee, r. 124. There is no such regulation in the case of a liquidation by arrangement. The operation of s. 53 and of r. 124, is excluded by s. 125, sub-s. 9, of the statute, and there is no corresponding rule relating to compositions: rr. 252 et seqq. The release of a liquidation trustee, therefore, does not hinder him from discharging his duty by distributing among the creditors property, hitherto undisclosed, vested in him, it merely releases him from liability as to past transactions.

W. Phipson Beale, for the executor.

Whinney, for the trustee, submitted to act.

THE CHIEF JUDGE said it seemed at first sight as if there had been a casus omissus in the statute. That, however, was not the case. By sub-s. 5 of s. 125 of the Act, all the property of the debtor vested in the trustee from and after the date of his appointment, and there was nothing to say that the release of the trustee divested it.

The order of the county court was clearly erroneous; and the appeal must be allowed.

OVERSEERS, &c., OF WALSALL v. LONDON AND NORTH-WESTERN RAILWAY COMPANY.

Local Rating.

Appeal against a decision of the Court of Appeal (4 Q. B. D. 141), which had affirmed a decision of the Queen's Bench, by which a borough rate imposed by the overseers and town council of Walsall upon the railway company for defraying certain sanitary expenses had been ordered to be amended. The question depended on the construction of the words of sections in the Public Health Act and in local Acts, and was in substance whether the rate was to be deemed a district rate or a borough rate, and consequently whether it should have been assessed at more than one-fourth of the rateable value of the line locally within the limits of the district. The case had formerly been before the House on the question whether a decision of the Queen's Bench on a rating case was subject to appeal to this House (4 App. Cas. 30). In the present instance the Court had held that the district rate was alone applicable.

THEIR LORDSHIPS (and their Nautical Assessors) agreed with the Admiralty Court that the Princess Alice was in fault, and that the Bywell Castle was not in fault except at the last, when she ported her helm, which their Lordships thought was wrong. But this was done too late to have had any effect, and even if it had had any effect, a vessel which by a wrong manœuvre places another in a position of extreme difficulty cannot complain if those on board the other do not act with perfect judgment and presence of mind. The Princess Alice was solely to blame, and her owners must pay for the damage.

Married Woman—Separate Estate—Debt contracted during Coverture—Liability to Bankrupt Law—Debtor's Summons—Bankruptcy Act, 1869, ss. 6, 7.

A debtor's summons was issued by F. Jones against Mrs Grissell, a married woman, entitled to separate estate, in respect of a cheque for 500*l.*, which she had drawn in his favour on her bankers, but had, before it was presented to the bankers, directed them not to pay. She applied to the Court to dismiss the summons on the ground that she was married, and therefore not liable to the bankrupt law. Mr. Registrar Brougham, acting as Chief Judge, dismissed the summons. Jones appealed.

Winslow, Q.C., and Crispe, for the appellant, contended that the case was distinguishable from Ex parte Holland (Law Rep. 9 Ch. 307), because the married woman was entitled to separate estate, which could be made available in equity to satisfy her engagements.

De Gex, Q.C., and Beale, for Mrs. Grissell, were not heard.

THE COURT (James, Brett, and Cotton, L.JJ.) affirmed the decision, on the ground that it is only a debtor who can be made a bankrupt, and that a married woman, who contracts engagements, to satisfy which her separate estate can be made liable, cannot be sued personally, and is not a debtor in respect of those engagements. Therefore, she cannot be made a bankrupt, and a debtor's summons cannot be issued against her.

Proof in Bankruptcy—Mutual Credits—Equitable Set-off—Bankruptcy Act, 1869, s. 39.

At the time of the stoppage of Willis, Percival, & Co, bankers, on the 1st of March, 1878, there was standing to the credit of the joint account of R. Morier and his sister, as executors of the will of their father, who died in July, 1877, a sum of 1404*l.* 5*s.* 6*d.* At the same time the son's own account with the bankers was overdrawn to the extent of 1206*l.* 2*s.* 3*d.* The son was sole residuary legatee under the father's will. Securities had been set apart to answer the legacies and annuities bequeathed by the will, and when the stoppage took place all the father's debts and funeral and testamentary expenses had been paid, except 10*l.* for taxes, in respect of his house up to Lady Day, 1878, and 50*l.* costs due to the solicitors of the executors in relation to the estate. The son claimed to set off the balance due to the bankers from his own account against the balance due from them on the executors' account, and to prove in the liquidation of the bankers for the difference of 198*l.* 3*s.* 3*d.*, on the ground that he was in equity the owner of the balance standing to the credit of the executors' account. Mr. Registrar Pepys, as Chief Judge, held that the set-off could not be allowed, but that the son must pay to the trustee the 1206*l.* 2*s.* 3*d.*, and that the executors must prove in the liquidation for the 1404*l.* 5*s.* 6. The son appealed.

De Gex, Q.C., and Finlay Knight, for the appellant.

Winslow, Q.C., and Romer, for the trustee, were not heard.

THE COURT (James, Brett, and Cotton, L.JJ.) affirmed the decision, on the ground that the rule of equitable set-off or mutual credit could not apply unless the son was so much the person solely beneficially interested in the balance standing to the credit of the joint account, that a Court of Equity, without any terms, or any further inquiry, would have compelled the daughter to transfer that balance into the son's name alone. They could not have been done so long as there were any debts existing for which the son and daughter were jointly liable, and entitled to be indemnified out of the balance standing to the credit of the joint account. The appeal was dismissed with costs.

V.-C. H. DUPUY v. DILKES. July 14.

"The Young Cricketer" — Oleographs, Permission to copy for Almanac Centres—Sale and Registration of Picture—Infringement of Copyright—Statement of Claim, Refusal of Leave to amend.

The statement of claim, as amended, set forth that prior to and until the 10th of November, 1875, Harwitz & Sonn were the proprietors of an original oil painting, "The Young Cricketer," and of the copyright therein. Harwitz & Sonn, on the 10th of November, 1875, assigned such copyright to B. Brooks, and on the 27th of October, 1877, Brooks assigned it to the plaintiffs, who carried on business in Paris and in London. A memorandum of each assignment was duly registered under the Copyright Acts. Since the 13th of November, 1877, the defendant, who carried on business at Nottingham, had, as alleged, without the consent of the plaintiffs, multiplied for sale, hire, exhibition, or distribution, the said oil painting in such a manner as to infringe the plaintiffs' copyright therein, and the plaintiffs claimed to have an injunction to restrain the defendant, without their consent, from repeating, copying, colourably imitating, or otherwise multiplying, for sale, hire, exhibition, or distribution, the said oil painting; also to have the sum of 10*l.* for every such offence, to be paid by the defendant to the plaintiffs; the forfeiture and delivery to the plaintiffs of all such repetitions, copies, imitations, and other multiplications made without such consent, and all negatives of photographs made for the purpose of obtaining such copies; and damages to be paid to the plaintiffs in addition to the remedies mentioned; also inspection of all such repetitions, &c., and destruction of all plates, stones, and blocks used by the defendant for such repetitions, &c., and other relief.

The defence was that Dilkes was a printer and publisher of ornamental almanacs and was in the habit of dealing with and purchasing pictures and prints from Harwitz & Sonn, and they, while "The Young Cricketer" belonged to them, had prints executed in oleograph which were published and sold by them. In the beginning of 1876 the defendant purchased from them one of the oleographs as a subject for an almanac centre, and was told that he would be at liberty to use it for that purpose. The defendant adapted the design for an almanac, of which he printed a number of copies. As the design did not sell well the defendant had many copies left on hand. In 1877 the defendant obtained from Brooks his sanction to sell those copies. No more copies were ever printed, and the stones from which those in stock had been printed were destroyed before October, 1877. One day in November, 1877, a person supposed to be a traveller of the plaintiffs' called at the defendant's shop at Nottingham and asked if they had any old almanacs on hand, and he, after seeing the pattern book, selected the almanac with "The Young Cricketer," and purchased one hundred copies. The plaintiffs shortly afterwards issued the writ in this action for the purposes above set forth.

The parties were examined in Court.

Dickinson, Q.C., and E. Cutler, for the plaintiffs.

Hastings, Q.C., Dauney, and Bowen May, for the defendant.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said that the plaintiffs complained that since the 13th of November, 1877, the defendant multiplied for sale, &c., "the said oil painting," but how that date got into the pleadings nobody could explain. The evidence shewed that the registration by the plaintiffs was on the 14th of February, 1878, and that there was no multiplication since that date. It was said that the defendant unlawfully multiplied as against the proprietor for the time being, and that the plaintiffs had in respect thereof a right to come to the Court for relief, but upon the true construction of the statute the person to complain was the proprietor when the "repeating" was done. The case presented to the Court did not refer in terms to any former piracy, but to the illegal acts done against the plaintiffs. The statement of claim did not shew when the registration by the plaintiffs was effected, and a statement of the acts done after a given date did not prove anything. Every one of the "repeatings" was before the time when the plaintiffs had a right to sue. Therefore, looking at the statement of claim and considering the evidence, and that this was an action for penalties and damages, the action must be dismissed with costs, and he would not give leave to amend, seeing that the main object of the action was to recover the penalties.

Farm, Tenancy in Common of—Farming Business, Partnership in—Sale of Share in Farm, &c., to Tenants in Common—Omission in Conveyance.

Three brothers, B., W., and R., were tenants in common of a farm in Wales, and in the view of the Court the evidence, viva voce, shewed that they carried on the business of farmers in partnership. R. died, having devised his one-third share in the farm to his nephew I. The farming business was carried on for some time by B., W., and I. I. being desirous of selling his share of the farm it was arranged that B. and W. should purchase it. The whole of the purchase-money was borrowed, no part of it being paid out of the partnership funds of B. and W. The interest on the mortgage-money was paid out of the earnings of the farming business. In the conveyance of I.'s share to B. and W. the words "as tenants in common" were omitted, but W. deposed that he and B. purchased the share together, just as they bought cattle and other stock for the farming business, and I. deposed that when his share was sold there was a valuation and ascertainment of the stock and liabilities of the business; that they were found to balance one another, and that B. and W. bought his share of the stock and took upon themselves the whole of the business liabilities.

B. died, devising the whole of his property to a trustee for the benefit of his widow.

W. and the trustee subsequently negotiated the sale of the whole of the property to a purchaser, and it was then discovered that the words "as tenants in common" were omitted, and W. claimed the third share which was purchased from I. as surviving joint tenant. The purchase-money was paid into Court, and this was an action by W. for a declaration that it belonged to him.

Robinson, Q.C., and W. Barber, for the plaintiffs.

Hastings, Q.C., and Rodwell, for the defendants, the trustee, and the widow, and W. Stallard for the defendant, the purchaser.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that the one-third share of the farm was a partnership asset, and did not upon the death of B. become the property of W. as surviving joint tenant under the conveyance made of it to B. and W: the transaction being, substantially one of a purchase of a share of mixed property, i.e., the farm and stock, a going business at the time. It was unnecessary for his Lordship to determine whether or not the plaintiff's case could be sustained in reference to the alleged error in the conveyance, or whether or not that was open to the defendants, there not being a counterclaim for rectification, regard being had that the farm had been sold by arrangement, and the conveyance of the nephew's share parted with. He did not mean to decide that the Court might not determine adversely to the plaintiff in reference to that point, and even, if necessary, give the defendants leave to amend the statement of defence, which perhaps might be sufficiently done under the circumstances without a counterclaim. There would be a declaration that the fund was divisible in moieties between the plaintiff and the defendant, the widow.

for his granddaughter Annie during her life for her separate use, and after her death for her children, and in case she had no children (which happened) for the testator's son James (Annie's father) for life, and after his death for all and every the child and children of James living at his decease, who being sons should attain twenty-one or die leaving issue, or being daughters should attain twenty-one or marry, and in case there should be no such other child of James living at his death, then after his death and such default or failure of such other child or children, "unto such person or persons other than the said Annie, and any child, children, or remoter issue by her as under the Statutes of Distribution of the estates of intestates would have become entitled thereto at my decease if I had died possessed thereof intestate and unmarried, such persons if more than one to take in the proportions prescribed by those statutes."

James was the only son of the testator, and Annie was his only granddaughter, and the question now argued was as to the meaning of the word "unmarried."

Osborne Morgan, Q.C., and Stallard, for the petitioners, who were the respective legal personal representatives of James and Annie:—"Unmarried" must not in this will be construed as meaning "without ever having been married," but as meaning "wifeless."

Graham Hastings, Q.C., and E. S. Ford, for persons claiming through the brothers and sisters of the testator:—"Unmarried" must here be construed in its primary sense, i.e., "without ever having been married." It could not have been the testator's intention to exclude a wife, because he was already a widower, and a subsequent marriage would revoke the will.

E. Ford, for the trustee.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held, by expressly excluding Annie under the words "other than the said Annie," the testator shewed that he considered she would not have been excluded by the word "unmarried." The testator had, therefore, himself interpreted that word as meaning "without leaving a wife." The petitioners therefore were entitled.

COLVILLE'S CASE.

Surrender of Shares—Winding-up—Contributory.

By the articles of association of a bank established under the Act of 1862, the directors were empowered to accept a surrender of shares on such terms as they might think fit. Mr. Colville, a holder of 160 20*l.* shares, in July 1878, surrendered his shares to the company, receiving 300*l.* as consideration. In December, 1878, the company was wound up, and the liquidator applied to have Mr. Colville's name placed on the list of contributories.

Higgins, Q.C., and Whitehorne, for the liquidator, contended that this was a purchase of shares, which since the Act of 1867 could not be done.

Bristowe, Q.C., and G. Walker, for Mr. Colville.

HIS LORDSHIP said that the directors had under the articles power to accept a surrender under any terms, and that must include power to receive money for the surrender. This power was not taken away by the Act of 1867, and there was no imputation of the transaction not having been bonâ fide. The application must be dismissed.

DICKSON'S CASE.

Company—Winding-up—Contributory—Rehearing—Time—Companies Act, 1862, s. 124.

An order to wind up this company was made in August, 1874. On the 19th of March, 1877, Vice-Chancellor Malins in chambers, after hearing Major Dickson's solicitor, made an order directing the chief clerk to settle Major Dickson's name on the list of contributories for fifty shares. No call was made until April, 1879, when a call of 9*l.* per share was made. Major Dickson then took out a summons to remove his name from the list. The hearing was adjourned into Court.

Buckley, for the summons.

J. Pearson, Q.C., and Crossley, for the liquidator, objected that the application was made too late.

FRY, J., held that the objection must prevail. By analogy to s. 124, and on the authority of Ex parte Brown (Law Rep. 9 Ch. 304) and Dickson v. Harrison (9 Ch. D. 243), the limit of twenty-one days, fixed by s. 124, for bringing an appeal, ought to apply to an application for a rehearing after a judicial decision, and there was no ground in the present case for extending the time. The summons was therefore dismissed with costs.

FRY, J., held that the objection must prevail. A person not a party to the action could not apply for payment out of funds in the receiver's hands. Neate v. Pink depended on very special circumstances. There the receiver had obtained possession of funds not within the order appointing him. The summons was dismissed with costs.

Lord Provost, Magistrates, and Town Council of Edinburgh, Apps.; Lord Advocate (ex parte as to M'Laren), Respt.

Immixing of Charity Funds—Increased Value of Joint Estate—Proportionate Division of Profits.

The Lord Provost, Magistrates, and Town Council of Edinburgh were the administrators of Trinity Hospital, Edinburgh, and as such held considerable funds before the year 1696. In that year a Mr. Alexander died having previously made a mortification of certain funds to the Lord Provost and Town Council of Edinburgh and their successors in office, and the ministers of the said borough present and to come. The appellants got possession by usurpation of the funds and administered them as if they had been mortified to them as administrators of the funds of Trinity Hospital. The ministers took no steps to join in the administration. The hospital, in a suit for the proper administration of its funds, has been frequently the subject of judicial proceedings (4 Macq. 603; Law Rep. 1 H. L., Sc. 427); and the Court of Session had to decide a great many questions.

This appeal is brought against parts of two interlocutors, dated the 20th of July, 1875, and 19th of March, 1878, which substantially found (1) that from 1700 to 1873 the funds of the Alexander mortification had been so immixed with the funds and property of Trinity Hospital that they must be taken to have participated proportionally with these funds and property in the increase of value of the aggregate funds and property between these years; and (2) that the administration of the Alexander mortification ought not to be exclusively in the hands of the appellants, but should be divided between them and the ministers of the City of Edinburgh present and to come.

On appeal,

Mr. E. E. Kay, Q.C., and Mr. M'Laren (of the Scotch Bar), were heard for the appellants.

Kendall and Others v. Hamilton. July 28.

Partnership—Action against One Partner.

Appeal against the judgment of the Court of Appeal which had reversed a judgment of Mr. Baron Huddleston on a case tried before him (without a jury) at Guildhall.

The plaintiffs were merchants in London and trading to America. They had had some money dealings with a partnership called Wilson, McLey, & Co., of Glasgow and London, who were large exporters of iron to North America. The plaintiffs were under arrangements to accept such bills as should be drawn upon them by Wilson, McLey, & Co., against shipments of iron, the latter company undertaking to provide for the bills so as to secure the plaintiffs against cash advances. Under this arrangement, however, the plaintiffs became creditors of Wilson, McLey, & Co. to a large amount. Mr. Hamilton was a merchant in London, and in fact, though not a general partner in the firm of Wilson, McLey, & Co., was connected with them in these iron speculations. The plaintiffs did not know of the existence of this business connection. It began in 1871, being founded on a letter of Wilson & Co. to Hamilton, which said that all purchases of old iron in India, &c., from that date "shall be to the joint account of you and us, and the profit and loss shall be shared equally between us." There were afterwards special modifications made in this arrangement, but the substance remained the same. The plaintiffs having been compelled on several occasions to meet the bills drawn on them by Wilson & Co. brought actions against that firm, and in August, 1874, moved judgment in those actions. In April, 1875, Wilson & Co., became bankrupts under the Scotch law of bankruptcy; trustees were appointed in the usual form, and Kendall & Co. sent in their claim for the whole amount due. It appeared that the bankrupts had become acquainted in the month of April, 1874, with the fact that the defendant Hamilton had been interested with Wilson & Co. in these iron speculations. In June, 1877, they brought an action against him to recover the unsatisfied amounts which they had been obliged to pay for Wilson & Co. The defence was that their arrangement had been with Wilson & Co. and not with him; that they had recovered judgments against those persons; that they had claimed as creditors under the bankruptcy, or "sequestration," of Wilson & Co., and had received dividends, and that the judgments against Wilson & Co. constituted a legal bar to the right of the plaintiffs to proceed in this action against Hamilton. The judgment of Mr. Baron Huddleston was in favour of the plaintiffs: that judgment was reversed by the Court of Appeal (3 C. P. D. 403). This appeal was then brought.

Mr. Kay, Q.C., Mr. Watkin Williams, Q.C., and Mr. Bowen, were for the appellants.

Mr. Benjamin, Q.C., and Mr. Rigby, for the respondent.

The Lords were of opinion that the judgment of the Appeal Court must be affirmed and the appeal dismissed with costs.

Copyright—Music.

Appeal against a decision of the Court of Appeal, which had reversed a previous decision of Vice-Chancellor Bacon.

The respondents were musical publishers in Regent Street, and the appellant was the lessee and manager of the St. James's Theatre. They had brought an action against him for infringing their copyright in an opera called Vert-Vert, by Offenbach. They alleged that the music of that opera was composed by Offenbach, of Paris, from whom they had received an assignment of it, and that they had duly registered such assignment. There was also an arrangement of part of the music of the opera for piano and voice, executed by M. Soumis, of Paris. The appellant denied that he had been guilty of any infringement of copyright, and he also denied that the registration had been duly made by the respondents, no printed copy of the opera having been delivered at Stationers' Hall. It appeared that the score of the opera itself had not then been printed. The arrangement by Soumis had alone been printed. The Vice-Chancellor had thought that the defence of the appellant was sustained and had dismissed the action. The Court of Appeal reversed that decision (7 Ch. Div. 301).

Mr. Benjamin, Q.C., Mr. Romer, and Mr. Robert Williams, for the appellant.

Mr. Kay, Q.C., Mr. Philbrick, Q.C., and Mr. T. A. Roberts, for the respondents.

The Lords thought the decision of the Court of Appeal was correct, and so affirmed it and dismissed the appeal with costs.

Appeal against a decision of the Court of Appeal which had reversed a decision of Vice-Chancellor Hall. The appellants had used different labels for different sorts of cotton goods, as trade-marks, and complained that the respondent had, unlawfully, invaded their trade-marks. The Manchester Committee of Experts appointed under the Trade-marks Registration Act of 1875, had put four of these labels into the second class as not being trade-marks as defined by the Act. The appellants had carried the case into Chancery, and Vice-Chancellor Hall, being of opinion that the Committee of Experts had been in error, had, under the special circumstances of the case, ordered that the labels in question should be registered as trade-marks. The Court of Appeal had reversed the Vice-Chancellor's decision treating that of the Committee as final (8 Ch. D. 794). This appeal was then brought.

Mr. Dickinson, Q.C., Mr. Davey, Q.C., and Mr. H. A. Giffard, for the appellants.

The Solicitor-General (Sir H. S. Giffard), and Mr. Rigby, for the respondents.

The Lords reversed the order of the Court of Appeal; did not restore that of the Vice-Chancellor, but remitted the cause with declaration.

C. Boynton v. G. H. Boynton. July 28.

Costs of Revived Suit.

This was an appeal against a decision of the Court of Appeal, which had reversed a previous decision of Vice-Chancellor Hall. The appellant and respondent were brothers, and the question between them was whether a certain deed executed by their mother, the late Lady Boynton, in favour of G. H. Boynton, had not been executed under undue influence exercised over her by him. Vice-Chancellor Hall came to the conclusion that it had, and ordered it to be delivered up. The Lords Justices took a different view and established the deed, and ordered C. Boynton to pay the costs. The action to set aside the deed was first instituted by Lady Boynton; she died after the first judgment had been delivered, and the action was continued by her son and executor, C. Boynton.

Mr. W. Pearson, Q.C., and Mr. Everitt, were for the appellant.

Mr. Kay, Q.C., and Mr. F. W. Maclean, were for the respondent.

There was also a question about the costs, the important point involved in which was whether a personal representative of a deceased suitor, continuing a suit, as C. Boynton had done, became thereby personally liable in the first instance to pay costs to the opposite party, taking his chance of re-imbursement from the assets of the deceased suitor. The Court of Appeal had held him to be so liable (9 Ch. Div. 250).

THE LORDS, upon both the points, affirmed the decision of the Court of Appeal, and dismissed the appeal with costs.

Petition for Adjudication—Collateral Object—Abuse of Process of Court—Bankruptcy Act, 1869, s. 8.

This was an appeal from the refusal of Mr. Registrar Hazlitt, acting as Chief Judge, to make an adjudication of bankruptcy against Adams on a petition presented by Griffin. Griffin had bought up a judgment debt which had been recovered against Adams by a person named Edenborough. The registrar came to the conclusion, on the evidence, that Griffin had bought the debt and instituted the bankruptcy proceedings solely for the purpose of putting pressure upon Adams with reference to an estate on which he claimed to have a mortgage, and of inducing him to abandon an application which he had made to strike Griffin's father-in-law, who was a solicitor, off the rolls. On this ground the registrar dismissed the petition. Griffin appealed.

Sir H. Jackson, Q.C., and Finlay Knight, for the appellant.

Robinson, Q.C., and Pollard, for Adams, were not heard.

THE COURT (James, Brett, and Cotton, L.JJ.) said that there had been a gross abuse of the process of the Court, and they dismissed the appeal with costs.

This was an appeal from a decision of the Chief Judge, which is noted ante, p. 76.

The question was whether bills of exchange which had been indorsed to bankers by a customer, and which they held "pending discount," were securities which they were bound to value in proving in the liquidation of the customer for the balance due to them by him. The Chief Judge held that the bills were not securities which ought to be valued. The trustee in the liquidation appealed.

Ex parte JEGON.

Company—Guarantee of Dividend by a Third Party—Return of Capital—Companies Act, 1862, s. 12.

This was an appeal from a decision of Vice-Chancellor Hall, made in the winding-up of the above-mentioned company.

The company was formed in 1873 for working a colliery at Llanharran, in Glamorganshire. The articles of association adopted an agreement made between Mr. Trew Jegon, the owner of the colliery, for the sale of his interest to the company for 35,000*l.*, of which 10,000*l.* was to be paid in cash, and the remainder in paid-up shares of the company. The agreement also provided that Mr. Jegon should pay to the company during two years from the date of its incorporation such a sum as, together with the net profits of the company, should be equal to interest at 5 per cent. on the capital for the time being paid up.

The profits of the colliery not being sufficient for payment of 5 per cent., Mr. Jegon paid various sums in 1874 and 1875 to make up that amount. On the 2nd of August, 1876, a resolution was passed for the winding-up of the company. After the commencement of the winding-up Mr. Jegon paid a further sum of 851*l.* to the shareholders to make up the half-year's dividend which became due in December, 1875, to 5 per cent.

The Vice-Chancellor held that this sum ought to have been paid to the liquidator as assets of the company and not to the shareholders; and ordered Mr. Jegon to pay 851*l.* into Court to the credit of the liquidator.

Mr. Jegon appealed from this decision.

J. Pearson, Q.C., and Whitehorne, for the appellant.

Higgins, Q.C., and H. A. Giffard, for the liquidator.

JAMES, L.J., said that there was no fraudulent device or contrivance in this case, therefore the only question was what was the meaning of the contract. He was of opinion that it was not intended that the money which Mr. Jegon was to pay was intended to be part of the assets of the company; it was intended to put the shareholders in the same position as if the company had made profits applicable to the payment of a dividend of 5 per cent. The payment to the shareholders was a perfectly good payment, and Mr. Jegon could not be ordered to pay the money over again to the liquidator. The decision of the Vice-Chancellor must therefore be reversed.

NEWINGTON LOCAL BOARD v. ELDRIDGE.

Local Board—Clerk and Solicitor—Solicitor's Lien.

The plaintiffs, a local board, issued a writ claiming a mandamus commanding the defendant, who was their clerk, to deliver up all papers and documents in his possession belonging to the board. The defendant was a solicitor, and was appointed clerk to the board with a salary, and part of his duty was to transact the legal business of the board, the salary not to include "outpayments or expenses of journeys." The defendant's salary was afterwards increased "for his ordinary duties (that is not including actions, arbitrations, parliamentary proceedings, and journeys out of town)."

The defendant had been employed by the board in transacting various legal proceedings for which he had received his taxed costs, and he had recently been employed to conduct proceedings in Chancery in which there was a pending appeal. For these last proceedings he had not been paid his costs, and he had been discharged from the office of clerk to the board. He now claimed a solicitor's lien upon the legal documents in his possession.

Bacon, V.-C., held that the original contract under which the defendant had been engaged as clerk and to transact legal business had never been departed from, although he had been paid various extra sums for transacting legal business; that the relation between the plaintiffs and defendant was that of master and servant and not solicitor and client, and the defendant had no right to retain the papers which were the property of the board. He was therefore ordered to produce to the present solicitor of the board all papers and documents in his possession, including those relating to the action about to be appealed.

From this order the defendant appealed.

Hemming, Q.C., and Hatfield Green, for the appellant.

Sir H. Jackson, Q.C., and Crossley, for the plaintiffs.

THE COURT (James, Brett, and Cotton, L.JJ) held that the question of the lien which the defendant claimed ought not to be decided on an interlocutory application like the present; and made an order that the plaintiffs should pay 1000*l.* into Court, and that the defendant should have the same lien (if any) on that sum as he would have had on the papers; and that on that being done the defendant should deliver up to the plaintiffs all the papers and other documents which the Vice-Chancellor had ordered him merely to produce. The plaintiffs to pay the costs of the appeal and the costs of both parties before the Vice-Chancellor and the costs in the action.

Stallard, for the petitioner.

Romer, for the person with whom Miss Bligh was residing, objected that the inquiry was unnecessary, because in a suit in the Chancery Division in which Miss Bligh was plaintiff by her next friend two persons had been appointed her guardians, and an order had been made for her maintenance. This had been done under the authority of Vane v. Vane (2 Ch. D. 124).

JAMES, L.J., said that he thought there must be some mistake in the case cited. A judge of the Chancery Division had no power to appoint a guardian to a person of unsound mind. The Court was in the habit of making orders for the payment of the income of a person of unsound mind for his maintenance, but that was only by way of administering a trust. It could not appoint a guardian of his person. In the present case the usual inquiry ought to be directed.

BRETT and COTTON, L.JJ., concurred.

Executor—Right of Retainer.

This was an appeal from a decision of Vice-Chancellor Hall (10 Ch. D. 727).

In an action for the administration of the estate of testator, it appeared that part of the testator's assets consisted of a policy of insurance on his life, which was subject to an equitable mortgage. Upon an application in chambers by the plaintiffs in the action, at which the executor, who was a defendant, was present, the insurance company was ordered to pay off the equitable incumbrancer and to pay the balance of the policy money into Court. This was done, and the executor, who was a creditor of the testator, claimed to retain his own debt out of the fund so brought into Court in priority to the other debts. The Vice-Chancellor held that the executor had no right of retainer on the fund, as the fund had not come into his hands. The executor appealed from this decision.

W. Pearson, Q.C., and Macnaghten, for the appellant.

Graham Hastings, Q.C., and Phear, for the plaintiffs.

THE COURT (James, Brett, and Cotton, L.JJ.) held that what had taken place amounted to a recovery of the insurance money by the executor, and payment by him into Court, and that he was entitled to have his right of retainer on the fund in Court. The decision of the Vice-Chancellor was therefore reversed.

Companies Act, 1867, s. 25—Payment in Cash—Allotment of Shares in Payment of Work done.

This was an appeal from a decision of Vice-Chancellor Hall, made in the winding-up of the above mentioned company (10 Ch. D. 720).

The company, which was incorporated in 1875, entered into an agreement with Mr. White, a newspaper proprietor, that he should insert in his paper a series of advertisements for three months "if he was willing to accept payment of his account in paid-up shares." He inserted the advertisements and sent in his account to the company, who allotted him paid-up shares to the amount, and Mr. White receipted the account as "paid in scrip." The agreement with Mr. White was not filed with the Registrar of Joint Stock Companies.

The company was afterwards wound up voluntarily, and the liquidator placed Mr. White on the list of contributories for these share, as unpaid shares, on the ground that he had not paid for them in cash in accordance with the Companies Act, 1867, s. 25; but the Vice-Chancellor held that they were to be considered as fully paid-up shares. The liquidator appealed from this decision.

Graham Hastings, Q.C., and J. Cutler, for the appellant.

Eddis, Q.C., and C. Willis, for Mr. White, relied upon Spargo's Case (Law Rep. 8 Ch. 407).

Digitized by Google

James, L.J., said that the only question was what was the true construction of the agreement between the company and Mr. White. In his opinion it meant that Mr. White might insert the advertisements, but he must not look to the company for payment in cash, for the company would not pay in cash but in shares. Therefore there never was any money demand against the company, but only a claim for breach of contract if they did not allot the shares. Consequently it was within the meaning of the 25th section of the Companies Act, 1867, and did not come within Spargo's Case, which only decided that when the company was liable to pay cash it was not necessary that notes or money should actually pass and re-pass. Mr. White must, therefore, be put on the list of contributories for those shares as unpaid shares.

An agreement provided that, in case of any dispute on the subject of the agreement, the parties thereto should submit the same for reference to an arbitrator, whose finding and award should be final and binding on all parties, and that the same should have the effect of a rule of Court and should be a complete bar to all further proceedings.

The arbitrator had made his award.

Herbert Lake, for one of the parties to the agreement, now moved (under s. 17 of the Common Law Procedure Act, 1854) that the award might be made a rule of Court.

Heath, for another party, contended that the submission ought first to be made a rule of Court.

The Master of the Rolls considered that the proper course in such a case was for a motion to be made ex parte for the submission to be made a rule of Court, and that, inasmuch as that was the practice at Common Law before the passing of the Judicature Act, the case came within the exception in Rules of Court, 1875, Order liii. r. 8.

Vendor and Purchaser—Misdescription—Compensation.

By an agreement between owners and an intended purchaser for the sale of a piece of land described in the schedule thereto as containing 6a. 2r. 14p., or thereabouts, for 500*l.*, it was provided that if any error or mis-statement should be found in the schedule it should not annul the sale, but compensation should be made in respect thereof, the amount of such compensation to be ascertained by two indifferent persons, and in case of their disagreement by their umpire, and that if either party should fail to appoint a referee ten days after notice, the referee of the other party should make the decision alone.

After the completion of the purchase, the purchaser found that the piece of land contained only 5a. 0r. 7p., and he served a notice upon the vendors that he had appointed a referee to ascertain the amount of compensation to be paid to him in respect of the error of description. The vendors having neglected to appoint a referee, the purchaser's referee awarded that the sum of 108*l.* should be paid by the vendors.

On a summons taken out by the purchaser under the Vendor and Purchaser Act, 1874, and heard before the Judge in Chambers, it was declared that he was entitled to the said sum of 108*l.* for compensation, and that the same should be paid by the vendors.

In making the usual compulsory order for the winding-up of a banking company, his Lordship said that, in his experience, where there was a large liquidation, a compulsory order was cheaper and better than a supervision order, for in the former case the liquidator might take all necessary steps, under s. 96 of the Companies Act, 1862, without creating the expense of applying to the Court in every instance, and the Court could thus exercise some control over the costs; whereas in the latter case there was nothing to prevent the liquidator from coming to

Their right to the name was founded on a well-known principle of law, and had been established by the judgment of the House of Lords in Singer Manufacturing Company v. Wilson (3 App. Cas. 376). The balance of evidence shewed conclusively that there was no such name as "Singer" known to the trade as applicable to sewing machines of a particular construction; and as the unlicensed use of the name by the defendants was clearly proved, and to some extent admitted, there must be an injunction as prayed, with an account of profits, and the costs of the suit.

Alice White had since married Montagu Hepworth, and now had two children living.

Will—Clause of Exclusion—Heir-at-Law and Next of Kin.

J. K., who died in 1845, by his will made in August, 1837, inter alia, after stating that he had incurred expense in maintaining and educating his niece, L. Seeley, said it was now his will that neither she nor her children should ever take or enjoy any benefit or interest from his property other than and except what was thereby or otherwise specifically given or provided for her or them. And after stating that he had paid for the education of his nephew, G. Stone, said it was not his intention that he or any person claiming under him should partake of or be entitled to any share or proportion in the distribution of his real or personal estate except what was thereby given or provided for him or them. The testator then said: "And whereas I consider the provision I have already settled on or made for my surviving brother and each of my two surviving sisters to be fully adequate for their better support, and therefore it is my intention that they shall not nor shall any or either of them take or enjoy any benefit or interest whatever from my property other than and except what is hereby or otherwise given or provided for him, her, or them respectively. Now I do hereby declare that it is my will that they, the said L. Seeley, G. Stone, E. Kibblewhite, M. Ellis, and L. Sadler [the brother and two sisters], shall not nor shall any or either of them be entitled to take any part of my real estate, nor any share or proportion in the distribution of my personal estate of which I may happen to die intestate, or not have fully disposed of, either in the character of my heir or heiresses at law or as my next of kin, but shall be wholly excluded therefrom in the same manner as if they had all died in my lifetime."

E. Kibblewhite, Lucy Saddler, G. Stone, and L. Seeley survived the testator. M. Ellis died in his lifetime, leaving two children. L. Sadler had three children and they were living at the testator's death. E. Kibblewhite was the testator's heir-at-law unless he was excluded therefrom by the terms of the will. E. Kibblewhite, L. Sadler, G. Stone, L. Seeley, were, with others, the next of kin of the testator, and would be entitled to participate in the distribution of the personal estate unless the terms of the will excluded them, in which case the children of L. Sadler and M. Ellis were the persons so entitled.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR was of opinion that according to the true construction of the will, the declaration of the testator amounted to a gift in favour of those persons who would take by law upon a distribution of personalty under the statute, excluding those persons specified, and not including those who would come within the description of persons who would take under them. The only real contention seemed to be to distinguish this from other cases, and which, so far as they had any bearing, applied to the words "in the same manner as if they had all died in my lifetime," but he could not give an alternative effect to the words for the purpose of letting in the persons excluded, therefore the persons other than those excluded would take.

Landlord and Tenant—Lease to Company—Liquidation—Machines affixed to Stones by Bolts and Nuts—Landlord's Right of Distraint.

The North Yorkshire Iron Company, Limited, was in liquidation. The matter came before the Court on a motion by the liquidator to restrain landlords from distraining; and on a summons by landlords to be allowed to distrain for rent due and owing to them. Richardson, Johnson, & Co., in December, 1868, leased land and premises to B. Samuelson for a term of nineteen years from the 1st of January, 1869, at a yearly rent, after the first five years, of 2000*l.* B. Samuelson on the 21st of June, 1869, assigned the property to the company for the residue of the term. The company, from the date of its incorporation, the 30th of June, 1869, continued to carry on business down to December, 1875, when a resolution was passed to wind up voluntarily. A liquidator was appointed, and in June, 1876, there was a compulsory winding-up order. The landlords, R., J., & Co., claimed to be paid the rent due, and after opposition by the liquidator an order was made giving leave to distrain and for inquiries as to the rent due since the liquidation, and in the end they, in October, 1878, levied a distress upon the loose plant and stock in trade, which realised 1262*l.* 1*s.* 2*d.*, the rent due at the time being 5811*l.* 1*s.* 5*d.* In March, 1879, the landlords asked leave to distrain for arrears of rent due, and they were allowed to do so upon such effects as were legally distrainable at law, and in April they levied a further distress upon the property of the company, and seized certain machinery and articles which the liquidator alleged were attached to the freehold, and therefore not distrainable at law. Some of these things were a short railway and plant, and others were machines affixed by bolts and nuts to stones, wood, and brickwork, sunk into the soil, but the nuts could be unscrewed.

Hastings, Q.C., and H. A. Giffard, for the liquidator's motion.

Evidence—Admissibility—Legitimacy—Declaration by Father.

This was an action to administer the estate of an intestate. A claim was carried in by a person who alleged that he was the first cousin of the intestate, and his heir-at-law and sole next of kin. If the claimant was the legitimate son of his father, his title was made out, but it was alleged against him by other claimants that his father and mother had never been married. In support of this allegation the will of the father was tendered in evidence, in which, in making a bequest to the claimant, he described him as "my son, or reputed son, commonly called J. M." It was objected that this was not admissible evidence.

This was an administration suit in which certain solicitors in the country had been employed on behalf of the defendants. The country solicitors employed Messrs. Stokes & Co. as their London agents. FRY, J., held that as between the country solicitor and his town agent the lien of the town agent was general, and extended to all costs for all agency business and disbursements due to him from the country solicitor, although as between the London agent and the client the lien of the agent only extended to the costs of the particular suit, and that there was no distinction in this respect between a charging and a retaining lien.

Seward Brice, for the liquidator.

Everitt, for Metcalfe, urged that as he had made no profit by the shares which he had transferred for a nominal consideration, he could not be ordered to pay anything in respect of them.

FRY, J., held that the same principle applied to these shares as to the others. If they had not been given to Mitcalfe they might have been allotted to the public, who, as the evidence shewed, were giving the full nominal value for the shares, and there was nothing to shew that they would not have taken more. Mitcalfe must pay the full nominal value of all the shares which had been given to him.

A decree having been made for the dissolution of a partnership between the plaintiff and defendant, the question now was whether the defendant should be ordered to pay to the plaintiff the whole or any part of a premium of 500*l.* which he had agreed to pay to the plaintiff on the formation of the partnership, but had not paid.

Glasse, Q.C., and G. O. Edwards, for the plaintiff.

Mackeson, Q.C., and Bagnold, for the defendant.

FRY, J., held that the case must be treated as if the defendant was asking for a return of a premium which he had paid, and that, upon the evidence, the dissolution was caused entirely by the fault of the defendant. There was no case in which the Court had ordered a return of premium when the partner who had paid it had been alone in fault. Therefore, the defendant must pay the whole of the 500*l.* to the plaintiff.

Bill of Sale—Registration Affidavit—Setting forth of Consideration for which the Bill of Sale was given—Bills of Sale Act, 1878 (41 & 42 Vict. c. 31), ss. 8, 10, sub-s. 2.

Appeal from the County Court at Huddersfield.

On the 10th of January, 1879, the debtor, Joseph Paget Threappleton, executed a bill of sale of certain specified chattels, being not the whole of his property, to John Hird, to secure the repayment of 400*l.* and interest. The deed recited that "in the month of June last" Threappleton applied to Hird to lend him 340*l.*, "which he consented to do" on Threappleton agreeing to execute a bill of sale, when called upon to do so, of the machinery and stock-in-trade thereinafter described; and that "in the month of July last" Threappleton applied for a further loan of 60*l.*, which Hird agreed to make "on the condition that the same should be secured in like manner as the said sum of 340*l.* so lent as aforesaid." The attestation clause of the deed was as follows: "Signed, sealed, and delivered by the said J. P. Threappleton and J. Hird, in the presence of me, and before the execution hereof, I read over this deed to and explained the effect thereof to the grantor; Alfred Sykes, Solicitor, Huddersfield;" and the statutory affidavit by the attesting witness, registered with a copy of the deed, stated as follows:—"That the paper writing hereunto annexed is a true copy of a bill of sale" (describing it) "and of every attestation of the execution thereof;" and "that I was present, and did see the said J. P. Threappleton sign and execute the said bill of sale."

The facts about the loan were, that on the 3rd of March, 1878, Threappleton (who was then in partnership with one Barber Elliott Oldfield), and Oldfield met Hird who was a trustee for Mrs. Threappleton, and Hird then agreed to advance the firm 73*l.* on the promise of the security of machinery in No. 2 room of their mill. On the 6th or 7th of April Hird advanced to the firm another sum of 60*l.*; and on the 26th or 27th of April, a third sum of 107*l.* on the same security. On the 8th of June, Threappleton and Oldfield dissolved partnership, the 240*l.* being still due from the firm to Hird. On the 14th of June Threappleton borrowed 100*l.* more from Hird on the security of the same promise; and on the 16th of June 60*l.* more. This made up the 400*l.*, for which, on pressure by Hird, the bill of sale was given.

The learned county court judge having, on the 23rd of June last, dismissed with costs a motion on behalf of the trustee that the bill of sale should be set aside and declared void, on the ground that it had not been duly registered, and that it did not set forth the consideration for which it was given, within the provision of the 8th section of the Bills of Sale Act, 1878, the trustee appealed,

E. Cooper Willis, and F. Knight, for the appellant.

Winslow, Q.C., and L. Yate Lee, for the bill of sale holder.

THE CHIEF JUDGE held that the registration had been duly made, though the affidavit did not state in terms that the attesting solicitor had explained the deed, for the affidavit deposed to the attestation clause, which did state this fact. But as to the recitals in the deed, as they did not set truly forth the consideration for which the bill of sale was given, within the provisions (which were most imperative) of the statute, the deed must be declared void, though the transaction was a perfectly honest one. There would be no order as to costs, as the matter had clearly been a slip.

Leisler, App.; Townsend, Resp. July 25.

Partnership, Dissolution of—Contract made by Letters—Different Arrangement by Subsequent Formal Minute of Agreement.

Appeal from a decision of the Court of Session, Scotland. In 1876 the appellant and the respondent were the sole partners in the firm of Leisler & Townsend, manufacturing chemists; they being desirous of dissolving the partnership, and of determining the provisions under which the dissolution should take place, wrote certain letters to each other in November of that year setting out a substantial agreement. The intention of the parties at that time, as set out in the letters, was clear and unambiguous, and was, inter alia, that the partnership should terminate on the 31st of December, 1876, that the respondent should take over the property of the partnership paying the appellant 7500*l.*, but that this sum was to be further increased by half of the profits made in 1876, or if there were no profits then it was to be decreased by half the loss if any. Subsequently, in December, a formal minute of agreement for dissolution of the partnership, revised by the law agents to the parties, was executed. In this contract there was an utter absence of any reference to the division of the profits or loss for the year 1876, the material conditions being that the respondent on giving the bills for 7500*l.* to the appellant was to take over the "whole assets and liabilities of the firm as at the date of the dissolution (31 Dec. 1876), including in the latter the contracts then current for raw materials and goods to be manufactured."

A profit was made in 1876, and the appellant claimed half, besides the sum of 7500*l.*, contending that the omission in regard to sharing the profits in the minute of agreement should be supplied from the letters of November, 1876. The respondent maintained that he was entitled to the whole of the profits, that being the intention of the formal minute of agreement which was intended to supersede and had superseded the former arrangement contained in the letters. The Second Division of the Court of Session on the 8th of March, 1879, adhered to the interlocutor of the Lord Ordinary (Lord Curriehill) in favour of the contention of the respondent (not reported).

On appeal,

The Lord Advocate (Right Hon. W. Watson) and Mr. Benjamin, Q.C., were heard for the appellant.

Digitized by Google

Mr. Eddis, Q.C., and Mr. Readman (of the Scotch Bar), were heard for the respondent.

The Lords held that the formal minute of agreement of December, 1876, being free and clear of all ambiguity, it could not be construed by the light of the agreement set out in the letters written in November. Appeal dismissed with costs.

Trusts—Landed Estates Court—Competency of Parties to Appeal.

Under the Irish Land Act (33 & 34 Vict. c. 46, s. 46), the Landed Estates Court is authorized, so far as the interests of other persons are concerned, to afford facilities to occupying tenants desirous of purchasing their holdings under that Act, and for that purpose to hear any application of any such occupying tenant. Mr. Pemberton having full power to sell an estate, proposed to do so. Many of the occupying tenants desired to purchase their holdings. One gentleman, a Mr. Hussey, offered a sum of 80,500*l.* for the whole of the estate, it being understood that there were arrangements between him and several of the occupying tenants as to the terms on which they were to become purchasers of their holdings on the estate. While the business was going on two other gentlemen named Lombard & Murphy made an offer of 81,000*l.* for the estate, it being understood as to them also, that they acted as for the benefit of many occupying tenants. The Judge of the Landed Estates Court decided in favour of the offer of Messrs. Lombard & Murphy. The case was taken to the Court of Appeal, where the decision of the Landed Estates Court was reversed and Mr. Hussey was constituted the purchaser (Ir. Rep. 1 Chan. Div. 242–248). Messrs. Lombard & Murphy did not appeal against this decision, but those who were desirous of seeing the offer of Messrs. Lombard & Murphy accepted, presented an appeal to this House. It was objected that as they had not been formal parties to the suit below, but had allowed Lombard & Murphy to conduct the suit there, and as Lombard & Murphy did not now appear as appellants, they had no locus standi as appellants here; and the case was argued on that preliminary objection.

Mr. Chitty, Q.C. (Mr. Rigby and Mr. Garth were with him) in support of the objection.

Mr. Herschell, Q.C. (Mr. Blennerhasset, and Mr. O'Riordan of the Irish Bar, with him), in support of the title to appeal.

Mr. Hickson (of the Irish Bar), appeared for Mr. Hussey.

The Lord Chancellor (Earl Cairns), Lord Hatherley, Lord O'Hagan, and Lord Blackburn were unanimously of opinion that under the circumstances which existed here, the persons who now sought to appeal had no locus standi for such a purpose.

Insurance—Averages—Suing and Labouring Clause in a Policy of Marine Insurance.

In this case Mr. Lohre brought an action against Messrs. Aitchison & Brandt to recover, on a policy of insurance, the cost of repairing injuries sustained by his ship, the Crimea (afterwards called the Alf), from the perils of the sea. The plaintiff claimed a sum of 1707*l.*, being the Defendants' proportion of a much larger sum. The defendants brought into Court a sum of 1080*l.* as sufficient to satisfy the plaintiff's claim. The facts were turned into a special case. In September, 1872, the plaintiff effected through his brokers a policy on his ship for the sum of 1200*l.*, the ship in that policy being valued at 2600*l.*, and the risks were on an outward and home voyage from the Clyde to Quebec or St. John's, and thence to any port of the United Kingdom. The policy contained the usual suing and labouring clause. The ship arrived safely at St. John's, unloaded, and then took on board a homeward cargo of deals and battens and sailed on the 1st of January, 1873. It soon met with very heavy weather, and from the 18th to the 22nd of January encountered most violent storms and was reduced to a water-logged condition. On the 30th it signalled the steamship Texas which took it in tow and brought it into Queenstown. In the Admiralty Court in Ireland a sum of 800*l.* was awarded to the Texas for this service. The value of the Crimea as it then lay was stated to be 998*l.*, and the value of the cargo, without deducting freight, 3780*l.* The ship was repaired under contract for 2982*l.* The ship was also metalled at a cost of 695*l.* 17*s.* 10*d.* and new work was put in which amounted to about 500*l.* more, but these two items formed no part of the claim in the action. The other works performed were stated to be necessary to make the ship "tight, staunch and strong, and seaworthy." There were also divers general averages and particular averages to which the ship was liable. By these works the ship was rendered superior to what it had previously been, and after all the repairs were executed, the ship, which had originally been of the value of 3000*l.*, became of the value of 7000*l.* The plaintiff claimed 1707*l.* as the sum properly due from the insurers, but they contended that they were not liable for more than a total loss with benefit of salvage, deducting from that the ship's portion of salvage and general average charges, and they contended that the sum paid into Court covered the amount. The Queen's Bench gave judgment for the plaintiff for the sum of 120*l.* beyond the sum paid into Court. Both parties appealed, and the Court of Appeal dismissed the defendants' appeal as to the right to recover up to the sum insured, and increased the sum awarded to the plaintiff by the allowance of a portion of the salvage charges (3 Q. B. Div. 558). This appeal was then brought.

Mr. Benjamin, Q.C., and Mr. J. C. Mathew, for the insurers.

Mr. Cohen, Q.C., and Mr. F. W. Hollams, for the assured.

The Lords partly reversed the judgment of the Court of Appeal and partly confirmed it, holding that general average and salvage did not come within the suing and labouring clause. No costs to either party in the Court of Appeal or in this House. Costs to the plaintiff only in the Queen's Bench Division.

Agents—Solicitors—Loans of Money.

This was an appeal against a decision of the Lords Justices which had reversed a previous decision of Mr. Justice Fry. The whole question was which of two innocent parties was to suffer for the misconduct of certain persons by whom a loan of money had been transacted. The lenders had employed certain people as their solicitors to invest the money—these persons had acted in that capacity on former occasions, and these same persons did, in this transaction, the work ordinarily done by solicitors for the borrowers. A part only of the money had been really paid over to the borrowers—the rest, obtained from the lenders, had been misapplied. On the whole the Lords Justices had thought that the lenders ought to bear the loss. Hence this appeal.

This was an appeal by Mrs. Taylor from a decision of the Chief Judge (noted ante, p. 137).

Winslow, Q.C., and R. T. Reid, for the appellant, contended that s. 5 of Bovill's Act only prevents the lender of money to a trader, on the terms of receiving a share of the profits of the business, from proving in competition with the creditors of the business in respect of which the loan was made, or, at any rate, with creditors whose debts were contracted while that business was carried on; and that the section has no application to creditors whose debts were contracted after that business had come to an end and had been wound up. At any rate, the appellant ought to be allowed to prove for the purpose of voting, even if she could receive no dividend until the other creditors had been paid in full.

A bankruptcy petition was presented against the members of a firm of Sawers & Co., which traded in England. Two of the partners were Chilian subjects, who were domiciled and resident in Chili and had never been in England. The act of bankruptcy alleged was the levy by seizure and sale of goods of the firm in England of an execution in respect of a judgment for more than 50*l.*, which had been recovered against the firm for a debt contracted by them in England. An order was made for service of the petition on the Chilian partners in Chili. Specific Performance—Vendors' Action—Decree against Purchaser in Default—Order to rescind Contract—Damages.

In a vendors' action for specific performance, where the defendant had not put in his defence, a decree had been made and the conveyance tendered to the defendant.

The plaintiffs now moved that the contract might be rescinded, and that all further proceedings might be stayed, except as to any application by the plaintiffs to assess damages for breach of the contract. It appeared that the purchaser was unable to pay the purchase-money and costs.

Chitty, Q.C., and B. B. Swan, in support of the motion.

The defendant did not appear.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS, declining to follow Sweet v. Meredith (4 Giff. 207), and Watson v. Cox (Law Rep. 15 Eq. 219), referred to in 2 Seton, 1329, considered that the plaintiffs could not at the same time have the contract rescinded and claim damages against the defendant for breach of the contract. The order would be that the contract be rescinded, and that the defendant pay the costs of the action.

Infant—Lease obtained by Misrepresentation—Action against Infant Lessee—Lease declared void—Injunction—Right to Damages for Use and Occupation.

The plaintiff had granted a lease of a furnished house to the defendant, who represented himself to be a responsible man in good position. After the defendant had entered into possession the plaintiff ascertained that he was under 21.

The plaintiff brought his action against him alleging that the lease was obtained by misrepresentation, and claiming that the lease might be cancelled, that the defendant might be ordered to give up possession and to pay the plaintiff mesne profits, that he might be restrained by injunction from parting with the furniture, and be ordered to pay damages for the user and detention of the furniture and effects.

An appearance was entered on behalf of the infant and the official solicitor was assigned as his guardian.

Chitty, Q.C., and Cozens-Hardy, for the plaintiff.

The defendant did not appear at the hearing.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS held the lease to be void and ordered it to be delivered up to be cancelled, and immediate possession to be given by the defendant, who was to be restrained by injunction from parting with the furniture, and to pay the costs. His Lordship considered that the defendant could not be made liable for use and occupation.

Will—Gift of "two houses in K. Street"—Misdescription of number of Houses.

Bequest of "all those my leasehold houses situate in Middle Street," and other streets in the will mentioned, and of "two houses in King Street," to trustees in trust for E. Purcell for life, and after his death to form part of the testator's residuary estate.

The testator was possessed of three leasehold houses in King Street, though the will only mentioned two. It was stated that two of the houses were comprised in one under-lease and the third house in a separate under-lease.

The question arose as between the plaintiff, who was interested in the residuary estate, and the equitable tenant for life of the leaseholds, as to the effect of the gift of the two houses in King Street.

Maidlow (Roxburgh, Q.C., with him), for the plaintiff.

S. Stephens, for the equitable tenant for life.

Ince, Q.C., and Whitaker, for the trustees.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS held that only two of the testator's three houses in King Street passed under the gift, and that the legatee was entitled to elect which he would take.

Practice—Rules of Court, 1875, Order XV., r. 1—Preliminary Accounts.

Foreclosure action by plaintiffs as mortgagees of the Adelphi Theatre. The writ was issued on the 22nd of March, 1879. After the defendants had appeared, but before the statement of claim was delivered, the plaintiffs applied, under Rules of Supreme Court, Order XV., r. 1, for an account of what was owing for principal and interest on the mortgages.

On the 8th of April an order was made in chambers directing an account to be taken of what was due to the plaintiffs or any or either of them for principal moneys and interest under certain indentures of mortgage, "And the judge not requiring any trial of this action other than the hearing of this application, the further consideration of this action is adjourned, and the parties are to be at liberty to apply as they may be advised."

On the 18th of April the statement of claim, on the 10th of May the statement of defence, and on the 31st of May the reply was delivered. By these pleadings the liability of the plaintiffs as mortgagees in possession to account to the defendants for rents and profits, and the defendants' right of set-off were distinctly put in issue.

On the 8th of July, 1879, the chief clerk made his certificate giving the result of the accounts directed to be taken by the order of the 8th of April, 1879.

After the expiration of the time limited for applying to vary the certificate the defendants had taken out a summons which (the plaintiffs waiving the objection as to time) came on to be heard with the further consideration of the action, and in effect raised the question of occupation rent and other issues raised by the pleadings.

Hemming, Q.C., and E. B. Michell, for the defendants, in support of their summons to vary.

Sir H. Jackson, Q.C., and Crossley, for the plaintiffs.

The question argued was whether, after the order of the 8th of April, 1879, and the certificate made in pursuance thereof, it was still open to the defendants to defend the action on the merits.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR dismissed the summons, but held that the order of the 8th of April, 1879, which was made before any of the pleadings were delivered and before any issue was joined, could not be allowed to prejudice the defendants in having the issues raised by the subsequent pleadings heard and decided. The words "the judge not requiring any trial of this action," which had created the difficulty, and were taken from the form given in Seton, p. 8 (4th Ed.), ought not to be inserted indiscriminately in an order for preliminary accounts under Order XV., r. 1, and should not have been used in this case. The cause would be set down for hearing in the Michaelmas sittings.

Pleading—Admission—Rules of Court, 1875, Order XIX., rr. 17, 20, 22; XL. r. 11.

This was a foreclosure action by the assignee of a mortgage against the mortgagor and subsequent incumbrancers. By their statement of defence the defendants stated that they did not admit the correctness of the statements set forth in pars. 1, 2, 3, and 6, of the plaintiff's statement of claim (stating the original mortgage and the assignment, in which the mortgagor had joined, to the plaintiff, and that the principal money with an arrear of interest, was due to the plaintiff) and required proof thereof; and defendant, the mortgagor, admitted that the subsequent charges were made, &c., as stated in the 4th and 5th paragraphs of the statement of claim.

H. M. Sladen moved for judgment as upon an admission of fact in the pleadings; as by Rules of Court, 1875, Order XIX. rr. 17, 20, 22, the statement of defence by not specifically denying the allegations of fact in the statement of claim amount to an admission.

Whitehorne, for the defendants:—This is an attempt under Order XL., r. 11, to obtain a foreclosure decree upon imaginary admissions. We do not admit the truth of the plaintiff's allegations and call upon him to prove his title.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that in the face of the rules, which introduced a new rule of practice and must be strictly followed, there had been no sufficient denial of the plaintiff's allegations of fact. The defendants ought to say in what respect they disputed those allegations.

Whitehorne obtained leave to amend his statement of defence upon paying the costs of this application.

Purchase of Ironworks—Sale to intended Company—Profit made by Vendor—Fiduciary Relationship—Decree for Account with Interest—Costs.

The defendant by an agreement dated the 22nd of August, 1872, agreed to purchase certain ironworks for 120,000*l.* from B. The agreement was not executed until the 3rd of September, 1872. On the 29th of August, 1872, the defendant communicated by letter to S., his friend and co-promoter of the company, that a limited company must be formed. The agreement for sale by the defendant to the company of the works for 130,000*l.* was executed on the 17th of September, 1872. The action by the company was to make the defendant liable to pay them the 10,000*l.* profit made upon the sale to them, on the ground that he was at the time in a fiduciary position. The defendant's contention was that he purchased from B. on his own account at a time when there was not any fiduciary relationship between him and any other person.

Witnesses were examined in Court, the hearing occupying three days. Judgment was reserved.

Herschell, Q.C., Hastings, Q.C., and F. T. Procter, for the plaintiff company.

Sir H. S. Giffard, S.G., Kekewich, Q.C., and Romer, for the defendant.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR was of opinion that the evidence shewed that the defendant was in a fiduciary position when the agreement for sale by him to the intended company was executed on the 17th of September, 1872; that that position commenced not later than the date of the letter of the 29th of August, 1872; and that every person who became a shareholder in the company was from the time of his becoming one in the position of a cestui que trust of the defendant so as to prevent the appropriation to his own use of any profit from a sale by him to the company or intended company without such person's sanction, given with knowledge, not merely of the sale, but that the sale was to be at a profit, to be retained by the defendant. He was also of opinion that when the agreement of the 17th of September, 1872, was signed, the defendant was in a fiduciary position to all the persons whose names were entered in the list of shareholders appearing in the directors' minute book, and which list was entered in that book and signed by the defendant on that date. The defendant's liability to account for the 10,000*l.* as for money had and received was clearly made out, his fiduciary relationship being established, and he not having established that all the shareholders gave their sanction to his retaining it. He considered that there was no ground for the allegation of laches as a bar to the action on the part of the company, and there was no evidence to affect the company with knowledge before May, 1877, of the defendant's appropriation.

As the defendant paid 1200*l.* to F., who was concerned in the sale by B. to the defendant, an allowance to the defendant of that sum out of his receipts would be reasonable and proper. The defendant must account to the company for 8800*l.* and interest on that sum at 5 per cent., so long as that sum was not paid to him by the company, and at 4 per cent. after he received that sum, and he must pay the plaintiffs' costs of the action.

V.-C. H. SMITH v. BROWN. July 31.

Tenancy of Part of House, Expiration of—Bill of Sale of Furniture to Third Party—Distraint by Landlord and Payment of Rent—Man in Possession under Bill of Sale—Injunction to restrain Sale on Premises and to remove Furniture—Trespasser.

By a memorandum of agreement dated the 10th of July, 1876, the plaintiff let to G. for three years, from the 24th of June, 1876, part of Nos. 10 and 10a Great Portland Street. The tenancy expired on the 24th of June, 1879, and there had been no agreement for an extension of it. Before the expiration of the term G. informed the plaintiff that he should not wish to continue the tenancy. On the 25th of June the plaintiff distrained for a half-year's rent. On the 30th of June the rent was paid by the defendant, who claimed the furniture and effects under a bill of sale given by G. to him, and since such payment he had put a man in possession and he proposed to have a sale of the furniture, &c., on the premises. The plaintiff carried on business in the other part of the premises, and apprehending damage therefrom the sale and advertising of it there, issued the writ in this action and obtained an interim injunction on the 10th of July.

This was a motion that the defendant might be restrained "from causing or permitting a sale in or upon" the premises of the furniture, &c., "and from placing or affixing posters or other placards upon or about" the premises in reference to such sale, and "from advertising a sale of any furniture" in or upon the premises, "and from keeping or retaining in or upon" the premises any furniture claimed to belong to the defendant, "and from keeping any person or persons in the possession or occupation thereof, or upon any part" of the premises; and the plaintiff claimed damages.

The defendant deposed that default was made in payment of an instalment due under the bill of sale on the 20th of June, 1879; that on the 26th he learnt of the distress and was told by G., who was then on the premises, that he was unable to pay the rent; that he paid the rent on the 30th and put a man in possession of the furniture, and further, that he had not threatened and did not intend to sell on the premises, but was waiting to make an arrangement which G. had said he was endeavouring to make. His bill of sale gave him power to take possession of the furniture whenever he should think fit until the money secured should be satisfied, and also power in case of default of payment by G., or in case of his suffering a distraint for rent and in other events, without notice to enter upon the premises and take possession of the furniture and to keep possession, and for that purpose to put and continue a man in possession, or if he should think fit to sell the furniture either upon the premises or after removal.

W. Pearson, Q.C., and B. Eyre, for the plaintiff:—The tenancy has expired and the defendant is a trespasser. An injunction can be granted on interlocutory motion: Beddow v. Beddow (9 Ch. D. 89).

Hastings, Q.C., and T. L. Wilkinson, opposed the application:—The defendant has a right to remain in possession until the plaintiff has recovered in an action of ejectment. The defendant claims under a tenant holding over who is not a trespasser and is not a party to the action. The plaintiff recognised the defendents' possession by accepting payment of the rent. The writ does not ask to recover possession of the premises, and it will not be just or convenient to turn the defendant out (Judicature Act, 1873, s. 25, sub-s. 8) by an order upon interlocutory motion.

W. Pearson, Q.C., in reply on the latter part of the notice of motion:—There is no present tenancy in G. and the defendant is a mere assignee of the furniture.

The Vice-Chancellor said that the application to prevent a sale upon the premises and from affixing posters was quite right. The defendant had been playing fast and loose whether he would or would not sell these goods, and his conduct had been such as to cause apprehensions that he would. That might have been sufficient for an injunction. As to the second part of the motion, it appeared to him that there had been a trespass by having the furniture on the premises and by having a man in possession of them there. The defendant had not asserted my title and he had no interest in the premises: he was a mere wrongdoer. The plaintiff was right in coming to the Court. There was no difficulty in granting a mandatory injunction. The furniture must be removed not later than the 7th of August.

This was a petition by the solicitor of the defendant, asking for an order charging the defendant's interest in a fund in Court with the payment of the costs incurred by the petitioner in the action on behalf of the defendant. The petition was served on the plaintiff as well as on the defendant.

H. M. R. Pope, for the petitioner.

Lawson, for the defendant, objected that the application ought to have been made by summons (Judicature Act, 1873, s. 39), and there was no reason for serving the plaintiff. The petitioner ought to pay the plaintiffs' costs, and not to have them from the defendant.

Dundas Gardiner, for the plaintiff

Fry, J., held that the application was properly made by petition, that being according to the usual practice. But the plaintiff should not have been served, and the petitioner must pay his costs.

Marriage Settlement—Wife's Property—Ultimate Trust for Next of Kin—"Die without having been married."

By a settlement made on the marriage of a widow (who had one infant son by a former marriage) of property belonging to her, the property was limited on trust for her during the joint lives of herself and her husband, for her separate use, with remainder to the survivor for life, with remainder (in the events which happened) to the infant son if he should attain 21, with remainder after the death of the husband and of the infant son without having attained 21 (which should last happen), upon trust (if the husband survived the wife) as she should by will appoint, and subject thereto in trust for the persons who would have been her next of kin at her death according to the statute if she had died intestate and without having been married. The wife died, leaving the husband and the son her surviving, and without having exercised the power of appointment. The son afterwards died under 21. The question was whether he took the property as his mother's next of kin.

Ex parte Young.

Mutual Debts and Credits—Two Bankrupt Estates—Equitable Set-off—Bankruptcy Act, 1869 (32 & 33 Vict. c. 71), s. 39.

Appeal from the County Court at York.

Messrs. J. & E. Day & Sons, drapers and silk mercers at York, having become bankrupt one Thomas Pickering was appointed trustee, and at the first meeting of creditors Messrs. Swann, Clough, & Co., bankers, were appointed the bankers to the estate. Messrs. Swann, Clough, & Co. were also creditors to the amount of 5451*l.* and tendered a proof at the first meeting for this amount less a sum of 375*l.* secured by an equitable mortgage by deposit of title deeds. This proof was allowed. Pickering paid into Messrs. Swann, Clough, & Co.'s bank 10,688*l.* moneys received from the estate of Day & Sons. In May, 1879, and before any dividend was paid out of Day & Sons estate, Messrs. Swann, Clough, & Co., stopped payment, and on the 9th of May presented a petition for liquidation under which John Young and F. L. Mawdesley were appointed trustees. On the 29th of May Pickering applied in the matter of Swann & Co.'s liquidation for directions as to what course he should adopt with reference to the sum due from Swann & Co. to the estate of Day & Sons. This application was reheard on the 28th of June, when the County Court judge was of opinion, on the authority of Baily v. Johnson (Law Rep. 6 Ex. 279), that Swann & Co. could not participate in any dividend in the estate of Day & Sons until they had made good to the joint estate of Day & Sons any loss that estate had sustained by the failure of the bank, and that therefore the amount owing by Day & Son could be set off against the amount owing to Day & Son, and that as the debt was thus extinguished the securities held by Swann & Co. must be delivered up to the trustee of Day & Son.

From this order the trustees of Swann & Co. appealed.

Winslow, Q.C., and Northmore Lawrence, for the appellant.

Roxburgh, Q.C., and Yate Lee, for the respondent.

Winslow, Q.C., in reply.

The Chief Judge considered that the case of Baily v. Johnson had no application to the present case, because there, Johnson having been adjudicated a bankrupt his bankruptcy had been subsequently annulled, and therefore he was entitled to set off the amount paid into the bank by the trustee in his bankruptcy, either as an equitable set-off or as a mutual credit. In the present case there could not be said to be any mutual debt or credit within the meaning of s. 39, and consequently there could be no set-off, and the appeal must be allowed. No order as to costs.

Undischarged Bankrupt—Second Adjudication of Bankruptcy.

This was an appeal from a decision of Mr. Registrar Pepys, as Chief Judge in bankruptcy.

J. R. Roberts was adjudicated a bankrupt in 1871. He did not obtain an order of discharge, but, with the knowledge and consent of the trustee, he went into business again and contracted fresh debts. In April 1879, the bankruptcy of 1871 being still unclosed, and the bankrupt still undischarged, a second adjudication was made against him on the petition of one of the new creditors. One of the old creditors and three of the new ones appealed from the adjudication, alleging themselves to be persons aggrieved by it. Two of the new creditors had recovered judgment and levied execution on the goods of the bankrupt.

Winslow, Q.C., and Ringwood, for the appellants, relied on Ex parte Sydney (Law Rep. 10 Ch. 203).

E. Cooper Willis, and Holmes Poulter, for the petitioning creditor, were not heard.

THE COURT (James, Brett, and Cotton, L.JJ.) said that Ex parte Sydney did not apply, for there the second proceeding was a liquidation petition, which was the voluntary act of the debtor. The case was governed by Morgan v. Knight (15 C. B. N.S. 669), which shewed that the second adjudication was valid. The appeal was dismissed with costs.

Proof—Joint and Several Liability of Partners—Joint and Separate Estate—Guarantee—Construction.

The firm of Smith, Fleming, & Co. consisted of three partners, viz., John Fleming, R. McIlwraith, and W. Nicol. On the 28th of February, 1874, the following letter, signed by the firm and by each of the three partners, was written to the City of Glasgow Bank:—"We hereby guarantee you payment of all sums which are or may at any time become due to you by W. Nicol & Co., of Bombay, under the circular credit for 300,000*l.* applied for by them by letter dated the 30th of September, 1872, and granted by you." The firm of W. Nicol & Co. consisted of five partners, viz., the partners in Smith, Fleming, & Co., and two other persons. In the letter of the 30th of September, 1872, applying for the credit, Nicol & Co. had agreed to deliver to the bank, as security for the credit, "the personal obligation of this firm and individual partners, and a guarantee by Smith, Fleming, & Co." In October, 1878, Smith, Fleming, & Co. stopped payment, and filed a liquidation petition, and at that time more than 300,000*l.* was due to the bank under the credit. The bank claimed to prove against the separate estate of John Fleming. The trustee rejected the proof. Mr. Registrar Brougham, as Chief Judge, ordered it to be admitted. The trustee appealed.

Southgate, Q.C., and Aspland, for the appellant.

De Gex, Q.C., and D. Sturges, for the bank.

THE COURT (James, Brett, and Cotton, L.JJ.) held that the letter of the 28th of February, 1874, pledged to the bank the joint liability of the firm of Smith, Fleming, & Co., and also the separate liability of each of the partners in it. The proof was, therefore, rightly admitted against the separate estate of John Fleming.

Ship—Charterparty—Demurrage—Place of Discharge—Custom of Port of London.

This was an appeal from a decision of the Master of the Rolls (Weekly Notes, 1878, p. 129.)

The action was bought by shipowners against the charterer for demurrage. By a charterparty, dated the 21st of June, 1877, it was agreed that the plaintiffs, the owners of the Euxine steamship, should carry a cargo of timber from the Baltic "to the Surrey Commercial Docks or as near thereto as she could safely get, and lie always afloat, and deliver the same on being paid freight." The defendant, the consignee of the cargo and charterer of the ship, endeavoured to secure a place of discharge at the Southampton Docks, but owing to the crowded state of the docks was unable to do so, and she was obliged to lie out for some time in the river at the Deptford buoys till at length the cargo was discharged by lighters into the Southampton Docks.

The plaintiffs claimed demurrage for the detention of the ship, alleging that by the custom of the Baltic trade and by the terms of the charterparty it was the duty of the defendant to make arrangements with the dock company for the reception of the ship and discharge of the cargo.

The Master of the Rolls held that the alleged custom was not proved, and that upon the construction of the charterparty both the plaintiffs and the defendant took the risk of the ship being able to get to the place of discharge, and dismissed the action with costs. From this judgment the plaintiffs appealed.

Chitty, Q.C., Cohen, Q.C., and Rigby, for the appellants.

C. Russell, Q.C., A. L. Smith, and R. T. Reid, for the defendant.

JAMES, L.J., said that the Court (James, Brett, and Cotton, L.JJ.) agreed with the Master of the Rolls that the special custom was not proved; but were of opinion that on the true construction of the charterparty it was the duty of the defendant to provide a place of discharge, that the plaintiffs had performed their part of the contract by bringing the ship to the Southampton docks, and, not being able to obtain admittance, by mooring her at the Deptford buoys, and that they were consequently entitled to damages; and the Court directed an inquiry as to the amount. His Lordship added that written judgments by the three judges, stating their reasons, would be sent to the parties.

Winding-up—Companies Act, 1862, s. 79—Shareholder's Petition.

Shareholder's petition for an order to wind up this company, which was incorporated in 1874 for the purpose of purchasing a Quakers' meeting-house at Middlesborough and converting it into an assembly and dancing rooms.

The land had been purchased and cleared, but the new building had not been proceeded with since 1876, when the trade of Middlesborough became too depressed for the undertaking to be successful. At an extraordinary general meeting held on the 26th of May, 1879, before this petition was presented, the shareholders confirmed the policy adopted by the directors of making a call for payment of debts and taking no further steps until better times.

Hemming, Q.C., and Phipson Beale, for the petitioner.

Sir H. Jackson, Q.C., and Romer, for the company, opposed:—No sufficient reason within the Companies Act, 1862, s. 79, is shewn for winding up this company on a shareholder's petition. The company is not insolvent and has not suspended business, but is merely taking no active steps until the present depression of trade has passed over. The property cannot now be realised without serious loss, and the wishes of the great majority of the shareholders, who support the directors and oppose this petition, ought not to be disregarded.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said that it was the very case contemplated by the Act for a winding-up. Not one single thing had been done in furtherance of the objects of the company. The directors proposed to stand by and wait for better times, but no one ventured to say that the business could be conducted with profit to anyone. The petitioner, as a shareholder, ought not to be bound for ever to an unsuccessful concern. Usual order for winding-up.

Company—Winding-up—Jurisdiction—Enforcing Compromise with Stranger—Judicature Act, 1873, s. 24, sub-s. 7.

On the 3rd of November, 1876, an order was made for the compulsory winding up of this company. On the 5th of April, 1877, A. Leslie, who was the holder of fifty mortgage debentures for 500*l.* each which had been issued by the company, took out a summons in the winding-up, asking for a declaration that the undertaking and business of the company and all its property were subject to the security created by the debentures, and ought to be applied in the first instance to satisfy the amount due upon them, and that the liquidator might be ordered to give possession of the property of the company to the applicant in part satisfaction of what was due to him.

The summons was heard by the chief clerk of Vice-Chancellor Malins on the 10th of January, 1878, who held that the issue of the debentures was ultra vires, and made an order dismissing the summons, unless Leslie should before the 19th of January require to have the summons adjourned for hearing by the Vice-Chancellor. On the 17th of January, Leslie gave notice that he desired the adjournment, and the summons was set down for hearing by the Vice-Chancellor on the 31st of January. On that day, negotiations having commenced between Leslie and the liquidator for a compromise of the claim, the summons was ordered to stand over generally, to be restored to the list on application. The negotiations resulted in an agreement, dated the 18th of February, 1878, which was approved by the proper majority of the creditors of the company, and sanctioned by the Vice-Chancellor, that the liquidator should sell to Leslie all the assets of the company, in consideration of his paying 6*d.* in the pound to the creditors, in discharge of their debts, and also paying the whole of the costs of the liquidation. In pursuance of this agreement the assets were handed over to Leslie, and he paid the 6*d.* in the pound, and a part of the costs, but neglected to pay the residue of the costs, amounting to 285*l.* The liquidator took out a summons, asking that Leslie might be ordered to pay the 285*l.*

Cookson, Q.C., and Everitt, for the liquidator.

E. Cutler, for Leslie, objected that the Court had no jurisdiction in the winding-up over him.

FRY, J., held that, inasmuch as Leslie had by his own summons submitted to the jurisdiction, and that summons was still pending by virtue of the order that it should stand over generally, there was jurisdiction to make the order asked for.

BETTS v. GREAT EASTERN RAILWAY COMPANY, &c., AND OTHERS.

Railway—Superfluous Land.

In or prior to 1848 the railway company acquired certain lands under its statutory powers, and for the purposes of its undertaking, and has ever since retained possession of the properties.

In 1870 the appellant, who is the proprietor of lands immediately adjoining certain portions of the properties so acquired by the railway company, raised a suit to have it found that the railway company had not used these portions of the properties for the purposes of the undertaking, and that consequently these portions were to be treated as superfluous lands—which, not having been used, became the property of the appellant as the adjoining proprietor.

The cause was tried before Baron Channell and a jury on the 6th of August, 1870, when the jury found: "That the whole of the lands in question were taken solely for the purposes of the Act; that they were, and are, duly fenced off from the adjoining lands; and that they have ever since been, and are still, retained bonâ fide for the purposes of the Act."

The Court of Exchequer, on a motion impeaching the verdict, upheld it (Law Rep. 8 Ex. 294).

On appeal—in February, 1878, the Lords Justices affirmed the judgment of the Court of Exchequer (3 Ex. Div. 182). This appeal was then brought.

Mr. Benjamin, Q.C., Mr. Merewether, Q.C., and Mr. Robert Williams, were for the appellant.

Mr. Wills, Q.C., and Mr. Austin Metcalfe, for the respondents, were not called on.

THE LORDS were of opinion that the decision of the Court below was correct, and affirmed it.

V.-C. H. ANDERSON v. BUTLER'S WHARF COMPANY. Aug. 7.

Leasehold Wharf, Mortgage of, with Rents and Profits—Assignment of Premises and Business to a Company subject to Mortgage—Assignment by Company to Trustees to secure Debenture-holders—Rents and Charges for Goods warehoused at Wharf Premises—Priority.

Messrs. Brander Brothers carried on business as wharfingers at Butler's Wharf, a public sufferance wharf regulated by the Act of Parliament 11 Vict. c. cxviii.; prior to 1872 the leasehold portions of Butler's Wharf, with the rents and profits thereof, had been mortgaged to the defendants, the Lands Securities Company, to secure a large sum of money and interest. In 1872 Butler's Wharf Company (Limited), was incorporated under the Companies Acts, 1862 and 1867, for the purpose of purchasing and carrying on the business of Brander Brothers. The purchase was subject to the mortgage. Section 6 of the above Act was that the wharfage rent and other charges in respect of goods should in the case of perishable articles be paid within two months, and of other articles within twelve months; and in case of default in payment the wharfinger, after paying the duties and freights, might distrain and sell the goods after giving certain notices, the distress to be confined to the sum payable for the particular goods.

The Wharf Company carried on business down to the 2nd of October, 1878. In June, 1875, the directors raised money by issuing debentures at 8*l.* per cent. interest, and they assigned to the plaintiffs, as trustees for the debenture-holders, the book and other debts then due or thereafter to become due to the Wharf Company, together with the benefit of all liens and other securities for the same, and also all their then present and future property (except personal chattels), with power to recover the same, the Wharf Company to remain in possession until a default in payment should be made. Interest on the debentures issued was paid down to the 1st of November, 1878. On the 2nd of October, 1878, there was due and owing to the Wharf Company a sum of over 17,000*l.*, made up of the wharfage and warehousing of goods, and such debts were classified as, inter alia, "rents" for keeping goods on the premises and "charges" for landing, &c., goods. Statements of account had been rendered prior to the 2nd of October, 1878, for over 4000*l.*, and there was due over 12,000*l.*, for which such statements had not been rendered. On the 3rd of October, 1878, the Securities Company entered into possession of the leasehold property, and carried on the business of wharfingers. On the 5th of October, 1878, the plaintiffs gave notice that they claimed all "rents" and "charges" for goods and other debts due, and which were earned by the Wharf Company previously to the 3rd of October. But by arrangement the debts owing were collected by the Securities Company, and paid to a separate account at a bank, and the sum so paid was 6400*l*. That arrangement was determined by the Securities Company on the 18th of February, 1879, from which date they claimed what they received in satisfaction of what was due to them.

The Wharf Company was in liquidation under an order made on the 8th of November, 1878.

Questions having arisen as to the rights of the Securities Company and the debenture-holders, the plaintiffs commenced an action in June last, asking for a declaration that they were entitled to a first charge on all book and other debts, including "rents" and "charges," which on the 2nd of October, 1878, were owing to the Wharf Company for accounts; and for consequential relief.

The liquidator for the Wharf Company denied that that company had power to mortgage by the deed of June, 1872, future property, i.e., those debts, rents, and charges, which accrued due between that month and October, 1878, and claimed to be entitled to receive for the general creditors of the company at the date of the order for winding up. He also dênied that the sum paid into the bank, and which represented moneys paid for debts created between June, 1875, and October, 1878, was applicable to pay the debenture-holders, and he claimed as against the Securities Company that that company were mortgagees only of the leasehold premises; that the moneys due to the Wharf Company were not included in their security; and he asked that the balance of the money in the bank might be paid to him.

The Securities Company claimed to be entitled to the "rents" or charges for keeping goods on the wharf premises which accrued from the 2nd of October, 1878, and that they were not apportionable, but belonged to them.

The action was heard on Thursday, the 31st of July, and Monday, the 4th of August, judgment being reserved.

Hastings, Q.C., and Stirling, were for the plaintiffs.

W. Pearson, Q.C., and Fellows, for the liquidator of the Wharf Company.

Benjamin, Q.C., Robinson, Q.C., and Charles Brown, for the Securities Company.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR in delivering judgment, held that the plaintiffs were entitled to the declaration which they asked for with the costs of their action, and that the Securities Company were not entitled to the "rents" and "charges" claimed by them as part of their security. The liquidator to be paid his costs out of the Wharf Company's estate.

Will—Construction—Life Interest with Power of Disposition inter vivos.

Demurrer.

J. Thomson by his will, dated in 1859, gave all his real and personal estate unto his wife "for the term of her natural life, to be disposed of as she may think proper for her own use and benefit according to the nature and quality thereof, subject only to the payment of" his debts and funeral and testamentary expenses; "and in the event of her decease should there be any thing remaining of the said property or any part thereof," he gave "the said part or parts thereof," over. The questions were whether under this gift the wife of the testator took (1) a life interest with a power of disposition to be exercised inter vivos during her lifetime; (2), a life interest with a general power of disposition either inter vivos or testamentary; or (3), an absolute interest.

Rawlins, for the persons entitled under the gift over, supported the first construction.

Caldecott, for persons claiming under the will of the wife, contended for one of the other two constructions, it being in the events immaterial to him which was adopted.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that the first was the true construction; there being a clear gift for life to which was superadded a power but not a property.

KINLOCH v. SECRETARY OF STATE FOR INDIA.

Military Prize of War—Grant by the Crown to Officer of State "in trust" for Persons entitled to share—Obligation of Grantee to account.

Demurrer.

The Crown referred it to a judge to decide amongst what persons, and in what proportions, military prize of war should be distributed. The judge gave his decision, and Her Majesty by royal order granted the booty to the Secretary of State for India in Council "in trust" to distribute the same amongst the persons who by the judgment were entitled to share.

The plaintiff, who was one of such persons, by his statement of claim averred that part of the booty had been distributed, but that the defendant still had in his hands a large amount, which he refused to distribute or account for, and he claimed against him an account and an order for the distribution of the balance.

The royal order directed that the booty was to be distributed by the secretary or by any other person he might appoint, and that in case any doubt arose as to the distribution of the booty or its proceeds, or any claim thereto respectively, it should be determined by the secretary or such other person, which determination was to be final unless within three months Her Majesty should otherwise order, "hereby reserving to ourselves to make such other order therein as to us shall seem fit."

To this statement of claim the Secretary of State for India demurred.

Sir John Holker, A.G., and Macnaghten, for the demurrer:—Military booty being the property of the Crown pleno jure, whatever may be the terms of the grant (which is mere bounty) the property until actual distribution continues subject to the power of the Crown, even where the terms of the grant are absolute and the trust committed to a private individual (Alexander v. Duke of Wellington, 2 Russ. & My. 35), à fortiori when the grant is to a great officer: (Gidley v. Lord Palmerston, 3 Brod. & Bing. 275). The grantee is not a trustee in the ordinary sense of the word, and moreover by the terms of the grant all questions are to be determined by the secretary, and the right of the Crown to make any other order is expressly reserved.

W. Pearson, Q.C., and Willis Bund, for the statement of claim:—When once a grant in trust has been made, the trustee becomes subject to the ordinary jurisdiction of the Court, and there is no difference in this respect between a grant of the Crown and of an individual. Under 21 & 22 Vict. c. 106, the Secretary of State for India can sue and be sued; and this is not a question determinable by him within the meaning of the royal order.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said that the grant being in a form which created a trust in the grantee, there was nothing to prevent the cestui que trust from requiring his trustee to account. The question of obligation to account was not one determinable by the trustee within the meaning of the royal order; the case of Alexander v. Duke of Wellington (where there was only a scheme and no final grant) did not apply, and the demurrer must be overruled with costs.

THE BANQUE FRANCO-EGYPTIENNE v. GRANT AND ANOTHER.

Mayor's Court—Prohibition—Agent in making a Contract—Account stated—Costs.

This was an appeal against an order of the Court of Appeal, dated in November, 1877, by which judgment in prohibition was directed to be entered for the respondents.

No. 31.—1879.

The appellants constituted a Société Anonyme, carrying on business in Paris. Mr. Ernest May had in the business matters of the appellants generally acted as their agent in this country. The respondents were at the time of the order of the Court of Appeal bankers carrying on business in Lombard Street. The transactions which were the subject of the suit arose out of matters connected with the affairs of the Atlantic and Great Western Railroad Company, which was an American company. That company had issued mortgage bonds to a large amount, which were deposited as securities with the appellants, who had made large advances to the American Railroad Company. Various arrangements with relation to these securities took place, and the appellants in the year 1874 commenced an action by plaint of debt in the Mayor's Court of the City of London against the Atlantic and Great Western Railroad Company to recover a very large sum of money due from the railroad company to the appellants for money advanced by the latter. The purpose of bringing the action in the Mayor's Court was to enable the plaintiffs in the action to attach in the hands of Messrs. Grant, who acted as the bankers for the railroad company, large funds which it was alleged they held as the bankers of the company. They were, therefore, made parties to the action as garnishees. In order to found the jurisdiction of the Court in such a case it was necessary to shew that the claim in respect of which the suit was brought was a contract made, or an account stated, by an authorized agent of the company, within the limits of the City of London. It was asserted that this had been done by a Mr. McHenry, who was alleged to have acted in these matters of the advances and also of the stating the account as the agent of the Atlantic and Great Western Railroad Company. This allegation was denied by the company, and proceedings in prohibition were instituted. In them the railroad company obtained judgment.

The Court below had thought that the contract which Mr. McHenry had entered into on behalf of the Atlantic and Great Western Company, had been executed by him at Kensington and not in the City of London; and that what was relied on as an account stated did not really bear that character, but if it did, was not a matter which he had any authority to perform. On both grounds therefore judgment for a prohibition was pronounced. The appeal was then brought.

Sir H. James, Q.C., and Mr. Warmington, were for the appellants.

Mr. Murphy, Q.C., and Mr. Lumley Smith, who were for the respondents, were not called on to address the House.

THE LORDS on both points affirmed the judgment of the Court below with costs.

Mr. Grosvenor Woods applied on behalf of Mr. Waddell, the trustee in liquidation of the respondents, for his costs, he having been made a co-respondent in the appeal. He stated that that had been done by the appellants, and that Mr. Waddell had thought himself required to appear and put in a short case.

THE LORD CHANCELLOR said that the trustee in liquidation would get those costs which he had properly incurred by the short case he had lodged.

Proof of Debt after Order on Further Consideration.

This was an action for the administration of the estates of John Metcalfe and Anthony Metcalfe. John had been the personal representative of Anthony, and his personal representative was the representative of Anthony. A principal sum of 500*l.* was found to be due from John to the estate of Anthony at the death of Anthony, but no claim for interest was brought in. A balance was found due from the estate of John to the estate of Anthony on the above footing, and by the order on further consideration on the 9th of April, 1879, directions were given for raising it out of John's real estate and carrying it over to the account of Anthony's estate. The amount had not yet been raised. After the order on further consideration the representative found a small account book in John's handwriting, by which he admitted that at Anthony's death he owed Anthony 69*l.* for interest on the 500*l.* This account book referred to a page in a larger book kept by John, which had been used in making out the accounts in the cause. This page contained the same admission as to interest, but owing to its being towards the end of the book, which had no index, and to its being separated by a number of blank pages from the other accounts it had been overlooked. The personal representative then applied to have the amount to be raised out of John's estate increased by the amount of interest. This was refused by Fry, J., on the ground that the representative had all along had in his hands the materials enabling him to claim the interest for Anthony's estate. The personal representative appealed.

Colt, for the appellant.

Freeman, for one of the parties interested in John's estate.

THE COURT (James, Baggallay, and Thesiger, L.JJ.) held that the claim ought to be allowed, on the principle that a creditor may bring forward his claim as long as there are assets in hand, and that under the circumstances no negligence was to be imputed to the representative.

This was an appeal from a decision of Mr. Justice Fry (ante, p. 142), by which he held that a member of a defendant company who had been served with interrogatories under Order XXXI. r. 4, was entitled to be paid his costs by the plaintiff before he could be compelled to answer them. The plaintiff appealed from this decision.

Mulligan, for the appellant.

Buckley, for the member of the company.

Renshaw, for the company.

JESSEL, M.R., said that he could not agree with the opinion of Mr. Justice Fry. There was no analogy between the case of a member of a defendant company and a witness. The former was a partner in the company and a quasi party to the action. It was not the practice of the Court to allow a member to be interrogated if there was a secretary or other officer who was competent to give the discovery. If the member was the person who knew most about the transaction it was right that he should be examined, but he was examined as a partner in the company and he ought to appear by the solicitor of the company. If he appeared separately it must be at his own risk. The order would be discharged and the respondent must pay the costs of the appeal. The costs of the original application would be costs in the action.

In this case an action was brought in the Admiralty Division for damages in respect of a collision between the Peninsular and Oriental steamship Khedive and a Dutch steamship the Voorwaarts, which occurred in the Straits of Malacca. The case came before this Court in July last, when their Lordships, reversing the decision of the Admiralty Division, pronounced the collision to have been occasioned by the fault or default of the master and crew of the Voorwarts solely, and condemned the owners of the last-mentioned vessel in damages and costs. From this order the owners of the Voorwarts proposed to appeal to the House of Lords, and they now applied to stay proceedings

Lease of Building used as a Dissenting Chapel—Non-enrolment—Mortmain Act (9 Geo. 2, c. 36)—Charity—New Trustees—Sir Morton Peto's Act (13 & 14 Vict. c. 28)—Statute of Limitations (3 & 4 Vict. c. 27), s. 34.

Action by freeholder to recover possession from the lessees of the premises comprised in a lease not enrolled, and used as a dissenting chapel.

By a lease dated the 2nd of December, 1774, the piece or parcel of ground and the building thereupon erected were demised to six persons described as "trustees" for ninety-nine years, at the yearly rent of one shilling, reserving to the lessors the right "to use and enjoy the door into the said building for the purpose of going to and from their pews therein," with a covenant by the lessors for renewal of the lease to the lessees or their assigns at the expiration of the term, on notice being given as therein provided.

The building was and had ever since been used as a dissenting chapel, but the lease had not been enrolled under the Act of 9 Geo. 2, c. 36.

Several appointments of trustees of the chapel had been made from time to time, and on the 28th of May, 1873, all the former trustees having resigned, at a meeting of the church members duly held in the chapel, the present defendants were appointed trustees thereof, under the provisions of the Act 13 & 14 Vict. c. 38. A notice was served upon the plaintiff, in whom the reversion of the property was vested, for a renewal of the lease according to the terms of the covenant.

The plaintiff brought his action claiming possession of the property on the ground that the lease was void.

The defendants alleged that the lease was not granted for a charitable purpose, and did not require enrolment; they also pleaded the Statute of Limitations.

It appeared that the annual rent had not been paid for above twenty years, but that the arrears, as such, had since been paid within five years of the commencement of the action.

Ince, Q.C., and Colt, for the plaintiff.

Davey, Q.C., and Henderson, for the defendants.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS held, first, that s. 34 of the Statute of Limitations (3 & 4 Wm. 4, c. 27) did not apply; secondly, that there was sufficient evidence—from the terms of the lease, in which the lessees were described as trustees, and there was a reservation of access to pews, from the user of the building as a chapel, and the appointment of trustees under the Act 13 & 14 Vict. c. 38, to shew that the building was demised and held for the purpose of a chapel; and as that was a charitable use within the meaning of the Mortmain Act, the lease was void, and the plaintiff was declared entitled to possession and the costs of the action.

Marriage Settlement — Marriage with Deceased Wife's Sister — Illegal Consideration—Failure of Trusts.

J. Pawson, before going through the ceremony of marriage with Sarah Ellerton, his deceased wife's sister, executed a settlement in January, 1841, by which he assigned a policy of assurance upon his own life, for 2000*l.*, to trustees to hold the same upon trust for the said J. Pawson, his executors, administrators, and assigns, until the solemnization of the then intended marriage between J. Pawson and Sarah Ellerton, and after the solemnization thereof upon trust after the decease of J. Pawson to invest the proceeds of the policy and to pay the income to Sarah Ellerton for life, and after her decease upon trust to divide the capital amongst the two children of J. Pawson by his first marriage and such children as he should have by his then intended marriage as J. Pawson should by deed or will appoint, and in case there should be no such children living to attain a vested interest then in trust for J. Pawson, his executors, administrators, and assigns.

Shortly after the execution of the settlement the ceremony of marriage was gone through between J. Pawson and Sarah Ellerton, and there were six children of that connection. Sarah Ellerton died before J. Pawson, and he died on the 30th of August, 1877, after executing a will by which he gave all his real and personal estate to trustees for the benefit of his children by both marriages in the proportions therein mentioned.

This was a special case for the opinion of the Court whether the settlement of January, 1841, was a valid settlement of the property therein comprised so far as regarded the children by the first marriage, or whether it was valid as to the children of the then intended marriage, or whether in default of any valid settlement the plaintiffs, as the executors of J. Pawson, were entitled to retain the money as part of the general estate of the testator.

Hood, for the plaintiffs, relied upon Chapman v. Bradley (33 Beav. 61 and 4 D. J. & S. 71).

Romer, for the children by the first marriage, cited Ayerst v. Jenkins (Law Rep. 16 Eq. 275), and contended that the settlement was good as against the settlor; and that the trusts could be carried out in respect of those objects who were capable of taking, namely, the legitimate children, though it could not be so as to the illegitimate children.

Everitt, for some of the children of the settlor by Sarah Ellerton.

Locock Webb, Q.C., and Maclaren, for others of the same children.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR was of opinion that this case was entirely governed by Chapman v. Bradley, and that the trust in favour of the settlor himself, until the solemnization of a marriage which could never take place left the property in him absolutely, and his executors were entitled to it as part of his general estate.

Specific Performance.

Property of the defendant was put up for sale by auction on the 10th of February, 1879, and was knocked down to the vendor, but before the auctioneer left the room Stevens, the plaintiff's agent, signed and gave the auctioneer the following note: "I can offer you 50*l.* for the lease and plant, &c., if accepted at once." Baker, the auctioneer, replied that if Stevens would allow his offer to remain open for twenty-four hours he would submit it to the vendor.

On the 11th of February Baker wrote to Stevens: "I am directed to accept your offer of 50*l.* for the lease, fixed plant, and goodwill of this (property) according to the printed particulars. I shall be here at 11 to 11.30 to-morrow morning to sign contract."

Stevens did not attend at Baker's office until nearly twelve on the 12th of February, when Baker had left, and in the afternoon of the same day Stevens was informed by a letter from Baker: "I waited for you until 11.45 this morning, and as you did not keep the appointment made to sign contract in accordance with my letter I was compelled to go out, and the property has since been sold to another person."

Under these circumstances the plaintiff sought by her action to obtain specific performance of the alleged contract of the 11th of February, 1879, for sale by the defendant to her of the property.

W. S. Owen (Sir H. M. Jackson, Q.C., with him), for the plaintiff.

Hemming, Q.C., and W. Freeman, for the defendant:—There was no binding contract. Stevens' offer which was conditional was accepted conditionally only. Stevens by not attending within the time limited failed to comply with the condition, and the vendor could not, at a time when the purchaser was not bound, be expected to bind himself to the purchaser for an indefinite time and reject another and better offer.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that there had been a definite offer for a specific property which offer had been distinctly and unequivocally accepted. Each party was bound in writing, and the statement in Baker's letter "I shall be here at 11 to 11.30 to-morrow morning to sign contract" did not amount to a condition or term of contract that Stevens must be at Baker's office at that time, or in default that the contract would be at an end. The judgment would be for specific performance with costs.

Will—Construction—"Bequeathed."

Demurrer.

A married woman having under her marriage settlement a general power of appointment over certain specific sums of stock, by her will, dated in 1867, after fully appointing the specific sums of stock, proceeded as follows:—"I constitute and appoint my sister Eliza my residuary legatee to any property which has been bequeathed to me and which is not mentioned in this my will, I also bequeath to her all my trinkets and wearing apparel."

The father of the testatrix, by his will, bequeathed a sum of stock to her, but in his lifetime he transferred the same amount in lieu thereof to the trustees of her marriage settlement, to be held by them upon the trusts thereof. The father died in the lifetime of the testatrix, and the question was whether this sum of stock was property "bequeathed" to the testatrix within the meaning of her will.

This action was brought by the testatrix's sister Eliza in order to determine the question of construction.

Robinson, Q.C., and J. Cutler, for the demurrer.

W. Pearson, Q.C., and E. Cutler, for the statement of claim.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR, without saying that the word "bequeathed" had a technical meaning like the word "heirs," held that under its ordinary and accepted meaning (which must be here adopted) it did not apply to property coming by transfer inter vivos.

Vendor and Purchaser—Specific Performance—Limited Title—Restrictive Condition of Sale—Disclosure by Vendor of Defect in Prior Title.

The defendant agreed to purchase some freehold property belonging to the plaintiff, upon (inter alia) a condition that the abstract of title should commence with a deed dated the 30th of December, 1867, and that no earlier or other title should be required or inquired into by the purchaser. When the defendant's solicitor went to the plaintiff's solicitor's office to examine the deeds, a bundle of deeds was handed to him which contained a deed (of the existence of which the plaintiff's solicitor had been previously ignorant) of earlier date than the 30th of December, 1867, which disclosed a defect in the title. The plaintiff was unable to afford a satisfactory explanation of this deed, and the defendant refused to complete his contract. The action was brought for specific performance.

Dauney, for the plaintiff.

Whitaker, for the defendant.

FRY, J., held that the condition did not apply to a case where the defect was not discovered by means of any requisition or inquiry of the purchaser, but was disclosed by the vendor himself. And his Lordship held that the plaintiff was entitled to elect to have his action dismissed with costs, or to an inquiry whether he could give the defendant a good holding title. If the plaintiff chose the second alternative he must pay the costs of the action up to and including the trial, and the subsequent costs would be reserved, with liberty to apply.

Practice—Costs—Order LV. rule 1.

At the trial of this cause before Denman, J., the jury returned a verdict for the plaintiff for 12*l.*, accompanying their verdict with an intimation that the cause ought to have been tried in a county court. The learned judge thereupon, without waiting for any application on the defendant's part, though the defendant's counsel afterwards intimated that he had intended to make such an application, made an order that the plaintiff should have no costs.

Dickens now moved to rescind that order, on the ground that, under Order LV. the learned judge had no jurisdiction to make it. He submitted that by Order LV. r. 1, the plaintiff was entitled as of right to his costs, and that the judge had no power of his own mere motion to make an order depriving him of that right except "upon application made at the trial, for good cause shewn;" that being the condition upon which alone the jurisdiction of the judge arises. He submitted that Turner v. Heyland (48 L. J. 585) was expressly or at all events substantially overruled by the decisions of the High Court of Appeal in Myers v. Defries (4 Ex. D. 176) and Harris v. Petherick (4 Q. B. D. 611).

M'Call, contrà, submitted that the cases of Myers v. Defries and Harris v. Petherick were not inconsistent with Turner v. Hayland, inasmuch as they were not decided with reference to trials before a jury.

GROVE and LOPES, JJ., held that, the two cases before the Court of Appeal not being identical with the case decided in this Court, and neither expressly nor substantially overruling it, they must adhere to their own decision.

Motion dismissed, with costs.

Debt.

This was an appeal against a decision of the Court of Appeal which, on a question of opposing evidence, had reversed a previous decision of Vice-Chancellor Bacon. The question was whether a debt of 1800*l.* principal money was due to the present respondents, as executors of one John Watkins, for money lent by him to a relative named Roberts. The Court of Appeal decided that it was due.

Insolvency—Reversionary Interest.

This was an appeal from a decision of the Court of Appeal in Ireland which had reversed a previous decision of the Vice-Chancellor of Ireland. The original suit was instituted for the purpose of having an account of the distribution of assets arising from a devise of certain land in Stocking Lane, in the county of Dublin. There were many points in discussion in the Courts below (Ir. Rep. 10 Eq. 273; Ir. Rep. 1 Ch. D. 206), but the point presented for decision on this appeal was whether, by reason of the insolvency of the respondent's father in 1821 (when the 53 Geo. 3, c. 138, was in operation), and the proceedings under that insolvency, all the equitable estate, right, and interest of the respondent's father to a part of the profit rent of the lands of Stocking Lane, to which he had a title expectant in reversion, had not passed away from him and vested in the assignees under the insolvency by the conveyance made in pursuance of the Act. The reversion did not in fact fall in until many years after the insolvency. The Court of Appeal had held that that reversionary interest of the respondent's father had not passed under the insolvency (Ir. Rep. 1 Ch. Div. 222), and hence this appeal.

Mr. Arthur Cleary (of the Irish Bar) appeared in support of the appeal.

There was no appearance for the respondent.

THE LORDS were of opinion that the 18th section of 53 Geo. 3, c. 138, had no effect on a reversionary interest, which was not even named in the conveyance made under the statute. Appeal dismissed, and judgment of the Court below affirmed.

Bill of Sale—Act of Bankruptcy—Assignment of whole Property to secure antecedent Debt—Exception of Book Debts.

On the 27th of November, 1878, W. Tunstall, a grocer, executed a bill of sale of all his stock-in-trade, fixtures, goods, chattels, and effects in his shop to secure to W. Whitehead the repayment of 200*l.*, which had been lent by him to Tunstall on the 30th of September, 1878, with interest. The bill of sale was duly registered. On the 13th of December Whitehead took possession of the property, and on the 14th of December Tunstall filed a liquidation petition. The trustee in the liquidation applied to the Halifax County Court to declare the deed void as against him, on the ground that it was an assignment of the whole of the debtor's property in consideration of an antecedent debt. Whitehead alleged that the money was advanced by him upon a promise by Tunstall that the bill of sale should be given, but the Court of Appeal held upon the evidence that the agreement was that the bill of sale should not be given until Whitehead "should have lost confidence" in the debtor. The debtor's book debts were not comprised in the deed. In his statement of affairs he stated them as amounting to 363*l.*, and estimated them as worth 150*l.* The trustee, in an affidavit which he made on the 6th of March, said that he had applied by letter on the 29th of January to each of the debtors for payment, and had only, up to the date of his affidavit, received 6*l.*; that the debtors were all in poor circumstances and could only pay by instalments; and that it would take years to collect the debts. The Judge of the County Court declared the bill of sale void. The Chief Judge reversed this decision. The trustee appealed.

De Gex, Q.C., and Lane, for the appellant.

Winslow, Q.C., and Gane, for Whitehead.

THE COURT (James, Baggallay, and Thesiger, L.JJ.) held that the agreement was in effect to give the bill of sale only when the debtor should be on the verge of bankruptcy, and that consequently the deed was, on the principle of Ex parte Fisher (Law Rep. 7 Ch. 636), void as against the trustee. It comprised in substance all the debtor's property, for though book debts, if of sufficient value, might form a good exception, in this case the evidence shewed that they were practically not available to enable the debtor to carry on his business. The decision of the Chief Judge was, therefore, reversed, and that of the County Court Judge restored.

Contempt—Committal—Breach of Injunction—Notice by Telegram—Sheriff's Officer—Liability for act of Deputy.

This was an appeal from an order of the Chief Judge for the committal of Smith, a sheriff's officer, and Langley, an auctioneer, for contempt of Court, in selling under an execution the property of a liquidating debtor, after notice of an injunction granted by the Court of Bankruptcy restraining the sale.

The notice was given by the following telegram:—

"From Learoyd & Co., Solicitors, London, to the sheriff's officer in possession, Walmer Castle Hotel, Deal. Take notice, that the London Court of Bankruptcy has made an order restraining you from selling or taking any further proceedings in the action against Bishop."

This was the only notice. Smith was not present at the sale, and had no actual notice of the injunction. The telegram was handed to a clerk of his, who was present, and was shewn to Langley. The clerk then telegraphed to Smith for instructions, saying nothing about the injunction, but only that a telegram had been received to stop the sale. Meanwhile the sale was stopped. Smith replied by telegram, that, if the telegram from London did not state that the defendant had filed a petition, or that the debt had been paid, the sale was to proceed. The sale was then continued, and was finished before any other notice of the injunction was served. The auctioneer swore positively that he believed the telegram was a mere ruse on the part of the debtor to obtain a postponement of the sale, and that he did not believe or suspect that any proceedings had been taken in the Court of Bankruptcy, or that any order had been made by it. It appeared that the debtor had made previous attempts to get the sale postponed, and that representations had been made that he would come and pay the execution debt.

Ambrose, Q.C., and Bigham, for Langley.

Winslow, Q.C., and Finlay Knight, for the trustee in the liquidation.

THE COURT (James and Thesiger, L.JJ.) held that there was no case against Smith, because he had no actual notice of the injunction. If he had received the telegram he ought to have telegraphed, either to the London agents of the sheriff, or to the Bankruptcy Court, to ascertain whether the order had really been made, but he could not be held liable in this quasi criminal way for the default of his subordinate. And as to the auctioneer, though there were circumstances of suspicion against him, yet no order of committal could be made after his positive oath that he did not believe an injunction had been granted, there being circumstances which shewed that such a belief was not without some ground. Their Lordships did not hold that under no circumstances could a notice by telegram of an injunction be sufficient, but the question in each case would be whether it could be reasonably inferred that the person affected had actual notice, and the onus of proof was on those who alleged that there had been such a notice. Here the auctioneer had not been cross-examined, and his affidavit had not been answered. The order of the Chief Judge must be discharged; Smith must have his costs in both Courts, but Langley must bear his own costs.

JAMES, L.J., said that in such a case the better course for the solicitor who obtained the injunction to adopt was to telegraph it to a solicitor in the country and ask him, as his agent, to give notice of it. There would then be the responsibility of an officer of the Court.

Vendors and Purchasers—Payment of Purchase-money—Authority of Agent to receive Purchase-money—General Agent—Limited Authority.

Appeal of the plaintiffs from the judgment of Manisty, J., at trial without a jury.

Action to recover the balance of certain purchase-money.

The plaintiffs were trustees of a building society at Bristol and endeavoured to sell two houses at Swansea by auction: the houses were not sold, but immediately afterwards they agreed to sell them to the defendant: a deposit was paid. The assignment from the plaintiffs was sent to Price, who had been employed by the plaintiffs as auctioneer to sell the property. The assignment contained in the body thereof the usual acknowledgment of payment of the price, and a receipt for the purchase-money was indorsed. The defendant offered to pay the remainder of the purchase-money by cheque drawn to order, but Price refused it; and thereupon the defendant paid in cash. Price did not pay the remainder of the purchase-money to the plaintiffs and became insolvent. It was admitted that the plaintiffs' solicitors had authority to receive the money. The assignment was sent to Swansea to be delivered to the defendant in order to save him the trouble of coming to Bristol. Price for some purposes, such as receiving instalments on loans, was agent to the plaintiffs. Harvey was a friend of the defendant and had negotiated the purchase for him. It had been arranged between Harvey and the plaintiffs that the amount of the purchase-money should be paid by cheque payable to the order of the plaintiffs' solicitors.

McIntyre, Q.C., and G. B. Hughes, for the plaintiffs.

Benjamin, Q.C., Bowen Rowlands, and David Lewis, for the defendant.

THE COURT (Jessel, M.R., Bramwell and Brett, L.JJ) held that upon the sale of real estate the purchase-money must be paid to the vendor personally or to the agent especially appointed by him, and that not even the solicitor of the vendor with the conveyance in his possession has by virtue of his employment authority to receive the purchase-money. In the present case the limited authority given to the defendant to pay to Price by cheque had not been pursued; and the Court therefore reversed the judgment of Manisty, J., and entered it for the plaintiffs.

Ship and Shipping—Lien of Shipowner—Lien of unpaid Vendor—Production of Judge's Notes at Hearing in Court of Appeal.

Rule nisi for new trial returnable before the Court of Appeal.

The plaintiff, being the owner of a ship, loaded her with wheat at Portland, in Oregon, United States. He sold the cargo whilst afloat to Hamilton; by the terms of the sale the cargo was to be paid for at the rate of 60*s.* a ton, but by the bill of lading the freight was only 1*s.* a ton. Hamilton sold his interest in the cargo, and it ultimately vested in the defendants, who had notice of the terms on which the cargo was sold to Hamilton. The ship on her arrival was ordered to Great Yarmouth by the defendants to unload. The unloading commenced and the cargo was almost wholly delivered. The defendants paid large sums on account. A portion of the cargo was found to be damaged by perils of the sea: the defendants alleged that by virtue of an intermediate contract made with the seller to them the plaintiff was bound to make allowance for what was sea-damaged; and refused to pay a sum of about 190*l.* which represented its value. The defendants had paid for the rest of the cargo at the rate of 60*s.* a ton. The plaintiff sued to recover 190*l.* The jury found for the plaintiff.

Bulwer, Q.C. (W. Graham, with him), for the plaintiff.

Finlay, for the defendants.

THE COURT (Jessel, M.R., Bramwell and Brett, L.JJ.) held that from the defendants' conduct a contract by them might be implied to pay at the rate of 60*s.* a ton for all the cargo capable of delivery in consideration of the plaintiff waiving his lien on it, and that the jury were right in finding for the plaintiff.

In the course of the argument the Lords Justices intimated that when the judge's notes at the trial are required at the hearing of a case in the Court of Appeal, application ought to be previously made for them to the Court of Appeal, and that a member of the Court would communicate with the judge presiding at the trial, and request him to furnish his notes for the use of the Court at the hearing; and that the solicitors engaged in the case ought to instruct counsel to apply to the Lords Justices in order to obtain the judge's notes. It is irregular merely to bespeak the notes of the judge's clerk.

Bill of Sale—Inventory of Goods with Receipt attached—Receipt of Sheriff's Officer for Purchase-money of Goods sold under Execution—Bills of Sale Act, 1854 (17 & 18 Vict. c. 36).

Rule nisi for a new trial granted returnable before the Court of Appeal. The Exchequer Division (Cockburn, C.J., and Pollock, B.) had refused a rule nisi for a new trial, and upheld the finding for the plaintiff at the trial.

The question between the parties was whether, under the Bills of Sale Act, 1854, a receipt with an inventory attached, signed by a sheriff's officer, upon a sale to the plaintiff of goods seized under an execution, was an "assurance" which required registration. The facts and the judgments are fully reported (4 Ex. D. 59).

Macrae (Morgan Howard, Q.C., and J. C. Russell, with him), shewed cause.

Percy Gye, in support of the rule, relied upon Ex parte Cooper, In re Baum (10 Ch. D. 313).

THE COURT (Jessel, M.R., Bramwell, and Brett, L.JJ.) were of opinion that Ex parte Cooper was distinguishable, for there it was in effect held that independently of the documents there was no sale, and that if there had been no document, there would have been no transaction between the parties. But here the transfer of the property was complete without the receipt and inventory, which were merely evidence of payment and of the subject-matter of the sale. They therefore held that the receipt and inventory did not form an "assurance" within the Bills of Sale Act, 1854, and affirmed the decision of the Exchequer Division.

Lease—Surrender by Operation of Law—Statute of Limitations—Reversionary Interest—(3 & 4 Wm. 4, c. 27), s. 5.

Appeal of the defendant from the judgment of Pollock, B., after trial without a jury.

The plaintiffs were the owners of certain lands, including a cottage and garden, and in the year 1815 leased the same for a term of twenty years to one Edgell, with a covenant for renewal. In 1818 one Picket, through whom the defendant claimed, became tenant from year to year to Edgell of the cottage and garden at a yearly rent of 7*s.* 6*d.* The defendant paid the rent up to 1853, but never paid any afterwards. While one of the leases to Edgell was running the College, in October, 1857, renewed that lease for a term of twenty years. This was the last lease granted to Edgell. After the termination of this lease in 1878 the plaintiffs brought an action to recover possession of the cottage and garden from the defendant. Pollock, B., gave judgment for the plaintiffs.

The defendant appealed.

Woolfe, for the defendant, contended that the grant of the lease in 1857 by the plaintiffs to Edgell operated as a surrender at law of the previous lease, and that on the determination of the interest created by the previous lease, the reversionary interest of the plaintiffs became for a time, however short, an estate in possession, and that the right of the College to bring an action against the defendant then accrued: and that as twenty years had elapsed since such accrual no action could be maintained.

E. Robertson, for the plaintiffs, was not heard.

THE COURT (Lord Coleridge, C.J., Bramwell and Brett, L.JJ.,) held that there was no period of time between the surrender of the old lease and the grant of the lease of 1857 at which a right to bring an action by the plaintiffs vested, and that the interest of the plaintiffs was reversionary until the expiration of the lease granted in 1857. They affirmed the judgment of Pollock, B.

Libel—Privileged Communication.

Appeal of the defendant from the judgment of Cockburn, C.J., at the trial.

The defendant, who was a solicitor, had sent a report of certain proceedings in a plaint of Nettlefold v. Fulcher tried at the Marylebone County Court, for publication in certain local papers, which the plaintiff complained of as a libel. Cockburn, C.J., left it to the jury to say whether the report was a fair report, sent honestly, or from a desire to injure the plaintiff. The jury found that the report was a fair report but sent with a certain amount of malice. On this finding Cockburn, C.J., entered judgment for the plaintiff.

The defendant appealed.

Harris, and Poulter, for the defendant, contended that the publication of a fair report of proceedings in a Court of Justice was privileged absolutely.

Palmer, and Ladbury, for the plaintiff, were not heard.

THE COURT (Lord Coleridge, C.J., Bramwell and Brett, L.J.,) held that the publication of a report of proceedings in a Court of Justice sent to a newspaper by a volunteer is not privileged absolutely. The jury having found malice the judgment was rightly entered for the plaintiff.

Writ of Ne exeat regno.

This was an application for a writ of ne exeat regno which had been refused by the Master of the Rolls. The defendant, a German, who was captain and owner of a ship, mortgaged to the plaintiff the ship and all insurances upon her. On the 11th of November, 1879, the ship was sunk. The plaintiff thereupon commenced, in the Chancery Division, an action for the mortgage debt on the covenant contained in the mortgage deed, and applied for a writ of ne exeat regno against the defendant, alleging by his affidavit in support of the application that the debt would be in danger of being lost unless the defendant was prevented from going out of the jurisdiction. The application was refused by the Master of the Rolls on the ground, as was stated by counsel, that since the passing of the Judicature Act a ne exeat could not be granted except in cases coming within the exception in 32 & 33 Vict. c. 62, s. 6.

Fellows, for the application.

THE COURT (James, Baggallay, and Thesiger, L.JJ.,) refused the application, observing that the case was one of a mere legal debt, in respect of which a writ of ne exeat regno could not have been obtained in Chancery before the Judicature Act, and that the plaintiff was not entitled to the writ unless he could bring the case within the exception in 32 & 33 Vict. c. 62, s. 6.

Appeal of the plaintiff from judgment of Pollock, B., after trial with a common jury.

The writ was issued on the 25th of April, 1878.

In February, 1877, the female defendant, then being a widow, carried on the business of a dairy-woman at 78 Golborne Road, Westbourne Park, and in that month she sold it to the plaintiff for 350*l.* which was duly paid. At the time of sale she agreed in writing that she would not carry on that business within a mile of 78 Golborne Road under a penalty of 200*l.* to be recovered as liquidated damages. The plaintiff entered into possession of 78 Golborne Road, and there carried on the business of a dairyman. In September, 1877, the female defendant opened a shop at 51 Ackland Road, within one mile from 78 Golborne Road, and there began to carry on the business of a tallow-chandler. In March, 1878, the defendants intermarried, and almost immediately afterwards at 51 Ackland Road the business of a dairyman began to be carried on. It was proved that the male defendant had been working at weekly wages and he did not interfere with the dairy business, he being employed elsewhere, and that at the time of her marriage the female defendant was possessed of more than 300*l*. No settlement as to the dairy-business was executed upon the intermarriage of the defendants. In answer to the judge the jury found that the business of a dairyman carried on at 51 Ackland Road was the business of the wife and not of the husband. It further appeared that for about one fortnight after the marriage the female defendant's name remained painted up at 51 Ackland Road. The judge after taking time for consideration held that the finding of the jury could not be supported and entered judgment for the defendants. No other question was submitted to the jury.

Talfourd Salter, Q.C., for the plaintiff, referred to Ashworth v. Outram (5 Ch. D. 923), and Lovell v. Newton (4 C. P. D. 7), and contended that the plaintiff was entitled to judgment upon the finding of the jury, and relied upon Rules of the Supreme Court Order XL. r. 4.

Kemp, Q.C., and Henry Sutton, for the defendants.

THE COURT (Lord Coleridge, C.J., Bramwell and Brett, L.JJ.,) were of opinion that the best course to be pursued was to direct a new trial under the powers of Rules of the Supreme Court, March, 1879, Order LVIII. r. 5a, but they intimated that a judge cannot disregard the finding of a jury which is relevant to the matter in dispute, and enter judgment in opposition to it.

It was intimated by the Lords Justices that whenever an action has been settled after it has been entered for hearing in the Court of Appeal, notice ought to be given by the parties or their solicitors to the proper officers of the Court, in order that it may not be entered in the lists for the day and thereby cause delay and confusion in disposing of the business before the Court.

Winding-up Petition—Pending Action by Petitioner.

Glasse, Q.C., Millar, and C. B. McLaren, for the plaintiffs, John Brown & Co., moved on notice for an injunction to restrain the defendant Keeble from presenting a petition to wind up the plaintiff company. On the 12th of June, 1878, the defendant commenced an action in the Exchequer Division against the Luchana Mining Company (that being the name under which the plaintiff company with others carried on business in co-partnership), in which action he claimed to recover the sum of 260*l*. for rent of certain mines which were worked by the company. On the 27th of June, 1878, the defendant applied by summons to one of the Masters of the Exchequer Division for an order for final judgment for the amount claimed by him; but the master refused to make the order, and an appeal against the master's decision was afterwards dismissed, and the defendant was ordered to pay the costs. On the 19th of June, 1879, an order was made in the action for a special commission to examine witnesses at Bilboa, in Spain, and that all further proceedings in the action should be stayed until the return of the commission, and that order was still pending. The defendant's solicitor had written a letter to the plaintiffs on the 5th of November, threatening that if the claim made against the company by the defendant was not at once satisfied, a petition would be presented without further notice, to wind up the plaintiff company. It was further shewn by affidavit that the plaintiffs were perfectly able to pay any amount that might be found due from them to the defendant. They had a paid-up capital of 727,000*l*. and upwards, and were possessed of a very large amount of property over and above all their debts and liabilities, and there was no pretence whatever for any proceeding to wind up the plaintiff company, and the threat to do so was only intended by way of coercion and to cause an injury to the plaintiffs. A similar application had been made on behalf of Bolckow, Vaughan, & Co., who were also partners in the Luchana Mining Company, where the defendant had brought an action against the plaintiffs, and then filed a petition to wind up. The Vice-Chancellor on that occasion said he would grant the injunction unless an undertaking was given not to proceed with the action. It was now urged that an injunction should be granted in this case. It had become a very usual course for persons to bring actions against companies and threaten a winding-up petition unless the debt was paid. It was evident that in many cases, more particulary in those of banks, the credit of the company might be seriously endangered by a petition to wind up, and it was a most unjustifiable proceeding to present such a petition by way of coercion to obtain payment of a disputed debt.

No counsel appeared for the defendant.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said nothing in his opinion could be more unfair and improper than for a person having a disputed claim against a company to attempt by means of this system of coercion to compel payment of his alleged debt. In the present case, the firm of John Brown & Co., of Sheffield, was well known to be a solvent firm and there was no justification for the course threatened by the defendant. He would therefore grant this injunction to restrain the defendant from presenting any petition to wind up the plaintiff company.

V.-C. B. In re BRIDGES. Nov. 8.
UDAL v. BRIDGES.

Partnership—Joint Debt—Bankruptcy of Surviving Partner—Liability of Separate Estate of Deceased Partner.

A partnership having in April, 1875, been entered into between William Bridges and his son Albert Bridges, on the 16th of June, 1877, William Bridges died. At this date there was due to the first plaintiff, William Udal, a factor and merchant, the sum of 624*l.* 17*s.* 7*d.* as principal, and 28*l.* 8*s.* as interest, or thereabouts, for food sold and delivered by William Udal to the firm of William and Albert Bridges. In March, 1878, the interest of William Udal became vested in the co-plaintiffs his sons, William Udal the younger and Edward Udal; and in May, 1878, Albert Bridges, who had until then been continuing the business of William and Albert Bridges, presented a liquidation petition, under which one of the defendants, named Bourn, was appointed trustee. The plaintiffs, the sons of William Udal, had proved in the liquidation for an amount which included the 624*l.* 17*s.* 7*d.* and interest, and a further sum due to them and from Alfred Bridges alone, for goods supplied since the death of William Bridges, but they had not received a dividend: and the estate of Alfred was stated to be insufficient.

The present action, commenced by writ issued on the 11th of January, 1879, was brought by the Udals, suing on behalf of themselves and all other creditors of William Bridges, against the representatives of the estate of William Bridges, for an account and payment of what was due to the plaintiffs in respect of the debt due from the firm of William and Albert Bridges, and in default of payment for administration of William Bridges' estate, and a declaration that his estate, after satisfying his separate debts, was liable to the joint debts of the firm of William and Albert Bridges. The representatives of William Bridges' estate admitted assets.

It appeared that one of the plaintiffs, William Udal the younger, was chairman of the meeting of creditors of Albert Bridges, at which the liquidation resolutions were passed.

Sir H. Jackson, Q.C., Vernon R. Smith, and J. S. Udal, for the plaintiffs.

Kay, Q.C., and Jason Smith, for the defendants:—The plaintiffs accepted the credit of the new firm of Alfred Bridges in lieu of the liability of the old. The fact of William Udal the younger having presided at a meeting at which the liability of the old firm was mentioned and discussed, but nevertheless resolutions for winding up the new firm were passed, under which the plaintiffs proved for the joint debt, is evidence of novation.

Northmore Lawrence, for the defendant Bourn, demurred.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said that the joint assets of the firm of Bridges & Son were originally liable for the joint debt. Plaintiffs having proved against the estate of the son, and having failed to obtain payment, were entitled to claim against the estate of the father. The action of William Udal the younger had not prejudiced the rights of the plaintiffs; and as assets were admitted, there must be an order for payment of the amount due for principal and interest and the costs of the suit. The trustee was clearly a necessary party, and the demurrer must be overruled, the trustee taking his costs out of his own estate.

Husband and Wife—Assignment of a Leasehold House by Husband to Wife as her separate Estate—Mortgagor and Mortgagee—Fraud by Agent of Mortgagee—Forged Deeds.

Plaintiff, a married woman, claimed against mortgagees and against her husband a leasehold house, as against the latter on the ground that he had by deed assigned to her the house in question "as her separate estate," no trustees being named, and as against the former on the ground that an agent of hers, during the absence of her husband in India, having obtained possession of the title deeds (except the deed of assignment which she kept) for the purpose of raising money for her, defrauded her in the following way. He obtained from her a letter addressed to himself as follows: "With reference to the mortgage for 200*l.* you have lately effected for my husband upon the above property, I beg to inform you that I am desirous of paying off the amount, and I shall feel glad if you will return the deeds as soon as possible." With this letter the agent, having altered the 200*l.* to 1200*l.*, imposed on a firm of solicitors, through whom the defendants, the mortgagees, advanced 1200*l.* to the agent, on the security of mortgages and other instruments purporting to be signed by the husband, but the signatures to which were all forgeries by the agent, who was now undergoing penal servitude for another offence.

The mortgagees refused to give up the title deeds, as against the husband, because he had assigned the property; and as against the wife on the ground that she had furnished the means of effecting the fraud. The husband, on the other hand, claimed the property on the ground that the assignment was invalid; and the wife claimed it on the ground that the mortgages, being void, passed nothing to the mortgagees.

Sir H. Jackson, Q.C., and W. B. Heath, for the mortgagees.

Bristowe, Q.C., and W. P. Beale, for the husband.

Hemming, in reply.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that the assignment by the husband to the separate use of his wife was perfectly good in law, and that the gift could not be revoked. As between the wife and the mortgagees, the evidence, when closely examined, failed to shew any such negligence on the part of the wife, after it had been represented to her that the 200*l.* could not be raised without her husband's signature, as amounted to fraud in the view of the Court. She had repeatedly asked for a return of the deeds, and the agent had always promised to return them, but never did so. Will—Construction—"Revert"—"Family."

Petition.

The testator by his will, dated in 1869, bequeathed to his daughter Anne all his household goods, furniture, and effects (except such things as were thereinafter named as gifts), and gave all his real and personal estate (except what was comprised in the bequest to his daughter Anne) to a trustee "in trust to divide the whole of his estate between his three sons, Daniel, William, and Edwin, or in case of either of their decease, their share to be divided equally between the children of such deceased son." The testator then gave to the two children of his late daughter Amelia fifty shares in an insurance company, equally, twenty-five to each of them on their attaining twenty-one, or to the survivor should either decease; but should both decease, "then the same revert back to my three sons before named." The testator also made certain specific bequests to his three sons and son-in-law.

By a codicil to his will the testator directed that, with respect to his late daughter Amelia's child, Amelia Harriet, his trustee should hold sufficient stock to pay thirty guineas a year for her schooling until she attained fifteen years of age, "The same stock to revert again to the family at the end of that time."

Amelia Harriet having attained fifteen, and the trustee having transferred into Court, under the Trustees Relief Act, the stock which he had set aside in compliance with the codicil, the question was whether it "reverted again" to the three sons, or to the entire "family," including in the term the other children of the testator, of whom there were several.

Adjourned summons. By the settlement made on her marriage in 1842, and under the will of her mother, who died in 1851, Mrs. Harvey became entitled to real and personal property for life for her separate use, and after her death for such persons as she should by her last will and testament appoint, and in default of appointment for her children or next-of-kin.

Mrs. Harvey, who died in October, 1877, and who, in June, 1875, was by an inquisition before a master in lunacy found to be of unsound mind, by her will made in 1871 in pursuance of the power contained in the settlement and in the will of her mother, gave the property to her daughter for life with a power of appointment, except as to the sum of 2000*l.* which she, by a codicil made in 1873, gave to trustees in trust for her granddaughter. Mrs. Harvey died in the lifetime of her husband.

In an administration by the Court of Mrs. Harvey's estate it was found that her separate personal estate was insufficient to satisfy all her debts incurred before and in the matter of the lunacy, and this was a summons by the plaintiff asking, in effect, for a declaration that the property over which Mrs. Harvey had a power of appointment was chargeable with the deficiency for the payment of such debts.

Nothing further having been done by the plaintiff towards completion, the defendant's solicitors, on the 1st of November, 1878, wrote to the plaintiff that the defendant declared the contract at an end, and requested a return of the abstract. At the hearing of a plaint in the Greenwich County Court on the 15th of October, 1879, the judge non-suited the plaintiff. Application was made to Bowen, J., in chambers, within eight days after the decision for a rule nisi for a new trial. The learned Judge adjourned the case, which came on at a later day in the Vacation before Lindley, J., who adjourned the application to the next sittings of the Divisional Court.

Atherley-Jones, moved accordingly.

The Court (Field and Manisty, JJ.) refused to proceed with the application, on the ground that Lindley, J., had no power to adjourn the case into Court, but ought to have heard and determined it himself.

Registration Appeal — Residence — Bed-room reserved during Absence in Service under Articles to a Solicitor—2 Wm. 4, c. 45, s. 31.

Case stated by the revising barrister for the City and County of Exeter.

The respondent, the owner of a freehold rent-charge, had previously lived at his father's house within seven miles of the City of Exeter, and a separate bed-room was set apart for his exclusive use in the house, and the same room continued to be set apart for his exclusive use, with the right to use it whenever he thought fit, and he always kept some of his clothes and other property in the room.

In May last he went to London for the sole purpose of completing a term of service under articles to a solicitor there, and subject thereto he always intended to and did continue his said residence, with the right to the said room in his father's house, until the present time. In August, 1878, while serving under the articles, he returned to his father's house for his holidays and slept in the room for three weeks, then went back to London and remained there until the 23rd of January, 1879, when he came back to his father's house and slept in the said room until the present time. He had no other home.

The barrister decided that the respondent had a residence within seven miles of Exeter and had a right to reside there during six calendar months previous to the 15th of July last, and that his residence was sufficient under 2 & 3 Wm. 4, c. 45, s. 31, and he retained his name in the list.

Bompas, Q.C. for the appellant.
Bucknill, for the respondent.

The Court (Grove and Lindley, JJ.) held that as the respondent could not, consistently with service in London under his articles, be deemed to have had the liberty and intention of returning to his father's house whenever he liked during the whole six months, his residence was not sufficient.

Decision reversed.

Registration—List of Parliamentary Voters—Notice of Objection, Form of—41 & 42 Vict. c. 26, Sched. Form No. 2—Specification of the List—Lodgers—Occupiers.

The first Case was stated by the revising barrister for Westminster.

The question arose on a notice of objection.

"To Mr. Thomas Allen,

"I hereby give you notice that I object to your name being retained on the list of persons entitled to vote as lodgers at the election of members to serve in Parliament for the city of Westminster on the following grounds: [therein stated]"

This notice was dated 25th of August, 1877, and duly signed by the objector, whose address was given, and he was described as being "on the list of voters for No. 7 North Street, for the parish of St. John the Evangelist (called list No. 3)."

Allen objected that such notice was invalid, inasmuch as it did not specify upon which list of persons entitled to vote as lodgers for the election of members for the borough his name appeared.

There are eleven parishes and precincts within the borough, each having its own overseers; but for one of such precincts there was on the register no lodger.

As to the remaining ten parishes or precincts, the overseer of each parish or precinct made out, in obedience to the 22nd sect. of the Parliamentary and Municipal Registration Act, 1878, a list of persons who being on the register then in force in respect of residence in lodgings within the parish, claimed in respect of residence in the same lodgings to have their names inserted in the list of persons entitled to vote as the electors of members of parliament.

The revising barrister decided that the notice of objection ought to have specified upon which of the said ten lists the names of the person so objected to appeared.

The notice of objection was in Form No. 2 of the Schedule to the Act. But to that Form is the following "Note: If there is more than one list of Parliamentary voters the notice of objection . . . should specify the list to which the objection refers. . . ."

Sir H. Giffard, S.G. (Douglas Kingsford with him), for the appellant.

R. S. Wright, for the high bailiff of Westminster, respondent.

The second Case was stated by the revising barrister for the borough of Nottingham, and raised the same question with respect to a notice of objection to an occupier.

Ridley, for the appellant.
Graham, for the respondent.
Douglas Kingsford, for the town clerk of Nottingham.

The Court (Lord Coleridge, C.J., Grove and Lindley, L.JJ.,) held that in both cases the notices of objections were valid; the requirement in the note to the Form was that the notice should specify to which list, having regard to the different kinds of franchise, and not to which list, having regard to the particular parish, the objection referred.

COURT OF APPEAL.

From Ch. Div. DENCE v. MASON. Nov. 17.

Injunction—Fraud—Trade Name—Appeal by Bankrupt.

This was an appeal from a judgment of Vice-Chancellor Malins (ante, p. 42).

The action was brought to restrain the defendant Frank Mason from selling any concentrated beef tea or other meat essences with labels or wrappers in imitation of those used by the plaintiffs, and from using the name of Brand either alone or in combination with Mason, or any other name in the manufacture of those articles in such manner as to lead to the belief that the articles made by the defendant had been manufactured by the plaintiffs. The Vice-Chancellor at the hearing of the action granted an injunction substantially in terms of the claim. After the trial the defendant became a bankrupt. He now appealed from the judgment, but his trustee did not join in the appeal.

Solomon, for the appellant.

Bristowe, Q.C., and Freeman, for the plaintiffs.

THE COURT (James, Baggallay, and Thesiger, L.JJ.,) had at first some doubt whether the defendant was entitled to appeal, but they ultimately decided that he could appeal from the injunction, which was a personal order against him, notwithstanding the bankruptcy, though he had no interest in the order as to costs, his estate being now vested in the trustee. But on the merits their Lordships agreed with the Vice-Chancellor and affirmed his order with this exception, that they thought it went too far in restraining the defendant from using the names of Mason and Brand, and that it ought to be qualified by inserting a proviso that the injunction was not to restrain the defendant from using the name of "Mason and Brand" bonâ fide, if and when there should be a real partnership properly designated by that name. But this alteration was not to affect the costs of the appeal, which must be paid by the defendant.

This was an appeal from a decision of the Chief Judge (reported 11 Ch. D. 691.)

Romer, for the appellant (the trustee).

Winslow, Q.C., and Millar, for the judgment creditor.

THE COURT (James, Baggallay, and Thesiger, L.JJ), held that by the appointment of a receiver in the action in the Chancery Division the judgment creditor had obtained equitable execution of the debtor's equitable interest in the mortgaged property, and was therefore a secured creditor at the commencement of the liquidation, and entitled to hold his security as against the trustee. The case was really governed by Hatton v. Haywood (L. R. 9 Ch. 229), and Anglo-Italian Bank v. Davies (9 Ch. D. 275). Their Lordships added that since the Judicature Act it is not necessary for a judgment creditor, who seeks to affect a purely equitable interest of his debtor in land, previously to issue an elegit. The appeal was dismissed with costs.

Bill of Sale—Act of Bankruptcy—Assignment of whole Property in consideration of antecedent Debt—Prior Agreement.

This was an appeal from a decision of the Chief Judge.

On the 18th of September, 1878, J. T. Barker, a trader, executed a bill of sale of substantially the whole of his property to secure a sum of 359*l.*, which had been advanced to him on the 14th of November, 1877. When the money was advanced there was an agreement that Barker should give a bill of sale "if required" by the lender. When the deed was executed he was in great pecuniary difficulties, several writs having been issued against him. The mortgagee at once took possession of the property and sold it. On the 10th of October, 1878, Barker filed a liquidation petition. The Judge of the County Court held that the bill of sale was void as against the trustee in the liquidation. The Chief Judge reversed this decision, holding that the bill of sale was supported by the prior agreement. The trustee appealed.

Winslow, Q.C., and Finlay Knight, for the appellant, relied on Ex parte Fisher (Law Rep. 7 Ch. 636).

De Gex, Q.C., and E. Cooper Willis, for the mortgagee, urged that Ex parte Fisher is not a decision that an agreement to give a bill of sale "when required" is necessarily a bad one. That would be inconsistent with many other decided cases.

THE COURT (James, Baggallay, and Thesiger, L.JJ.) said that the principle applicable was laid down in Ex parte Fisher, viz., that when the giving of a bill of sale was purposely postponed until the trader was in a state of insolvency, in order to prevent the destruction of his credit which would result from registering the bill of sale, the postponement was evidence of an intention to commit an actual fraud on the general creditors. In each case the Court must take into consideration all the surrounding circumstances and see whether there was such an intention. The Court would require very clear evidence that the agreement set up to validate such a bill of sale was a bonâ fide agreement, and there must be a very clear explanation why the execution of the bill of sale had been delayed. The onus was on the person who set up the prior agreement to prove its existence and its bona fides. In the present case their Lordships came to the conclusion upon the evidence that the giving of the bill of sale had been purposely postponed until the debtor was in insolvent circumstances, in order not to injure his credit. Ex parte Fisher, therefore, applied, and the bill of sale was void as against the trustee. The appeal was, consequently, allowed.

Principal and Agent—Liability of Owner of Public-house for Spirituous Liquors supplied upon the Order of Manager—Practice—Production of Judge's Notes at Hearing in the Court of Appeal—Rules of Court, 1875, Order XL., r. 10.

Action to recover the price of spirituous liquors.

The defendant was a miller living at Crawley, in Sussex, and purchased a public-house called the Grapes situate near Covent Garden, in London. He took out the licences allowing the sale of spirituous liquors in his own name, but he appointed as manager Clark, to whom he entrusted the uncontrolled care of the house. It was intended that the profit of the undertaking should be Clark's. At the time when the defendant took the house, it was supplied with spirits by distillers named Boord & Co., and with beer by the City of London Brewery Company. The Grapes was not a "free" house, but was "tied" to the firm and company above-mentioned. Clark did not pay for some of the spirits and beer which he obtained from Messrs. Boord and the Brewery, and got into difficulties; and at last he applied to the plaintiffs for a supply of spirits, and stated that he was manager to the defendant. The spirits to the value of 149*l.* 7*s.* were accordingly supplied to Clark, but the defendant was debited with the price, and the permit was made out in the defendant's name. The defendant forbade Clark to obtain goods upon credit from any persons besides the Messrs. Boord and the City of London Brewery Company, and when he heard that Clark had obtained spirits from the plaintiffs, he wrote to them disavowing the transaction. The plaintiffs then sent to fetch back the spirits supplied by them to Clark, but the latter promised that if they were left he would pay for them. The spirits were accordingly left at the Grapes, and Clark paid 60*l.* on account. He got into further difficulties, and an execution against him was put into the Grapes. The defendant then gave notice to the sheriff claiming, except a few articles of furniture, all the goods, including the spirits upon the premises at the Grapes, and he made an affidavit to the like effect. The defendant afterwards sold the Grapes and the stock-in-trade thereon, including some of the spirits supplied by the plaintiffs. It was admitted that Clark had no express authority from the defendant to pledge his credit to the plaintiffs.

At the trial Lopes, J., asked the jury whether, before the spirits were supplied by the plaintiffs, the defendant had held out Clark as his agent authorized to pledge his credit. The jury found for the plaintiffs.

A rule for a new trial was moved for in the Common Pleas Division on the ground that there was no evidence to support the finding of the jury, and Denman and Lopes, JJ., under the powers of Rules of the Supreme Court, 1875, Order XL., r. 10, made it absolute to enter a judgment of non-suit.

The plaintiffs appealed.

Grantham, Q.C., and R. T. Reid, for the plaintiffs, contended that by appointing Clark as manager the defendant had under the circumstances clothed him with an authority to pledge the defendant's credit to the plaintiff; that the question was one of fact which had been decided by the jury; that the defendant had ratified the sale; and that at all events the defendant was only entitled to a new trial and that judgment of non-suit ought not to have been entered. They referred to Edmunds v. Bushell (Law Rep. 1 Q. B. 97).

Moulton, for the defendant, was not called upon to argue.

THE COURT (Bramwell, Brett, and Cotton, L.JJ.) were of opinion that the mere appointment of Clark as manager was insufficient to make the defendant liable, and that there was no evidence that the manager of a "tied" house was entitled by virtue of his employment to obtain goods on credit from brewers and distillers generally; that the circumstances of the defendant claiming the spirits as his own property when they were seized in execution, and of his afterwards selling them, were explained by the fact that as the business was carried on for the benefit of Clark, the defendant took the spirits which remained in substitution for those on the premises when Clark came in. They thought that the power of entering judgment under Order XL., r. 10 had been properly exercised in the Common Pleas Division, and dismissed the appeal.

During the argument the Lords Justices again intimated that when the notes of a Judge taken at a trial were required at a hearing in the Court of Appeal, application must be made to the Court of Appeal and one of the Lords Justices would request the Judge to furnish his notes for the use of the Court. It was irregular merely to bespeak them of the Judge's clerk.

DENIS FRÈRES v. AGRICULTURAL AND HORTICULTURAL CO-OPERATIVE ASSOCIATION.

Principal and Agent—Authority of Agent—Repudiation of Contract.

Claim for 43*l.*, the price of brandy sold and counter-claim for the cost of inserting advertisements.

The plaintiffs were wine merchants at Bourdeaux, and had in London an agent named Breillats. The latter entered into a contract with the defendants for the supply of brandy, the price of which should be set off against the cost of advertising the plaintiffs' firm in a journal belonging to the defendants and called the Agricultural Economist. Breillats requested the plaintiffs to send the brandy to the defendants without informing them of the terms upon which the defendants had agreed to take it. Breillats had merely mentioned to the plaintiffs that the journal was published. The plaintiffs accordingly sent the brandy to the defendants, but when they learnt from the defendants the terms upon which Breillats had made the contract, they repudiated them. Breillats disappeared and could not be found. The defendants advertised the plaintiffs' firm in the Agricultural Economist.

At the trial Pollock, B., gave judgment for the defendants upon the claim, and for the plaintiffs upon the counter-claim.

The plaintiffs appealed from the judgment of Pollock, B., and also obtained a rule nisi to set it aside.

Talfourd Salter, Q.C., and S. Woolf, for the plaintiffs, contended that Breillats had no authority to enter into a contract of barter on behalf of the plaintiffs, who were entitled to be paid the price of the brandy in money.

Kemp, Q.C., for the defendants, contended that if the plaintiffs were entitled to be paid in money for the brandy, the defendants were entitled to the costs of the advertisements.

THE COURT (Bramwell, Brett, and Cotton, L.JJ.) came to the conclusion upon the correspondence and other evidence that the plaintiffs were entitled to be paid for the brandy in money. They directed that the plaintiffs should recover upon the claim 43*l.*, the price of the brandy, and that the defendants should recover upon the counter-claim 13*l.* for advertisements, and they directed that judgment should be entered for the plaintiffs for 30*l.*

LANCASHIRE WAGGON COMPANY v. NUTTALL AND OTHERS.

Construction of Contract—Contract for Hire and Purchase—Separable Contracts contained in one Document.

Special case.

By articles of agreement dated the 25th of January, 1876, and made between the plaintiffs of the one part and the three defendants, W. Nuttall, J. Kay, and J. Wild, and also W. Taylor and J. Watson (who had suffered judgment in this action bydefault) therein called the lessees, of the other part, the plaintiffs agreed to let to the lessees and the lessees agreed to hire from the plaintiffs forty-four waggons, as to twenty thereof for the term of five years from the 1st of November, 1875, and as to the remaining twenty-four for the term of three years from the 1st of December, 1875, as to the twenty waggons at the yearly rent of 285*l.*, payable quarterly on the 1st of February, the 1st of May, the 1st of August, and the 1st of November in each year, and as to the twenty-four waggons at the yearly rent of 249*l.*, payable quarterly, on the 1st of March, the 1st of June, the 1st of September, and the 1st of December in each year. The sum of 133*l.* 10*s.* was paid down. The articles of agreement contained amongst others the following clauses:

"If the said yearly sums hereby agreed to be paid by the said lessees for the hire of the said waggons respectively or any quarterly payment thereof shall be in arrear and unpaid for the space of one calendar month next after the day whereon the same ought to be paid as aforesaid, then and in such case the said term for which the same waggons are hereby agreed to be let shall absolutely determine, and the lessees shall cease to have any right or interest in or to the same respectively or any of them, and shall upon demand or without any demand being made forthwith deliver up all the same waggons to the" plaintiffs, "and if they shall neglect or refuse so to do it shall be lawful for the" plaintiffs, "or their agent or agents to enter into and upon any premises of the lessees whereon the same waggons or any of them may be, and there or elsewhere to seize and take away the same waggons and the same respectively to repossess and enjoy as if this agreement had not been made.

"Provided always, and it is hereby declared and agreed, that the said waggons shall at the expiration of the respective terms of this demise and after payment of the rents hereby reserved during the said terms respectively be and become the absolute property of the said lessees without any further payment whatsoever . . . . and the" plaintiffs "shall at the request and cost of the lessees execute and do all such acts and things for transferring the said waggons to the said lessees absolutely, as may be reasonably required. this agreement to any responsible person or persons to be first approved in writing by the" plaintiffs.

The defendants, Nuttall, Kay, and Wild, applied to the plaintiffs for a licence to assign the twenty-four waggons to the remaining defendants, the Co-operative Wholesale Society, Limited, but the plaintiffs refused to grant it. The defendants upon the 16th of February, 1878, sent a clerk to the plaintiffs' secretary with a sum of 249*l.*, being the balance of the instalments of the price of the twenty-four waggons, and they also sent a letter stating that they paid it in order that they might transfer these waggons to the society. The plaintiffs' secretary refused to accept the 249*l.* upon these terms, but the clerk declined to take away the money and left the secretary's house without it. The plaintiffs' secretary thereupon took possession of the money and entered the amount in the plaintiffs' ledger as a payment generally on account of rent falling due under the agreement in respect of the entire number of waggons. Immediately after payment of the 249*l.* the defendants, Nuttall, Kay, and Wild, assigned and transferred the twenty-four waggons to the Co-operative Wholesale Society, who took possession of them and sold some of them. The plaintiffs alleged that after giving credit for 249*l.* a balance of 18*l.* was due to them for rent upon the whole number of forty-four waggons; and the defendants, Nuttall, Kay, and Wild, admitted that a sum of 142*l.* 10*s.* was due from them in respect of the twenty waggons. Before action the plaintiffs demanded from all the defendants re-delivery of the twenty-four waggons, which was refused. The defendants, Nuttall, Kay, and Wild, had the twenty waggons in their possession at the commencement of the action.

The Common Pleas Division (Lord Coleridge, C.J., and Denman, J.) gave judgment for the defendants, the Co-operative Wholesale Society, and gave judgment for the plaintiffs against the defendants, Nuttall, Kay, and Wild, for 142*l.* 10*s.* The plaintiffs appealed.

Ambrose, Q.C., and C. Crompton, for the plaintiffs.

Gully, Q.C., for the defendants Nuttall, Kay, and Wild, and C. Russell, Q.C., and A. V. Dicey, for the defendants, the Co-operative Wholesale Society, were not called upon to argue.

THE COURT (Bramwell, Brett, and Cotton, L.JJ.) affirmed the judgment of the Common Pleas Division. Their Lordships were of opinion that the contract as to the forty-four waggons was severable as to the two lots of twenty waggons and twenty-four waggons, that it was the object of the plaintiffs to sell the waggons, and that the payment by instalments was merely a term introduced for the benefit of the buyers, which they might renounce at their pleasure, and that the buyers upon payment were entitled to the twenty-four waggons before the expiration of the specified period.

TROTTER'S CLAIM.
Undertaking by Counsel.

The company being in course of winding-up under supervision, Trotter claimed a debt of 150 guineas. The case being adjourned into Court the Master of the Rolls decided against the claim. Counsel for the liquidators asked whether the claimant intended to carry the matter further and on receiving the answer that he did not, said that he should not press for costs. It not being noted on counsel's briefs that there was to be no appeal the registrar declined to insert any undertaking in the order which was drawn up simply as a refusal of the claim without costs. Trotter appealed.

Higgins, Q.C., and Oswald, for the appellant.

Davey, Q.C., and W. Barber, for the liquidators.

THE COURT (James, Baggallay, and Thesiger, L.JJ.) held that as the undertaking not to appeal was not embodied in the order an appeal would lie, but said that it ought not to have been brought, as such undertakings ought to be carried out in good faith.

The appeal was then heard on the merits, and the order of the Master of the Rolls varied by refusing the claim with costs, including the costs of the appeal.

In this case (noted Weekly Notes, 1878, p. 228) a winding-up order was made by Vice-Chancellor Malins on the 1st of February, 1879. The company appealed.

Practice—Notice of Appeal given—Appeal not set down—Appeal dismissed.

Original motion.

Upon the 22nd of July, 1879, the defendant, who was a solicitor, served a notice of appeal to this Court, and on or about the 30th he applied ex parte and obtained from the Divisional Court an order to stay execution upon paying the taxed costs into Court. The defendant had never served that order, but about the middle of August paid into Court the amount of one master's allocatur only, but not the amount of two other allocaturs obtained in this action. The appeal to this Court was not set down in the printed list of appeals for hearing at the beginning of these sittings, although it should have been before the 29th of July, that being the day mentioned by the defendant in his notice of appeal for bringing the same on.

The plaintiff, by notice of motion dated the 20th of November, gave notice that this Court would be moved that the order of the Divisional Court, dated the 30th day of July, 1879, staying execution herein should be discharged; that leave might be given to the plaintiff to take out of Court the sum of 21*l.* 19*s.* 2*d.* paid in by the defendant; that the costs of and occasioned by the notice of appeal dated the 22nd day of July, 1879, and of this application should be paid by the defendant to the plaintiff; or that such further or other order might be made as to the Court should seem meet.

Moloney, for the plaintiff.

R. Vaughan Williams, for the defendant, stated that it was owing to the neglect of the defendant's clerk that the appeal had not been set down, the clerk being under the impression that it was only necessary to serve the notice of appeal upon the plaintiff's solicitors; but he admitted that he had not been furnished with an affidavit on behalf of the defendant in support of this statement, and also that he had not received proper instructions.

THE COURT (Bramwell, Brett, and Cotton, L.JJ.) doubted whether they had power to give leave to the plaintiff to take out of Court the sum paid in by the defendant, but they ordered that the appeal should be dismissed with costs, and with costs of the present application.

Practice—Administration Action by Creditors.

Dickinson, for the plaintiff in this action, moved for a decree for the administration of a testator's estate, and for payment of the plaintiff's debt and other debts of the testator in the due course of administration and for a receiver.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said that this was distinctly a creditor's action and it was always usual for the plaintiff to sue on behalf of himself and all other the creditors of the testator, but that course was not adopted in this case.

Macnaghten, for the defendant:—Authorities were mentioned in which the Courts had lately differed upon this subject.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR (after consulting the Registrar) said he was informed that there was authority in favour of having a creditor's suit entitled as such. It was not perhaps absolutely necessary, but, in his Lordship's opinion, it was decidedly proper and convenient that it should be so. He should therefore order the claim to be amended by entitling it as a creditor's suit by the plaintiff on behalf of himself and the other creditors of the testator.

THORLEY'S CATTLE FOOD COMPANY v. MASSAM.
MASSAM v. THORLEY'S CATTLE FOOD COMPANY.

Injunction—Advertisements causing Injury to Trade—Practice—Witnesses—Right of Cross-examination.

The first of these actions was brought by J. W. Thorley's Cattle Food Company against the executors of the late Joseph Thorley, who had carried on for many years the manufacture and sale of a compound known as Thorley's Food for Cattle, claiming an injunction to restrain the defendants from advertising or representing in their advertisements or circulars that they were alone possessed of the secret for compounding that condiment, and from representing that the cattle food sold by the plaintiffs' company was spurious or not genuine or not compounded in accordance with the true recipe, of the same ingredients and in the same proportions and manner as the condiment known as "Thorley's Food for Cattle." When the case came on in June, 1877, upon motion for an injunction, the Vice-Chancellor expressed an opinion that the defendants were not justified in issuing the advertisements complained of, since the late Joseph Thorley and J. W. Thorley were equally acquainted with the secret of compounding the cattle food, but refused to grant an injunction upon an interlocutory application (vide report 6 Ch. D. 582). That action now came on for hearing, with evidence by the plaintiffs that they had sustained damage by the return of some of their cattle food from customers in consequence of the defendants' advertisements; and evidence, by the defendants, that the two condiments were not in fact compounded of the same materials.

In the second action the executors of Joseph Thorley claimed an injunction to restrain J. W. Thorley's Cattle Food Company from representing any cattle food manufactured by them as the cattle food sold by the late Joseph Thorley or his executors, and from representing that they were now carrying on the business which was formerly carried on by Joseph Thorley.

This case rested entirely upon the evidence whether the travellers sent out by the company had or had not represented that the company were carrying on their business as successors to the late Joseph Thorley.

Higgins, Q.C., and Townsend, for the Cattle Food Company.

Glasse Q.C., and Nalder, for the executors of the late Joseph Thorley.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR was of opinion in the first action that the advertisements issued by the executors of Joseph Thorley were calculated to injure the company's trade, and as actual damage had been proved, he would grant the injunction claimed, and would assess the damages at 40*s*.. The costs to be paid by the defendants.

In the second action his Lordship considered that the evidence was not strong enough to shew that misrepresentations had been made by the company's travellers contrary to the express directions given to them by the company. He therefore dismissed the action with costs.

Digitized by Google

In the course of hearing the second action the following question of evidence arose. The defendants' counsel read the affidavits of some of their witnesses, who were then further examined in chief, and afterwards cross-examined by the plaintiffs' counsel. The defendants' counsel refused to read the affidavits which had been made by other witnesses, and declined to offer those witnesses for cross examination. The plaintiff's counsel claimed a right to cross-examine any of the defendants' witnesses who had made affidavits.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR decided that where the affidavits of witnesses were read, the opposing counsel had a right to cross-examine those witnesses, but they had no right to insist upon the cross-examination of witnesses whose affidavits were not read.

Practice—Taxation.

Adjourned summons to vary the taxing master's certificate.

In this action, which was brought to restrain an alleged interference with the access of light to his premises, the plaintiff obtained an injunction upon one of the three issues, but upon the other two the action was dismissed. By the order as drawn up it was referred to the taxing master "to tax the costs of the defendant of so much of the action as has been dismissed, and to tax the costs of the plaintiff of the rest of the action" with a set-off of the costs of the plaintiff against those of the defendant.

The taxing master taxed the plaintiff's costs in full and allowed the plaintiff one third and the defendant two thirds. Acting on the same principle he had taxed the defendant's costs in full and allowed him two thirds and the plaintiff one third.

The plaintiff objected to this mode of taxation, and insisted that each item ought to be gone into according as it was incurred in respect of that part of the claim in respect of which the plaintiff or defendant had been successful, and should be allowed to the plaintiff or defendant as the case might be.

In overruling the plaintiff's objections the taxing master gave the following reasons: "The order gives to each party the costs of so much of the action as to which he succeeded. The action contained three distinct issues. The general costs of the suit relate to all the issues, and are therefore proportioned rateably in thirds according to the established practice in the taxing master's office in dealing with orders made in this form, a practice confirmed by numerous decisions. Had it been intended to give the plaintiff more than this, the order would have given him the costs of the action, except so far as they had been increased by the addition of the issues in which he had failed."

Horton Smith, Q.C., and E. Thurstan Holland, for the plaintiff, contended that the costs should be apportioned according to their objections to the certificate, and cited Seton (4th Ed.), p. 129.

Sir H. Jackson, Q.C., and Mardlow, for the defendant.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR:—The rules referred to in Seton did not touch this case, which must be decided upon the construction of the order. As the general costs of the action related to all the issues the taxing master had come to a right conclusion, and the application must be dismissed with costs.

V.-C. B. ANSON v. POTTER. Nov. 15.

Trustee—Power to give Receipts—Payment by Anticipation.

Special case.

By indenture of the 23rd of February, 1838, certain funds were settled upon trust when Sarah Potter should attain 21 or marry, to pay her the annual income for her separate use for life, and after her death (and subject to a power thereby given to her to appoint the annual income to her husband for life if he survived her) in trust for her children equally.

Miss Potter married T. V. Anson in June, 1843, to whom she appointed the annual income of the trust funds during his life. She died in May, 1846, leaving two children of the marriage, C. V. Anson, the plaintiff, and G. V. Anson, since deceased.

By the settlement on the marriage of C. V. Anson, of the 31st of December, 1873, all his interest in the trust funds was assigned by him to trustees with full power to them to call in and compel payment and to give effectual discharges for the same, and it was thereby provided that the receipt of the trustees for any money, &c., which might be paid to or transferred to them by virtue of that settlement or in execution of any of the trusts or powers thereof, should effectually discharge the persons transferring the same from being answerable or accountable for the loss or misapplication thereof.

C. V. Anson by his will gave his reversionary moiety of the trust funds to his brother, the plaintiff.

In September, 1878, T. V. Anson assigned to the plaintiff, his executors, administrators, and assigns, all the interest to accrue during his lifetime on the trust funds.

The plaintiff and his trustees having applied to the trustees of the settlement of 1838 to pay over the trust funds to them, the trustees of 1838 objected that until the death of T. V. Anson, the tenant for life under his wife's appointment, the plaintiff and his trustees could not give an effectual receipt for the money, or discharge the defendants from liability to account on the death of T. V. Anson.

The question was now raised by special case under Rules of Supreme Court, 1875, Order XXXIV.

Sir H. Jackson, Q.C., and W. Baker, for the plaintiffs.

Horton Smith, Q.C., and Droop, for defendants.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that as the reversionary interest and the life interest had become combined in one person, the trustees of the settlement of 1838 would be justified in paying over the fund to the plaintiff.

There were two defendants to this action, Dickie and M'Lachlan. After the pleadings had been closed, notice of trial served on their solicitor on the record, and the action set down for trial, Dickie became bankrupt. The common order of revivor was obtained against his trustee on the 23rd of June 1879, and was served on him on the 25th of June. He did not enter an appearance. On the 26th of July the plaintiff served notice on the trustee that the action, which had stood over on account of the bankruptcy, had been restored to the paper for trial, but was not to be in the paper till the 31st of July. On the 31st of July the action came on for trial before Fry, J. M'Lachlan appeared, but neither Dickie nor his trustee appeared.

Judgment was given for the plaintiff.

The registrar declined to draw up the judgment on two grounds, (1) that, as the trustee had not appeared, the pleadings and notice of motion for judgment ought to have been filed as against him; (2) that an affidavit of service of notice of trial on Dickie should have been filed before the trial.

W. Renshaw, for the plaintiff, now asked the direction of the Court.

FRY, J., overruled both the objections; the first, on the ground that the effect of the order of revivor was to put the trustee in the exact position of the bankrupt on whom notice of trial had been already served; and the second, on the ground that a defendant who did not appear at the trial was sufficiently protected by the power given to the Court by rule 20 of Order XXXVI. to set aside the judgment. His Lordship said that when he decided Cockshott v. London General Cab Co. (26 W. R. 31) he was told by the registrar that the practice was always to require proof of service of notice of trial, but it now appeared that this was not the practice in the Common Law Divisions.

Application for a mandamus to Sir Robert Carden, an alderman and magistrate of the City of London, commanding him to receive certain evidence on the hearing of an information for libel (not charging it to have been published with knowledge that it was false), laid before him by Edward Levy Lawson against Henry Labouchere.

It appeared from the affidavits that the defendant at the hearing of the information had claimed to cross-examine the complainant and to call witnesses in respect of certain matters tending to shew that the defamatory statements contained in the libel were true. The magistrate declined to admit the evidence, and postponed the further hearing to admit of an application for a mandamus.

A rule nisi had been obtained against which

Sir John Holker, A.G., Sir H. S. Giffard, S.G., Serjt. Ballantine, and Poland, on behalf of the prosecutor, shewed cause.

Gorst, Q.C., and Lumley Smith, appeared for Sir Robert Carden.

Russell, Q.C., Wildey Wright, and MacDonell, supported the rule:—They contended that the magistrate ought to receive the evidence as evidence of the truth of the libel, or if not, then as evidence of the facts and circumstances of the case.

THE COURT (Cockburn, C.J., Lush and Manisty, JJ.) were of opinion that the only function of the magistrate was to inquire whether there was such a case against the accused as ought to be sent for trial, and that the evidence was not admissible to prove the truth of the libel before the magistrate, inasmuch as, by the express provisions of 6 & 7 Vict. c. 96, s. 6, that could only be inquired into upon certain statutory conditions at the trial, and the magistrate, therefore, had no jurisdiction to hear evidence relating to it. They also held that the evidence was not admissible on any other ground as not bearing upon the question which the magistrate had to determine. They therefore discharged the rule.

MACALLISTER v. BISHOP OF ROCHESTER AND OTHERS.

Church—Vicar's Right of Presentation to Chapel erected and endowed under 14 & 15 Vict. c. 97, ss. 7, 11—Notice to Incumbent and Patron of Parish—Estoppel.

Claim: That the plaintiff was vicar of the parish of Plumstead, and in 1863 persons erected a chapel within the parish. In 1878 an endowment fund having been provided the chapel was, without the plaintiff's consent, consecrated by the bishop for the administration of the sacraments and all other divine offices; the plaintiff as vicar was entitled to and did nominate and present a fit clerk to officiate in the chapel, but the bishop refused to license, institute, and admit him, and licensed, nominated, and admitted another. The other defendants claimed the right to nominate and present, and had exercised it in favour of the said clerk to the hindrance of the plaintiff in the exercise of his right and to his damage. He claimed to have his right established and declared; and to have his nominee licensed, instituted, and admitted; and also damages.

Defence of the defendants other than the bishop: That the chapel was erected and the endowment provided by freeholders and was conveyed by them to the Ecclesiastical Commissioners, after an application made to them for that purpose, and for a declaration of the right of nomination of the minister; notice of such application was, previously to any declaration, sent, according to the Act, by the commissioners to the plaintiff then being both patron and incumbent of the parish, or being believed to be so; and after notice the plaintiff stood by and allowed the defendants to endow the church and procure it to be consecrated in such belief, and he was estopped from denying that he was patron, and three months after notice the right to nominate was duly declared to be for ever in the defendants, who nominated accordingly.

Demurrer to the allegation of estoppel.

A. Charles, Q.C. (Hugh Cowie with him), for the plaintiff, argued that the notice to both the patron and incumbent was a condition precedent to the operation of the Act.

J. Dixon, for the defendants, relied on the estoppel, but further contended that the claim itself was bad, inasmuch as the plaintiff did not shew himself entitled to what he claimed.

Cur. adv. vult.

THE COURT (Grove and Lindley, JJ.) were of opinion that there was no right in the vicar of a parish, as such, to present to any consecrated chapel in his parish unless such chapel is a chapel of ease, and he had not shewn that the chapel in question was such a chapel. Even treating this action as a quare impedit, and assuming that it would lie for a chapel of the kind alleged, the plaintiff could not sustain such action, as he had not shewn seisin of the advowson. If, however, he had shewn such a right, the facts alleged as an estoppel would not have been an answer to his claim, as a vicar's rights are not mere private rights, which could be waived or renounced at his own will and pleasure.

BURKE v. SOUTH-EASTERN RAILWAY COMPANY.

Carriers—Railway—Through Ticket with Coupons—Condition inside Cover limiting Liability—Notice of.

Action for negligence causing personal injury to the plaintiff while travelling on a French railway under a through return ticket issued to him by the defendants, the South-Eastern Railway Company. The ticket was in the form of a small paper book, containing coupons which were to be given up at different stages of the journey. On the outside of the cover of the book was the number of the ticket, the name of the defendants' railway, and "Cheap return ticket. London to Paris and back. Second class," &c., but contained no reference to the inside or second page of the cover, on which was printed that "The cover without the coupons, or the coupons without the cover are of no value," and, after a statement that the English railway companies were not responsible for loss or detention of or injury to luggage of the passenger except while he was travelling by their trains or boats, "Each company incurs no responsibility of any kind beyond what arises in connection with its own trains and boats." At the trial before Cockburn, L.C.J., the defendants relied on the condition which, however, the plaintiff said he had not read, and the jury were asked whether what had been done by the company was reasonably sufficient to bring the condition to the notice of the plaintiff. The jury found that it was not, and gave a verdict for the plaintiff.

Macintyre, Q.C. (Barnard with him), now moved for judgment, and relied on Henderson v. Stevenson (Law Rep. 2 Sc. App. 470).

Sir H. Giffard, S.G., for the defendants, was not heard.

THE COURT (Lord Coleridge, C.J., and Lindley, J.) distinguished the facts from those of the case cited. The whole book, and not merely the outside of the cover, was the contract entered into by the plaintiff, and the condition being part of it he was bound thereby. Judgment should be entered for the defendants under Order XL. r. 10.

This was a case stated by the recorder of Hull.

The prisoner was convicted at the quarter sessions at Hull on an indictment under s. 12 of 32 & 33 Vict. c. 62 (The Debtors Act, 1869).

The prisoner, who had traded in Hull, left England with a sum of money exceeding 20*l.*, and was, during his absence, adjudged bankrupt. At the time he was so adjudged he was, as also at the present time, a minor. The debts proved against his estate in the bankruptcy were trade debts, and it did not appear that any debts for necessaries supplied to him existed.

It was contended, amongst other things, that the accused had not any creditors amongst whom the said sum of money ought by law to be, or to have been, divided, the trade contracts being, by the Infants Relief Act, 1876, void.

EASTON AND HENDERSON v. BLYTH AND TYNE RAILWAY COMPANY.

Coal.

Appeal against a judgment of the Court of Appeal, which had affirmed a previous judgment of the Queen's Bench Division.

In January, 1874, the appellants, who are considerable coal owners, commenced an action against the company for breach of an agreement relating to the supply and use of coal waggons to convey coals from the plaintiffs' mines to collier ships, and also relating to the supply of "spouts" by which the coals were to be poured into the ships. The case had been submitted to arbitration. The award set out the facts with great detail, and the case was left to the decision of the judges. That decision was adverse to the plaintiffs, the Courts of Queen's Bench and of Appeal being of opinion that there had not been a breach of contract.

Mr. Herschell, Q.C., and Mr. R. E. Webster, Q.C., were for the appellants.

Mr. Benjamin, Q.C., and Mr. A. L. Smith, for the company.

THE LORDS were of opinion that the decisions of the Courts below on the facts were correct and must be affirmed.

Liquidation—Discharge of Debtor—Debt incurred by Fraud—Action by Creditor before Close of Liquidation—Bankruptcy Act, 1869, s. 49—Debtors Act, 1869, s. 15.

After the creditors had given a discharge to a liquidating debtor, but before the close of the liquidation, a creditor who had proved a debt in the liquidation, brought an action against the debtor for the full amount of the debt, alleging that it had been incurred by fraud on the part of the debtor. Mr. Registrar Murray, acting as Chief Judge, restrained the proceedings in the action, holding that, by virtue of s. 15 of the Debtors Act, 1869, the creditor was only entitled to sue the debtor for the unpaid balance of the debt, and that that balance could not be ascertained until after the close of the liquidation. The creditor appealed.

Northmore Lawrence, for the appellant.

Winslow, Q.C., and Terrell, for the debtor.

The Court (James, Baggallay, and Thesiger, L.JJ.) were disposed to think that s. 15 of the Debtors Act applies only to cases of composition under s. 126, and arrangements under s. 28 of the Bankruptcy Act, and that it does not apply to liquidations by arrangement under s. 125. But, at any rate, s. 15 could not take away the rights clearly given by s. 49 of the Bankruptcy Act, and as, by that section, the discharge did not release the debtor from any debt which had been incurred by fraud, a creditor for such a debt was entitled to sue the debtor immediately after he had obtained his discharge. But as to any dividends declared in respect of the proof, the debtor would be entitled to stand in the shoes of the creditor.

Liquidation—Composition—Proof—Voting—Debt subject to Contingency—Bankruptcy Act, 1869, s. 31.

J. Grieves having filed a liquidation petition, his creditors at their first meeting resolved to accept a composition. At the second meeting R. Pearce for the first time tendered a proof for 1973*l.*, which he stated to be the value of an annuity of 156*l.* which Grieves had, by a separation deed, covenanted to pay to Pearce, during the joint lives of the husband and wife, as a provision for the maintenance of the wife and an infant child of the marriage. Pearce stated that the 1973*l.* was the value, according to the government tables, of the annuity, treated simply as an annuity for the joint lives. The debtor had not inserted Pearce in his statement of affairs as a creditor in respect of the annuity. Pearce's proof was objected to by the debtor. A resolution to confirm the acceptance of the composition was proposed, but the question whether it was carried depended upon whether Pearce ought to be allowed to vote in respect of his proof. Mr. Registrar Brougham, as Chief Judge, held that the proof must be rejected for the purpose of voting, without prejudice to any application which Pearce might be entitled to make under s. 31 of the Bankruptcy Act, 1869.

Pearce appealed.

Rhys Davids, for the appellant.

Winslow, Q.C., and M. R. Phillips, for the debtor, were not heard.

The Court (James, Baggallay, and Thesiger, L.JJ.) affirmed the decision, on the ground that the value of the annuity had not been ascertained so as to enable any sum to be fixed in respect of which the appellant could vote at the meeting. The appellant's rights on behalf of his cestuis que trustent could not be prejudiced, for, as he was not inserted in the debtor's statement of affairs, he was not bound by the composition.

Mr. Registrar Hazlitt, acting as Chief Judge, dismissed an application to dismiss a debtor's summon. The debtor disputed the debt, and there was nothing to shew that he was insolvent.

The debtor appealed.

Graham, and Ingham, for the appellant.

De Gex, Q.C., and Yelverton, for the creditor.

The Court (James, Baggallay, and Thesiger, L.JJ.) held that the proceedings on the debtor's summons must be stayed pending the trial of an action to determine the amount of the debt, on the terms of the amount claimed being brought into Court.

James, L.J., said that when there was a bonâ fide dispute as to a debt, and no doubt as to the debtor's solvency, a debtor's summons ought not to be resorted to, but the creditor ought to proceed by specially indorsed writ under the Judicature Act.

Thesiger, L.J., said that, but for previous decisions, he should have thought that the proceedings on the summons ought to be stayed unconditionally. The process of debtor's summons was intended to be used, not for the purpose of putting the screw on the debtor, but only in cases where bankruptcy was probable.

CIVIL SERVICE SUPPLY ASSOCIATION v. DEAN.

Trade-mark—Shop—Injunction.

The plaintiffs, the Civil Service Supply Association, had a large general shop at the top of Bedford Street, Strand, and had another shop in Tavistock Street, where they sold boots and shoes. The defendant Dean was a bootmaker; the front entrance of his shop was in the Strand and the side of the shop was in Bedford Street. Before the plaintiffs came to Bedford Street, but when it was known that they were coming there, the defendant had written up over his shop "Civil Service Boot Supply." The plaintiffs brought this action to restrain him from so doing. There was evidence that one person at least had gone to the shop of the defendant imagining it to be that of the plaintiffs.

Glasse, Q.C., and B. B. Rogers, for the plaintiffs.

Higgins, Q.C., and Romer, for the defendants.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR, said that it was admitted that the plaintiffs had no exclusive right to the use of the title "Civil Service," and the only question was whether the words were used with an intention to deceive. The rules for the protection of trade were made for the benefit of rational people capable of understanding what they were doing, and not for persons who, when they intended to go to one particular shop, would go to another. His Lordship could not understand how any rational person could have been deceived in this case, or how any one meaning to go to a shop in Tavistock Street could have gone to a shop in the Strand. The plaintiffs had failed to make out their case and the action must be dismissed with costs.

Vendor and Purchaser—Mutual Mistake—Completion of Contract—"Caveat emptor."

Upon the sale by auction of the goodwill and lease of a public-house, the advertisements and conditions of sale described the house as being prohibited from Sunday trading and the defendant's lease, which was inspected by the purchaser before the sale, contained a covenant against Sunday trading, but the auctioneer at the time of the auction read a letter from the freeholder, which was stamped as an agreement, by which he agreed to cancel the covenant upon payment of an increased rent of 25*l.* per annum. This letter was handed to the purchaser and both vendor and purchaser and their legal advisers were under the impression that the house might be opened for Sunday trading. A release of the restrictive covenant by the freeholder was indorsed upon the lease and a new lease to the purchaser at the increased rental was executed, without including any covenant against Sunday trading. After the completion of the purchase and on the same day it was discovered that the lease held by the vendor, instead of being direct from the freeholder, was an underlease wanting one day from an intermediate lessee, and consequently that the freeholder had no power to release the restrictive covenant without the sanction of the intermediate lessee, and that sanction had not been obtained. The purchaser thereupon stopped the payment of a cheque which he had given in part payment of the purchase-money, and the vendor brought this action for specific performance and that the lease might be rectified by the insertion of a covenant against Sunday trading, and by reducing the rent by 25*l.* per annum.

J. Pearson, Q.C., Talfourd Salter, Q.C., and H. C. Hull, for the plaintiff.

Glasse, Q.C., Higgins, Q.C., and Whitehorne, for the defendant.

The Vice-Chancellor was of opinion upon the evidence that the error with respect to the power of the freeholder to cancel the covenant against Sunday trading was a mutual error, but that after the completion of the contract the Court could not interfere to set aside the sale or to award damages for any loss sustained. The purchaser must be wise in time, and the error might have been discovered by him before completion of the purchase. His Lordship adhered to the principles he had acted upon in Manson v. Thacker (7 Ch. D. 620), and decreed specific performance of the contract and the rectification of the lease, with costs to be paid by the defendant.

A counter-claim by the defendant for damages was dismissed with costs.

Lands Clauses Act, 1845, s. 74—Leaseholds settled on Trust for Sale—Compulsory Sale by Statute—Tenant for Life with Power of withholding Consent to sell—Benefit of Tenant for Life in Proceeds of Sale—Costs.

Petition.

Under a marriage settlement dated in 1844, leaseholds, the property of the wife, were assigned to trustees upon trust, with the consent of the wife during her life, and after her death, of the husband during his life, to sell, and stand possessed of the residue of the sale moneys upon trust to invest, and pay the income to the wife for life for her separate use, and after her death to the husband for life, with remainder over.

In December, 1876, it was certified in the suit that part of the settled property consisted of leaseholds which would expire in September, 1886, and that the surviving husband did not consent to the sale of such leaseholds. The average net annual income of these leaseholds was 137*l.* 0*s.* 6*d.*

In 1877 the leaseholds were taken by an urban authority under the Health Act, 1875, and realized 1550*l.*, which had been invested in 1640*l.* 4*s.* 3*d.* consols.

The amount of the annual income which would by annual sales at 9½ per cent. exhaust 1640*l.* 4*s.* 3*d.* consols in eight years, was 220*l.* 19*s.* 2*d.*

The surviving husband petitioned to have this amount, which, by certain changes arising from lapse of time, had become altered to 218*l.* 15*s.* 8*d.*, paid to him during the remainder of the term, if he should so long live, in half-yearly payments.

Hemming, Q.C., and G. C. Price, for the petitioner.

T. H. Robertson, for the remainderman, argued that the petitioner was entitled to no more than the dividends on the fund in Court for his life; or, at all events, to no more than 137*l.* 0*s.* 6*d.* a year for the remainder of the term if he should so long live.

Owen, for the trustees.

Ingle Joyce, for the urban authority.

Hemming, in reply.

The Vice-Chancellor said that the point was governed by the 74th section of the Lands Clauses Act, 1845, the language of which was quite clear, namely that the petitioner was to have "the same benefit" as he might have had from the lease. In other words, the petitioner was entitled to 137*l.* 0*s.* 6*d.* a year out of the fund for a period corresponding to the rest of the term if he should so long live, and to no more. The petitioner's consent, being overridden by the vis major of the statute, formed no element in the decision.

The costs up to, but exclusive of the present hearing, would be according to the Act; those of the present contest, being adverse litigation, including the trustees' costs not otherwise provided for, must come out of the fund.

Evidence—Stockbrokers' Day-book—Entries by Deceased Partner.

The plaintiff brought this action to establish his right to be indemnified by the two defendants or one of them in respect of certain shares transferred into his name as trustee (as he alleged) for one or other of the defendants. During the trial it became material to the plaintiff to shew that the shares had been bought on the Stock Exchange for one of the defendants through his brokers, Messrs Griffiths and Druitt. Mr. Griffiths was dead, and the plaintiff called Mr. Druitt as a witness, and tendered a day-book belonging to the firm which contained entries made by Mr. Griffiths of memoranda of purchases and sales effected for their clients by the firm, which entries were afterwards copied into their ledger.

Higgins, Q.C., and Whitehorne, for the plaintiff, contended that the entries in the day-book were admissible in evidence on the ground that they were made against the interest of the person who made them, and that they were made by the deceased in the ordinary course of business.

Graham Hastings, Q.C., and Fellowes; W. Pearson, Q.C., and Cozens-Hardy, for the defendants.

The Vice-Chancellor held that the day-book was not admissible in evidence, because the entries might have been to the advantage (according to the turn of the market) of the person who made them, and because they were not made in the performance of any duty on his part.

plaintiff, so long as she remained a spinster, either at his house in London or in Wales, or that the plaintiff was entitled to compensation, or damages; and for consequential relief. The defendant, in his statement of defence, inter alia, stated that there had been an agreement come to in 1876 between himself and the plaintiff that he should allow her an annual sum in lieu of her rights (if any) as she might have against him, and that the plaintiff had refused to accept such sum. He denied that he was under any obligation to provide a home for the plaintiff or to allow her to reside with him. At the trial of the action in April, 1879, it was ordered, by consent of counsel for both parties, that all matters in difference between the parties should be referred to arbitration, and by the like consent that all such matters should be decided by the arbitrator, in the same manner, and to the same extent as the same would have been decided by the Court, and he was to make his award in writing on or before the day named. The arbitrator on the 28th of July made his award in favour of the plaintiff, and this was a motion on her behalf that the award of the arbitrator, acting under the submission to arbitration, might be made an order of the Court, to be observed and performed by all parties to the said submission according to the terms and true meaning thereof. Notice of the motion had been served on the defendant, but no one appeared on his behalf.

Whitehorne, for the plaintiff, referred to Cudlip v. Smedley (12 W. R. 200; 1 Seton on Decrees, p. 403, 4th Ed.; and Daniell's Forms, No. 1944); and submitted that the motion was in proper form and that the plaintiff was entitled to the order asked.

R. Bramwell Davis (as amicus curiæ) mentioned "In re Oglesby's Arbitration" before the Master of the Rolls on the 18th of July, 1879 (ante, p. 151).

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR:—If there should be any difficulty in regard to this important question, as to whether the submission or award should be made a rule of Court, I am of opinion, this being an award which has been made under an order of the Court, that it will suffice, and that the proper course will be to make the award itself a rule of Court.

Will—Construction—Annuity for "Maintenance and Education."

Petition in an action.

The testator who had by his will dated in 1848, subjected all his real and personal estate to the payment of his debts and legacies, by a codicil dated in 1855 gave to a woman an annuity of 100*l.*, and directed as follows:—"In the event of her death the annuity is to be continued to her children for their maintenance and education, and I have to request Mr. William Grant, banker, at Portsmouth, to see it carried into execution." The woman survived the testator and had recently died, leaving several children all of whom had attained 21.

The questions were: 1st, whether the annuity ever came into existence; 2nd, whether it was perpetual; 3rd, if not whether it ceased with minority, or continued during the lives of the children and the survivor of them.

Graham Hastings, Q.C., and S. Dickinson, for the children.

Eddis, Q.C., and Williamson, for the residuary legatees and executors.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that the words "to be continued" shewed that the words "in the event of her death" did not refer to death in the lifetime of the testator, and therefore that the annuity did come into existence; 2nd, that it was not perpetual, the terms of the gift shewing that it was for the personal benefit of the annuitants, and 3rd, that it was not limited to the minority of the takers, for while education did not necessarily stop at 21, maintenance was required as long as life lasted; and accordingly that the children were entitled to the annuity during their lives and the life of the survivor of them.

Costs—Discretion of Court—Unnecessary Action.

This action was brought by one of two tenants for life, under a settlement of money which was invested in Russian bonds, against the other tenant for life and the surviving trustee, alleging that the surviving trustee was permanently resident abroad, and that the bonds were in the hands of his bankers, who claimed a lien upon them for moneys alleged to have been advanced by them to him.

The plaintiff claimed to have the trusts of the settlement carried into execution by the Court; to have new trustees appointed in place of the deceased and surviving trustee; to have the bonds deposited in another bank in the names of the new trustees, and an injunction to restrain the defendants from dealing with the bonds.

At the trial the charge of improper dealing with the bonds was withdrawn, and it was admitted that there was no ground for removing the surviving trustee. The only question was whether the plaintiff was entitled to have his costs of the action, so far as it sought to have the trusts carried into execution, paid out of the trust funds.

Karslake, Q.C. and W. W. Karslake, for the plaintiff.

Cookson, Q.C., and W. D. Gardiner; North, Q.C., and J. W. Brooke, for the defendants.

FRY, J., said that the plaintiff must of course pay the costs relating to the charges which had been withdrawn. He was entitled to judgment for the execution of the trusts, but the action was wholly unnecessary for that purpose and was evidently brought only for the other purposes. The Court had a discretion as to costs, and the plaintiff must pay all the costs of the action up to and including the trial.

Bill of Sale—Validity of—Grantor and Grantee—Attestation by Solicitor—41 & 42 Vict. c. 31, ss. 8, 10.

Case stated on appeal from the Worcestershire County Court.

The question raised was whether a bill of sale executed since the passing of the Bills of Sale Act, 1878, was valid as between the parties thereto, the same not having been attested according to the provisions of the Act. The County Court Judge decided that the bill of sale was void.

Plumtree, for the plaintiff.

THE COURT (Lord Coleridge, C.J., and Lindley, J.) were of opinion that the new provisions in s. 8 and s. 10, requiring every bill of sale to be explained and attested by a solicitor, were for the protection of grantors from fraud, and these provisions, which were in imperative terms, not having been satisfied, the bill of sale was void, even as between the parties to it.

Practice—Writ—Special Indorsement—Account therein—Credits—Order for Particulars of.

Appeal from chambers.

Writ specially indorsed with a claim for a sum due under a building contract, and credit was given to the defendant for two lump sums as follows; viz.:

"Less allowed from the said contract for work not performed	£61 10 10.
Bricks, goods, and work . . .	£180 2 4.

The defendant, wishing to plead a set-off or counter-claim, required particulars of these items, and an order, reversing a decision of a Master, was made by Lopes, J., upon the plaintiff to give them.

Francis Turner, for the plaintiff, relied upon the old practice and cases.

E. Harrison, for the defendants.

THE COURT (Lord Coleridge, C.J., and Lindley, J.) were of opinion that under the new system of pleading the defendant was entitled to the particulars.

Order affirmed.

C. P. Div. ROTHERHAM v. PREECE. Dec. 1.

Practice—Specially indorsed Writ—Rules of Court, 1875, Order XIV. —Affidavit in reply.

Appeal from chambers.

Writ specially indorsed for rent. The defendant set up a counter-claim for damages for a libel, and resisted an application by the plaintiff to sign judgment under Order XIV. The master gave unconditional leave to defend, and his decision was affirmed by Lopes, J.

On appeal,

L. E. Pyke, for the plaintiff, offered affidavits in reply.

Pocock, for the defendant.

THE COURT (Grove and Lopes, JJ.) were of opinion that neither the affidavits nor the counter-claim should be allowed in this case, as they might, perhaps, be in others.

Order varied.

Adm. THE CITY OF MECCA. Nov. 25.

Jurisdiction—Action in Rem to enforce Judgment of Foreign Tribunal of Commerce.

This was an action in rem instituted to enforce a judgment of the Tribunal of Commerce of Lisbon, which had, in an action at the suit of the plaintiffs, condemned the City of Mecca and her owners in damages arising from a collision between the two vessels on the high seas.

Nov. 11. Butt, Q.C., and E. C. Clarkson, for the defendants, the owners of the City of Mecca, who had appeared under protest, moved the Court to set aside the writ and all subsequent proceedings in the action on the ground of the writ having been improperly issued.

Webster, Q.C., and Sir Edmund Hornby (G. Bruce with them), for the plaintiffs, opposed the motion.

Cur. adv. vult.

Nov. 25. THE COURT rejected the motion on the ground that the Court had jurisdiction to enforce the judgment of a foreign Court having Admiralty jurisdiction.

Adm. THE CONSETT. Nov. 25.

Practice—Joint Actions of Damage by Owners of Ship and Owners of Cargo—Costs of Affidavits in support of Owners of Cargo's Claim at Reference.

This was an action of damage instituted on behalf of the owners of the Jessore and the owners of her cargo against the Consett.

On the 25th of January last the Court decided that the Consett and the Jessore were both to blame for the collision, and made no order as to costs. The usual reference then took place before the registrar, and the plaintiffs, the owners of the cargo of the Jessore, brought in affidavits in support of their claim. The registrar, duly reported the amount of the moiety of the damage proceeded for, but did not make any order as to the costs of the reference.

Nov 25. Butt, Q.C. (Myburgh with him) for the owners of the cargo of the Jessore, now moved the judge in Court to order the owners of the Consett to pay to the owners of the cargo of the Jessore the costs of and relating to the affidavits brought in in support of their claims at the reference. By the practice of the Court the owners of the cargo of the Jessore would, if they had been the sole plaintiffs, have been held entitled to the costs applied for. They ought not to be placed in a worse position because they have, for the saving of expense, joined the owners of the Jessore in bringing this action.

E. C. Clarkson, on behalf of the owners of the Consett, opposed the motion.

THE COURT granted the motion.

Adm. THE MATTHEW CAY. Nov. 26.

Damage—Practice—Defence on Merits and Plea of Compulsory Pilotage—Costs.

This was an action of damage instituted on behalf of the owners of the vessel Wye against the owners of the vessel Matthew Cay. The defendants set up a defence on the merits, and also pleaded a plea of compulsory pilotage.

Nov 22. The action was heard, and the Court pronounced that the pilot of the Matthew Cay was employed by compulsion of law, and that the collision was occasioned solely by his fault.

Milward, Q.C., and E. C. Clarkson, for the defendants, applied for the costs of the action, or, in the alternative, for the costs of the issues on which they had succeeded.

Bompas, Q.C., and Myburgh, for the plaintiffs.

Cur. adv. vult.

Nov. 26. THE JUDGE ordered that, in accordance with the practice of the Court before the Judicature Acts, the plaintiffs and defendants should each bear their own costs.

LEVY AND ANOTHER v. LAWES. Dec. 8.

Contract.

Appeal against a decision of the Court of Appeal, which had reversed a previous decision of the Queen's Bench.

The appellants were bag and sack manufacturers and the respondent a chemical manure manufacturer in London. The parties had dealt together for a long time, the appellants supplying the respondent, on a contract in each year, with the bags he might require for his business during the coming season. In 1871 the respondent had made a contract with another sack and bag manufacturer, named Thompson, to supply him with 100,000 bags of a certain kind in that year. Interviews took place between the appellants and respondent, and ultimately, in June, 1871, a contract was entered into between them, the first part of which was in these words: "We have this day sold to you all the bags you require for bagging manures between this date and June 30, 1872, except those already purchased or contracted for by you at the present time," subject to certain conditions as to the times of delivery, the number of the bags, and their size and prices. At the end of the paper containing this contract there were the words: "It is understood that the quantity of bags contracted for by you elsewhere is only 110,000 thin 1¼ cwt. bags." Thompson did not fulfil his contract, and the plaintiffs were called on to supply more bags, but within the number mentioned in the contract. They did so, and the substantive question was whether they were bound to accept as payment for the additional bags the price as stated in their general contract, or were entitled to charge the ordinary market price as for bags entirely out of the contract. The Court of Appeal had held the former opinion. This appeal was then brought.

Mr. Cohen, Q.C., and Mr. Gorell Barnes, appeared for the appellants.

Mr. Murphy, Q.C., and Mr. A. L. Smith, for the respondent, were not called on.

The Lord Chancellor was of opinion that the appellants had bound themselves to supply all the bags required, provided that they were bags that were wanted for the business, and provided that they did not exceed the maximum in each class, and that, on the other hand, the chemical manufacturer bound himself to take all the bags that he wanted for his business, subject only to this, that he was not to be under an obligation to take the 110,000 bags from the appellants unless he wished to do so.

The other Lords concurred.

Judgment of the Court of Appeal affirmed.

Dec. 8.

The Great Eastern Railway Company v. The Mayor, Aldermen, &c., of Harwich.

Coals—Imported—Railway Carriage.

Appeal from the Court of Appeal, which had affirmed a previous decision of the Queen's Bench.

In the year 1819 an Act (59 Geo. 3, c. cxviii.) was passed for paving and lighting the town of Harwich; by s. 55 it gave the commissioners thereby appointed power to order a rate not exceeding 2*s.*, to be paid for every chaldron of coal, culm, &c., "which should or might be imported and landed at the said town, or otherwise brought or delivered within the limits of the town." A rate to that amount was duly assessed. In the year 1854, the appellants' line to Harwich was opened for traffic. The appellants' premises were within the town, and there also belonged to the appellants a pier which they had constructed, which ran from the shore below low water-mark, and from which steamboats crossed to the Continent. The appellants brought within the limits of the town quantities of coal which were put on their premises for the use of their railway carriages, their hotel, station, and their steamers. They also brought into the town, by railway, coal which was intended for private consignees. As to this last the contention of the appellants was that if the rate could be levied at all, it was not to be levied upon them but on the individual consignees—and as to all the coal generally they contended that the Act applied only to sea-borne coal—and to coal introduced by such methods as were known at the time when the Act was passed, which time was long before railways were known. The Queen's Bench had held the appellants liable generally, but a drawback was allowed as to the coal put on board the steamers, and the Appeal Court had affirmed that decision. Hence this appeal.

Sir H. Giffard, S.G., Mr. Marriott, Q.C., and Mr. Douglas Walker, were for the appellants.

Mr. Herschell, Q.C., Mr. Grantham, Q.C., and Mr. Winch, were for the respondents, but were not called on to address the House.

The Lords affirmed the judgment of the Court below, being of opinion that the words were sufficient to cover any mode of bringing coal into the town, and also that the persons on whom the duty was to be levied were those who brought it there. Judgment affirmed with costs.

New Trial—Miscarriage.

Ex parte appeal of the plaintiff from refusal of a rule nisi for a new trial.

June 27. The plaintiff in person moved for a new trial on the ground of miscarriage at the trial before Denman, J., and of the jury not having had their attention drawn to the facts in a proper manner.

Dec. 2. The Court (Lord Coleridge, C.J., Bramwell and Brett, L.JJ.) were of opinion that Denman, J., had carefully drawn the attention of the jury to all the facts of the case, and that a new trial ought not to be granted.

From Q. B. Div. Dec. 2.

Lax and Another v. Mayor, &c., of Darlington.

Negligence.

At the trial before Lush, J., in an action to recover compensation for the loss of a cow, the evidence was that the defendants were the owners of a market, and in the market place a statue had been erected round which the defendants had placed a railing as a fence. The plaintiffs were cattle dealers, who were in the habit of attending the cattle market with their cattle, and occupying a particular site for which they paid a toll. The plaintiffs attended the market with some cattle, and amongst them a cow which became restive, and in attempting to jump the railing injured herself so seriously that she died. The jury found a verdict for the plaintiffs for 22*l.*, and the learned judge directed judgment to be entered for them.

The defendants appealed.

June 24, 25. Herschell, Q.C., and Shield, for the defendants.

Cave, Q.C., and Edge, for the plaintiffs.

Dec. 2. The Court (Bramwell, Brett, and Cotton, L.JJ.) held that the defendants having received toll from the plaintiffs and invited them to come into the market with their cattle, were bound to take care that it was in a non-dangerous condition, and as they did not warn the plaintiffs of the danger they were liable in the action.

They affirmed the judgment of the learned judge.

Practice—Trial by Judge without a Jury—Motion for New Trial—Appeal.

Action commenced 9th of January, 1877, to recover possession of four houses.

In 1864 the defendant Cotton was the freeholder of some land situate at Fulham, Middlesex, and in April in that year he agreed with Davis to grant building leases of houses to be erected upon it. In December, 1865, Davis with the consent of Cotton, assigned to Harvey the benefit of the agreement. The agreement contained a clause empowering the defendant to re-enter for non-payment of rent or upon non-performance of the agreement, or upon failure to erect the intended houses. By several indentures of lease, dated December, 1865, the four houses sought to be recovered in the action, which had been erected on the land, were demised by the defendant to Harvey for the term of eighty years. The leases also reserved to the defendant a power to re-enter for non-payment of rent, and for breach of the covenants therein contained. In January, 1867, Harvey mortgaged the four houses to the plaintiff to secure the sum of 1000*l.* and interest: the mortgage debt was never paid off. In 1873 the defendant caused a writ of ejectment to be issued out of the Court of Queen's Bench against Harvey to recover possession of the piece of land mentioned in the agreement for building leases of April, 1864. Harvey did not appear, and judgment was signed and possession given to Cotton. The alleged grounds for the ejectment were non-payment of rent and a breach of the covenant to repair.

The action was tried before Huddleston, B., without a jury, and His Lordship was of opinion that the judgment in the action of ejectment was conclusive against Harvey and all persons claiming through him, and that the plaintiff was a privy in estate to Harvey. He therefore gave judgment for the defendants.

Bompas, Q.C., (Nasmith with him), now moved for a new trial, on the ground that the finding of the judge was against the weight of evidence, and that he had misdirected himself. and contended that upon the facts the judgment ought to have been entered for the plaintiff.

THE COURT (Bramwell, Brett, and Cotton, L.JJ.) held that the remedy of the plaintiff was by appeal from the judgment, and not by motion for a new trial; that the proper mode of contesting the validity of a judgment pronounced by a judge after a trial without a jury was by following the former practice of the Court of Chancery upon an appeal from a Vice-Chancellor to the Court of Appeal; and that the principle of Krehl v. Burrel (10 Ch. D. 420), was not to be extended.

METROPOLITAN INNER CIRCLE COMPLETION RAILWAY COMPANY v. METROPOLITAN AND METROPOLITAN DISTRICT RAILWAYS COMPANIES.

Practice—Transfer of Action to Chancery Division—Discretion.

Action upon an award to recover payment of 50,000*l.*

By a local statute enabling the defendants to make a railway it was enacted that they should pay to the plaintiffs a sum not exceeding 50,000*l.*, to be ascertained by an arbitrator before the 1st of October, 1879, in discharge of certain claims incurred by the plaintiff company. One of these claims was a bill of costs due to solicitors. This bill was referred for taxation. After the referee had ascertained that a sum of 6000*l.* was due from the plaintiff company to the solicitors, but before the taxation was finished, the arbitrator came to the conclusion that whatever might be the result of the taxation as to the remaining items of the bill of costs, the sum of 6000*l.*, together with the other claims against the plaintiff company, would make up the sum of 50,000*l.*; he accordingly, by his award dated at the end of September, directed the defendant companies to pay that amount to the plaintiff company. The solicitors of the plaintiff company wrote on the 6th of October, and again on the 16th of October, demanding payment; by their letter of the latter date they said that if the amount was not paid before the 23rd of October, a writ would be issued to recover it. Upon the 22nd of October the defendant companies issued a writ in the Chancery Division before Vice-Chancellor Bacon with a view of impeaching and setting aside the award, and upon the 23rd of October the writ in the present action was issued.

Lindley, J., at chambers refused to transfer this action to the Chancery Division, and the Exchequer Division (consisting of Pollock and Huddleston, BB.) dismissed an appeal from his decision. The Exchequer Division likewise refused to stay proceedings in the present action. The defendants appealed.

Mellor, Q.C., and W. Graham, for the defendant companies, contended that as the defendants had issued the writ in the Chancery Division before the writ in the present action the defendants had a right to have the two actions tried before Vice-Chancellor Bacon; as to this they relied on the principle laid down in Lucas v. Siggers (Law Rep. 7 Ch. 517), which, they contended, was now applicable to all the divisions of the High Court. They also argued that as the award was made under statutory powers and not upon a reference by the parties, the Courts of Common Law could not before the Judicature Acts, 1873 and 1875, have entertained any question as to the validity of the award, and that only a Court of Equity could have taken cognizance of any irregularity in making the award, and that although the Exchequer Division could now give relief upon equitable grounds, yet the question of the validity of the award could be more conveniently disposed of in the Chancery Division.

A. L. Smith, for the plaintiff company, suggested that, if the action before Vice-Chancellor Bacon should be transferred to the Exchequer Division, the two actions might be tried together, and undertook to give notice to try this action by a judge without a jury.

THE COURT (Bramwell, Brett, and Cotton, L.JJ.) held that the terms offered by the plaintiff company were reasonable, and that the appeal must be dismissed. The matter was one of discretion, and they ought not to overrule the decision of Lindley, J., and the Exchequer Division.

Ship—Charterparty—Termination of Voyage—Vessel to proceed to a Port or "so near thereto as she can safely get."

Claim alleged that the plaintiff was the managing owner of the Elizabeth Ostle, and chartered her to the defendant for a voyage from Japan, with a cargo of rice, "to a safe port in the United Kingdom or on the Continent between Havre and Hamburg, both ports included, as ordered at Queenstown or Falmouth . . . . or so near thereto as she can safely get, and deliver same on being paid freight."

4. "The Elizabeth Ostle was loaded by the defendant at Japan under the said charter and was ordered to Hamburg.

5. "She sailed for Hamburg, but her draught of water, with the said cargo on board, was so great that she could not get up the river to Hamburg. Stade was as near thereunto as she could safely get, and when at Stade the plaintiff, in accordance with the terms of the said charter, was willing to deliver the said cargo to the defendant there, or to deliver to him there so much of the said cargo as would lighten the ship sufficiently to enable her to proceed up the river to Hamburg.

6. "The defendant refused to take delivery of the said cargo or any part thereof at Stade, and refused to perform and broke the said charter.

7. "The plaintiff, for the purpose of completing the said voyage and earning freight, discharged part of the said cargo into lighters at Stade, and the same was delivered from the said lighters to the defendant's agent at Hamburg. When lightened, the Elizabeth Ostle proceeded to Hamburg, and there delivered the remainder of her cargo to the defendant's agent.

8. "The lighterage expenses necessarily incurred by the plaintiff in consequence of the defendant's breach of the said charterparty amounted to 38*l.* 13*s.* 5*d.*," which the plaintiff claimed.

Defence by paragraph 5 alleged that "by the custom of the port of Hamburg the defendant was not bound to take delivery of the cargo or any part of it at Stade, or elsewhere than at the port of Hamburg, nor were lighterage expenses incurred by the plaintiff for the purpose of lightening his vessel and enabling him to proceed up the river to Hamburg and there complete the unloading of her cargo, in the absence of special agreement, recoverable from the defendant by the plaintiff."

The plaintiff having demurred, Grove, J., ordered that the demurrer should be allowed. The defendant appealed.

Wilberforce, for the defendant, contended that the custom alleged in the defence was consistent with the contract contained in the charterparty, and that the defendant was not bound to repay to the plaintiff the lighterage expenses.

D. French, for the plaintiff, was not called upon to argue.

The Court (Bramwell, Brett, and Cotton, L.JJ.) were very clearly of opinion that the order of Grove, J., was right, and that the appeal must be dismissed. When the vessel reached Stade, she was as near to Hamburg as she could safely get, and the defendant was bound to take at Stade delivery of her cargo until she was sufficiently lightened to enable her to proceed up the river to Hamburg: as he failed to do so, he must pay the lighterage expenses incurred by the plaintiff.

From Ex. Div. Aston v. Hurwitz. Dec. 3.

Practice—Writ specially indorsed—Rules of Court, 1875, Order III. r. 6; Order XIV.

The writ of summons in the action was indorsed as follows:—"The plaintiff's claim is for 116*l.* 0*s.* 10*d.* being the balance due to him from the defendant for moneys paid at the said defendant's request and on his behalf for the purchase of certain stocks and shares between the 3rd of June, 1879, and the 31st of August, 1879, an account of which has been rendered and exceeds three folios."

The Exchequer Division, consisting of Kelly, C.B., and Pollock, B., upon appeal from chambers, refused to give liberty to defend, unless the defendant should pay money into Court. The defendant appealed.

W. Graham, for the defendant, contended that the indorsement was not valid, as a special indorsement under Rules of Court, 1875, Order III., r. 6, so as to enable the plaintiff to obtain leave to sign final judgment under Order XIV. He contended that the contracts, in respect of which the plaintiff sued, should have been identified by the indorsement, so that the defendant might know in respect of what the action was brought, and might be able to check the accounts upon which the plaintiff relied.

Morton Daniel, for the plaintiff, was not called upon to argue.

The Court (Bramwell, Brett, and Cotton, L.JJ.) dismissed the appeal. Bramwell, L.J., stated that in his opinion it was not intended by Order III., r. 6, to alter the form of special indorsement which had been given by the Common Law Procedure Act, 1852, s. 25, and under which a plaintiff in case of non-appearance by the defendant was at liberty to sign final judgment (s. 27). The indorsement upon the writ of summons in the present action would have been a valid special indorsement under the Common Law Procedure Act, 1825, and was sufficiently specific to found jurisdiction under Order XIV. If the defendant had really wanted more information, the summons under Order XIV. might have been adjourned, in order that the plaintiff might furnish further and better particulars.

Golding filed a liquidation petition in July, 1879. The first meeting of the creditors was held on the 11th of August. The debtor's statement of affairs shewed that his debts amounted to 534*l.* and his assets to 85*l.* The creditors resolved to accept a composition of 1*s.* in the pound. At the second meeting, on the 20th of August, this resolution was not confirmed, but resolutions in favour of a liquidation by arrangement were passed. Registration of these resolutions was refused on the ground that the meeting had been dissolved without a creditor named Early being allowed to prove. Early had issued execution on a judgment after the filing of the petition, and the sheriff had seized goods which constituted the whole of the debtor's assets. Leave was given to summon a fresh first meeting. No one attended at the time appointed for the meeting, and leave was again given to summon a fresh first meeting. This meeting was held on the 29th of October. The debtor produced the same statement of affairs which he had produced at the meeting in August. The creditors resolved on a liquidation by arrangement and gave the debtor an immediate discharge. There were only five creditors, and Early was the only dissentient. He had been restrained from time to time from proceeding with his execution, but, the injunction having been ultimately allowed to drop, the sheriff had sold the goods for 85*l.* Early opposed the registration of the resolutions on the grounds: (1) that the statement of affairs being the same which had been produced in August was ex facie an insufficient one; (2) that, looking at the proportion of assets to liabilities, the resolutions must have been passed in the interest of the debtor, and not in that of the creditors. Mr. Registrar Brougham, as Chief Judge, ordered the resolutions to be registered.

Early appealed.

Northmore Lawrence, for the appellant.

F. Cooper Willis, for the debtor.

The Court (James, Baggallay, and Thesiger, L.JJ.) affirmed the registrar's decision.

James, L.J., said that there was nothing on the face of the statement of affairs to shew that it was insufficient, for it was quite possible that the debtor's assets and liabilities had not altered between August and October, and there was no evidence that they had. And, though the assets were small and there would probably in the result be nothing for anybody, it was clear that the real contest was whether the appellant should sweep off all the assets, or they should be equally distributed among the creditors, and the debtor and the creditors might well have honestly thought that they had better be equally distributed.

Practice—Appeal—Rules of Court, 1875, Order XL., rr. 4, 10—Contract to build a Vessel—Acceptance of Repudiation of Contract—Condition Precedent.

The plaintiffs were shipbuilders at Port Glasgow. The defendants were shipowners at Liverpool. It was agreed that the plaintiffs should build for the defendants a vessel of certain dimensions to be paid for by instalments, and that the defendants should have the option of ordering a second vessel of the same dimensions. A model and also plans were to be submitted and approved of. The first vessel was built by the plaintiffs and accepted by the defendants. In pursuance of the option reserved to them, the defendants ordered a second vessel, which the plaintiffs agreed to construct, but they requested permission to increase the length by four feet. To this the defendants assented. At the time of giving the order the defendants intimated that they should require a model of the second vessel, which the plaintiffs agreed to furnish. Nothing further was said at the time of giving the order about a model or plans Some four months later a dispute arose between the plaintiffs and the defendants as to the payment of the instalments, and the defendants then made a requisition for the plans and model, and refused to recognise any liability as attaching to them until the plans and model had been approved of. After some controversy the plaintiffs offered to furnish a model and a copy of the plans of the first ship with the additional length, but not on the ground that they were required for approval, the construction of the second vessel being too far advanced to admit of any alterations from the plans of the former vessel. The defendants then gave notice that they declined to recognise the contract as any longer binding on them, and they withdrew entirely from the transaction. The plaintiffs did not acquiesce in this at first, and a great deal of correspondence ensued, but at last the plaintiffs announced their intention of selling the vessel, at which the defendants protested The vessel was put up for sale, but no bidder could be found, and the price of vessels having become less, the loss to the plaintiffs was estimated at 2086*l.*

At the trial before Denman, J., the jury found, in answer to the questions of the judge, that the contract meant that the plaintiffs should supply only one model and one set of plans for the two ships; that if the legal construction was to the contrary, the defendants waived their right to the second set; that the plaintiffs took the repudiation as a breach; and the jury assessed the damages at 2086*l.* Denman, J., entered judgment for the plaintiffs for that amount.

The defendant obtained an order nisi in the Queen's Bench Division to set aside the verdict on the ground of misdirection, and also that the findings were against the weight of evidence, and that the damages were excessive. Cockburn, C.J., and Lush, J., were of opinion that when the defendants repudiated the contract, the plaintiffs held them to it, and insisted upon its being performed, and that the subsequent attempt by the plaintiffs to sell the vessel was wrongful. Their Lordships accordingly were of opinion that the action was misconceived, and that all the necessary materials for finally determining the dispute being before the Court judgment ought to be given for the defendants, notwithstanding the findings of the jury. The plaintiffs appealed.

C. Russell, Q.C., and Warr, for the plaintiffs, by way of preliminary objection, contended that Rules of the Supreme Court, Order XL., r. 10, applied only where there had been a general finding by the jury, that the Queen's Bench Division had no power to enter the judgment for the defendant upon the special findings of the jury, and that if the defendants wished to set aside the judgment they ought to have appealed to the Court of Appeal, under Order XL., r. 4.

Herschel, Q.C., and C. Crompton, for the defendants, argued that if the defendants had appealed in the first instance to this Court, they must have admitted that the findings were right, and the direction was right, and that when the Queen's Bench Division had come to the conclusion that the findings and judgment could not stand, the whole matter was at large, and the Court had power to enter judgment for the defendants.

THE COURT (Bramwell, Brett and Cotton, L.JJ.) held that the objection could not be sustained.

The appeal was then heard upon the merits.

THE COURT were of opinion that the supply of the plans and of the model was not a condition precedent to the performance of the contract; that the plaintiffs had effectually accepted the defendants' repudiation of the contract; that the appeal must be allowed, and the judgment of Denman, J., restored.

ANGLO-AMERICAN TELEGRAPH COMPANY v. SPURLING AND ANOTHER.

Company—Forged Transfer of Shares—Transferor and Transferee—Estoppel.

These actions were brought under the following circumstances.

Coates was the owner of a large amount of stock in the telegraph company. His clerk obtained possession of the certificate and contracted to sell the stock to Spurling and Skinner, who were the nominees of Burge & Co. The clerk forged a transfer from Coates to Spurling and Skinner, and it was left at the office of the telegraph company for registration; the company sent a letter to Coates inquiring whether the transfer was correct; as they received no answer from him they registered the transfer. Burge & Co. borrowed money from a bank, and in order to give the bank security the stock was transferred to Simm and Ingelow as trustees for the bank. The money borrowed by Burge & Co. was afterwards repaid by them to the bank, and the stock was held by Simm and Ingelow as bare trustees for Burge & Co. The forgery was afterwards discovered, and the telegraph company then refused to recognise the title of Simm and Ingelow to the stock. Simm and Ingelow thereupon brought an action against the telegraph company to obtain redress for the refusal to recognise their title, and the telegraph company brought an action against Spurling and Skinner for an indemnity. At the trial Burge & Co. were added as plaintiffs in the action brought by Simm and Ingelow, and as defendants in the action brought by the telegraph company. Lindley, J., gave judgment against the telegraph company in both actions. The company appealed.

At the first meeting of the creditors under a liquidation petition filed by J. C. Ker, W. E. Bagshaw claimed the 220*l.* on the ground that the fixtures were included in the mortgage.

Mr. Registrar Hazlitt, acting as Chief Judge, refused the claim. Bagshaw appealed.

by his proof and voting had forfeited his right to security on the fixtures, if he ever had any: Ex parte Ashworth (Law Rep. 18 Eq. 705); Ex parte King (Law Rep. 20 Eq. 273).

The Court (James, Baggallay, and Thesiger, L.JJ.) held upon the evidence that the proof was made with the deliberate intent of abandoning all claim to the fixtures.

James, L.J., would not say that Ex parte Ashworth and Ex parte King might not require further consideration if such a case should occur again, as to whether there was a positive rule that, even if a mortgagee had made a mistake in his proof as to the value of his security, he was not entitled to have it set right, on making a proper application and upon proper terms.

Baggallay and Thesiger, L.JJ., expressed themselves to the same effect.

M. R. Labouchère v. Earl of Wharncliffe. Nov. 21.

Club—Resolution to expel a Member—Notice of Meeting—Insufficient Majority of Members voting—Irregularity—Injunction.

Motion to restrain the defendants, the committee of the Beefsteak Club, from interfering with the enjoyment by the plaintiff as a member of the club with the use and benefit of that club.

By rule 20 of the club it was provided that "in case the conduct of any member either in or out of the club shall, in the opinion of the committee after inquiry, be injurious to the welfare and interests of the club, the committee of the club shall call upon him to resign, and in the event of his refusal to do so, shall call a general meeting at which it shall be competent for the votes of two-thirds of those present to expel such member."

The 31st rule provided that the committee should have power to call a general meeting on giving a fortnight's notice.

On the 16th of October, 1879, in consequence of an altercation between the plaintiff and another member of the club, and of a letter of the plaintiff in a publication of which the plaintiff was editor and proprietor relating thereto, the committee of the club held a special meeting and called on the plaintiff and the other member to resign. The plaintiff did not resign.

The committee then summoned a general meeting for the 14th of November, the notices for which were sent out on the 1st of November. The notices stated that a resolution would be proposed that the plaintiff be expelled the club. At the meeting there were 117 persons present when the chairman put the question thus:—"Those members who vote with the committee will vote 'Aye,' and those voting for Mr. Labouchere will vote 'Nay.'" He then put the formal resolution, "That Mr. Labouchere be and is hereby expelled from the club."

The votes were taken by ballot, seventy-seven voting "Aye," and thirty-eight "No." The chairman declared the resolution carried by one vote. Two members, including the plaintiff, did not vote.

Chitty, Q.C., and Romer, in support of the motion.

Davey, Q.C., and Macnaghten, for the defendants.

The Master of the Rolls, on the evidence before him, considered that the action of the committee had not been taken after inquiry according to rule 20, and that no proper notice of their grounds of complaint had been given to the plaintiff; that at the meeting the question was not properly put, and that the resolution was not carried by a majority of those present when the question was put. On these grounds his Lordship held that the injunction should be granted.

Practice—Issues of Fact—Order for Trial without a Jury.

Motion on behalf of plaintiff under Rules of Court, 1875, Order xxxvi., r. 26, that, notwithstanding the notice given in the action by the defendants of their desire to have the issues of fact in the action tried before a judge and jury, the issues might be tried before a judge without a jury at the same time with the trial of the action.

The action related to property at Leeds and was brought to recover possession of part of a wall pulled down by the defendants which stood, as the plaintiff alleged, on his premises, and for an injunction. On behalf of the plaintiff it was urged that the ownership of the wall was entirely a question of title, and depended upon the construction of certain deeds and the explanation afforded by plans and photographs, and that nothing would be elucidated by an actual survey of the property.

The defendants urged that the question would be best determined by a jury on the spot, especially as the locus in quo was near the Assize Court, and that as numerous local witnesses would be called, it would be a saving of expense.

Chitty, Q.C., and Langworthy, in support of the motion.

Marten, Q.C., and Ingle Joyce, for the defendants.

The Master of the Rolls considered that this was a conveyancing case, and was one that could not be so conveniently tried before a jury; also that it could be tried with as little expense in London as at the Leeds Assizes. His Lordship accordingly made an order for the issues of fact to be tried without a jury.

Will, Construction of—Gift to Tenant for Life and to Children of another Person in remainder—Who entitled to share at the Period of Distribution?

Edward Emmet who died in January, 1836, by his will, made in October, 1833, gave all his estate, real and personal, unto two trustees and executors, J. H. and H. E., their heirs and executors, &c., upon trust to get in and convert his personal estate, and after payment of debts, &c., and of one specific bequest, to invest the residue, and during the life of the said H. E. to permit him to receive the rents of the real and the income of the personal estates for his own benefit, and after his decease upon trust as to one undivided third part of the estates for all the children of H. E. equally as tenants in common, the share of a son or sons to be conveyed or transferred to him or them respectively, when he or they should respectively attain the age of 21 years, and the share of a daughter or daughters at that age or should marry: and in case any of the children of H. E. should be under age at the decease of him, or the testator, the rents and income of the share of such children should or might be applied towards the maintenance, education, and advancement of such children, and the surplus (if any) should accumulate to the original share, and if any such children being a son should die under 21, without leaving issue, or being a daughter should die before 21, and without being married, the share of him or her so dying should go to the survivors of such children equally, and be conveyed and paid as above-mentioned; and after declaring a like trust as to one other undivided third part of such estates in favour of the children of his sister S. A., the wife of J. H., the testator directed that the trustees should after the decease of H. E. stand possessed of the remaining undivided third part of such estates in trust for all and every the children of G. N. E. equally as tenants in common, and if there should be but one child, in trust for such child, the shares to be conveyed or transferred to him or them respectively at the same ages and times and with the like power of advancement and benefit of survivorship as were declared concerning the children of H. E. But in case H. E. should die without leaving any child, then after his decease and such failure of children or issue the trustees were to stand possessed of the said undivided third part given for the children of H. E. in trust as to one undivided moiety for all and every the children of the said S. A., and as to the other moiety for all and every the children of G. N. E., the same moieties to be equally divided among such children.

H. E. died in March, 1839, a bachelor. At the time of his death G. N. E. was a widower with two children, viz., C. A. E. and R. A. E., neither of whom had attained the age of twenty-one years. In April, 1840, G. N. E. married, and by such second marriage had issue five children, four of whom were born before C. A. E. attained twenty-one, and one afterwards, and these children, all surviving, had now attained twenty-one.

R. A. E. attained twenty-one, and by his will gave all his estate to trustees in trust for his widow for life and for his children, but he died in July, 1865, without issue.

The plaintiffs, four of the children of G. N. E. by his second marriage, claimed a declaration that they and C. A. E. and the trustees of the will of R. A. E. were entitled in equal sixth parts to one moiety of the estate of E. E., and consequential relief.

Mortgage by V. to a Building Society and another Mortgage by V. and N., as Partners, to the same Society—Mortgage by V. and N. to a Bank of part of same Hereditaments—Consolidation by the Society allowed.

Special case under Rules of Court, 1875, Order XXXIV.

The plaintiffs were the trustees of a building society (now incorporated under the Act of 1874). In May, 1871, T. V., being the owner of 150 shares in the society and entitled to receive out of the funds of the society in respect of them the sum of 15,000*l.*, in consideration of such sum paid to him conveyed unto the trustees their heirs and assigns certain hereditaments with a proviso for redemption. There was a proviso that if T. V., his heirs, &c., should pay the trustees a sum named on the first Tuesday in every month during twelve years, and should pay all other payments which might become due from him according to the rules of the society, the security should cease and determine, and the trustees would, at the request and costs of T. V., indorse on the indenture a receipt for payment.

On the 21st of November, 1874, T. V. and G. N., co-partners, being owners of fifty-five shares in the same society, and as such entitled to receive out of its funds 5500*l.*, conveyed certain other hereditaments, which were held by them as part of their joint stock as partners, to such trustees, subject to redemption. There was a proviso that if T. V. and G. N., or either of them, should pay the trustees a sum named on the first Tuesday in every month during fourteen years, and all fines, &c., the security should cease and determine, and the trustees would indorse on the indenture a receipt for such payments.

In July, 1875, T. V. and G. N., as debtors, and T. V. as surety, conveyed hereditaments, in which were comprised part of the property mentioned in the deed of May, 1871, to the National Provincial Bank by way of mortgage to secure the payment of moneys due from the partnership, but subject to the mortgage of May, 1871. Notice of the deed of 1875 was given to the trustees of the society. In September, 1876, T. V. and G. N. went into liquidation and trustees (defendants) were appointed. Default had been made in payment of the sums payable to the society under the deed of 1874.

The bank took possession of the property comprised in their deed of 1875, and paid to the society the sums which became due from T. V. under the deed of 1871.

In February, 1878, the bank manager wrote to the secretary of the society asking to be informed the amount due under the deed of 1871, in reduction of which the bank made a payment monthly, and the reply was that if that mortgage were redeemed that month the amount would be 6449*l.* 1*s.* 5*d.*

The bank, in July 1878, gave notice that they would in October, 1878, redeem the mortgage of 1871, but the society refused to allow the bank to redeem the mortgage of 1871 unless they redeemed the mortgage of 1874. In November, 1878, the plaintiffs issued their writ in this action, and they claimed a declaration that they were entitled to consolidate the two mortgages, and that neither the trustee of T. V. in liquidation nor the bank was or were entitled to redeem the mortgage of 1871 until payment had been made to the plaintiffs of all moneys due Mine—Trespass—Account—Allowances—Statute of Limitations.

This was an action for an account and payment of the value of coals alleged to have been improperly worked under the plaintiffs' land by the defendant, the owner of an adjoining mine.

The plaintiffs were the trustees of a will, and in the year 1871 W. D. Trotter, one of the then trustees, who was a solicitor and also a beneficiary under the will, and acted as solicitor to the trustees, entered into negotiations with the defendant's manager with the view of the granting to the defendant of a license to work the plaintiffs' coal. On the 28th of October, 1871, the manager wrote to W. D. Trotter that, after being with him the previous day, when it was arranged that the trustees' coal should be worked from the defendant's pit on certain terms therein mentioned, he had instructed the person in charge of the mine to "fire away (drive) into it." After this the coal was worked on behalf of the defendant. On the 23rd of July, 1872, W. D. Trotter wrote to the defendant's manager that he found the trustees had no power to lease the coal, so that he feared that it was impossible for him to enter into terms for the lease or sale of the coal. After this the working was continued until October, 1872.

North, Q.C., and J. Rigby, for the plaintiffs.

Cookson, Q.C., and W. S. Owen, for the defendant.

Fry, J., held that the defendant had commenced working with a bonâ fide belief that he would obtain a good title, and that, therefore, in respect of the coal gotten up to the 23rd of July, 1872, when he was informed that the trustees had no power to grant a lease, he must be allowed the cost of severing the coal, as well as the cost of bringing it to bank. In respect of the coal gotten after the 23rd of July, 1872, the defendant would be allowed only the cost of bringing it to bank. The Statute of Limitations applied, and the account would extend only over six years before the issue of the writ.

The objection taken to the conviction on the appeal was that it must, under the provisions of the Act, proceed upon a valid condemnation of the meat, and that the condemnation of the meat was invalid, because no summons had been served on or notice given to the appellant to appear before the justice who condemned the meat. application be made .... within two calendar months after the birth of the child, such weekly sum may, if the justices think fit, be calculated from the birth of the child."

On the 8th of February, 1879, justices made an order on the putative father of a bastard child for the payment to the mother of 2s. a week, from the 25th of January, 1879, the day on which the application was made, until the child should attain the age of thirteen or die. Upon appeal to sessions it was objected that this order was void, on the grounds, first that the justices had no power to make the order operate from the date of the application; secondly, that the order contained no direction for the application of the money to the maintenance and education of the child.

The sessions affirmed the order subject to a case.

Soden, for the respondent.

Fitzgerald, for the appellant, was not heard.

THE COURT (Cockburn, C.J., and Manisty, J.) quashed the order, thinking that the omission to provide for the education of the child was fatal. So far as they expressed their opinion, they considered that the order might operate from the date of the application.

THE QUEEN ON THE PROSECUTION OF THE GUARDIANS OF MEDWAY UNION, RESPS.; GUARDIANS OF MAIDSTONE UNION, APPS.

Poor Law—Divided Parishes Act (39 & 40 Vict. c. 61), s. 34—24 & 25 Vict. c. 55, s. 3—Settlement by Residence—"Desertion" of Wife by Husband.

An order of justices had been made adjudging the settlement of Caroline Baldock, a lunatic, to be in the parish of Maidstone in the Maidstone Union, upon the ground that she was the wife of George Baldock, who had for thirteen years resided in Maidstone under such circumstances as to make him irremoveable and legally settled there within the meaning of 39 & 40 Vict. c. 61, s. 34. Upon appeal to the sessions the order was confirmed subject to a case, from which it appeared that the pauper having on several occasions committed adultery her husband ordered her to leave his house, which she accordingly did. She never returned to her husband, but resided for more than three years in the respondent union in such a manner as would have made her irremoveable if she had been a single woman.

Kingsford, for the appellants, referred to 24 & 25 Vict. c. 55, s. 3, which enacts that "where a married woman shall have been or shall be deserted by her husband and shall after his desertion reside for three years in such a manner as would, if she were a widow, render her exempt from removal, she shall not be liable to be removed from the parish wherein she shall be resident, unless her husband return to cohabit with her," and contended that the pauper must be taken to have been deserted by her husband within the meaning of this section, and that whether the desertion was justifiable or not was immaterial.

Winch, for the respondents, contended that the husband and wife were merely living apart by consent, and that there was no abandonment of the wife by her husband, so as to satisfy the word "desertion" in the statute.

THE COURT (Cockburn, C.J., and Manisty, J.) held that there had been a desertion within the meaning of s. 3, and that it was immaterial whether the husband lived apart from his wife through his own or her misconduct.

Q. B. Div. HAWKESLEY v. BRADSHAW. Dec. 4.

Pleading—Payment into Court—Libel—Justification—Embarrassing Pleading.

Action for libel published in a newspaper.

Statement of claim set out the alleged libel, assigning to it various defamatory meanings by way of innuendo.

The statement of defence admitted the publication of the alleged libel, and pleaded that, with the exception of the innuendoes, it was true. It further, in the alternative, pleaded the publication of a full apology in the newspaper and payment of 40s. into Court.

A master had made an order striking out the defence as embarrassing. Field, J., at chambers, reversed the decision of the master, and the plaintiff now appealed against the order of Field, J.

Murphy, Q.C., and Dunn, for the plaintiff.

Graham, for the defendant.

THE COURT (Cockburn, L.C.J., and Manisty, J.) held that an apology and payment into Court could not be legally pleaded together with other matters constituting a defence to the action, or if they could, that such a defence was embarrassing, and ought to be disallowed under Rules of Court, 1875, Order XXX. r. 1.

Appeal allowed.

Q. B. Div. MAPLESON v. MASINI. Dec. 6.

Practice—Defendant resident Abroad—Order to give Security for Costs—Claim and Counter-claim relating to one Transaction.

Motion by way of appeal from an order of Lindley, J., at chambers, directing the defendant to give security for costs as being a foreigner resident abroad. The action was for breach by the defendant of the terms of his engagement as a professional singer by the plaintiff, and the defendant delivered a counter-claim in respect of alleged breaches by the plaintiff of the contract on his part.

Moulton, for the defendant, in support of the motion, contended that the order was without precedent, and opposed to the former practice in the Court of Chancery in cases of bill and cross bill, which afforded the nearest analogy to the present case.

Chandos Leigh, for the plaintiff, contended that inasmuch as the counter-claim was not merely relied on as a defence to the action, but claimed damages for plaintiff's breach of contract, the order was rightly made.

THE COURT (Field and Manisty, JJ.) after taking time to consider, held the order must be rescinded. The claim and counter-claim related to one transaction, and the fact that the defendant in his defence incidentally claimed damages arising out of the same transaction, was no ground for requiring him to give security for costs.

Order rescinded.

C. P. Div. PORRETT, APP.; LORD, RESP. Dec. 8.

*Registration Appeal—Correction of List—Declaration of Mis-description—Houses in Succession—Change of Qualification—Power to amend—*41 & 42 Vict. c. 26, ss. 24, 28, sub-ss. 1, 13.

Case stated on appeal from the revising barrister for the parliamentary borough of Burnley.

The appellant's name was entered on the list of voters as "Ludlam," his place of abode "8, Birley Place," nature of qualification "House," and qualifying property, "8, Birley Place."

Wishing to correct mis-descriptions in the list, he made and sent in a declaration under 41 & 42 Vict. c. 26, s. 24, that his name was "Ludlam," place of abode "9, Birley Place," nature of qualification "Houses in succession," qualifying property "8, Birley Place and 9, Birley Place."

Sect. 24 enacts that any person in the list "whose name or place of abode or the nature of whose qualification or the name or situation of whose qualifying property is not correctly stated in such list, or in respect of whom there is any other error or omission in the said list" may make a declaration of the misdescription.

Sect. 28 enables the barrister to correct any mistake in the list.

Sub-sect. 13 enacts that except as in s. 28 provided the revising barrister shall not be at liberty to change the description of the qualification, except for the purpose of more clearly and accurately defining the same.

The barrister thought the declaration proposed to substitute a new and different qualification, which he had no power to do, and he expunged the name from the list.

R. Henn Collins, for the appellant.

Mellor, Q.C., for the respondent.

Cur. adv. vult.

The Court (Grove and Lindley, JJ.) were of opinion that the decision of the revising barrister was right. There had been an obvious change in the qualification, and not a mere misdescription of it in the list.

Bailment—Loan of Securities for definite Period—Deposit by Borrower—Notice of Loan—Right of Lender to recover—Appeal from the Mayor's Court.

Action to recover certain Erie bonds and railway share certificates. At the trial it appeared that one Chinnery had, in January, borrowed the documents, which were negotiable, of the plaintiff, saying that he required them for a temporary purpose, to lend to his brother-in-law, and agreeing to return them in two months. Chinnery being pressed by his brother-in-law, the defendant, to repay money, lent, deposited the documents with him, telling him they were borrowed, but not stating for how long a time. After the expiration of two months the plaintiff demanded the documents of Chinnery, and failing to obtain them brought this action. A verdict was given for the plaintiff.

A rule having been granted to enter the verdict for the defendant.

T. Salter, Q.C., shewed cause.

Kemp, Q.C., and Moreton, in support of the rule.

The Court (Grove and Lopes, JJ.) held that the defendant having taken the documents with notice that they were borrowed, and therefore might at any time be demanded by the owner, had no right, as against him, to refuse to give them up at the expiration of the two months. The fact that the documents were negotiable made no difference, as they had not been negotiated. but were merely deposited with the defendant.

Rule discharged.

Registration—Notice of Desire to appeal—6 & 7 Vict. c. 18, s. 42—Neglect or Refusal of Revising Barrister to state Case—Application for Rule—Time of—41 & 42 Vict. c. 26, s. 37—6 & 7 Vict. c. 18, s. 42.

Rule calling on the revising barrister and certain voters of the City of Exeter to shew cause why the barrister should not state a case on appeal under 41 & 42 Vict. c. 26, s. 28, subsects. 10, 11.

From an affidavit, accepted by the Court as the simple statement of the revising barrister which need not have been verified on oath, it appeared that he having on the 25th of September decided against certain objections made at his Court the appellant served upon him two written notices, under 6 & 7 Vict. c. 18, s. 42, of a desire to appeal in two cases respectively. The barrister indorsed one notice "No primâ facie proof of the ground of objection," and on the other "The primâ facie proof tendered in support of the objection was not satisfactory under the circumstances," and initialled the indorsements. The revision of all the lists was completed on that day. On the 26th, when nothing remained to be done but the signing and reading out of the lists, which then took place, another notice of appeal in cases of voters named in the rule was handed to the barrister who refused to receive it upon the ground that it was too late. On the 2nd of October the revising barrister sent to the appellant a draft case in another appeal not now in question.

41 & 42 Vict. c. 26, s. 37, enacts that if any person feels aggrieved by a revising barrister neglecting or refusing to state any case, he may, within one month after such neglect or refusal, apply to the High Court for a rule compelling him to state the case.

On the 29th of October, the appellant applied for such a rule to Lindley, J., at chambers, who adjourned the application into Court, where, on the 3rd of November, this rule was granted.

A. Charles, Q.C. (Bucknill and Broadmead with him), shewed cause, and incidentally pointed out that the neglect or refusal of the application, being after the expiration of a month from the alleged neglect or refusal to state a case, was too late.

Bompas, Q.C., in support of the rule, argued that there was no neglect or refusal until the 2nd of October, and sought to shew on affidavit that by a tacit understanding the decision of the barrister, as to granting a case, had been postponed.

The Court (Grove and Lopes, JJ.) held that the refusals were clearly upon the 25th and 26th of September, and the application was therefore too late, and said, without deciding, that in their opinion a written notice of a desire to appeal was necessary under 6 & 7 Vict. c. 18, s. 42. Quære, whether affidavits in reply to the report of the revising barrister should be allowed.

Rule discharged with costs.

Forgery—Cheque signed in Fictitious Name.

The prisoner was convicted of forgery at the Assizes at Maidstone before the Lord Chief Justice of England, who reserved the question of the propriety of the conviction for the consideration of this Court.

The facts were as follows:—

The prisoner, in payment for a pony and cart purchased by him from the prosecutor, drew a cheque, in the presence of the prosecutor, upon a bank at which he, the prisoner, had no account whatever, in the name of William Martin, his real name being Robert Martin, and gave it to the prosecutor as his, the prisoner's, own cheque drawn in his own name. The prisoner at the time he drew the cheque knew that it would be, as in fact it was, dishonoured. The prosecutor received it in the belief that it was drawn in the prisoner's own name.

No counsel appeared.

Held by the Court (Cockburn, L.C.J., Lush, J., Huddleston, B., Lindley, and Hawkins, JJ.) that the prisoner was not guilty of the offence of forgery, following Dunn's Case (1 Leach C. C. 59).

ROBERT JAMES MONTGOMERY v. THOMAS MONTGOMERY.

Disentailing Deed—Capacity to execute.

Appeal against a decision of the Court of Appeal in Ireland, which had reversed a previous decision of the Vice-Chancellor of Ireland on a question whether a disentailing deed had been validly executed on the 24th of April, 1876, or whether, when so executed, Thomas Montgomery, the person who executed it, was mentally unfit and incompetent to do so. On the 15th of June, 1819, one Hugh Montgomery, who had four sons, John, Hugh, Alexander, and Thomas, made his will disposing of four estates among them, and providing cross remainders and a shifting clause to meet every possible contingency of the death of any of them without issue. He died in 1822, and his four sons entered into possession of their respective estates. John had one son, Robert James, now one of the appellants. Hugh had three sons, John Ferguson, George, and Thomas. The last named was the respondent. Alexander, the testator's third son, was never married, and died in June, 1874. Thomas, the testator's fourth son, thereon became entitled to one share of one of the devised estates, called Annemount, and John Ferguson, as representing his father, Hugh, to the other shares. As events happened John Ferguson had it in his power to defeat the entail of his moiety of Annemount, and Thomas, the uncle, had it in his power to defeat the entail as to the other moiety. The testator's son Thomas, the uncle, was a careful man of business: his nephew John Ferguson was supposed to have become embrangled in affairs of the turf, and his uncle had sometimes spoken of him with some distrust on that account, but had been heard to suggest that but for that he was favourably disposed as to John Ferguson. John Ferguson had a fall from his horse, by which he was severely injured in the spine, and was confined to his bed with great apprehension as to his life, and, in fact, he ultimately, on the 30th of April, died of his injuries. Shortly after this accident, namely on the 22nd of April, Thomas, the uncle, then in his 80th year, was attacked with diarrhœa so severe that in a short time it proved fatal. While lying ill in bed, on the 24th of April, he executed the disentailing deed in question, by the effect of which his own share of the Annemount estate was put into the power of his nephew John Ferguson to dispose of at pleasure. John Ferguson gave it by will to his brother Thomas, subject to a charge in favour of his other brother George. But for this disentailing deed the uncle's share of that estate would have gone, according to the provisions of the will of 1819, to the appellant.

The question in the case was whether Thomas the uncle at the time he executed this deed was, in capacity of mind, in a fit state to execute such an instrument. It appeared that Mr. Wallace was the legal adviser of Thomas the uncle, that the deed was prepared in his office, brought to the bedside of the uncle, and read over and explained to him by Mr. Wellwood the clerk of Mr. Wallace, but it appeared to have been prepared without the previous instructions of the uncle himself, who, however, was perfectly aware of John Ferguson's accident and danger. The medical attendant of the uncle expressed strong doubts whether a person in the condition of the uncle possessed the capacity fully to understand what he was doing. But there was evidence on the other side as to the capacity of Thomas the uncle to understand what he was doing when he executed the deed. The Vice-Chancellor of Ireland had thought that his capacity was not sufficiently shewn, and had decided accordingly The Court of Appeal, consisting of the Lord Chancellor, the Lord Chief Justice, the Lord Chief Baron, and Lord Justice Deasey, had come to an opposite conclusion, and this appeal was then brought.

Mr. Kay, Q.C., Mr. Twigg, Q.C. (of the Irish bar), and Mr. Macnaghten, were for the appellant.

Mr. Law, Q.C., Mr. Andrews, Q.C., and Mr. R. Bruce (all three gentlemen of the Irish bar), were for the respondent.

The Chancellor (Earl Cairns), Lord O'Hagan, and Lold Blackburn severally went, in great detail, into the facts, and expressed their concurrence with the Court of Appeal.

Salvage by Tug during Continuance of Towage Contract.

This was an appeal from a decision of the Judge of the Admiralty Court (4 P. D. 121).

The action was for salvage, and was brought by the owners of the steamtug Commodore, of Liverpool, against the owners of the ship Robert Dixon, of New York. On the 18th of March, 1879, the tug was engaged to tow the ship from Liverpool to the Skerries. After the ship had proceeded some way the weather became very bad, the hawser parted, and the ship began to drift towards the shore. Ultimately she was rescued by the tug, but with the loss of her anchors and chains. The owners of the tug claimed salvage money for the services rendered in the rescuing of the ship. The owners of the ship resisted the claim on the ground that the ship had been originally brought into a position of danger by means of imprudent and unskilful navigation on the part of the tug. They also made a counter-claim against the owners of the tug for the value of the anchors and chains which had been lost. Sir R. Phillmore decided in favour of the owners of the ship on the claim and on the counter-claim. The owners of the tug appealed.

NEWBIGGIN-BY-THE-SEA GAS COMPANY v. ARMSTRONG.

Practice—Costs—Solicitor commencing Action without Authority from Plaintiffs—Form of Order.

This was an appeal from an order of Fry, J., directing action should be dismissed, and that the solicitor of the plaintiff company in the action should pay the costs of the company between solicitor and client, on the ground that he had issued the writ in the name of the company without any authority to do so. The matters in dispute in the action turned upon the question who were really the directors of the company.

Calderott (North, Q.C., with him), for the solicitor, who appealed.

Cookson, Q.C., and Bush, for the plaintiff company, were not called on.

JESSEL, M.R., said that the present order was made according to the old practice of the Court of Chancery in such cases, by which the defendant was not served with notice of the plaintiff's application and was left to get his costs from the plaintiff, who had afterwards to get them over from the solicitor. The practice in the Common Law Courts appeared to be a better practice. There the defendant was served with notice of the application and the solicitor was ordered to pay the costs of both plaintiff and defendant. The question was which practice ought to be followed since the Judicature Act. That was a matter for the Court to determine. He had no hesitation in saying, as he had already said at the Rolls Court, though not with the same authority that he now said it in the Court of Appeal, that he considered the Common Law practice to be founded in natural justice and ought to be followed for the future. On the merits of the case he agreed with Mr. Justice Fry.

JAMES, L.J., concurred.

BRETT, L.J., said that he was very glad to hear the Master of the Rolls affirm what he had himself often said since the Judicature Act came into operation, that in matters of practice which were left open by the Act that practice which upon consideration appeared to be the best ought to prevail.

Cookson, Q.C., said that he was authorized to appear for the defendant as well as the company, and asked that the order might be set right at once by ordering the costs of the defendant to be paid.

THE COURT accordingly made the order that the solicitor should pay the costs of the plaintiffs between solicitor and client, and the costs of the defendant between party and party.

Practice—Pleading—Embarrassing Defence—Libel—Denial that alleged Libel applies to Plaintiff pleaded together with Justification—Particulars of Justification of alleged Libel—Practice—Production of the Judge's Notes at Hearing in the Court of Appeal.

Appeal of the plaintiff from an order of Kelly, C.B., and Stephen, J., refusing to alter the statement of defence.

The plaintiff was a bell-founder carrying on business under the style of Mears & Stainbank, and the claim set out several defamatory statements in writing, which were alleged by the plaintiff to refer to his firm and to impute to it unskilfulness in the conduct of its business. The defendant pleaded that in so far as the statements complained of related to the plaintiff's firm they did not relate to the plaintiff, that they were fair comments upon a matter of public interest, and also that they were true in fact. It appeared that the libels complained of referred to work done by the plaintiff's firm before he joined it, and that Mears was no longer a member of it. An application had been made at chambers to compel the defendant to amend his pleading; but the application was refused both by the master and, upon appeal, by the judge, and the Exchequer Division confirmed their decision.

W. G. Harrison, Q.C., and Hilbery, for the plaintiff, contended that the defendant ought not to be allowed to plead that the alleged libels did not affect the plaintiff, and also that they were true; and further that the general terms of the defence were an evasion of the rules as to pleading introduced by the Judicature Acts and that the issues raised would be very expensive to try.

Jeune, for the defendant.

THE COURT (Cockburn, C.J., Bramwell, and Thesiger, L.JJ.) ordered, with the assent of both parties, that the defendant should give particulars and specific facts as to the justification upon which he meant to rely at the trial. They intimated that it was essential to state the facts with clearness before the parties proceeded to trial, and that the plaintiff must have some information as to the case which he was called upon to meet.

During the argument of this case Bramwell, L.J., stated with respect to the production of the judge's notes taken at the trial upon the hearing in this Court (noted Swann v. Barber & Co., ante, p. 171, and Daun and Another v. Simmins, ante, p. 178), that it would be sufficient for the party requiring the notes at the hearing to mention the name of the case (together with the name of the judge, the date and place of trial) to the master in attendance, and that a formal application to the Lords Justices by motion was unnecessary.

Practice—Security for Costs—Delay in prosecuting Action—Rules of Court, 1875, Order LVIII., r. 15.

Application of the defendant for security for costs in respect of the plaintiff's appeal from Lopes, J., set down 11th of July.

The action was commenced in 1876, and was brought upon an alleged bill of exchange for about 120*l.* A delay of about two years and a half occurred in prosecuting the action before it was brought to trial. The appeal was about fifty out of the list for the day in this Court.

Pollard, for the defendant, contended that the delay of the plaintiff in prosecuting the action was a "special circumstance" for requiring the plaintiff to give security for costs within the meaning of Rules of Court, Order LVIII., r. 15.

The plaintiff did not appear.

THE COURT (Cockburn, C.J., Bramwell and Thesiger, L.JJ.) ordered that the plaintiff should give security for costs to the amount of 20*l.*, and that the costs of this application should be costs in the cause.

Ship and Shipping—Charterparty—Bill of Lading—Short Delivery—Inconsistent Findings—New Trial.

Appeal of the defendants from the judgment of Brett, L.J., after trial.

The plaintiffs were owners of a steamship called the Timor, and the defendants were merchants at Liverpool. In November, 1876, the defendants chartered the steamship to load a cargo of coals at Newcastle and carry it to Bombay. The coals having been shipped were delivered at Bombay, but the defendants refused to pay the whole of the freight claimed upon the ground that the bills of lading stated that 2196 tons had been shipped, whereas only 2057 had been delivered. It appeared that the coals had not been properly weighed before shipment, and that the bills of lading had not been signed by the captain but by a manager in the name of the shipowners. It was admitted that only 2057 had been delivered. At the trial the jury found that all the coals shipped had been delivered, that 2196 tons had been taken on board, and that the deficiency must have arisen upon the weighing out. Brett, L.J., considered that these findings negatived short delivery, and gave judgment for the plaintiffs.

G. Bruce, for the plaintiffs.

THE COURT (Cockburn, C.J., Bramwell and Thesiger, L.JJ) held that the findings of the jury were unsatisfactory and inconsistent with the admitted facts, and directed a new trial.

Motion on behalf of the defendants Bowden and Cotton calling upon the plaintiff to give security for costs in respect of his appeal to this Court. The case is noted ante, p. 192.

It was alleged on behalf of the defendants that the plaintiff was a man of small means, and that he was indemnified against the costs, the action being brought for the benefit of the representatives of one Warner by direction of the Chancery Division, and further that the action was vexatious, inasmuch as it might have been brought in 1873, whereas it was not commenced until the 9th of January, 1877. For the plaintiff an affidavit was produced shewing that he was a man of substance.

THE COURT (Cockburn, C.J., Bramwell, and Thesiger, L.JJ.) were of opinion that the action was not vexatious, and that the application of the defendants was answered by the affidavit for the plaintiff. The application was dismissed.

Practice—Appeal from Chambers to Divisional Court—Counsel not appearing in Divisional Court to support Notice of Motion—Hearing in Court of Appeal.

The defendant had been served with the writ of summons to recover large sums of money alleged to be due from him. He did not appear within the proper time, but some time afterwards he applied to a master at chambers for liberty to defend the action; leave to appear was granted upon condition of paying into Court or giving security for a portion of the plaintiff's claim. The defendant appealed to a judge against the condition imposed, who affirmed the master's order. The defendant then gave notice of motion to the Queen's Bench Division. Before the day for hearing the motion arrived, the counsel for the defendant requested by letter the counsel for the plaintiffs to allow it to stand over; the counsel for the plaintiffs, however, replied that his instructions did not permit him to consent to this request. This reply did not reach the counsel for the defendant, owing to a temporary absence from his chambers. On the day for hearing the motion no counsel for the defendant appeared, but the counsel for the plaintiffs appeared and claimed the judgment of the Court; and accordingly the Queen's Bench Division, consisting of Coleridge, C.J., and Lindley, J., affirmed the decisions at chambers. The defendant appealed to this Court.

M. Powell, for the plaintiffs.

Torr, for defendant.

THE COURT (Cockburn, C.J., Bramwell and Cotton, L.JJ.) held that as the defendant had not appeared in the Queen's Bench Division pursuant to the notice of motion, the appeal to this Court could not be heard; the defendant must apply to the Queen's Bench Division, which might possibly in the exercise of its discretion allow the appeal from chambers to be argued. This Court could give the defendant no relief.

MORRIS AND OTHERS v. REDDISH AND OTHERS.

Principal and Surety—Contribution amongst Sureties—Failure by one Surety to execute Instrument of Suretyship.

The plaintiffs lent to a joint stock company a sum of money upon mortgage, but as they were not satisfied with the liability of the company the directors were made parties to the mortgage-deed as sureties for the repayment of the loan. One of the directors named Catlow did not sign the deed, but the others did, and gave their undertaking to the plaintiffs that they would use their best endeavours to induce Catlow to sign the deed. He, however, never executed it. The loan not being repaid, the present action was brought against the directors upon the covenants in the mortgage-deed, and Huddleston, B., directed judgment to be entered for the plaintiffs. The defendant, Reddish, appealed to this Court.

Henn Collins, for the defendant Reddish, contended that as Catlow had not signed the mortgage-deed the other directors were not liable on it, as the sureties were entitled to contribution from each other.

A. Cock, for the plaintiffs, was not called upon to argue.

THE COURT (Cockburn, C.J., Bramwell, and Cotton, L.JJ.) held that there had been a substituted contract that the remaining directors should render themselves liable for the repayment of the loan; that the defendant had waived his right to have Catlow sign; and that the plaintiffs had taken less than their full security upon the faith that the remaining directors would do their best to induce Catlow to sign. The Court were clearly of opinion that the judgment for the plaintiffs was right.

Special case stated by an arbitrator in an action for recovery of land.

In 1854 the plaintiff's predecessor in title conveyed to the defendant a plot of land upon the south side of an intended street called Grundy Street, upon which the defendant built a factory. Neither conveyance by the plaintiff's predecessor in title conveyed in express terms the soil of Grundy Street. The defendant from 1854 placed upon the soil of Grundy Street materials used at his factory, so as to block it up except against foot-passengers, and in 1865 he enclosed an oblong portion of it. In 1872 the defendant fenced in the ends of Grundy Street. The plaintiff never complained until 1875. This action was commenced in 1876. Within twenty years before action the plaintiff's predecessor in title had repaired a gate at one end of Grundy Street. The arbitrator had found as a fact that the defendant had not gained a title to Grundy Street by possession or user. The soil of Grundy Street was never dedicated to the public as a highway.

C. Russell, Q.C., and W. H. Butler, for the defendant, contended that by virtue of the conveyances the soil of Grundy Street was vested in the defendant, and also that the title of the plaintiff was defeated by the Statute of Limitations (3 & 4 Wm. 4, c. 27), ss. 2, 3.

Ship and Shipping—Cargo—Conversion.

Appeal of defendants from judgment of Lindley, J., at trial without a jury.

The plaintiffs sued in trover for a cargo of coke; and also for damages for breach of contract in not signing bills of lading. The plaintiffs chartered the defendants' ship to carry a cargo of coke from Cardiff to Bilboa. The charterparty contained clauses that the master should sign bills of lading as presented to him with a penalty of 4*d.* per ton a day for each day's delay; that the freight was to be paid at Cardiff by the consignee; and that all liability of the charterer was to cease on cargo being shipped. The plaintiffs had information that on the 1st of July the Spanish Government would raise the duty on coke landed at the port of Bilboa, and of this they gave notice to the defendants, requiring them to deliver the coke at Bilboa before that day. The vessel was delayed in discharging her inward cargo at Cardiff; she took on board the cargo of coke and sailed from Cardiff on the 30th of June and arrived at Bilboa on the 3rd of July. On the bills of lading for the coke being presented to the master he refused to sign them without inserting a clause that "the vessel was not to be liable for duties on cargo caused by non-arrival before 1st July." The plaintiffs declined to accept bills of lading with this clause, and no bills of lading were therefore signed, and the vessel sailed with the coke on board. The plaintiffs telegraphed to the vendor and consignee of the coke to deduct from the freight the increased duty to be levied on the coke at Bilboa. The Spanish Government, however, had not imposed any increased duty. The plaintiffs then telegraphed to the vendors to deduct from the freight the penalty of 4*d.* a day, amounting to 50*l.*, which they claimed from the defendants. The master had delivered thirty tons of coke, but refused to deliver any further quantity unless he was paid the freight in full. He afterwards landed and warehoused the cargo. The vendor of the coke but for the act of the plaintiffs would have taken delivery of the coke without receiving any bills of lading and paid full freight. The learned Judge held that there had been a conversion of the coke at Cardiff, and the conduct of the parties at Bilboa had not relieved the defendants from the consequences of their wrongful act.

Bills of Exchange—Consideration—Mistake of Fact.

Appeal of the plaintiffs from the judgment of Huddleston, B., at trial without a jury.

The question in this case arose upon the counter-claim, and the facts were complicated. The plaintiffs held certain bills of exchange payable to their order and accepted by Gibbons; they indorsed these bills for the purpose of collection and passed them through their bankers. These bills were dishonoured and returned to the plaintiffs, who afterwards transferred them to the defendants. It was also contended by the defendants that they were entitled to recover back from the plaintiffs certain money as paid under a mistake of fact; the mistake was that the defendants had imagined that certain funds would enable them to pay the plaintiffs, whereas in truth it ultimately appeared that the funds were insufficient.

C. C. Scott, for the plaintiffs, contended that there was no evidence of a valid transfer of the bills by the plaintiffs to the defendants, the mere indorsement of their name by the plaintiffs being insufficient to enable the defendants to sue, when they received the bills at a subsequent date, and also that the alleged mistake of fact was a mere mis-calculation.

Wills Act, ss. 23, 24—Bequest of Leasehold—Subsequent Purchase of Freehold.

Special case. W. Saxton made his will on the 28th of April, 1876, commencing with the following clause: "I give, devise, and bequeath unto my wife Emily all my term and interest in the leasehold dwelling-house and premises known as No. 1, Berkeley Gardens, Kensington, in which I now reside, for her own absolute use and benefit subject to the payment of the ground rent and performance of the covenants affecting the same, but free from any claim or incumbrance (if any) created by me." The testator was at the date of his will in possession and occupation of the house and premises mentioned in his will under a lease for the residue of a term of ninety-four years from the 24th of June, 1859, at a yearly ground rent of 10*l.*, subject to the performance of the usual covenants. Subsequently to the date of his will the testator purchased the freehold of inheritance in the said house in consideration of 280*l.*, and the same was conveyed to him in fee by an indenture dated the 11th of July, 1877. The testator died in January, 1879.

The questions for the Court were: whether the house and premises in Berkeley Gardens passed to the widow of the testator under the specific devise contained in the will, and if so for what estate and interest, and whether the costs of this special case ought to be borne by the general personal estate of the testator.

By purchasing the ground-rent he relieved her of the yearly payment of 10*l.*, but his Lordship's opinion was that the legacy was not adeemed, and that the widow took the fee; and that the costs must come out of the general personal estate.

Practice—Trial—Rules of the Supreme Court, 1875, Order xxxvi.

Horton Smith, Q.C., and Cosser, moved that this action might be tried at the next Leeds Assizes.

The action was for specific performance of an agreement for sale and exchange, under which the defendant was to give the plaintiff freehold land for building purposes in exchange for an equity of redemption, and the main issue for trial was whether a vein of coal existed under the land of the defendant near the surface so as to interfere with the building purposes for which the plaintiff agreed to take the land. Another issue was the agency in the matter of one John Hall.

In support of the application, which was made under the Rules of the Supreme Court, 1875, Order xxxvi, rr. 1, 29, 29a, the convenience of a view of the locus in quo, the inconvenience of bringing up the plaintiff and all his witnesses from their business at Leeds to a trial in London, and the absence of any difficult questions of law in the action, were urged.

Sir H. Jackson, Q.C., and Dunning, for the defendant, were not called on.

The Vice-Chancellor refused the motion. He had been in vain listening for some reason why the order asked for should be made. As to the existence of the vein of coal it was stated that the plaintiff had dug a hole in the ground, so that it was not a case in which a view was essential. It might be more convenient to the plaintiff and his witnesses not to have to come to London, but that was not enough. On the whole there was not a shadow of a reason why he should disturb the ordinary course of business on the mere whim, it might be, of one of the parties to the action.

The testator had no real estate at the time of his death but was entitled to the unpaid purchase-money of certain real property contracted to be sold by him during his life. The testator by his will, after making certain specific bequests, directed all the residue of his furniture, chattels, and effects, to be sold by his executors, and after payment of his debts, funeral and testamentary expenses, he directed the balance of the proceeds of such sale, and also all other moneys, or securities for money, of which he might die possessed, and all other his personal property of what kind or nature soever, to be divided equally between two persons whom he afterwards appointed his executors.

Ingle Joyce, for the defendant, the executor, contended that the proceeds of sale being received by the executor virtute officii, were legal assets, and therefore subject to the executor's right of retainer.

Mulligan, in reply.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR considered that by the words of the will the proceeds of sale were constituted equitable assets, and that there was no right of retainer.

Settlement —Mistake —Rectification —Rule in Shelley's Case—Evidence of Mistake by Plaintiff only—Smith v. Iliffe (20 Eq. 666) corrected.

By a post-nuptial settlement, dated in 1859, certain real estate belonging to the plaintiff, Mrs. Hanley, was conveyed by herself and her husband to a trustee and his heirs, to the use of such persons as the husband and wife should appoint, with remainder to the use of the trustee, his executors and administrators, during the life of the wife in trust for her separate use, with remainder, in case the wife survived the husband, to the use of her heirs and assigns, but if the husband survived the wife, then to the use of the husband, his heirs and assigns. No appointment was executed under the joint power, and the wife survived her husband. The effect of the settlement being to give the wife an equitable estate for life only, with a legal remainder to her heirs and assigns, thus preventing the operation of the rule in Shelley's Case, the wife brought this action against the trustee alleging that it was intended that in the events which had happened she should have an absolute estate in fee simple, and claiming to have the settlement rectified accordingly, on the ground of mistake.

The evidence of mistake consisted of an affidavit by the plaintiff only.

Mortgages and Assignment—Mortgagors in Liquidation—Action for Foreclosure—Transfer by Mortgagee to Himself and Others (pendente lite)—Consolidation—No Statement of Defence—Property revested in Mortgagors—Action set down for Hearing—Summons to discontinue—Rules of Court, 1875, Order XXIII.—Motion for Order for Redemption—Statute 7 Geo. 2, c. 20.

The action was commenced on the 27th of November, 1878, and the statement of claim was delivered on the 24th of December, 1878. The object was to foreclose sixteen mortgages made in favour of E. K. E. Mardon to secure 20,000*l.*, as to nine of them by Corbett, as to six by McClymont, and as to one by both mortgagors, who were in partnership as builders, and who took building leases severally and not jointly. These mortgages were assigned by Mardon to the plaintiff. The other defendants were sub-mortgagees. The plaintiff was with two others (Mardon being one of them) trustees of a will, and at the commencement of this action held other mortgages of Corbett and McClymont for 38,500*l.* Corbett and McClymont having gone into liquidation the mortgages were valued, and the above three trustees fearing a loss would accrue entered into possession of the properties, and by an indenture dated the 24th of April, 1879, they took a transfer of the mortgages vested in the plaintiff. The transferees were plaintiffs in two other actions as trustees under the same will. The object of the above transfer was to enable the three trustees to consolidate their mortgages for 38,500*l.* and 20,000*l.*

Notice of the indenture of the 24th of April was given to the solicitors of Corbett and McClymont on the 30th of April, 1879, and the plaintiff received from the solicitors a notice to the effect that they were on behalf of those clients prepared immediately to pay off the mortgages for 20,000*l.* upon having a transfer, and they asked for an answer as to taking the money, and when? An offer was made for the mortgagors that they were willing to assign their equities in the other mortgages for 38,500*l.*

The reply of the plaintiff was a refusal to transfer except upon payment of the whole 58,500*l.*

It appeared that neither mortgagor nor their trustees in liquidation after entering appearance put in any statement of defence. The action was early in February last in the paper for hearing, as short, but owing to circumstances it stood over, and in the interval a resolution of the creditors was passed accepting 6*d.* in the pound, and the properties were by order of the 13th of February revested in the mortgagors.

The action was again in the paper on the 15th of February, but was adjourned to enable the plaintiff to amend by making the original mortgagors defendants.

On the 12th of November, 1879, the plaintiff took out a summons for leave to amend this and the other two actions by stating the indenture of April, 1879, but it was dismissed.

The plaintiff took out a summons which was returnable on the 3rd of December for leave to discontinue this action. It was served on the solicitors for the mortgagors. This summons was still pending.

On the 29th of November notice of motion was given on behalf of the mortgagors, Corbett and McClymont, that, admitting the right of the plaintiff, the Court would, on the 4th of December, be asked to make such order in the action as if the same had been regularly brought to hearing, and that the ordinary decree for foreclosure and redemption might be made.

W. Pearson, Q.C., and Jason Smith, for the motion, asked for the usual order under the statute 7 Geo. 2, c. 20.

Hastings, Q.C., and Langley, for the plaintiff, contended that the effect of the motion was that these defendants, there having been no statement of defence put in, asked the Court to allow them to redeem part of their mortgages, and in an action which the plaintiff did not want to continue, and which he could, being dominus litis, discontinue, and to make the order asked would be contrary to law.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said that as to the point that the applicants were not entitled to the order because there had been no statement of defence, and therefore it was competent to the plaintiff to proceed under the old practice, to resist this motion and to get rid of the action, he held that it was clear upon the language of Order XXIII. that when an action had been entered for trial neither party was at liberty to say it should not continue. The plaintiff had transferred his mortgages pendente lite to three persons, himself being one, with a view to bringing about a consolidation of mortgages. The difficulty put forward that the plaintiff could not now re-convey was one of his own creation, and he must get back the mortgages from those three persons. The transfer was pendente lite, and it was not an answer to his obligation to re-transfer the property to the applicants. He had to look at the provisions of the statute 7 Geo. 2, c. 20, and the pleadings, and he held that he could not in the exercise of his discretion, assuming that he had a right to exercise it, refuse the applicants the order which they asked for under the statute, therefore the usual order would be made.

V.-C. H. MOGGRIDGE v. HALL. Dec. 11.
LLANOVER v. HOMFREY.
PHILLIPS v. LLANOVER.

Bill and Cross Bill for Declarations of Title to Mines and Minerals ready to be set down for Hearing—Motion for Publication of Evidence taken by Commission in ancient Suit de bene esse allowed.

The plaintiffs, Moggridge and three others, filed on behalf of themselves and others, the owners of customary tenements held of the manor of Abercarne, against Benjamin Hall for a declaration of title to the mines and minerals thereunder.

In May, 1815, the Master of the Rolls on the petition of the plaintiffs, in which it was stated that the twelve persons named were very material witnesses, and that they were of the ages mentioned, the youngest of them being 67 years old, gave liberty for the appointment of commissioners to examine the persons named de bene esse as witnesses saving just exceptions. No step had been taken in that suit since 1818.

The bill of Lady Llanover and the two trustees named in the will of Benjamin Hall was filed in June, 1870, praying for a declaration that the trustees were as lords of the manor entitled to the mines and minerals and consequential relief.

The defendants were Homfray and other persons, including J. and J. Phillips. The bill was amended in December, 1871. The answer of J. and J. Phillips was filed in February, 1871.

The bill of J. and J. Phillips was filed in April, 1871, on behalf of themselves and all others the owners of customary tenements held of the manor above-mentioned, against Lady Llanover and the two trustees for a declaration that the plaintiffs, as the owners of the Troed Rhiw Gwair estate and the owners of all other customary tenements within the manor, were entitled to the mines and minerals within their respective tenements, and that the title of the plaintiffs and the other said owners might be established and quieted, and that the suit might be deemed to be a supplemental suit to Moggridge v. Hall, and that the plaintiffs might have the same benefit of that suit and of the proceedings and evidence therein against the defendants in like manner as the plaintiffs in that suit could have had the same against the defendant thereto, and that if necessary or proper this suit might be taken and deemed to be a cross suit to the suit of Llanover v. Homfray.

The original answer of the defendants Lady Llanover and the trustees was filed in August, 1871. The bill was amended in July, 1872, and re-amended in April, 1874, and the answer of the defendants to the re-amended bill was filed in September, 1874.

Replication was filed before the Judicature Act of 1875 came into operation, and the evidence was closed in July, 1879, and the causes were, as stated, ready be set down for hearing.

This was a motion in the three suits that the depositions of the twelve persons examined in the first suit and retained in the custody of the Court might be published, and that any of the parties in the causes might be at liberty to use such depositions on the hearing, saving all just exceptions and without prejudice to any question as to the admissibility of such depositions as evidence.

W. Pearson, Q.C., and Freeling, for the motion.

Kekewich, Q.C., and Hornell, for Lady Llanover and the trustees, objected to the motion, both on the ground of the delay it would cause and that the plaintiffs had no right to the order which they asked.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR was of opinion that at this stage of the suits, having regard to the authorities to which reference had been made, that he could not decline to make an order for the publication of the evidence, but whether it could be admitted, and if admitted whether it would be of any value, he would not now give any opinion; that would be a matter for consideration when the nature of the suit Moggridge v. Hall was explained, and what became of the suit and how it came to be abated. The order would be as in Duke Hamilton v. Meynal (2 Ves. Sen. 496; 2 Dickens, 788), but without prejudice to any objection which might be made at the hearing.

Vendor and Purchaser—Specific Performance—Notice to make Time of Essence of Contract—Reasonableness—Practice—Pleading—Evidence—Counter-claim—Reply—Amendment—Rules of Court, 1875, Order XIX, rr. 3, 17, 20, 22.

The defendant occupied a factory under an underlease from the plaintiff, which gave him an option to purchase the original lease. On the 15th of March, 1877, the defendant gave notice of his intention to exercise the option. On the 20th March an abstract of the plaintiff's title was sent to the defendant's solicitor, and he on the 29th of March sent to the plaintiff's solicitor a draft assignment of the original lease. The plaintiff had mortgaged the original lease, and, in consequence of a dispute between him and his mortgagees as to the amount due to them, which resulted in an action in the Chancery Division, the draft assignment was kept two years by the plaintiff's soli itor. On the 25th of March, 1879, the draft was returned, with a supplemental abstract of a further charge created by the plaintiff since March, 1877. On the 3rd of April, 1879, the plaintiff's solicitor gave notice to the defendant's solicitor that, if the purchase was not completed before the 22nd of April, the plaintiff would put an end to the contract. The purchase was not completed by that day, and on the 23rd of April the plaintiff issued the writ in this action, claiming a declaration that the option of purchase had not been and could not be exercised; that the notice of the 15th of March, 1877, was now of no effect, and that the contract between him and the defendant had been duly determined. The defendant delivered a statement of defence containing a number of statements of fact, and by way of counter-claim he repeated "the several matters hereinbefore stated and admitted," and claimed specific performance of the agreement for the purchase of the property. The defendant had remained in possession of the property, paying interest on the purchase-money. The plaintiff by his reply admitted some of the paragraphs of the statement of defence, and joined issue "upon the several defences save as aforesaid, and save in so far as the same do not admit the statement of claim." And in reply to the statements alleged by way of counter-claim, "the plaintiff repeats the several matters stated in the statement of claim and the admissions hereinbefore made, and says that, save as stated in the statement of claim, or hereinbefore admitted, each of such allegations is untrue." The defendant by his rejoinder joined issue on the reply to the counter-claim.

Cookson, Q.C., and T. L. Wilkinson, for the plaintiff.

North, Q.C., and Maidlow, for the defendant, objected that the plaintiff by his reply, not having specifically denied the facts alleged in the counter-claim, had admitted them.

FRY, J., held that this was so, but gave the plaintiff leave to amend his reply.

The defence and the counter-claim were opened, and a witness was examined in support of them.

Digitized by Google

Cookson, in reply, claimed the right to call witnesses in answer to the counter-claim.

North, objected.

FRY, J., refused to allow any further evidence, on the ground that the issues of fact in the claim and counter-claim were exactly the same.

Fischer, Q.C., and Procter, for the mortgagees.

On the merits,

FRY, J., held that there had been no default on the defendant Sevin's part when the notice of the 3rd of April was given. It was well settled that one party to a contract could not, after it had been entered into, make time of its essence, unless there had been some default by the other party. The plaintiff, therefore, was not entitled to give the notice. And, if he was entitled to give it, the time fixed by it for completion was unreasonably short. The original action must be dismissed with costs, and on the counter-claim judgment must be given for the specific performance of the contract, with costs. Subject to the payment of what was due to the mortgagees, the defendant would deduct his costs from his purchase-money.

BANKRUPTCY.

C. J. B. In re WILLIAM DARCEY HARRISON. Dec. 15.
Ex parte MEADS.

Bankruptcy Act, 1869, s. 94—Building Contract—Protected Transaction.

Appeal from an order of the Lincoln County Court declaring that certain bricks and materials placed by Harrison the liquidating debtor on land agreed to be demised to him by Agnes Meads the appellant were the property of Jay, the trustee in liquidation.

In September, 1878, the appellant entered into a building agreement with Harrison, under which Harrison was to build houses upon the appellant's land, and as soon as the houses were placed on the land Miss Meads was to grant him leases for ninety-nine years at a rent of 30*l.* per annum. Until the leases should be granted, Harrison was to hold the premises subject to payment of such rent and to the observance and performance of the stipulations on his part; or in case of his bankruptcy, &c., "all improvements, materials, implements, plant, chattels, and effects, on the said ground or adjacent thereto, which shall not have been actually demised to Harrison, shall be and become absolutely forfeited to Agnes Meads, her executors, administrators, and assignees, but without prejudice to any right of action that may have accrued to her or them under this agreement (which is not to be construed as an actual demise)," with liberty to Agnes Meads to re-enter and take possession of the land, premises, chattels, and effects as if the agreement had never been entered into.

On the 27th of January, 1879, Harrison filed a petition for liquidation under which Jay was appointed trustee.

In June, 1879, Jay served notice of motion for an order giving him leave to disclaim the agreement of September, 1878, and also notice of motion for an order that the bricks and building materials which had been placed on the land by Harrison before filing his petition of liquidation were the property of the trustee.

The County Court Judge having held that the bricks and materials belonged to the trustee, Miss Meads now appealed from that order.

Nasmith, in support of the appeal, contended (1) that there was nothing in the agreement contrary to the policy of the Bankruptcy Laws, and that it was perfectly within the Bankruptcy Act, 1869, s. 94 (Ex parte Waugh, 4 Ch. D. 525; Brown v. Buteman, Law Rep. 2 C. P. 272); (2) that the trustee was not entitled to claim the bricks and materials and repudiate the rest of the agreement.

Winslow, Q.C., and Brough, for the trustee, contended that the bricks, &c., until annexed to the land remained the property and were in the order and disposition of Harrison who was equitable lessee of the land; and that the rule that a trustee could not remove fixtures after he had disclaimed, did not apply to loose materials not affixed to, or part of, the land.

THE CHIEF JUDGE reversed the decision of the County Court Judge, holding that the contract of September, 1878, was perfectly good and valid and was not a fraud on the bankrupt laws. The trustee, moreover, could not claim part of the contract and disclaim the rest. The appellant's claim was perfectly just and the appeal would be allowed with costs.

Q. B. Div. ROBINSON & Co. v. DAVIES & Co. Dec. 8.

Evidence, admissibility of—Secondary Evidence of Contents of written Document received under a Commission to take Evidence Abroad without Objection.

Application to revoke the submission of an action to an arbitrator, the object being to obtain the opinion of the Court as to whether the arbitrator was right in rejecting certain evidence, it being understood that the arbitrator was willing to receive the evidence if the Court thought he ought to do so.

The action was brought by shipowners against charterers to recover a balance of freight due under a charterparty. Freight was to be paid according to the charterparty upon gross weight of cargo delivered at Hamburg. The plaintiffs had received freight from consignees at Hamburg on the bills of lading weight. It was alleged by the plaintiffs that the gross weight of the goods delivered exceeded the bills of lading weight, and they sought to recover freight upon the difference from the charterers. A commission in which the defendants joined had been obtained to take the evidence of the consignees of the goods at Hamburg.

The defendants were not represented by counsel upon the commission, but one of the commissioners was their agent at Hamburg, and represented their interests.

Copies of certain invoices of the goods sent to the consignees by the defendants were produced upon the plaintiffs' behalf upon the commission, without any account being given of the originals. The copy invoices showed the gross weight of the goods delivered to be in excess of the bills of lading weight.

Questions were put to the witnesses examined under the commission, and answered by them, relating to the contents of the copy invoices and the weight of the goods to which they referred as appearing from such invoices, without objection on the part of the defendants with regard to the non-production of the originals. The copy invoices were appended by the commissioners to the depositions returned. The question was whether the copy invoices and depositions were admissible before the arbitrator.

Cave, Q.C., and Gainsford Bruce, for the plaintiffs.

J. Edge, for the defendants.

THE COURT (Lush and Manisty, JJ.) were of opinion that the evidence was receivable; that the time to take objection was when the evidence was tendered upon the commission (by analogy to the rule at nisi prius, where if secondary evidence is admitted without objection it cannot be objected to afterwards), and that no objection having been then taken, the objection to the evidence came too late. The rule was therefore discharged

C. P. Div. COMEDY OPERA COMPANY v. CARTE. Dec. 9.

Practice—Defendant leaving England—Arrest of—Payment under Protest—Affidavit in support of Order—Debtors Act, 1869, s. 6.

Appeal from chambers.

The plaintiff company, of which the defendant had been the manager, issued a writ against him claiming 150*l.*, money received to their use, and for an account. He being about to set off to America in charge of another operatic company, the plaintiffs applied, under s. 6 of the Debtors Act, 1869, for an order for his arrest upon an affidavit by the plaintiffs' chairman stating that the defendant had admitted being indebted to them in the sum of 150*l.*, but declined to pay over such sum; that he was about to leave England for America; that he was of small means; that between 30,000*l.* and 40,000*l.* of the plaintiffs' money had passed through his hands; and that on an account being taken further sums beyond the 150*l.* would be found due; that the account could not be investigated nor discovery obtained in the absence of the defendant; that he would be a material witness in support of the plaintiffs' claim in the action, as the only means they had of proving the sum of 150*l.* was due was from admissions to be extracted from him; that he had furnished incomplete accounts; and that his absence would prejudice the plaintiffs in prosecuting the action and in obtaining judgment and payment.

The order for arrest was made on the 30th of October, and early next morning the defendant was arrested in Liverpool. He paid the 150*l.* and 10*l.* costs to the plaintiffs' solicitor under protest to obtain his release. Meanwhile his solicitors in London paid 250*l.* into Court, and obtained an order at chambers discharging the defendant from custody. A summons was then taken out for the return of the 160*l.* and the discharge of the order of the 30th of October, and Lindley, J., ordered that the summons should be amended, and so much as asked for the return of the 160*l.*, and the rescinding of the order of the 30th of October should be discharged with costs, those costs to be paid to the plaintiff's solicitors out of the 250*l.* in Court, and the balance to the defendant. The defendant appealed.

The allegations in the affidavit were contradicted and explained by others, filed on the part of the defendant.

Grantham, Q.C., and Clare, for the defendant.

Webster, Q.C., and Maddison, for the plaintiffs.

THE COURT (Grove and Lindley, JJ.) said the learned judge had rightly decided that he had no power to order the return of the money paid under protest, and the Court would not interfere with the exercise of his discretion as to the order of arrest, having regard to all the allegations in the affidavit.

Per LOPES, J.:—A statement in an affidavit for arrest that the defendant is a material witness is not enough, but should shew why his presence is required, as for instance, that the case for the plaintiff cannot be proved without examining the defendant, or that he is in possession of documents material to it and discovery is necessary.

Appeal dismissed without costs.

WILLIAMS v. MAYOR OF TENBY AND OTHERS.

Election Petition, Preliminaries of—35 & 36 Vict. s. 60, s. 13, subs. 4—Notice of Petition and Security—Failure to give—"Condition Precedent"—Additional General Rules of 1875, r. 2.

The Corrupt Practices at Municipal Elections Act, 1872, 35 & 36 Vict. c. 60, s. 13, enacts that, "The following provisions shall have effect with reference to the presentation of a petition complaining of an undue election, viz. by sub-sect. 1 that it shall be by four or more voters; by sub-sect. 2 that the petition shall be presented within twenty-one days; by sub-sect. 3 that at the time of presenting it the petitioner shall give security for costs; and by sub-sect. 4 that within five days after the presentation of a petition the petitioner shall, in the prescribed manner, serve on the respondent a notice of the presentation and of the nature of the proposed security, and a copy of the petition; and the respondent may, within five days from the service of the notice, object in writing to the security.

Rule 2 of the Additional General Rules of January, 1875, orders that "the petitioner or his agents shall immediately after notice of the presentation of a petition and of the nature of the proposed security shall have been served, file with the master an affidavit of the time and manner of service thereof."

Lopes, J., ordered that a petition be taken off the file on the ground, 1st, that no notice of the presentation of the petition and of the proposed security had been duly served on the respondent, pursuant to the 13th section, sub-sect. 4, of the Municipal Elections Act, 1872; and 2ndly, that no affidavit of the time and manner of the service of the notices required by the 13th section of 35 & 36 Vict. c. 60, had been duly filed, pursuant to rule 2 of the Additional General Rules of January, 1875.

Sir H. Giffard, S.G. (Biron with him), for the petitioner, appealed, and argued that the provisions, which, admittedly had not been duly satisfied, were directory and not peremptory, and that the time for complying with them might be extended.

J. Cunningham, for the respondents, was not called upon to argue.

THE COURT (Grove and Lopes, JJ.) were clearly of opinion that the provisions were peremptory, and that the due compliance with them was a condition precedent to the maintenance of the petition.

Appeal dismissed with costs.

EX. DIV. MYERS v. DEFRIES AND OTHERS (No. 2). Dec. 15.

Action for damages for three causes of action: (1) malicious proceedings in bankruptcy; (2) libel and slander; (3) trespass and conspiracy. Verdict and judgment for the plaintiff for a farthing damages upon the claim for libel, and verdict and judgment for the defendants upon the other issues. No order as to costs. Upon motion this Court ordered "that the plaintiff have no costs of the action herein," and this order was affirmed by the Court of Appeal (Myers v. Defries, 4 Ex. Div. 176).

Upon taxation the Master refused to tax the costs of the issue found for the plaintiff, and taxed the costs of the defendants of the issues found for them. The plaintiff now moved to review the taxation upon the ground that there having been no order by the Judge or by the Court giving the defendants any costs, they were not entitled to them.

Murphy, Q.C., and Clay, for the plaintiff.

Gates, Q.C., and Gore, for the defendants.

THE COURT (Pollock and Huddleston, BB.) held that rule 62 of the Rules of Hilary Term, 1853, was repealed by s. 33 of the Judicature Act, 1875: but that in the words of Order LV. r. 1, "the costs shall follow the event," the word "event" must be read distributively where the plaintiff obtains a verdict and judgment as to one cause of action, and the defendant obtains a verdict and judgment as to another distinct cause of action in the same action: and that the defendants were therefore entitled to the costs of the issues found for them.

Motion dismissed.

Collision—Stopping—Following Rules.

The Judge of the Admiralty Court had in a case of collision between two screw steamships, the Zoe and the Livonian, held that the Zoe was to blame for starboarding her helm, but that the Livonian was also to blame for not having stopped in accordance with the rule laid down by the Act of Parliament, and he decreed accordingly. the journey the train in which he was carried, by the negligence of the defendants' servants, came into collision with an engine, whereby the plaintiff sustained serious bodily injury. The present action was brought by him for compensation, and was tried before Field, J., when the jury found for the plaintiff, and assessed the damages at 7000*l*. A new trial was granted upon the ground that the damages were inadequate (4 Q. B. D. 406). The second trial took place before Coleridge, C.J. The plaintiff's income was about 7000*l*., and his expenses incurred in carrying it on came to about 2000*l*., so that his net income was about 5000*l*. At the time of the trial he had been laid up about two years, but his medical expenses were very small, he having been attended by physicians and surgeons gratuitously. Part of his income was made up of special fees, in one or two instances amounting to 500 guineas. In addition to the income derived from professional earnings, he had an income of about 3000*l*. arising from property belonging to his wife and other sources. The jury assessed the damages at 16,000*l*. The Common Pleas Division refused a rule for a new trial.

Ballantine, Serj. (J. Brown, Q.C., and J. S. Dugdale, with him), now moved ex parte for a new trial on the ground of excessive damages and of misdirection. He contended that the jury ought not to have made the plaintiff's professional income the basis of the damages, that they ought not to have taken into account the special fees, and that the principle of Hadley v. Baxendale (9 Ex. 341) extended to contracts for carrying passengers, and that as the defendants had had no notice of the plaintiff's professional income they ought not to be made liable for the loss of it.

The Court (Bramwell, Brett, and Cotton, L.JJ.) held that no rule ought to be granted, for the direction was right and the damages not excessive.

Action for wrongfully levying Execution—Res Judicata—Determination of Court of Appeal at previous Hearing.

The plaintiff in this case had been defendant in an action, which was referred to arbitration. The award having been against the present plaintiff, the costs were irregularly taxed ex parte by the present defendant, who was the solicitor in the cause, and an execution was put into the present plaintiff's house. The taxation was afterwards set aside, and the bill of costs was reduced by the sum of about 15*l*., and the bill so reduced was duly paid. The present action was brought for maliciously and wrongfully procuring the taxation and also for trespass. It was tried first before Manisty, J., when the jury gave large damages. Upon motion in the Divisional Court to set aside the finding an opinion was expressed that the damages were too high, and upon appeal to this Court the Lords Justices intimated that the question of malice was proper to be left to the jury. At the second trial, which took place before Huddleston, B., it was agreed that if the plaintiff was entitled to succeed the damages should be assessed at 25*l*. The learned Judge left one question to the jury, namely, whether in their opinion the defendant in procuring the execution to be levied had been actuated by malicious or improper motives. The jury answered this question in the negative. The Exchequer Division (Kelly, C.B., and Pollock, B.) refused to interfere with the finding, on the ground that the matter was concluded by the opinion already expressed in the Court of Appeal.

H. D. Greene, for the plaintiff, now moved ex parte for a new trial on the ground of mis-direction. He contended that the defendant was liable in trespass, and that the question of fraud or malice was immaterial.

The Court (Bramwell, Brett, and Cotton, L.JJ.) held that they were bound by the opinion expressed at the former hearing before the Lords Justices, and refused to grant an order nisi for a new trial.

Action for Breach of Promise—Corroboration of Plaintiff's Evidence—Verdict against Weight of Evidence—New Trial.

This was an action brought by a widow for breach of promise of marriage. According to the evidence of the plaintiff the courtship had lasted some months, and her evidence was corroborated by her two daughters, who spoke each to one occasion when the defendant had alluded to his intention of marrying the plaintiff. The defendant had taken lodgings for the plaintiff and had supplied her with money. The plaintiff also relied upon letters purporting to be written by the defendant. The case for the defendant was that the letters purporting to be written by him had been in truth written by his foreman, although with his assent, and that five letters written by the plaintiff were inconsistent with the existence of an agreement to marry. It appeared, however, that besides these five letters the plaintiff had written more than sixty letters to the defendant which he had destroyed. The jury found for the plaintiff, with 120*l*. damages. Manisty, J., before whom the action was tried, was not dissatisfied with the finding of the jury.

Finlay now moved for a new trial, on the ground that the finding of the jury was against the weight of evidence.

The Court (Bramwell, Brett, and Cotton, L.JJ.) held that the finding of the jury could not be disturbed, the credibility of the witnesses being a question for the jury to decide.

Ship and Shipping—Charterparty—Commission payable to Charterer's Broker—Shipowner's Broker—Judgment entered on Motion for New Trial.

By a charterparty dated the 16th of October, 1872, the defendant as shipowner agreed to pay to the plaintiff as charterer's broker a commission of 5 per cent. The plaintiff agreed with Winsor Brothers, the defendant's brokers, that they should have two thirds of the commission, whilst the plaintiff should take the remaining third. Some correspondence took place as to the commission, in which the plaintiff appeared to hold Winsor Brothers personally liable for the one third of the commission. The defendant's ship completed her voyage about August, 1873, and the accounts were closed in the October following, when the defendant paid to Winsor Brothers the commission of 5 per cent, amounting to about 330*l*. The plaintiff did not take any steps to obtain payment of the commission until about the end of April, 1875, when they sent to Winsor Brothers for it. It was then discovered that Winsor Brothers had become bankrupt, and upon the 10th of May, 1875, the plaintiff applied to the defendant for payment of one third of the commission, and as this was not paid by the defendant the present action was commenced in 1876. It was tried first before Lindley, J., when the defendant relied upon an alleged custom for the shipowner's broker to collect commissions and distribute them; but the Court of Appeal were of opinion that this custom was not established, and ordered a second trial, which came on to be heard before Denman, J. The learned judge asked the jury whether it was a common practice for the shipowner's broker to collect the commissions; the jury found that Winsor Brothers had authority from the plaintiff to receive the money for him from the defendant. The plaintiff applied to the Common Pleas Division (Coleridge, C.J., and Grove, J.), but a rule was refused. Denman, J., was thoroughly satisfied with the finding of the jury. The plaintiff obtained in this Court a rule for a new trial upon the ground of misdirection and of the verdict being against the weight of evidence.

Dec. 5, 17. Day, Q.C., and Edwyn Jones, shewed cause.

MacIntyre, Q.C., and J. C. Mathew, supported the rule.

THE COURT (Bramwell, Brett, and Cotton, L.JJ.) held upon the facts that there was no evidence that the plaintiff had authorized the defendants to pay one third of the commission to Winsor Brothers; that it was for the defendant to discharge himself from liability; that the correspondence and the application to Winsor Brothers might be explained by the circumstance of the latter having guaranteed in a certain event the payment of the commission; and that all the materials being before the Court judgment ought to be entered for the plaintiff for 110*l.*, the amount claimed.

Practice—Rules of Court, 1875, Order XIV. r. 3—Doubtful Case.

The plaintiff had, on the 27th of April, 1877, ordered certain sherry of the defendant's firm, and had paid for it in January, 1878. The plaintiff did not require the sherry to be delivered forthwith, and it remained for some time in the hands of the defendant's firm. When at last the plaintiff asked for the delivery of the sherry, she received an answer from the defendant alleging in effect that he knew nothing about it, as it had been ordered before he joined the firm. The defendant stated that he joined the firm in May, 1877, but he furnished the plaintiff with the address of his partner, from whom, however, she could obtain no redress. She then commenced the present action in detinue for the sherry, or in the alternative for a return of the money which she had paid. The Judge at chambers gave the defendant leave to defend, upon a summons issued under Order XIV., and his decision had been affirmed in the Queen's Bench Division (Field and Manisty, JJ.). The plaintiff's counsel had offered on her behalf to abandon the claim in detinue, and it appeared from an affidavit sworn on her behalf that by the articles of partnership the defendant had become a member of his firm from the 31st of March, 1877, some weeks before the plaintiff ordered the sherry. The defendant refused to produce the articles of partnership. The plaintiff appealed to this Court.

Cave, Q.C., and Archibald, for the plaintiff, contended that it would be very convenient to decide summarily the question of the defendant's liability; that there was power under Order XIV. r. 3, to compel the defendant to produce the articles of partnership; and that the defendant ought not to be allowed to defend without giving security.

W. G. Harrison, Q.C., for the defendant, was not called upon to argue.

THE COURT (Bramwell, Brett, and Cotton, L.JJ.) dismissed the appeal. Their Lordships were of opinion that Order XIV. applied only where the plaintiff's case was quite clear, and when the defendant had no defence, and that leave to sign judgment ought not to be given where, as in the present case, a doubt existed.

Under a liquidation petition filed by Dean his creditors at their first general meeting resolved to accept a composition, and this resolution was confirmed at the second meeting. The resolutions passed at the first meeting fixed the 5th of July for the second meeting, and it was held on that day. Four dissentient creditors, who had been present or represented at the first meeting, opposed the registration of the resolutions, on the ground that they had not received notice of the second meeting. A clerk in the Court of Bankruptcy made an affidavit, as required by r. 256, that he had posted the notices. Mr. Registrar Murray, as Chief Judge, made an order which stated that the Court was satisfied that the objecting creditors had not received the notices sent to them of the second meeting, and therefore refused to register the resolutions, but gave the debtor liberty to summon a new second meeting. The debtor appealed.

He had a judicial discretion, and there was no ground for interfering with his exercise of it. Their Lordships also said that rr. 97 and 98 apply to bankruptcy only, and not to liquidation or composition.

Bill of Sale, Construction of—"Default in Payment"—Giving Time—Waiver.

Appeal of the plaintiff from Cockburn, C.J., and Lopes, J., on appeal from Liverpool Passage Court.

The plaintiff had given the defendant a bill of sale on his goods as security for money advanced. The loan was repayable by weekly instalments, of which he had paid thirteen. On the day when the fourteenth became due, he had to attend the Court of Passage at Liverpool as juryman. He called upon the defendant and asked for time: the defendant replied he did not care for a week. The plaintiff served as juryman for three days, but on the third day the defendant seized and before the week expired sold the goods. The bill of sale did not contain a clause that the plaintiff should remain in possession until default. At the trial the judge asked the jury whether the defendant had so acted as to induce the plaintiff to believe that he would hold his hand. The jury answered this question in favour of the plaintiff. The judge gave leave to move on the ground that there was no evidence of waiver. The Queen's Bench Division made absolute a rule for a new trial.

Practice—Appeal from Inferior Court—No Leave to Appeal from High Court—Judicature Act, 1873, s. 45—Certificate by Officiating Clergyman—7 & 8 Vict. c. 101, s. 56—16 & 17 Vict. c. 97, s. 67.

The question in these cases may be shortly stated thus,—

Mary Ann Crispe, the wife of the prosecutor, resided in the parish of Granchester. In his absence she was taken thence to the workhouse of Chesterton Union, situate in the parish of Chesterton. Whilst there, she was examined by a relieving officer and by the curate of the parish of Chesterton, and was ordered by them to be removed to an asylum as an insane pauper. An order was afterwards made by justices upon the prosecutor for her maintenance. The Queen's Bench Division discharged rules for certiorari to bring up the order of removal to the asylum and the order of maintenance. No leave to appeal was given by the Queen's Bench Division.

Lumley Smith, as a preliminary objection, contended that the appeal to this Court could not be entertained, as it was an appeal from an inferior Court within the meaning of the Judicature Act, 1873, s. 45.

THE COURT (Bramwell, Brett, and Cotton, L.JJ.) held that they had jurisdiction.

The appeal was then heard on the merits.

Gully, Q.C. (W. Graham and J. W. Cooper with him), contended that the order for removal was bad, inasmuch as the curate of Chesterton was not the officiating clergyman of the parish in which M. A. Crispe was resident within the meaning of 16 & 17 Vict. c. 97, s. 67, and that by virtue of 7 & 8 Vict. c. 101, s. 56, she must be deemed to be resident in the parish of Granchester.

Lumley Smith, and Cockerill, for the defendants, were not called upon to argue.

THE COURT (Bramwell, Brett, and Cotton, L.JJ.) held that the curate of Chesterton was the officiating clergyman of the parish in which M. A. Crispe was residing, and dismissed the appeals.

In re MARQUIS OF SALISBURY AND LONDON AND NORTH-WESTERN RAILWAY COMPANY.

Railway Company—Acquiring Copyhold Lands, directly or by Trustees—Lord of the Manor—Compensation—Mode of Assessment, whether under Lands Clauses Act, 1845, ss. 95, 96, 97, or under Copyhold Act, 1852.

Adjourned summons.

In the years 1861 and 1863, certain copyhold lands, of which the Marquis of Salisbury was lord of the manor and tenant for life, were conveyed to the London and North-Western Railway Company for the purposes of one of their private Acts, subject, until enfranchisement pursuant to the Lands Clauses Act, 1845, to the usual rents, suits, and services.

By admissions in 1862 and 1863 three persons were admitted, as trustees for the company, to certain other copyhold lands, of which also the marquis was lord of the manor and tenant for life. The company entered on all the lands immediately on their being acquired, and erected thereon an engine-shed and other buildings and works, but did not procure enfranchisement of the lands on so entering.

After fruitless negotiations respecting the enfranchisement, an agreement in writing was entered into in 1876 between the company and the marquis, by which, after reciting the purchases of the copyholds by the company, and that the lands had been acquired by them and their trustees "for the purposes of their Act," it was agreed that the price or compensation to be paid for enfranchisement should be fixed by an arbitrator.

In the course of the arbitration the question arose as to the basis upon which the compensation should be assessed; the contention of the Marquis being that it ought to be assessed under the Copyhold Act, 1852, and that accordingly the basis of compensation was the value of the lands at the date of their enfranchisement, more especially as to the lands to which the trustees were admitted as ordinary purchasers; and the contention of the company being that the compensation should be assessed under ss. 95, 97, of the Lands Clauses Act, 1845, that is, on the basis of the value of the lands at the time of entry, and that the fact of some of the lands having been acquired by persons as trustees for the company did not make those lands less lands acquired under that Act, since they had been acquired and entered upon by the company expressly for the purposes of their Act.

The question was submitted for his Lordship's opinion upon a summons taken out by the company under the Vendor and Purchaser Act, 1874.

Davey, Q.C., and Millar, for the company.

Chitty, Q.C., and W. W. Karslake, for the Marquis.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS said that all the lands, whether acquired by the company directly, or through the medium of trustees, must have been acquired only under the provisions of the Lands Clauses Act, otherwise their acquisition would have been illegal: consequently the enfranchisement must take place under that Act, and not under the Copyhold Act, and, therefore the amount of compensation must be assessed on the basis of its being ascertained within one month after entry by the company on the lands, or within three months after the enrolment of the conveyance on the Court Rolls, whichever first happened, as provided by s. 96.

Compulsory Purchase—Assessment of Purchase and Compensation Money by Jury—Interest, from what Period payable.

Adjourned summons under the Vendor and Purchaser Act, 1874, raising the question from what period interest was payable by the Eccleshill Local Board, on the amount which had been assessed by verdict of a jury for purchase and compensation money in respect of lands taken by them for the purposes of a sewage farm under the authority of the Local Government Acts.

Notice to treat for the lands in question was served by the Local Board in 1877.

After an attempt to settle the amount by arbitration a jury had been summoned before the under-sheriff, and on the 18th of April, 1878, a verdict was returned for the sum of 14,000*l.* as the amount payable by the Local Board for purchase-money and compensation.

In July, 1877, pending the proceedings for a reference to arbitration, the vendors had given the tenants of the land proposed to be taken by the Local Board notice to quit, such notices expiring in February, 1878, but the land had been relet to the tenants, and subsequent notices to quit were given which expired, as to the land in February, 1879, and as to the farm buildings in May, 1879. Up to these periods the rents of the land had been received by the vendors.

Some question arose as to the exact time when possession was taken by the Local Board, it being alleged by the vendors that the Local Board had actually entered upon the land in July, 1877. This was denied by the Local Board, who explained the alleged entry as having been merely temporary for the purpose of hauling materials, &c., by arrangement with the tenants, who were compensated; and in no sense an actual taking possession.

Hemming, Q.C., and Ingle Joyce, for the vendors, contended that interest at 5 per cent. was payable from the date of the verdict (April 18, 1878).

Sir H. Jackson, Q.C., and Eyre, for the Local Board, contended that interest did not begin to run until by the expiration of the tenancies in February, 1879, de facto possession was obtained by the Local Board.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that interest at 4 per cent. was payable from the time when the verdict of the jury assessing the amount of purchase-money was given.

Adjourned summons for production and discovery against the defendant in an action of ejectment which had been commenced in the Glamorganshire County Court and was afterwards transferred to the High Court.

B. T. Williams, Q.C., and Cruickshank, contended that as the action had been transferred to the High Court for purposes of trial only, and as the plaintiff would be entitled to production of documents immediately after taking proceedings in the County Court, he ought not to be deprived of his right by not having delivered a statement of claim, which was not required, and to which there was nothing analogous, in an ejectment action commenced in the County Court.

Sir H. Jackson, Q.C., and T. Brett, contra:—When a County Court action has been transferred to the High Court, it must be continued and prosecuted in all respects according to the High Court practice; and this is an attempt to apply the County Court practice to a transferred action. Production will not be directed until a statement of claim has been delivered, so as to enable the defendant to know what case he has to meet: à fortiori in an ejectment action where the defendant is not put to affirmative proof of his case, and the plaintiff can only recover by the strength of his own title. Even in the County Court until a plaint has been delivered or particulars delivered a defendant cannot be put to proof of his title.

Motion on behalf of contributories to remove a liquidator. A resolution for winding up voluntarily was passed on the 25th of April, 1874, and on the first of July, 1874, an order was made for continuing the winding-up under supervision. The respondent had been liquidator from the commencement of the liquidation.

Sir H. Jackson, Q.C., and Romer, supported the motion.

Kay, Q.C., Hemming, Q.C., and Brett, for the official liquidator, took the preliminary objection that the moving contributory had not paid a call which had been made upon him.

Sir H. Jackson:—The question at issue is whether the liquidator is a fit and proper person to receive the call money. It would be easy for a liquidator to escape investigation if the rule which has been laid down as to winding-up petitions were held to apply to a summons to remove a liquidator. We offer to pay the money into Court.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that the objection must prevail. It was the settled practice of the Court that before a contributory can apply to the Court he must answer a call which has been made upon him. The offer to pay the money into Court was not sufficient. The summons must be dismissed with costs.

V.-C. B. JOHNS v. JAMES. Dec. 18.

Practice—Interrogatories—Rules of Court, 1875, Order XXXI. rr. 5, 8, 19.

Summons by defendant that plaintiff should answer interrogatories.

The suit was instituted by an alleged creditor of William Meyrick, and the claim stated that Meyrick was formerly partner with another defendant named Gedge; that that partnership was dissolved in 1871; that the plaintiff had advanced to Meyrick about 3500*l.*, for which sum Meyrick was personally liable to the plaintiff, "and also the said firm was collectively liable" to him; that it was agreed that the defendants, James and Gedge, should borrow 5000*l.* for discharging Meyrick's debts, including that of the plaintiff; and that, by an indenture dated after the dissolution, Meyrick mortgaged certain property to the two defendants to secure that sum. The claim alleged (par. 7) that the execution of this deed was "shortly after" the execution thereof communicated to the plaintiff and to other creditors of Meyrick, by him and by the defendants; that the plaintiff "called at the office" of Gedge and had an interview with him; that in 1874 Meyrick was declared bankrupt at the instance of a client of Gedge, and that the plaintiff had seen "some accounts" purporting to be a partial account of the dealings of the defendants "with their trust property" which, even if correct, shewed that the defendants had not properly discharged the debts of Meyrick, and claimed an account, and administration of the estate and effects comprised in the deed. The defendants denied the allegations as to the firm being collectively or in any way liable; or that they ever considered Meyrick a creditor; or that notice of the deed was ever given to him.

The defendant's interrogatories were: 1. When, how, and where did the firm become collectively liable, &c.; 2. When, how, and where was the execution of the deed communicated to the plaintiff by Meyrick or by the defendant? If in writing set forth the writing, if in words set forth the communication, and to what persons made, and to whom other than the plaintiff; 3. The date of plaintiff's calling at the office of Gedge; and then whether it was the fact that certain allegations in the claim were true, and whether it was not the fact that certain allegations in the defence were true; 4. Whether plaintiff did not institute bankruptcy proceedings against Meyrick; and 5, as to the accounts. The plaintiff declined to answer all but No. 4 (which was answered), on the grounds that the answers would be part of the plaintiff's case, not of the defendant's; that they were not material to the issue; that it was an attempt to anticipate plaintiff's evidence at the trial; and further, that the defendant ought to cross-examine, not to interrogate.

Romer, for the defendant, withdrew the interrogatory as to "any and what persons," on the authority of Eade v. Jacobs (3 Ex. D. 335).

Sheild, for the plaintiff, admitted that the date of the interview must be given.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said that the interrogatories must be answered. The defendant was not to be taken to the hearing without knowing what facts were to be used against him. The defendant gave up the interrogatory as to persons on the authority of a case which at another time and another place would have to be considered with some attention. The paragraph also questioning the plaintiff as to the truth of statements in the pleading must be struck out. The costs would be costs in the action.

The defendant delivered a statement of defence and counter-claim, and the plaintiff replied, The defendant then exhibited interrogatories as follows: 1. Let the plaintiff set forth the respective particulars and circumstances of all instances and occasions in which (as alleged by the plaintiff) the defendant so behaved and conducted himself towards the plaintiff in the presence of the assistant employed by the partnership, or of any other and what person or persons or otherwise, as to make it impossible for the plaintiff, as he alleges, to continue to carry on practice with the defendant. ... 2. Set forth the names and addresses of the persons in whose presence the plaintiff alleges that the defendant applied to the plaintiff several epithets respectively in the statement of claim mentioned, and the particulars of the occasions on which it is alleged by the plaintiff that the same respectively were so applied. 3. Set forth a full, true, and particular account of all moneys received by the plaintiff in respect of the partnership practice. ... The plaintiff objected to answer the 1st interrogatory by reason that the particulars and circumstances inquired for were sufficiently stated in the statement of claim, and that the dates were not material except in so far as they were stated or referred to, and by reason that the statement of claim did sufficiently set forth how and in what respect the defendant had failed, &c. He objected to answer the 2nd so far as it required the names and addresses, by reason that the defendant was not entitled to require the names and addresses of witnesses whom the plaintiff might examine at the trial; and he objected to answer so far as it required particulars of occasions for the same reason, and by reason also that the same were sufficiently stated in the statement of claim. He objected to answer the 3rd interrogatory on the ground that the accounts inquired for were premature.

Hemming, Q.C., and James G. Wood, for the defendant, supported a summons that the plaintiff might be ordered to answer the interrogatories.

Sir H. Jackson, Q.C., and Caldecott, for the plaintiff.

Hemming, in reply.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that the first interrogatory must be answered; that the second must be amended by striking out the "names and addresses of the persons in whose presence," &c., and that the rest, that is to say as to the "particulars of occasions," must be answered; and disallowed the third interrogatory; the costs to be reserved to the hearing.

V.-C. B. NOBEL'S EXPLOSIVES COMPANY v. SCOTT. Dec. 19.

Practice—Pleading — Admission of Deed — Effect of Deed—Summons to strike out Reply—Rules of Court, 1875, Order XXVII. r. 1.

To an action for infringement of a patent, defendant by his defence admitted statements as to the granting of the patent in 1867, and as to its validity, and that the patent was vested in the plaintiff, but further said that the patent was assigned to the plaintiff by deed on the 23rd of April, 1877, and not before. The reply set out the effect of the deed of assignment whereby all "powers, privileges, advantages, benefits, and profits" belonging to the patent were purported to be assigned to the plaintiff. The particulars of breaches were then delivered, including some breaches before the 23rd of April, 1877. The defendant then took out a summons under r. 1 of Order XXVII. to strike out the reply, on the ground that the same would tend "to prejudice, embarrass, or delay the fair trial of the action."

Goodeve, for the summons:—From the particulars of breaches it is evident that the plaintiffs intend to claim that by the deed of the 23rd of April, 1877, the right to sue for past breaches passed to them under the deed. An assignee cannot claim in respect of infringement prior to the date of the assignment: Hindmarch on Patents, p. 256; but if the defendant were to join issue upon the reply, that would be to impeach the deed which he has himself set up. Neither can the defendant demur, because the reply is only a pleading of matter of evidence.

E. Cutler, for the plaintiff, was not called upon.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said that the defendant would not be hurt. There was nothing on the record as it stood to prevent a fair trial being had. The defendant had by his defence admitted the very deeds the statement of which he now desired to have struck out. The summons must be refused with costs.

V.-C. B. In re WHITLEY, PARTNERS. STEEL'S CASE. Dec. 19.

Company—Contributory—Companies Act, 1862, s. 35.

The company having been registered on the 8th of November, 1873, with a capital of 150,000*l.* in 10*l.* shares, the applicant, T. D. Steel, on the 29th of September, 1874, applied for fifty shares and paid 5*l.* deposit. The directors, on the 12th of October, allotted him fifty shares, and an allotment letter was, on the 15th of October following, sent to Steel, but it was not stamped. On the 16th of October Steel wrote inquiring for balance sheets, which the secretary, on the 17th, wrote to say he was unable to supply him with, and on the 19th Steel wrote to say he declined paying any calls without full information as to the position of the company. On the 12th of December the secretary sent a duplicate letter of allotment for fifty shares, duly stamped, and asked Mr. Steel to replace the former allotment letter with it, but on the 15th Steel wrote to say that having found the representations made to him as to the position of the company were not in accordance with facts, he intended to withdraw his application for shares, and therewith returned the allotment paper, and asked for a return of the deposit. On the 15th of December the secretary wrote in answer to inquiries, and on the 22nd he wrote again to say that Mr. Steel's name was on the list of shareholders for fifty shares, and a long correspondence followed.

The company was, on the 5th of October, 1875, ordered to be wound up on a petition presented on the 17th of September preceding, and Mr. Steel's name, being found on the register, was placed on the list of contributories.

An order having been made in chambers for removing the name the summons was, on the official liquidator's application, adjourned into Court.

Sir H. Jackson, Q.C., and Bush, for the liquidator.

Horton Smith, Q.C., and Oswald, for Steel.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said the case had been argued as if the only parties to the contention were the company and the contributories. But there were creditors whose rights had to be considered, and the question was whether there was any liability on the part of Mr. Steel which the creditors could enforce. Stress had been laid upon the fact of Mr. Steel's withdrawal of his application, and demand to have his deposit returned, because the company had broken a promise to him. Supposing the company did break a promise, what had the creditors to do with that? The application was made and granted in the most formal way, and although the allotment letter was not stamped, and could not be pleaded or given in evidence, there was abundant evidence to shew that Steel had notice, in October, 1874, that the allotment had been made. The fact that he was so informed was part of the common case. For a time his title was defective, but the defect was cured. Then from December, 1874, to October, 1875, whilst business transactions were going on, his name was on the register of shareholders, and if the creditors had looked, they would have found it there. Mr. Steel's name must remain on the list of contributories, and he must pay the costs of the summons.

V.-C. H. ARCHER-BURTON v. ARCHER-BURTON. Dec. 10.

Joint Tenancy—Infants—Severance.

In this administration action the Court was asked, upon the authority of Wood v. Wood (3 Hare, 65), to sever a joint tenancy in real, leasehold, and personal estate, between two infants.

W. Pearson, Q.C., Langley, Blackmore, and Patton, appeared for the various parties.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR:—Wood v. Wood was a mere case of dividing a fund, and I doubt very much whether that point was considered when the order was made. I cannot do it without some further authority.

Solicitors: Langley & Gibbon.

V. C.-H. REINHARDT v. SPALDING. Dec. 10.

Trade-mark—"Family Salve."

The question in this action was whether the plaintiff could restrain the defendant from using the words "Family Salve" as part of the name of a medical preparation which he sold. The plaintiffs had sold for upwards of fifteen years a medical preparation, of which they possessed the secret, under the name of "Reinhardt's celebrated Family Salve," and in the year 1876 they registered the words "Family Salve" as a trade-mark under the Trade-marks Registration Acts.

The defendant had sold a medical preparation under the name of "Spalding's Universal Family Salve" for about ten years.

In each case the preparation was sold wrapped in hand-bills which were so folded as only to shew the words "Family Salve."

W. Pearson, Q.C., and J. Cutler, for the plaintiff.

Mugliston, for the defendant, contended that the words "Family Salve" were in their nature words to which no one could have an exclusive right as a trade-mark.

The Vice-Chancellor held that the words "Family Salve" were "special and distinctive words used before the passing of" the Trade-Marks Registration Act, 1872, within the meaning of the 10th section thereof, and accordingly that the plaintiffs had shewn a primâ facie title to the exclusive use of the words which the defendant had not displaced.

This was a legatee's action for the administration of the real and personal estate of the testator.

W. C. Harvey, for the plaintiff.

Strickland, for the defendants, one of whom was an infant, mentioned that no guardian ad litem had yet been appointed, so that no consent on behalf of the infant to the action being heard as a short cause could properly be given, and asked for the direction of the Court.

The Vice-Chancellor said that the order appointing a guardian ad litem might be produced to the registrar, and the judgment would be dated as of a day subsequent to the date of the order.

Fry, J. Mycock v. Beatson. Dec. 19.

Rescission of Partnership Agreement—Fraud—Lien on Assets.

This was an action to rescind an agreement which the plaintiff had entered into to purchase a share of the defendant Beatson's business, and to carry on the business in partnership with him, on the ground that the plaintiff had been induced to enter into the agreement by fraud.

Cookson, Q.C., and Beaumont, for the plaintiff.

North, Q.C., and W. W. Karslake, for the trustee in bankruptcy of Beatson.

Fry, J., held on the evidence that the plaintiff was entitled to rescission, and declared that he was entitled to a lien on the surplus of the partnership assets, after satisfying the partnership liabilities, in respect of the amount which he had paid for the purchase of the share of the business, and also for the purpose of indemnifying him against any payments which he had made or might make on account of liabilities of the partnership.

Discovery—Interrogatories to Corporation—Answer by Town Clerk, a Solicitor—Objection to Answer on Ground of Privilege.

Motion on appeal from chambers.

The plaintiffs being ordered to answer interrogatories by their town clerk or some other qualified person, answered by their town clerk, a solicitor, who in his affidavit objected to answer on the ground, inter alia, that what information he possessed as to the matters upon which he was interrogated was derived from communications made to him as the solicitor for the plaintiffs in the course of getting up the evidence for the plaintiffs in the case, and that even to answer the interrogatories to the best of his belief involved the disclosure of the said communications, which he submitted were privileged. Denman, J., having made an order for further and better answers

Fitzroy Cooper, for the plaintiffs, moved on appeal.

Levett (of the Chancery Bar), for the defendants, shewed cause.

The Court (Grove and Lopes, JJ.) said that the plaintiffs had elected to answer the interrogatories by their town clerk, and were not entitled to set up the privilege of a solicitor which had been waived.

Order affirmed.

PRIDEAUX'S PRECEDENTS IN CONVEYANCING. With Dissertations on its Law and Practice. By FREDERICK PRIDEAUX, late Professor of the Law of Real and Personal Property to the Inns of Court, and JOHN WHITCOMBE, Esqrs., Barristers-at-Law.

"The volumes are now something more than a mere collection of precedents; they contain most valuable dissertations on the law and practice with reference to conveyancing. These dissertations are followed by the precedents on each subject dealt with, and are in themselves condensed treatises, embodying all the latest case and statute law. We may instance, as excellent specimens of legal essay writing, the dissertations on trustees and husband and wife in the second volume, and on conditions of sale in the first. Having regard to the wide general knowledge required of all lawyers in the present day, such a work as this must prove highly acceptable to the whole Profession."—Law Times, January 4, 1879.

THE ROYAL PHRASEOLOGICAL

FRENCH-ENGLISH AND ENGLISH-FRENCH DICTIONARY.

By J. C. TARVER, LATE FRENCH MASTER, ETON COLLEGE.

'Most readily do we acknowledge the flood of light which has been thrown on French phrases by M. Tarver .... His work is really a valuable addition to our Dictionary shelf—the most important shelf in every man's library. The nice skill with which he has compared and contrasted the phrases of the two most influential of modern tongues can hardly be over-praised. Such a book might well deserve a distinct notice; but we are happy to take this opportunity, meantime, of saying that one of the volumes has now been in constant use with us for five years; and we should be at a loss to name another recent one of its class which we have found more useful. The idea was happy, and the execution has been most laudably careful. We have been infinitely obliged to it in reading the lighter French literature of this day—so full of vocables fresh from the anvil of esprit or espièglerie, and lively audacious turns of pensée or tournure, unknown of by "the forty"—which would have puzzled Voltaire as much as Johnson.'—Quarterly Review.

PRIDEAUX'S PRECEDENTS IN CONVEYANCING. With Dissertations on its Law and Practice. By FREDERICK PRIDEAUX, late Professor of the Law of Real and Personal Property to the Inns of Court, and JOHN WESTCOMBE, Esqrs., Barristers-at-Law. 1879.

"The volumes are now something more than a mere collection of precedents; they contain most valuable dissertations on the law and practice with reference to conveyancing. These dissertations are followed by the precedents on each subject dealt with, and are in themselves condensed treatises, embodying all the latest case and statute law. We may instance, as excellent specimens of legal essay writing, the dissertations on trustees and husband and wife in the second volume, and on conditions of sale in the first. Having regard to the wide general knowledge required of all lawyers in the present day, such a work as this must prove highly acceptable to the whole Profession."—Law Times, January 4, 1879.

W. MAXWELL & SON'S LIST OF LAW BOOKS.

In 2 vols. 8vo., price £2 10s., cloth.

A COMPENDIUM OF PRECEDENTS IN CONVEYANCING:

COMPRISING THE FORMS REQUIRED IN ORDINARY PRACTICE.

By THOMAS KEY, one of the Editors of "Davidson's Precedents"; and HOWARD WARBURTON ELPHINSTONE, formerly Lecturer to the Incorporated Law Society; both of Lincoln's Inn, Barristers-at-Law.

REVIEWS.

"It is obvious that the book is intended primarily to meet the wants of the solicitor's office, and there can be no question that it constitutes one of the most elaborate and, at the same time, considering its range and character, the most handy books of precedents for this purpose which has appeared in recent times. . . . . The strongest part of Vol. I. seems to be that devoted to leases, which strikes us as very satisfactory. . . . . The collection of forms is very extensive, and many are very carefully framed. Thus, there is a good form of underlease of business offices on p. 538; a very complete form of lease of public-house on p. 560; and proviso, on p. 591, with reference to the sale under a distress of things covenanted to be consumed on the premises, with reference to Hawkins v. Walrond (22 W. R. 824, L. R. 1 C. P. D. 280). Of course nothing but actual use can effectually test the merit of a book of precedents, but, so far as we can judge from an examination of this work, we think it will stand the test, and be found of very great value."—Solicitors' Journal, December 21st, 1878.

"Many legal documents of considerable moment are prepared in solicitors' offices, and never settled by counsel; and a trustworthy guide for work of this kind, sufficiently copious in its variety of matter and adequate to the modern standard of conveyancing style, was certainly a desideratum. The names of the editors are of themselves enough to warrant the quality of the work; and the expectation they naturally raise is confirmed by such examination as we have been able to make."—Saturday Review, December 14th, 1878.

"This book might perhaps have been more aptly termed 'compendium of forms and precedents in conveyancing,' for the forms are the conspicuous features of it. The work is built on a different system to most conveyancing precedents, a very large number of forms being given in it, and the precedents being worked out by reference to and not by incorporation of the forms. . . . . It has another advantage, viz., that concise as well as full forms are thus given; and as conciseness is, we are pleased to say, the fashion among conveyancers of the modern school, the abbreviations will be more appreciated. . . . . Apart from other merits, the large variety and immense number of forms and precedents comprised in these two compendious volumes of Messrs. Key and Elphinstone must make them valuable auxiliaries to the conveyancer; in fact, they are worthy to be placed by the side of Mr. Davidson's and Mr. Prideaux's standard conveyancing books. We presume that Messrs. Key and Elphinstone considered that those two well-known works contain all necessary dissertations and notes on the law and practice; for these authors have, we think rightly, embodied but a few notes of a practical character; in fact, they have made their work purely and simply a compendium of forms and precedents in conveyancing."—Law Journal, January 4th, 1879.

Fourth Edition, 2 vols., royal 8vo., price £3 15s., cloth.

LINDLEY'S LAW of PARTNERSHIP.—A TREATISE ON THE LAW OF PARTNERSHIP, including its application to Joint-Stock nd other Companies. By Sir NATHANIEL LINDLEY, one of the Judges of H.M.'s High Court of Justice.

8vo., price 16s., cloth.

MAXWELL (Sir P. BENSON) on the INTERPRETATION OF STATUTES.

"This is an admirable book, excellent in its method and arrangement, and clear and thorough in its treatment of the different questions involved. . . . . The work will be found of great practical utility, as affording a key to the method adopted by our Courts in the construction of statutes, and it will be of much value as showing the uniformity which has in general marked the application of the principles of interpretation to a vast variety of legislative enactments."—Law Magazine, July, 1875.

Second Edition, in 1 vol., royal 12mo., price 21s., cloth.

HEYWOOD'S PRACTICE of the COUNTY COURTS; comprising the whole Practice, except in Admiralty and Bankruptcy. The Sections of the Judicature Act applying to County Courts, and the whole of the County Court Statutes, and the Rules, Orders, Forms, and Scales of Fees and Costs, are printed in the Appendices. Second Edition, entirely re-written and greatly enlarged. By GEORGE WASHINGTON HEYWOOD, of the Middle Temple, Barrister-at-Law.

SETON'S FORMS OF DECREES, JUDGMENTS, and ORDERS in the HIGH COURT of JUSTICE, and COURTS of APPEAL having especial reference to the Chancery Division, with Practical Notes. Fourth Edition. By R. H. LEACH, Esq., Senior Registrar of the Court of Chancery; F. G. A. WILLIAMS, of the Inner Temple, Esq.; and the late H. W. MAY, of Lincoln's Inn, Esq., continued by JAMES EASTWICK, of Lincoln's Inn, Esq; Barristers-at-Law.

The great length to which the work has extended, from the variety and importance of the subjects dealt with, has rendered it desirable to divide this volume into two parts:—

Part I. contains—Married Women; Infants; Administration of Real and Personal Estate; Partition and Sale under the Partition Acts, 1868, 1876; Mortgages; Principal and Surety; Partnership; Settlements; Specific Relief; and Sale by the Court.

Part II., completing the work, will be published before Easter.

HENRY JOHNSON, Assoc. Inst. C.E., Solicitor and Patent Agent. Fourth Edition, thoroughly Revised and much Enlarged.

Now ready, Ninth Edition, in 2 vols., royal 8vo., price £3 10*s.*

PRIDEAUX'S PRECEDENTS IN CONVEYANCING. With Dissertations on its Law and Practice. By FREDERICK PRIDEAUX, late Professor of the Law of Real and Personal Property to the Inns of Court, and JOHN WHITCOMBE, Esqrs., Barristers-at-Law. 1879.

"The volumes are now something more than a mere collection of precedents; they contain most valuable dissertations on the law and practice with reference to conveyancing. These dissertations are followed by the precedents on each subject dealt with, and are in themselves condensed treatises, embodying all the latest case and statute law. We may instance, as excellent specimens of legal essay writing, the dissertations on trustees and husband and wife in the second volume, and on conditions of sale in the first. Having regard to the wide general knowledge required of all lawyers in the present day, such a work as this must prove highly acceptable to the whole Profession."—Law Times, January 4, 1879.

ORDERS

UNDER THE

SETTLED ESTATES ACT, 1877.

1. The words "settlement," "settled estates," and "the court" in these Orders shall have the same interpretation as in the Act.

The words "the Act" in these Orders shall mean the Settled Estates Act, 1877, "the petition" shall mean a petition under the Act, and "the judge" shall mean the judge of the court with whose name the petition shall be marked, or to whom the petition shall be transferred.

2. All petitions, notices, affidavits, and other proceedings under the Act shall be entitled "In the matter of the estates settled" [by the settlor or settlors, naming one of them and referring to the instrument by which the settlement shall have been created, and mentioning the parish or place and county in which the lands, messuages, or tenements proposed to be dealt with are situate] "and in the matter of the Settled Estates Act, 1877,' and every such petition shall be marked with the words "In the High Court of Justice, Chancery Division," and with the title of the judge before whom it is intended to be heard (see form No. 1 in the Appendix hereto). Upon the presentation of the petition, a day shall be appointed for hearing not less (unless the judge gives special leave) than eight clear days after such presentation, and in the computation of such eight clear days, Sundays and other days on which the offices are closed shall not be reckoned; and every petition shall, in the body thereof, or in a schedule thereto, or by a plan thereto annexed, contain a detailed description of the property proposed to be dealt with by such petition sufficient to identify the same.

3. When a petition has been put into the paper for hearing, and by reason of the parties not being ready, or for any other cause, the judge allows it to stand over generally, it may be put into the paper for a subsequent day, without any application to the court or judge, on the petitioner or his solicitor applying for that purpose to the secretary of the Lord Chancellor or Master of the Rolls (as the case may be), and notice of the appointment of such subsequent day shall be given by the petitioner, or his solicitor, two clear days before the day fixed to the other parties entitled to appear on such petition.

4. The notice required to be given by the 26th section of the Act if given before the hearing (or if given after the hearing, and the judge shall not otherwise direct) may, without any other direction of the court, be given within the jurisdiction of the court, except in the case of a person of unsound mind, not so found by inquisition, by delivering to the person to be served a notice (in the form No. 3 in the Appendix hereto) with such variations as circumstances require, and the time to be specified in such notice for the person served to deliver or leave a notification shall—(a.) in case the person to be served is a guardian of an infant, be such as shall be directed by the judge in the order appointing the guardian, and in case the person to be served is a married woman, or a committee of a lunatic, not less than 28 clear days after the service; (b.) and in other cases not less than 14 clear days after the service. In case the person to be served is of unsound mind, not so found by inquisition, or out of the jurisdiction of the court, or it is desired to serve such notice on any person within the jurisdiction of the court in any other manner than above provided, an application shall be made at Chambers ex parte by the petitioner for directions as to the manner in which such notice shall be given, and as to the time to be specified in such notice within which the notification is to be made by the person served.

5. Where it is desired that any guardian of an infant shall make or consent to any application to the court under the Act, or make any notification respecting any application to the court, or that notice may be given to any such guardian on behalf of an infant, the court may appoint a guardian to such infant for the purposes of the Act, and an application for such appointment may, after the petition is presented, be made at chambers by the petitioner by summons. And if an infant is the petitioner the petition may be presented by the infant by his next friend, and after the petition has been presented and answered, and a guardian appointed, the word "guardian" shall be substituted in the petition for the words "next friend," and the name of the guardian (if the next friend and guardian shall not be the same person) for the name of the next friend.

6. In the case of a lunatic or infant tenant in tail by his committee or guardian applying or consenting to an application, or giving a notification respecting an application, an application may be made at chambers by the petitioner after the petition is presented that such committee or guardian may be directed to so apply or consent, or give a notification, and in the case of an infant such application may be combined with the application to appoint a guardian.

7. In cases where the committees or guardians of lunatic or infant tenants in tail shall be served with notice of the application in pursuance of the 26th section of the Act, an application may be made at chambers by the petitioner, before the expiration of the time specified in such notice, that such committees or guardians may notify that they either assent to or dissent from such application, or submit their rights or interests so far as they may be affected by such application to be dealt with by the court.

8. Upon an application to appoint a guardian to an infant for any such purpose as aforesaid, the summons shall be served upon the parent, testamentary guardian, or guardian appointed by the Court of Chancery or the Chancery Division of the High Court of Justice, of the infant, if there be any such parent or guardian, unless the court or judge shall dispense therewith.

9. Upon any application that a committee or guardian of a lunatic or infant tenant in tail may be directed to make or consent to any application on behalf of such lunatic or infant, or to notify that the lunatic or infant assents to or dissents from such application, or submits his rights or interests so far as they are affected by such application to be dealt with by the court, the summons shall be served on the committee of such lunatic, or the guardian appointed or proposed to be appointed of such infant, for such purpose.

10. Upon an application to appoint a guardian of an infant the following facts shall be proved:—

1. The age of the infant.
2. Whether he has any parent, testamentary guardian, or guardian appointed by the Court of Chancery or the Chancery Division of the High Court of Justice, and, if so, whether such parent or guardian has any interest in the application, and if he has the nature of such interest, and whether or not adverse to the interest of the infant.
3. Where and under whose care the infant is residing, and at whose expense he is maintained.
4. In what way the proposed guardian is connected with the infant, and why proposed and how qualified to be appointed.
5. That the proposed guardian has no interest in the application, or if he has the nature of his interest, and that it is not adverse to the interest of the infant.
6. The consent of the guardian to act.

11. Upon an application that a committee of a lunatic tenant in tail may be directed to make or consent to any application, or to give any notification respecting any application, the authority of the judge or judges entrusted with the care and commitment of the custody of the persons and estates of lunatics to such committee to act on behalf of the lunatic shall be produced, and if it shall appear thereby that such judge or judges are of opinion that it is proper and consistent with a due regard for the interest of the lunatic that the committee shall make or consent to the application or give any specific notification respecting the application, such authority shall, unless the court or judge shall for any special reason require further evidence, be sufficient evidence upon which the court or judge may direct the committee to act in conformity with such authority.

12. Upon an application that a guardian of an infant tenant in tail may be directed to make or consent to any application or to give any notification respecting any application, evidence is to be produced to satisfy the judge that it is, and the guardian is to make an affidavit that he believes that it is, proper and consistent with a due regard for the interest of such infant that such direction shall be given.

13. The examination of a married woman under sections 50 and 51 of the Act may be taken at any time after the petition is presented and answered.

14. When it is desired that a married woman resident within the jurisdiction of the court shall be examined otherwise than by the court, a solicitor who is a perpetual commissioner to take acknowledgments of deeds by married women may be appointed for that purpose by the judge at chambers in the Form No. 7 in the Appendix hereto without summons or order, upon the request of the petitioner and a certificate of the solicitor for the petitioner in the Form No. 7 in the Appendix hereto that the person to be appointed is not a solicitor for the petitioner, or for any party whose concurrence or consent to the application is required, but where an examination by such solicitor will cause unreasonable expense, delay, or inconvenience, or where the married woman is resident out of the jurisdiction of the court, an application by summons may be made ex parte by the petitioner at chambers to appoint a solicitor if such woman is resident within the jurisdiction of the court, and if not so resident a person, whether a solicitor or not, to take such examination.

15. Upon every petition the court shall be satisfied by sufficient evidence that it is proper and consistent with a due regard for the interests of all parties entitled under the settlement that the powers should be exercised; and it shall be stated in the affidavit why and upon what ground it is deemed to be so.

16. Upon every petition where there are any trustees seised or possessed of any estate in trust for any of the persons whose consent or concurrence to or in the application is required, evidence is to be produced that notice of the application has been served on such trustees.

17. Upon every petition evidence shall be produced to satisfy the court that neither the applicant nor any party entitled has previously applied to either House of Parliament for a Private Act to effect the same or a similar object, or if any such application has been made that the same was not rejected on its merits or reported against by the judges to whom the Bill may have been referred.

18. If upon the hearing of any petition the court shall be of opinion that notice ought be served on any person who shall not have been served, or that notice of the application ought to be inserted in any newspaper, the court shall give directions accordingly, and the petition shall stand over generally or to such time as the court shall direct.

19. When the court shall at the hearing have directed notice of any application to be inserted in any newspapers, any person may, within the time specified in the notice, apply to the court by motion, either ex parte or upon notice to the petitioner, for leave to be heard in opposition to or in support of the application, but if such motion shall be made ex parte and the court shall think fit to give such leave, it shall be subject to such Order as the court shall think fit to make as to costs.

20. Any such person having obtained leave under the last preceding Order shall be at liberty, upon reasonable notice, to inspect and peruse the petition at the office of the solicitor for the petitioner, upon payment of a fee of 13*s.* 4*d.* on each inspection, and shall be entitled (either without or after such inspection) to be furnished with a copy of such petition upon such application, terms, and conditions as are provided by Rules 8, 9, 12, and 13 of Order V. of the Additional Rules of Court, under the Supreme Court of Judicature Act, 1875, dated 12th August, 1875.

21. Any Order made on an ex parte motion giving leave to such person to be heard on any application shall be served on the solicitor for the petitioner.

22. Any person served with a notice, pursuant to the 26th section of the Act, requiring him to notify whether he assents to or dissents from the application or submits his rights or interests so far as they may be affected by such application to be dealt with by the court, and any trustee or other person served with notice pursuant to the 30th section of the Act, shall be at liberty, upon reasonable notice to the petitioner's solicitor, to inspect and peruse the petition without payment of any fee, and he shall be entitled to be furnished with a copy thereof upon such application, terms, and conditions as are provided by Rules 8, 9, 12, and 13 of Order V. of the Additional Rules of Court, under the Supreme Court of Judicature Act, 1875, dated 12th August, 1875.

23. In all cases in which land in a register county or district is affected by the exercise of any powers conferred on the court by the Act, and the court shall direct notice to be recorded, pursuant to the 33rd section of the Act, such notice may be given by directing a memorial of the Order to be registered. And in all cases in which the court shall not think it practicable or expedient that notice under the said section should be recorded as therein mentioned, the Order shall state that no record of the Order need be made.

24. Every Order shall state, in addition to the names of the petitioners, the names of the persons other than the petitioners who concur or consent or to whom notice of the application has been given, or who (under Order 19) may have obtained leave to be heard in opposition to or in support of the application, and whether any notification was received from the persons to whom notice has been given, and if any has been received the purport thereof, and also the names of the persons, if any, notice to whom has been dispensed with, and whether the Order is made subject to any and what rights, estate, or interest of any person whose concurrence or consent has been refused, or who shall not or shall not be deemed to have submitted his rights or interests to be dealt with by the court, or whose rights or interests ought, in the opinion of the Court, to be excepted.

25. In cases where the court authorizes a lease the Order shall direct that the lease shall contain such conditions as are required by the Act, and such other covenants, conditions, and stipulations as the court shall deem expedient with reference to the special circumstances, or may direct the same to contain such covenants, conditions, and stipulations as may be approved by the judge at chambers without directing the lease to be settled by the judge.

26. The Rules 1, 2, 3, and 6 of Order LVII. (as to time) in the Schedule to the Supreme Court of Judicature Act, 1875, shall be applicable to these Orders, and to all proceedings under the Act.

27. The forms set forth in the Appendix hereto shall be adhered to, subject only to such variations as may be necessary to meet the circumstances of the case or direction of the court.

28. In all cases not provided for by the Act, or these Orders, the existing forms and mode of procedure and general practice of the court on similar proceedings shall apply to proceedings under the Act.

29. The fees and allowances to solicitors of the court in respect to proceedings under the Act shall be such as are provided by Order VI. of the Additional Rules of Court under the Supreme Court of Judicature Act, 1875, dated 12th August 1875. and are applicable to such proceedings, and solicitors shall be entitled to charge and be allowed for a request and certificate under the 14th Order (of these Orders), and for attendances at the judges' chambers to procure the appointment of an examiner thereon, a fee of 13*s.* 4*d.* if the lower scale of fees is applicable, and 1*l.* 1*s.* 0*d.* in other cases.

30. The fees to be taken by the officers of the court in respect to proceedings under the Act shall be such as are provided by the Orders under the Supreme Court of Judicature Act, 1875, dated 28th October, 1875, and are applicable to such proceedings; and every request under the 14th Order (of these Orders) shall bear a stamp of 2*s.* if the lower scale of fees is applicable, and 3*s.* in other cases.

31. Every petition under the Act shall set forth the name, address, and description of the petitioner, and also a place within three miles from the site of Temple Bar, London, where he may be served with any Order of the court or of the judge in chambers, or notice relating to the subject of such petition.

32. The judge in person sitting in court or in chambers in the case of any petition may by special Order dispense with all or any of the preceding Orders so far as they are applicable to such petition in any case in which he shall think fit, and upon such terms and conditions (if any) as he may deem proper.

33. These Orders shall come into operation on the 7th day of January 1879, and shall apply to any petition presented on or after that date.

34. These Orders may be cited as "The Settled Estates Act Orders, 1878."
